TEMPERATURES RANGING in the high 50's, low 60's, last week saw area residents undertaking the task of cleaning up their yards and getting rid of the accumulation of winter's trash.

DOROTHY WITTENBACH was the first to report seeing a robin in this area. Her call came into the Ledger office at 11:25 a.m. on Wednesday, March 9. Following were numerous calls as the annual heralders of Spring began to arrive. Looking back into the records, the first robin was sighted in 1974 on March 14; 1975, March 18; and in 1976 on March 12.

VANDALS DID ABOUT $350 worth of damage to property owned by the Root-Loell Manufacturing Company over the week end of March 4-7. The matter is under further investigation by the Lowell Police Department.

ON MONDAY, March 28, voters in the Lowell Area School District will go to the polls to cast their ballots on a two (2) mill increase for operating. Voters living north of Cascade Road (Old US-16) will vote in Precinct No. One, located in the Runciman Elementary School on the corner of High and Monroe Streets in Lowell. For those residents living south of Cascade Road, Precinct Two has been set up in the Bowne Township Hall at 6059 Linfield Avenue in Alto.

"ROBINHOOD" shot an arrow through the Marsac Quad window at the Lowell Middle School over the weekend of March 5 and 6. Anyone aware of owner and/or if owner wishes to recover, call 897-9233 to claim same.

ISSUED TO APPEAR in Kent County's 63rd District Court on charges of larceny by conversion from Eberhard's on Monday evening, March 7, was David Nordhof.

THE CAMP FIRE Girls of the Lowell School District would like to extend an invitation to all of the residents of the community to stop by and view the Camp Fire Girls display in the window of the Lowell Savings and Loan offices at 217 West Main Street. It can be seen during Camp Fire Birthday Week, March 14-20.

THE TEXACO SERVICE Station, at the corner of East Main and Jefferson Streets, has been permanently closed by the company. Station manager, Dick McCaul and his sons, have opened a new automotive repair center at 13515 Grand River Drive, Lowell.

ABSENTEEISM, due to illness, caused the closing of St. Patrick's School in Parnell last Friday. It was back to the books on Monday, however a small percentage of students are still on the sick list.

APPREHENDED in the Fallasburg Park area Saturday afternoon for fleeing and eluding Kent County Sheriff Department Deputies was Jimmy Bristol of Lowell. He was scheduled to face arraignment in Kent County's 63rd District Court on Monday.

TWO PERSONS sustained minor injuries in a property damage accident Saturday evening at the intersection of West Main and Hudson Streets. William and Joanne Forsyth of Wyoming complained of injuries when their car was hit by a vehicle driven by Patrick Serne, who failed to yield the right-of-way at the traffic light.

TWO JUVENILE girls, ages five and six, were apprehended for shoplifting last Sunday afternoon at the Eberhard's Store on West Main Street.

FRANK PECKHAM, manager of the Lowell Cafe at 301 East Main Street announced this week that they have received their license to sell liquor-by-the-glass.

DAN COURSER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Olive) Courser of Lowell has purchased the Lowell Bakery, and will be open for business on St. Patrick's Day, Thursday, March 17. Dan, who has been working in a bakery in Ionia to gain experience in the trade, is tentatively planning on being open seven days a week.

MacPherson To Narrate Rotary Club Travelogue

The Lowell Rotary Club has announced the sponsorship of their annual Travelogue, Tuesday, March 29, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium at Lowell High School.

This year the presentation will be "Switzerland's Alpine Splendor" and "Monaco and the Riviera." Both are new films made by Monroe MacPherson during recent months.

The film, "Switzerland's Alpine Splendor" takes viewers on a circle tour of one of the world's most photogenic countries. Starting near Geneva at Lusanne and Duchy, it pleasantly takes viewers to Zermatt, the tiny village at the base of the Matterhorn, King of the Swiss Mountains. Zermatt, a world ski and tourist mecca is unreachable by automobile. From the village, travel is on the Gornergrat Cog Railroad to the 10,000 foot level for a very spectacular close up view of the Matterhorn.

From Zermatt through one of the world's longest tunnels, to Lugano where the sun shines brightly, the palm trees grow and the language is Italian. Then, turning north again and on through the most magnificent Alpine scenery one can imagine, to Lucerne where Monroe's camera takes us up Mount Pilatus by cable car.

From Switzerland, the focus is on the principality of Monaco, a fairytale country no larger than many Michigan farms. Monaco with its world famous Casino is one of the major tourist attractions on the Riviera and Europe. One of the most colorful highlights of the film is the Changing of the Guard at the Palace, the home of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace.

Side trips to France, which completely surround Monaco and to northern Italy, the area known as the Riviera give the film a unique variety.

MacPherson, owner of Radio Station WION in Ionia, has been making such travel films for the past dozen years and has been presenting full length travelogues with live narration for the past six years.

According to Dennis McMahon, club president, tickets are available from all Lowell Rotary Club members and at the Grand Valley Ledger, Lowell Savings & Loan and Harold Zeigler Ford. A limited number of tickets will be available at the door.

No Violence On This TV

This is what the inside of a sewer looks like. This particular picture was taken when the camera was scanning a section of sewer on Riverside Drive. The arrow points to a break in the top of the sewer line which is allowing the infiltration of surface water.

An A&B employee is shown here, lowering the closed circuit TV camera into a manhole. The camera will be pulled through the sewer line while an employee monitors the TV screen checking for leaks or breaks in the line. If a leak or break is seen, its exact location is noted for future reference when it is to be repaired.

Lowell residents have probably noticed the trucks and crews of A&B Sewer Cleaning, Inc. from Kalamazoo, Michigan at work around the city. The project is the first step of the second phase of the city's sewer treatment plans. Currently, the city's sewer treatment is only removing the "solid waste from the sewage. The federal government through the Environmental Protection Agency requires that the sewage be treated further to remove bacteria, phosphates and other wastes before the sewage goes to the river. The E.P.A. funds ninety percent of the project.

What A&B Sewer is doing is cleaning and televising a portion of Lowell's sewer system to determine the amount of infiltration of surface water into the system. City engineers, Williams and Works will then determine from this information whether it is more practical to build a treatment plant large enough to handle the current sewer flow or to repair sewer lines thus decreasing the amount of surface water infiltration. If the lines are repaired a smaller plant will be needed, the question is which route will cost the least.

Icemen Win Regional

The first regional championship in any sport in several years for a team from Lowell High School was claimed last Saturday afternoon, when the Red Arrow Hockey Team captured the North Regional Hockey Championship.

Lowell battled themselves out of a huge hole at the start of the third period and then held off Kenowa Hills for a 3-2 victory.

Holding onto a 2-1 lead after two periods, Lowell opened the final period with three skaters in the penalty box. But the Red Arrows managed to survive the Knights' pressure for nearly five minutes and maintain their one point lead.

Above The Board

Millage, Smoking Area Receive Much Attention

It was apparent that the upcoming millage election was uppermost in the minds of all who attended Monday night's School Board meeting although not a great deal was said about it.

The fact that 46 people attended the meeting, instead of the usual one or two, was enough to signal that something is up but outside of three or four comments, the visitors seemed content to simply watch and listen.

One member of the audience asked where all the money went that would be realized from the recent increase in assessments. Supt. Leonard Sinke literally pounced on that question saying he was glad it was asked and that the school does not have anything whatsoever to do with assessments and is very much opposed to any increase.

"The increase in revenue due to a raise in property assessment goes to the State, not the schools," Sinke said. "The only way the school gets more money is through increased millage. Under the present Bursley bill formula the operation of the school is based on $40 x the number of mills levied x the number of students. That achieves the amount of money that the school must operate on. The income from local taxes is subtracted from that total and state aid makes up the difference. Thus an increase in assessment only reduces the amount that the state has to pay and the only way the school can get additional needed monies is to raise the millage," he explained.

Sinke did hold out hope for the future, however, when later in the meeting he informed those attending of the "Crim" proposal for state aid. He said that Speaker of the House Crim stated over a year ago that under the present School Aid Act schools would have to increase their millage by two to three mills in order to operate in 1977. He is presently instigating a property tax reform to reverse the trend for higher and higher millage.

Perhaps the best thing the local taxpayer and concerned parent can do is write to Rep. Crim or the legislature in general and bombard them with complaints so that the schools don't suffer because of the taxpayer or the taxpayer doesn't suffer because of the school.

In the meantime, until such reform becomes law, the problem of the schools remain very

So pumped up, in fact, that all three of the speedy forwards for Lowell scored. Troy O'Neil burst down the middle of the Kenowa defense to score the game's first goal in the opening period. Linemate John Sarniak broke the puck out of a goalmouth scramble for the only score of the second period, while center Ries assisted on both goals before hitting the winner in the final period.

The biggest hero for the Red Arrows in breaking Kenowa Hills' two-year hold on the regional title was goalie Jay Vezino. "Vezino was sure tough at the net, some of those saves were just unbelievable," remarked Rowe. "Kenowa out-shot us 36-28, & applied power-play pressure, only to be thwarted by the senior net-tender. This was the third time this season that Vezino has beaten the Knights when they actually outskated Lowell."

This Wednesday night, Mar. 16, at 8 p.m., Lowell will face East Grand Rapids in the quarter-finals of the state tournament at the Grand Rapids Blades' stadium arena. "If they come out on top of this one," Rowe added, "they will enter the State Finals in Flint on Saturday."

Members of the High School Student Congress presented a new proposal for the board's consideration. They advocated establishing a "smoking area" just west of the high school in a section between the sidewalk and the street for approximately 100 students who smoke. The reasons for the request were two-fold: because it is unfair to the owner of the private property where they are now congregating to have his lawn torn up and littered, and because smoking directly in front of the high school does not look good to other members of the community or to visitors who happen to drive by.

The suggestion ran afoul of at least one board member who refused to sanction in any way the breaking of the State's no-smoking law pertaining to minors.

City Manager Ray Quada, Leo Pfaller, and Dean Collins, representing the City of Lowell, gave their opinions on the problem saying that the law was already being broken by the invasion of private property rights and that as far as having the Lowell Police pick up the violators is concerned, a lot of them are already 18 and are not in violation. If they were to pick up the minors, the prosecutor has told the department that he does not want them brought in because the courts are too busy to prosecute for such a minor infraction so it is a waste of valuable police time.

The three seemed to agree that the students' proposal was about the best solution to an irritating problem and suggested that the school get a legal opinion as to the liability of the district to a parental suit and if the opinion was favorable to go ahead and sanction the area as the lesser of several evils. Board members agreed to seek counsel before rendering a decision.

FFA Chapter Elects Officers

The Lowell High School FFA Chapter on March 1 of this year, elected a new slate of officers for the 1977-78 school year. However, due to difficulties, the new officers will take office immediately. Gordon Anderson was elected president of the Future Farmers of America, with Mike Alderink being installed as vice-president. The other officers are Carol Baird, secretary; Christine Baird, treasurer; Bernie Clark, reporter; and Tim Blocher, Sentinel.

Open Meeting Law Clarified

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley issued a 34-page opinion clarifying the new Open Meetings Act due to take effect on March 31.

Kelley said, "The thrust of the act is that all discussion of public issues by public bodies must take place at meetings that are open to the public. While this state has a history of enlightened laws and Attorney General opinions requiring open meetings, this act extends the right of the public to observe and participate in meetings of public bodies in several ways.

The act broadens the definition of public bodies that must hold public meetings and narrows the occasions when they may meet in private.

The act is more specific in detailing the rights of the public to attend meetings of public bodies.

The act requires public bodies to allow all persons to address a meeting of that body.

The act gives enforcement powers to members of the public and imposes meaningful penalties on public officials who violate the law. This is especially important because the former open meetings law was frequently ignored because it did not provide penalties for violations. This act provides both specific and adequate penalties for enforcement by both my office and the public."

Kelley's clarifying ruling consists of two sections. One summarizes the provisions of the act and the other contains 32 questions that have been raised about the act by state legislators and agencies and the answers to those questions.

The rulings in the second part include:

All employment interviews that a public body conducts itself must be held at a public meeting. This point is addressed at three places in the opinion.

Specifically, Kelley rules that the Michigan Employment Security Commission must hold public interviews for all positions upon which the Commission has reserved final decision to itself, interviews for positions where the public body is not required to interview the applicant may be conducted in private by staff of the public body, interviews for the position of school superintendent for K-12 schools must be held in public.

A motion to call a closed session must be approved by a public roll-call vote of two-thirds of all members of the public body appointed to and serving, not merely those attending that particular meeting. Kelley also ruled that a meeting could only be closed for the specific purposes provided in the act and that no other reasons were permissible.

Meetings of public bodies by the means of conference phone calls are prohibited by the act. Kelley ruled that even if it were physically possible to include the public in a conference phone call meeting, the intent of the act would not be observed.

All persons have the right to address a public meeting. This right may be reasonably controlled by rules recorded by the public body. These rules may include a time limit and a requirement that a person identify himself and give advance indication that he wishes to speak.

A situation, such as when members of a public body meet socially or meet to address a civic organization is not a public meeting within the definition of the act unless designed to avoid compliance with the act.

Tin Lizzie Project

Time is running out for those wanting to buy a ticket for the "Tin Lizzie" Drawing, sponsored by Lowell Rotarians. This replica of a Model-T Ford will be given away Saturday, March 26, with proceeds going to the Showboat Development Fund. Presently on display at the State Savings Bank, the "Tin Lizzie" will be at Lippert's Drug on Saturday, March 19, where Jr. Rotarian members will be on hand to sell tickets. Rotarians Harold Zeigler, and Bob Elzinga are in charge of this Rotary project.

New Law To Be Effective On April 1

Non-smokers will be able to enjoy dining out without breathing tobacco smoke starting April 1, according to Howard Snodgrass, supervising food sanitarian at the Kent County Health Department.

A new law becomes effective on that date. The law states, "A food service establishment with a seating capacity of fifty or more persons shall post a sign at the entrance of the dining area indicating the availability of a non-smoking area. Upon the request of a patron, the establishment shall seat a patron in a non-smoking area which shall be clearly marked by a sign."

Health Department food sanitarians do not anticipate any problem with the new law, Snodgrass stated. Both the sanitarians and food trade associations have made the required signs available to operators.

"Although we are charged with enforcing this law, and many others, we feel our best results come from education. We try to cooperate with the food industry with the goal of preventing health problems," Snodgrass concluded.

Kropf Is Promoted

Captain Charles W. Kropf, USNR-R, formerly of Lowell, has been promoted to the grade of captain in the Ready Naval Reserve.

Captain Kropf is currently a federal civil service employee at the Headquarters of the Naval Electronic Systems Command, Washington, D.C. He is manager of the Intelligence Systems Division.

A 1965 graduate of the University of Michigan, Captain Kropf does active duty training at the Naval Air Facility, Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland. He is married, has three children, and resides in nearby Alexandria, Virginia.

Welcoming Committee

Feeling a concern to make new businesses or new families moving to the Lowell area feel welcome, the Lowell School Board and Rotary Club has formed a welcoming committee.

Members of this committee, appointed by Judy Jansma, are Alice Merriman, Ruth Wood, Rose Ennis, Charlotte Johnson, Darlene Carpenter, and Jeanne Wise.

Rotary members working on this responsibility are Wendell Christoff, Dr. Richard Greenwood, Leonard Sinks, Bob Kysner, Mike Wittenbach, Bill McPherson and Rommie Moore.

Planned to begin functioning the first of May, the committee is interested in learning the names and addresses of all new people in our area.

If you would like a visit or know of a new family or business, please contact the Lowell YMCA at 897-7375. Anyone interested in working on the committee are urged to call Mrs. Gilbert Wise at 897-5721.

More 'Mouth-Slinging' Than 'Fist-Slinging'

Over two hundred students from Forest Hills Central and Grand Rapids Christian High School were dispersed by police at the end of the hockey game last Tuesday night at the Grand Rapids Stadium arena.

There was more "mouth-slinging" than fist-slinging" at the scene, when fights broke out inside the arena and spilled out into the parking lot, when the game between the two schools ended.

About 20 police officers were called in to assist, but no arrests were made.
