Veteran's Day Is November 11

William G. Milliken, governor of the State of Michigan has signed an Executive Declaration in observance of Veteran's Day, November 11, 1976, which according to Flat River VFW Post 8303 of Lowell reads as follows:

"Of all the important days to be celebrated during America's Bicentennial, few are more worthy of special observance than Veterans Day.

"Citizens of our nation and state live in freedom today because of the many contributions and sacrifices made by men and women who served in the Armed Forces when our heritage was challenged.

"Today, more than one million Michigan veterans continue their dedication and devotion to the highest ideals of American citizenship and form the bulwark of our pride, freedom and peace.

"On Veterans Day, Michigan

citizens express their gratitude for the sacrifices made by our men and women in uniform, both past and present.

"Therefore, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby declare Thursday, November 11, 1976, as Veterans Day in Michigan and urge all citizens to honor those who have served, and who now serve, this nation in time of war and peace to preserve our freedom. I further urge that we rededicate ourselves to promoting world peace as the greatest reward which may be bestowed upon our veterans."

Court Enjoins Labor Contractor From Further Violations

Judge Noel P. Fox, Federal District Court, has permanently enjoined and restrained John Jeremiah of Lowell from further violations of the Farm Labor Contractor Act of 1963.

Jeremiah was ordered by the Court to obtain a valid Certification of Registration from the Secretary of Labor before acting as a farm labor contractor.

The Court also ordered the labor contractor to provide written notice to each employee and public posting for all employees of the terms and conditions of their employment when the worker is recruited, including area of employment, wage rates and charges to be made by the contractor for his services.

Jeremiah must also show proof of financial responsibility before operating or owning any vehicle used to transport migrant workers in connection with his activities as a farm labor contractor.

The original complaint was filed by the Labor Department following investigation by the Department's Wage-Hour Division, Area Office, 110 Michigan Street, N.W., Grand Rapids, under the supervision of Gordon Claucherty, Area Director.

The Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act, designed to protect migrant workers, requires that labor contractors register annually with the Secretary of Labor, and operate according to the provisions of the Act.

Above The Board

4 Million Dollar Budget

The days of once-a-month school board meetings when prestigious gentlemen met to discuss minor educational issues are long gone.

Schools are now big business (as witness the board's okaying a quarter of a million dollars in checks thus far this school year) and board members are called upon to make executive decisions which require countless meetings and much outside study.

Judy Jansma and Orion Thaler each reported Monday night on sessions they attended at the three-day Michigan Association of School Boards Conference held in Grand Rapids last week.

Thaler got involved in better methods of financing schools, contract interpretation, the legal aspects of open board meetings, and open student records, and student discipline.

Mrs. Jansma, on the other hand, attended what she termed a thought provoking session on "public donations for extra-curricular activities when millage is defeated." She stated that two Michigan schools were used as examples. Although millage was defeated in each, and it was impossible for the districts to finance their extra-curricular activities and sports programs, the larger district continued its activities through private and public donations.

At the end of the school year another millage was defeated and the district was still in the position it was the year before because it couldn't expect a few philanthropic citizens to keep paying for the program.

When the millage was defeated in the smaller district, there were not a lot of people who could afford to keep the programs going on their own and so all extra-curricular activities were discontinued for the entire school year. In the Spring another millage election was held and it passed.

Mrs. Jansma obviously had Lowell in mind as she weighed the pros and cons of both reports. Lowell defeated its millage last Spring but reinstated its extra-curricular programs against the advice of some by utilizing part of its fund equity. Mrs. Jansma indicated that this may have the effect of simply delaying the inevitable, as in the case of the first school, and that residents of the district are going to have to face up to the problem next Spring when there just isn't the money left to continue the present programs any longer. Obviously, finding other ways to temporarily pay for the programs doesn't work out.

No board likes to threaten the electorate with the loss of sporting events, drama, debate or music programs that are as important to the students as the viewing public. "However," Mrs. Jansma said, "when the economy falls, academics must come first." And as far as outside financing for extra-curricular activities is concerned it seems risky for those responsible for education to allow citizens to buy programs they want without considering the complete academic program.

An additional meeting was set up Monday night for Thursday, December 2, with board members and the principals of the various buildings. This meeting is also an offshoot of the convention at which it was suggested that board members try much harder to communicate with principals to air problems, interchange ideas and discuss goals.

High School Principal Dennis McMahon was given the go ahead by the board to further develop a pilot program involving the carrying out of student suspensions.

It is the feeling of the high school staff that complete suspension from school in case of rule infractions is actually detrimental to students rather than beneficial.

For example, McMahon now suggests that students be denied the right to come into the building for only one day of a three-day suspension and the rest of the suspension be spent in a special study hall area so that class assignments can continue even though the suspended student cannot interact with the rest of the student body or actually attend the class.

During lunch periods the suspended students will be moved to another area with a supervisor.

Parents will, however, have the right to determine whether the student takes the suspension at home or in school.

Board members agreed that the proposal made a lot more sense than simply turning students away. McMahon will report its success at the end of this semester.

Before the meeting ended, members passed the current year's four million dollar budget, approved custodians' and administrative contracts and voted themselves one day off by cancelling the second meeting of this month which falls during the week of Thanksgiving.

The next regular meeting will be Monday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bushnell Kiva.

Playing With Matches Causes House Fire

A 5-year-old Ada boy, playing with matches has been deemed the cause of a fire which caused nearly $7,000 worth of damage to a house and contents at 4940 Ada Drive, S.E.

Volunteers from the Ada and Cascade Fire Departments fought the blaze which damaged the living room and an upstairs bedroom.

According to fire officials, the boy, David Carlo, was supposed to be taking a nap in the living room of the home rented by his mother, Jeanne Carlo; instead, he set a small pile of papers on fire.

When the fire got out of control, the boy's shouts woke his mother who was napping upstairs. She fled to a neighbor's home, with her two children, and summoned the fire department.

Alto Lions Collect Blood; Sell Bulbs

The Alto Lions Club held their annual Light Bulb Sale October 25 through October 30, and on Saturday, ended the week by sponsoring the Bloodmobile from the Grand Valley Blood Bank.

The Alto Lions had been promoting the donation program as they sold their light bulbs during the week, and as a result, 58 people came during the day to donate a pint of that precious "life-giver". Thirty-three pints were collected.

With Lions and wives volunteering to assist with registrations, the nurses from the Grand Valley Blood Bank were kept busy during the day.

The Grand Valley Blood Bank is a non-profit, cooperative of the Kent County Chapter of the American Red Cross and Michigan Community Blood Center to supply whole blood and blood products to any patient in need in any hospital in Kent County.

Donor groups are needed more than ever. More than 20,000 pints of blood will be needed locally this year.

Anyone interested in donating blood can make an appointment by calling the Blood Center, 454-9471, at 1055 Fulton in Grand Rapids.

Lions president Dick Johnson would like to thank all those who came to donate and all the Lions and their wives who volunteered their time.

Also, Saturday, another group of industrious Lions worked in the cold and damp to erect some playground equipment in the Alto school yard. This group of volunteers are to be thanked, also.

Special Treat For Crowd

Della Rogers, The Lowell High Red Arrow Marching Band stepped into a routine to "Go Arrows" at the beginning of pre-game, November 5. Then, as each one was introduced, they stepped to the front. This small group then played "Baddest Band."

This year's seniors include Rhonda Alderick, Bryan Benjamin, Nancy Bieri, Joel Blazo, Melinda Blough, Debbie Canfield, Gordon Cannon, Durene Collins, Gretchen Hahn, Mark Hines, Scott Homolka, Elaine Laux, Tom Marks, Ray Northington, Patty Pines, Terry Raymor, Denise Ritterger, Della Rogers, Suzy Sinke, Valerie Videa, Roger Wilson, Steve Wittenbach and Kris Wymadka.

Facts About 'Big Bird'

While you're carving the Thanksgiving turkey, here are some facts about the big bird to tell company and ease their hunger pangs.

Over the past 25 years there have been significant advances in turkey production and those on most tables at Thanksgiving were grown for about 20 weeks, the average weight being about 20 pounds. But some 25 years ago it took 25 weeks to raise the same size bird.

Those figures may not seem very impressive, but to the person who grows them they represent significant production cost savings according to Dr. Bernard Marquez, Michigan State University poultry specialist. In 1950, a turkey required four pounds of feed to gain one pound of body weight, or 80 pounds of feed to grow a 20-pound bird. Today it requires 62 pounds of feed to produce a 20-pound bird, a reduction of 18 pounds of feed and five weeks growth time.

"Turkeys are very efficient feed users and grow quite fast, which is a credit to development of special breeds and new management techniques," says Marquez.

The optimum growth period for a hen is 16 weeks and 22 for a tom. Beyond that time the birds are less efficient in transforming feed to body weight. Typically females run 12-16 pounds and males are 22 pounds and up. "These are about average weights for turkeys. They could be grown larger but consumer demand doesn't call for birds over 25 pounds," says Marquez.

The average U.S. consumption of turkey per year is about nine pounds, far below average beef consumption, which in 1975 was 120 pounds per person. Surprisingly turkey is also a better source of protein than beef. Turkey has about 25 percent protein, while Choice chuck steak, the second highest

Deer Outlook Excellent

Over a million deer await Michigan deer hunters this fall, many of them big racked bucks like this one.

You certainly don't have to be a Houdini to guess what season's next on the outdoor docket. The excitement has been building for several weeks now. When November finally arrives, it means only two things to outdoor sportsmen—'Deer Hunting Season' and Thanksgiving (a perfect match up as hunters are concerned, although some will have more reason to give "thanks" by the 25th than others!).

those of last year. — In the Upper Peninsula, Marquette, Iron, Dickinson, Menominee and Delta Counties sport the largest herds. Menominee and Iron Counties contain especially high concentrations. Last year an average of 2.3 bucks per square mile were taken in this region. This compares to a 10 year average of 1.7 in that area.

In the northern Lower Peninsula, which is incidentally your best bet to bag a buck in the entire state, we find Oscoda, Clare, Gladwin and Arenac Counties the top producers. Last year an average of 5.4 bucks were taken per square mile. This compares to the 10 year average of 2.7 in that district.

Also very good in the northern Lower Peninsula, are Missaukee, Benzie, Emmet and Iosco Counties. Here an average of 4.2 bucks were harvested last year compared to a 2.7 average over a 10 year period.

In southern Lower Michigan, the best harvest figures last season were in the Ottawa, Kent, Montcalm, Ionia, Allegan and Barry County region. Hunters bagged an average of 1.6 bucks per square mile last fall, compared to a 2.7 10 year count.

So there you have some facts and figures to help you with your hunt this fall. One thing for sure, these statistics show that last year was indeed a good season for Michigan deer hunters. And, if pre-season predictions held up, hunters will certainly be in the mood for a joyous Thanksgiving this fall!

Incidentally, those "hunter's choice" permit holders, game warden would like to remind you of the special seasons which apply. Those with hunter's choice permits may hunt any deer in designated areas between November 15-21 in the southern Lower Peninsula and between November 15-30 in the Northern Lower Peninsula. Only bucks may be taken in the Upper Peninsula.

Reminder: Hunter check points will again be set up this year along Michigan's main thoroughfares through the first week of the hunting season. Stop and have your deer checked at these stations: 7.5 south of Bay City; US-27 north of Alma; US-101 north of Paris; and M-37 south of White Cloud. Successful deer hunter patches will again be a gift in appreciation for your help.

It was with just such visions of pie and sugar plums that I asked Joe Vogt, game specialist with the DNR, for some eleven hour tips and comments for Michigan deer hunters.

"It's going to be a very good season," says Vogt. "Hunters stand an excellent chance of breaking last year's record buck kill. As far as the best places go, I can only base my predictions on past history.

Stewart Is New Chief

Mike Stewart has been elected Long House Chief of this year's YMCA Father-Son-Daughter Indian Guides and Princesses program. The Long House, composed of the chiefs of the different tribes, directs the program's various activities. Other Long House Officers are Ken Willmarth, Medicine Man; Rick Winslow, Tally Keeper; Louis Ebling, Wampum Bearer; and Wayne Ramsdell, Sachem. The Annual Induction Pow Wow was held Saturday evening, November 6, at Recreation Park. Gathered around a blazing camp fire some ten tribes of Fathers, Sons and Daughters were inducted into the program. Part of the Indian-type ceremony included the fathers dedicating themselves to spend time with their young sons or daughters and the children promising to be patient and cooperative with their dads.

India ink originated in China, not India.

Cross-Country Awards Given

The 1976 Lowell High School Cross-Country team received recognition last Monday evening on the completion of a fine season at the annual Golf and Cross-Country banquet held in the Middle School cafeteria. Sixteen Red Arrows were honored for a season record of 12 wins and two losses. Five Middle School students were also recognized for their participation on a limited basis.

Receiving certificates for their second year of competition were Seniors Cris Butts and Karen Doyle. Completing their first season and also receiving certificates were juniors Laura Dey and Lori Hurley; and freshman Kellie Eickhoff. Middle School students recognized were Steve DeNolf, Steve Doyle, Gary Ellison, Kathy Dey and Tonia Smith. Eleven team members received varsity awards. Earning their first letter in cross-country were sophomores Randy Adams and Dave Baerwalde, and juniors, Kevin Blanding and John Gerard. Ray Alexander, John Ellison and Mark Smith, all juniors, won their second letter, while seniors Dave DeNolf, Jim Doyle and Kevin Mulder were awarded their third varsity letters. Doyle was also a co-captain of this year's team.

Senior co-captain Mike Dey received his fourth letter. Dey was also selected to the Tri-River All-Conference team, voted as the "most valuable" by his teammates, and qualified for the state meet; all of these honors for the fourth consecutive year, which is quite an accomplishment.

Other special awards announced at the banquet by coach Tom Stahr included the selection of Randy Adams as "most improved" and Mark Smith as the team's captain for 1977.

Mike Dey, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dey of 404 Lincoln Lake Avenue, Lowell, a senior at Lowell High School received his fourth varsity letter in cross-country at the sports banquet last week. Dey, selected to the Tri-River all-conference team, was also voted "most valuable" by his teammates.

Roving Trophy Goes To Coopersville

Fiat River VFW Post 8303, Lowell and Coopersville VFW Post 5598 decided last Spring to have a roving trophy between the two schools. The winning team keeps the trophy for one year. (Should Lowell Red Arrows win next year, they will keep the trophy). This will go on for three years at which time the trophy will be presented to the school that has won the best of three games between the two schools.

The state rated Coopersville Broncos, fresh from an overpowering victory over previously undefeated Sparta, brought its road show to Burch Field Friday and found an obstacle in the form of Lowell's spirited Red Arrows.

Eleanor In Action . . .

No other leading lady in film history gave so much of herself, withstood such brutal treatment and required 250 man hours to prepare for the cameras. For more than makeup was needed to get "Eleanor" ready for her starring role. For this is "Eleanor" . . . the 1973 Mach 1 Ford Mustang, a true lady both beautiful and tough, who is the star of "Come in 60 Seconds," being shown for seven days beginning Friday, November 12 at the Strand Theatre in Lowell. You owe it to your car to see this film which shows Eleanor in a 40-minute chase that will keep you on the edge of your seat.
