one reason: fine quality

You can tell it by the autowave drive-type chassis and the direct-drive transmission with no chains or belts. Tell by the quiet—cushioned high mounts, extra insulation plus a super-sized muffler. And by the traditional high trade-in value.

You can also tell by features like the "Maintenance Minder" that tells you when it's time for periodic maintenance. It's just one way we help keep your Cub Cadet running like new long after others quit.

WAR AND PEACE

In an attempt to save the time needed to beat swords into plowshares, a rather inventive fellow patented a dual-purpose farm implement on June 17, 1862. Patent No. 35,600 was for a combined plow and gun. While tilling the soil, the intrepid farmer could also fire a 1-to-3 pound projectile at an approaching enemy without missing a furrow.

Married In Ada

Mrs. Douglas Anderson

Speaking their vows of Holy Matrimony before Father John McGee at St. Robert's of New-Adair Church in Ada Saturday, May 20, were Miss Denise Kathryn Boyle and Douglas Arthur Anderson.

Parents of the couple united in the three o'clock ceremony are Mr. and Mrs. John Boyle of 6219 Adacraft Drive, S.E., Grand Rapids, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson of 1879 Honeycreek Road, Ada.

The bride entered the sanctuary at the arm of her father, adorned in a polyester floor-length gown, fashioned with long-lace sleeves and three folds of lace at the hemline. Seed pearls enhanced the fitted bodice and lace cap which secured her veil of illusion.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her attendants, Sally Jo Edwards, maid of honor, Kerstine Lambert and Mrs. Donald L. Smith, bridesmaids. Theresa Rusky was the flower girl.

ARE YOU CERTIFIED?

Less than half of Michigan's estimated 30,000 persons wanting to use restricted pesticides have applied to the Michigan Department of Agriculture for certification credentials, according to MDA director, B. Dale Ball. The only alternative for an uncertified farmer, should he need to use restricted pesticides, would be to hire a certified commercial applicator. Those interested in gaining certification status for restricted pesticide use should contact the Plant Industry Division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture for information on how to apply for certification.

Pool To Open

The Frank Twining King Memorial Pool at Lowell's Recreation Park, operated by the YMCA, will open Memorial Day weekend for the 1978 season, with the following schedule: Saturday, May 27, open swim, 2 to 4 p.m.; Sunday, May 28, open swim, 2 to 4 p.m.; and Monday, May 29, open swim, 2 to 4 p.m. and a new family and adult swim, 6 to 8 p.m.

From May 30 until June 2, after-school swims will be held from 3 to 5 p.m.

B.A.S.S., a 270,000 member society, indicates some rule changes will be implemented in its 1978 national B.A.S.S. tournaments, such as (1) Reducing the daily catch limit from 10 to 7 bass, (2) Increasing the size limit from 12 to 14 inches, and (3) Awarding a bonus two ounces rather than a single bonus ounce for live fish weighed in. The bass are scored and released alive in B.A.S.S. events, under the watchful eyes of a fisheries biologist.

"I want to make it perfectly clear that there hasn't been any evidence offered that B.A.S.S. sponsored tournaments have hurt any reservoir," said Scott. "However, as the country's largest and the recognized leader in pro tournament fishing—the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society—does accept the responsibility of influencing the bass fishing habits of many Americans and bass club anglers."

Scott also noted that a majority of the Society's 1,962 affiliated bass clubs practice the catch-and-release policy. Hopefully, the rank and file anglers will also adopt the reduced tournament limit and increased size limit, where practical, the bass tournament director said.

Underwater Angling Seminar Set

One way to solve the "getting too good" problem (I've always tried very hard to keep from falling into that rut!) may be to change your fishing style or tactics. Take for instance the Grand Valley Scuba Divers Club, they are promoting a relatively new sport known as "Underwater Angling." You read that right, UNDERWATER angling!

Underwater angling, according to club member Larry Austin, is an exciting new 3 dimensional sport.

"You can see the fish you're trying to catch," explains Larry. "You use a standard rod, reel and sinker. First you seek out a fish, then cautiously approach him underwater, offer him your bait and hope for a bite."

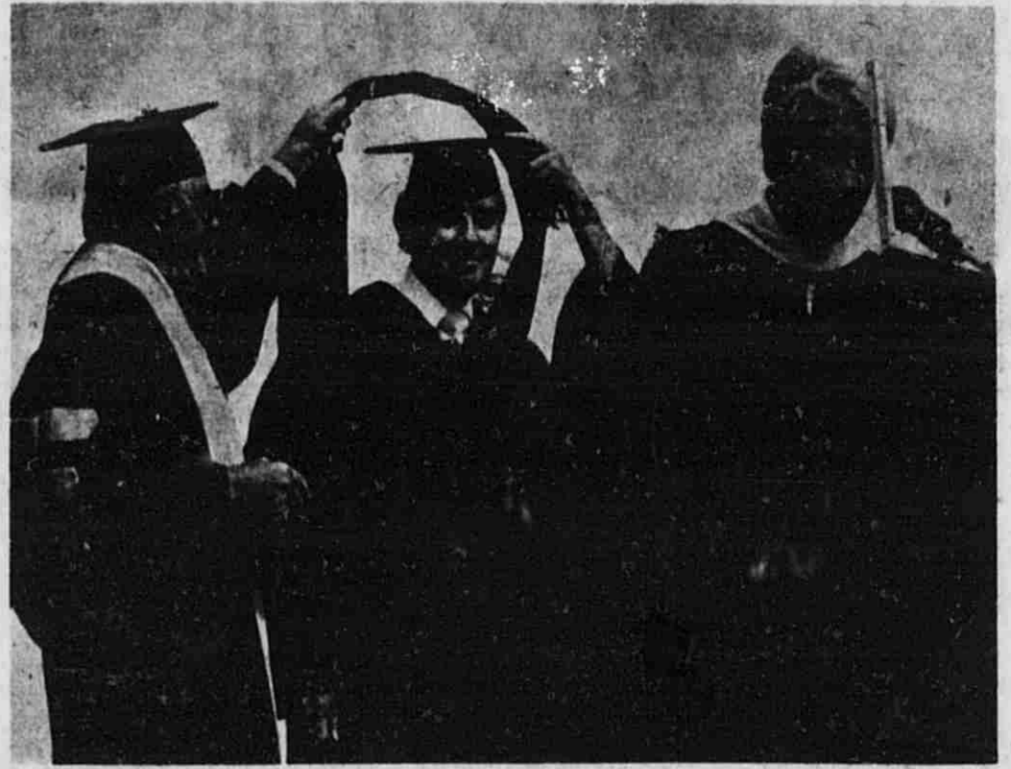

Larry explains that there's usually not too much casting or trolling involved. He plays out about 6 feet of line when making his approach.

Larry has taken panfish and pike using this "face to face" method.

Want to learn more? The club is sponsoring an Underwater Angling Seminar (free) at 7:30 p.m., May 30 at Len's Dive Shop, 924 West Fulton in Grand Rapids.

Featured speaker will be Ned Fogel, DNR fisheries biologist. Topics will include habitat, methods, techniques, equipment, etc. Coffee and donuts provided. For more info contact a club member or Len's Dive Shop.

VanAndel Gets Honorary Degree

Jay VanAndel, center, of Ada is shown as the cape signifying his honorary Doctor of Laws Degree is placed over his shoulders. The degree was conferred upon VanAndel by Ferris State College at its Commencement at Big Rapids Saturday. VanAndel is a co-founder of Amway Corporation at Ada. The citation accompanying the degree notes that in addition to his business responsibilities, VanAndel has taken an active interest in religious, educational, civic and trade organizations. Helping to place the cape on VanAndel is Robert Gerholz, left, Chairman of the Ferris State College Board of Control and a Flint Business executive. Ferris President Robert Ewigleben, right, is reading the citation.—FSC Photo.

An Ada resident who has successfully combined an imposing business record with outstanding service to his church, his community, his state, and his country, was one of three honorary degree recipients at the Ferris State commencement exercises, Saturday, May 20.

Honorary degrees were presented to Jay VanAndel, 7575 East Fulton Road, Ada, co-founder and Chairman of the Board, Amway Corporation; Helen Thomas, White House Bureau Chief, United Press International; and Mark Cox, Executive Director of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Ms. Thomas gave the Commencement address at the 3 p.m. ceremonies in which degrees will be awarded to 2,981 graduates of the summer, fall, winter and spring quarters.

VanAndel received an Honorary Doctor of Laws Degree.

Throughout his career, while sharing chief executive responsibilities for Amway, VanAndel has taken an active interest in religious, education, civic, and trade organizations. He has held numerous positions with the LaGrave Avenue Christian Reformed Church and has served as a member of the advisory board of Religious Heritage of America.

He has been a trustee of Hillsdale College, a director of the Calvin College Foundation, and president of the Ada Christian School Board. He has been active in the Grand Rapids, the Michigan, and the United States Chambers of Commerce, the 4-H Foundation, the Republican Party, Soap and Detergent Association, the Ferguson-Droste-Ferguson Hospital Board, and many other groups.

A recent interest has led to his becoming co-chairman of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

VanAndel, who was born in Grand Rapids, attended Grand Rapids Christian High School and Calvin College, as well as Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa, Pratt Business School, Kansas, and Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

Following service in the U.S. Army during World War II, VanAndel and Richard DeVos founded and operated a flying school and commercial air charter in Comstock Park.

They sold their business interests in 1948 for an adventurous one-year Caribbean and south American cruise on the schooner, "Elizabeth." The Schooner was shipwrecked off the coast of Cuba enroute to Haiti in March, 1949. The men were rescued by an American freighter and taken to Puerto Rico. Undaunted, they continued traveling through the Caribbean and South America for the next five months. Returning to Michigan in 1949, they were partners in several business enterprises culminating with the founding of the Amway Corporation in 1959.

For WEST MICHIGAN Sportsmen by Denny Geurink

Did you ever wonder whether a lake could get "fished out"? (I've wondered about that quite a few times myself—about every time out!) Apparently the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society has, for it recently sponsored a study that dealt with the effects of excessive fishing pressure. It turned up some very interesting things.

In a recent news release from B.A.S.S. headquarters in Montgomery, Alabama these two questions were asked: Are bass fishermen getting too good for their own good? Can rod and reel anglers "fish out" a large impoundment?

The release went on to explain that evidence gathered by fishery biologists indicates that the answer to both questions may be "yes."

Two Auburn University biologists, Dr. Bill Davies and Bill Shelton, conducted an in-depth study of this problem. They came up with some startling figures.

They found that of the select group of bass they were observing in a nearby impoundment, between 30 and 60 percent were eventually caught by bass fishermen.

"The rate of exploitation (catch rate) was between 30 and 60 percent of the West Point bass, an exceedingly high harvest," Davies said. "We can't account for those fish not being present in the 1975 year class. It is unreasonable to assume it was a high rate of natural mortality. Farin pond studies, in the past, reflect that natural mortality does not exceed 30 percent a year."

As a solution to the problem the biologists say some new regulations may be necessary, such as increased size limits. (Some states are already imposing larger size limits).
