Changes In Liquor-By-The-Glass Ordinance Are Recommended

Lowell City Manager Ray Christoff, of Christoff & Sons, Quada opened the discussion of concerning the sale and rezonchanging the present liquor-by- ing of approximately 2 acres of the-glass ordinance at the City's city owned property on the Planning Commission meeting corner of Foreman and Gee Monday night by reviewing the four sections that bar owners would like to see changed. Those four sections were in regard to a 150 seating capacity requirement; 75 square feet of off street parking per occupant; expansion. minimum of 50 percent food sales; and the physical separa-

area. Commissioner Leo Pfaller opened the discussion by stating that he would approve the removal of all four of the above mentioned sections of the ordinance. The remaining commissioners were polled by Chairman Bill Doyle.

All but commissioner Orval McKay agreed for the most part with Pfaller's view, McKay said that he would like to see the Ordinance left as is. The parking and food percentage sections were discussed by the Commissioners, but the motion voted on was to abolish all four sections now in the ordinance. The motion passed with only one nay vote which came from McKay. This action by the Planning Commission is only a recommendation to the City Council. The Council will undoubtedly vote on the subject at their next regular meeting Monday. Octo-

Arch Rebuilt Fall Festival Is This Weekend

The beautiful arch at the entrance to Fallasburg Park, destroy by a tragic automobile crash in July of 1976, is being rebuilt by the Kent County Parks Department. The stone arch was erected in 1930 by Edwin Fallas in memory of his father and mother, William and Wealthy Fallas who brought him to Fallasburg in 1845. A picture of the arch taken from the pages of the 1930 Lowell paper has provided a perfect blueprint for the reconstruction project. The bronne place inset in the original structure will be intact when the project completed.
