

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, LOWELL

There will be an organizational meeting for Lowell's 150th birthday celebration (that's a sesquicentennial, but it's too hard to spell) at Lowell City Hall on Oct. 2 at 8 p.m. Many people will be needed to work on this project to make it a big success—and fun for the community.

HELP! HELP!

The Women of the Moose are making a special appeal to their members for two pies or a donation. The pies will be sold at Fallasburg Fall Festival next Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 27-28, as a fund raiser for the WOTM. Members should bring their pies to the Moose Club on Main Street or to Cora Stormzand's at 516 W. Main. Donations should be sent to Senior Regent Emily Zengri, 126 Flat River Drive. Last year all 200 pies were sold before the festival ended. This year, 300 pies are needed!

MaryAnn Kellogg, decoration chairman for Fallasburg Fall Festival, is also pleading for help. Anyone who can give an hour or two this week should show up at Nature's Emporium to tie corn shocks or whatever. Help will also be needed Friday afternoon and evening at Fallasburg Park to set up the decorations.

Peggy Idema needs pumpkins, please, and lots of them. They will be used whatever the size for decorations and in the children's pumpkin painting area. If you have pumpkins to spare, call Peggy at 897-5658 and someone will pick them up. Thank you in advance.

REMINDER

Raffle tickets on the beautiful 1980 Fallasburg quilt are $1 and can be had from any Lowell Area Arts Council member, from That Special Place, Nature's Emporium or at the Fallasburg Festival this weekend.

OFF THE BLOTTER

Ed Roth Jr. of Lowell was injured in a roll-over accident on Lincoln Lake near Bailey on Sunday, Sept. 21. Roth was southbound on Lincoln Lake about midnight when he lost control of his vehicle. He was transported to Butterworth Hospital by ambulance.

Thomas Kilmer of Hastings and John Timpson of Belding were involved in a property damage accident on Main at Hudson Sts. last week as both drivers attempted to make right turns with trucks. Minor damage was reported.

Leita Ferguson of West Branch and Harvey Merklinger of Lowell were involved in a minor property damage accident on Thursday, Sept. 18 at Main and Hudson Sts.

Frederick Lang, an escapee from the Ionia Reformatory on Saturday. Sept. 13 was apprehended in Charlevoix. MI on Friday, Sept. 19. Lang is suspected in the theft of a truck from Thomet Chevrolet in Lowell on Monday. Sept. 15. The truck was recovered at the residence where Lang was apprehended. The Lowell Red Arrows remain undefeated on the season as they chalked up a 48-0 victory over the Belding Redskins last Friday night. Carl Kloosterman scored four touchdowns and tallied up 184 yards in 17 carries to lead the Arrows in rushing and scoring.

The first score of the game came with :36 seconds remaining in the first quarter as quarterback Craig Eley ran it in from 15 yards out. The Arrows scored again 5 minutes into the second quarter on an 18 yard run by Kloosterman. Five minutes later Kloosterman scored again on an excellent 46 yard run, and again with 1:17 left in the half from 10 yards out to give. the Arrows a 28-0 halftime lead.

Kloosterman scored his fourth and last touchdown of the night late in the third quarter to build their lead to 35-0. Randy Roth scored for the Arrows from one yard out five minutes into the fourth quarter. Dave Chrisman made his sixth extra point of the night to make it 42-0. Eley picked up 6 points on a 3 yard run to build the score to 48-0. A two point conversion attempt for an even 50-0 failed, which was the only thing that failed the Arrows all night.

Dan Phillips led the Arrow defensive unit with seven solo tackles and six assists.— JV.

booths will offer tempting h treats and filling meals.

The center of attraction at beautiful Fallasiburg Park is the historic Fallasburg Covered Bridge. This bridge, over 100 years old, is listed on both the state and national historic registers.

In honor of this historic landmark, the Lowell Area Arts Council, festival sponsor, hopes to invoke the mood of yesteryear at the festival. Many participants will sport turn-of-the-century costumes. A showing by the Flat River Antique Auto Club will be held from 11:30-3:30 Sunday.

A special guest at the festival will be wandering minstrel Bob Moy, instrumentalist of the concertina.

PRECISION & FASHION HAIRSTYLING — For both men and women. Man's harmonica and button accordion, singer of shanty and logger ballads.

Demonstrators will enhance the historical theme by exhibiting their skill at tasks our grandparents may have performed regularly. All demonstrations will be held in the pavilion.

Joanne Bunn will demonstrate a variety of homemaking skills such as butter churning, soapmaking and making sassafras tea. She will be at work from 10-1 and from 2-5 each day. Ann Redd and Helen Kwant will demonstrate traditional rug hooking in the New England method, and tatting. This will be Saturday only.

Lang is also suspected in the breaking and entering of Newell Manfacturing that same weekend when the suspect left a pair of prison shoes inside. Warrants will be sought later this week.

Arrested for fleeing and eluding police officer on Friday, Sept. 20 was David Harnish of Lowell. Harnish eluded Lowell officers on August 26. He was arraigned Monday, Sept. 22 in 63rd District Court.

James Shafer and Leonard Cook, both of Ada, were issued appearance violations for minors in possession of alcohol and open container of alcohol in a motor vehicle last Friday evening. Both must appear in 63rd District Court.

One adult and one juvenile were arrested on Monday, Sept. 22 in connection with the vandalism on the Lowell Showboat about three weeks ago. Rick Simmonds of Lowell turned himself in to Lowell police after the attempt to serve a warrant was unsuccessful. The warrant was for malicious destruction of property over $100. Simmonds was arraigned and demanded examination. He was released on $2,000 personal recognizance bond. He will appear in 63rd District Court for preliminary hearing within 12 days. The juvenile involved was referred to juvenile court.

Lowell police were instrumental in the capture of an escaped felon from California. The Lowell department, informed that Roy A. Reynolds, had relatives in the area, completed information requests and alerted area police departments. Reynolds, an armed robber, was captured in Greenville on Sunday afternoon by the Greenville Police Department with assistance from the Lowell department. Desser have a happy, homey houseful of children, 16 in all. That sure beats "Eight is Enough."

The children range in age from 6 to 27. The taping for the show took place at the family's large home last May. The program will show how a large family copes in the face of runaway inflation and changing social attitudes. From hours spent taping family activities and discussions, about 10 minutes will be featured on the program.

New music director at Congregational Church

Jeffrey LeDuc of Grand Rapids was named recently as the Music Director for the First Congregational Church of Lowell. He began his duties earlier this month.

LeDuc is a native of Lapeer, Michigan, graduating from high school there in-1972. He began musical instruction at age five. He holds a bachelor of music degree and a Master of Music degree from the University of Michigan. His majors were in organ per-formance and church music. He has performed at the organ in many Michigan churches, and has given recitals and concerts in Ann Arbor, Detroit, Flint, Mt. Clemens, Wayne, Livonia and Grand Haven. LeDuc was a guest fac ulty member at Hope College in 1980.

From Outer Space By Rev. Jerry Bates Remember the story of the little engine that thought it could? It's worth telling again and remembering. This will be my version. In the valley between two long high hills was a small town built around a freight yard. Trains of cars were made up and sent to both the east and west over the hills. It really was a difficult pull for an engine to start the long line of cars from a dead stop and get sufficient momentum to go over the hills.

One day there was a long train of cars that was to go to the west, so they connected the largest engine that they had to the cars. The engine took one look at the long line of cars and wondered how heavy they were and whether he could really get the train over the hill or not. Indeed the train was long and heavy and he got near the top before the wheels began to slip and churn on the rails.

So he backed down to the valley and started out again and the same thing happened. After several tries, he was no nearer the top than before. Someone heard the littlest engine in the freight yard say, "I think I can do it", and it was reported to the station manager. So the littlest engine was hooked onto the long line of heavy cars and the engineer started the engine out. All the time. the littlest engine was saying in time to the revolving wheels, "I think I can,"

First the engineer backed the train of cars as far up the hill to the east as the littlest engine could. Then he sei the drive wheels in motion to go ahead. As faster and faster the drive wheels went, the faster and faster the engine said, "I think I can, I think I can". In fact the littlest engine was going so fast that the words almost ran into a blur of sound. Through the valley the littlest engine ran. full speed ahead and up the hill the train started. All of the time, the littlest engine was saying "I think I can, I think I can", Slower and slower the drive, wheels turned, closer and closer to the top of the hill the train came. Very slowly the wheels were turning as the engine came to the top of the hill. The littlest engine was still panting, "I think I can. think I can". And lo and behind it did. The lesson of the littles engine is that we need to put everything we have into ev erything that we do and le and behold we can do thing that we never thought we could do. Too often we take a look at a job and say, can't", when in all reality w could if we made up our mine to do so. We have a need to stretch ourselves into nev areas of life.

OPEN LETTER

Dear Friends, Dr. David Switzer, author of Dynamics of Grief, writes, "The funeral is both the symbol and the reality of the mobilization of the community to sustain those persons in distress as it pushes them along in their grief work." I've mentioned before that I write this junk at home, every Tuesday morning at about five o'clock. Well, for the last few weeks, I've been distracted from my work by a clawing at the door leading into the garage. The clawing is often accompanied by other strange noises such as things being tipped over or knocked around and a lot of whining and moaning. No, we're not living out a scene from "Halloween" or "The Shining", but we are living with the dreaded, KILLER DOGS!

My five-year-old son, Casey opens the door to the garage and then takes off running as fast as he can yelling, "Help! Help! Killer Dogs, Killer Dogs!" He is immediately pursued by a whirling dervish comprised of three Labrador Retreiver puppies. Casey finds a place to curi into a ball on the floor and the Killer Dogs attack him savagely. You'd think from all the commotion that they are a pack of wolves after a downed moose, but all they are trying to do is lick his face. These pups are all that are left from a litter that we had in early July and are living in my garage because of a problem that we had with them getting worms out in the kennel. Consequently, our cars set out in the weather, while the Killer Dogs make a shambles of my garage and everything in it. There is room for at least one of the cars in the garage, but I'm afraid of what they might do to it; chew off the tires. scratch off the paint, tip it over!

In trying out their young chompers, they have so far destroyed Terese's mop and broom, two plastic baseball bats, and all the wiring on my boat trailer. For lack of a better term, we'll call all the not-so-little land mines that they leave around, "puppy residue". I swear they can take what I feed them, digest it, and then multiply it in the form of puppy residue by about six to eight times its original volume. If we could figure out how to use it for fuel, we would have a self-replenishing fuel source with no end in sight.

The Killer Dogs are let into the house quite often and make no pretense of having any manners whatsoever. They make running leaps into your lap, snag Terese's hose, leave puppy residue, bite your ankles, and are generally enjoyed by everybody. They run upstairs and then whine because they're afraid to come back down and they tip over every waste basket in the house looking for goodies. Oh, these Killer Dogs are a laugh a minute.

In case you haven't realized it yet, this is an ad. Look to the classified page for details.
