P.O. INFO

Because of new personnel at the Alto Post Office, it is important that house numbers be on each mail box. Failure to comply with this postal regulation could cause a delay in mail service and even misdelivery. Having your name on the mail box is optional. It is also important that all mail be addressed to the house number and street address rather than just a route number. Because of route adjustments, a route number could be changed and cause delay in sorting.

'This does not include our failure to meet an established board committment of paying 10 percent of Showboat's outstanding indebtedness ($45,000) for the boat and the amphitheatre", said Showboat Treasurer Ray Quada.

In an effort to meet its financial obligations, the board gave the go-ahead for plans to bring "Boxcar Willie" back to the Riverside Amphitheatre on September 23, 1981 along with the "Lotta Miles" band of Grand

Most of us read newspaper accounts of the hunger and starvation in our world and wonder if it is real. We are really concerned and would like to help, yet we don't trust the accounts or really know what is happening to what we give. The following letter came to my desk this last week. It indicates that the author. Dr. Robert Smith, Program Director for the West Michigan Conference of the United Methodist Church and a close friend, just returned from Somolia. His report is what he saw personally Dear Colleagues and Friends: I have just returned from one of the most exciting and my life. I visited the Ali Matan Refugee Camp in Somalia. This is one of some 36 camps in Somalia and is sponsored by the three major Christian groups in America - Church World Service/UM COR. Catholic Relief Services and Lutheran World all I want to say, but let me give a few impressions, I heard it on more than one occasion that Ali Matan was the best run refugee camp of them all. There are 13 camp personnel of doctors, nurses, water hydrologist, lab technicians, agricultural expert and an engineer-electrician. They live in tents, cook their own food over an open fire and fight dust, bugs and are on call 24 hours a day.

Food is getting through. There were heavy rains in April, May and June and the roads were impassable. But now, the United Nations trucks are moving. I saw a huge pile or corn and powdered milk from the people of the USA, from our "Food for Peace" program. It is only supplemental, but starvation has been halted. Children and pregnant women are given medical attention and special supplemental food cooked and caten at several centers. Disease is rampant - they believe 50% have T.B. The doctors and nurses do miraculous things with the most elemental technology. The people are growing food. I.H. Hiwale, an agriculturalist from India and Methodist, has helped them grow corn, sorghum, and watermelons, peppers, squash and all kinds of green crops. He has over 1500 acres under cultivation - all done by hand and now all watered by going to the river and getting a bucket full and bringing it to the garden. A nomadic people are turning to farming - just to survive. I can assure you - the money you give to UMCOR for East Africa Relief is being used wisely -- just as you would want it. Much more money will be needed before this problem is solved. You'll ask "What can we do?" Here are some needs: Doctors and nurses to go for 2-3 months; a lab technician who will also teach some of the Somali people; a cook who can prepare wellbalanced and tasty meals outdoors; an administrator of the camp; money-moneymoney! If your church gave once, have them do it again. If they haven't - for all God's children's sake have them do it real soon.

Next week I'll try to share with you how funds given through Church organizations reach the hungry people and are used in a much more efficient manner than monies given through government or private organ-

A funny thing happened on the way to school.

It took place back in 1914, aboard one of the first motorized school buses in the United States. The Newman. California, bus as a mode of school transportation had become so popular that a trailer had to be hooked to the rear to carry the overflow. Boys (we suspect training to become young gentlemen) were consigned to the trailer. We also suspect that boys, being just boys, were the reason the trailer tipped over one day. No one was injured, but the idea of a trailer was junked in favor of a larger school bus. The idea for school bus safety was born. Although National Safety Council studies now show school buses to be the safest means of transportation, an extra measure of caution can be important as children make the transition from carefree summers to busy classrooms. Parents, get your children to the bus stop early. Late arrivals can throw the driver off his schequie. Instruct your children to ome directly home after getting off the bus. Walking with a friend is always wise. The same manners that apply in your private auto should apply on the school bus. The bus driver will appreciate being able to concentrate on the road and not on student-caused distractions.

Students, stay seated until is time to get off the bus. Listen carefully to the driver's instructions. Never poke your hands arms or head out of a school bus window. Look before your walk away from or around the bus. Always be aware of other traffic. Motorists, the flashing red

School bus stops can get hectic. Be alert. especially for children standing too close to curb edges. School buses and school bus safety have come a long way since the first Model T was adapted to carry students. The basic rules. however, of caution and courtesy, haven't changed. I've been a bit remiss about getting this column out regularly over the past couple of months. One week we were on vacation, and a couple of others were skipped because the print shop was just so darned busy that I found it necessary to devote all my waking hours trying to keep up with the demand back there. Somehow I figure that it must affect my credibility when I tell someone that their printing isn't finished on schedule "but we are doing everything possible to get it done," and then they turn around and read some nonsense under my column head in the paper. Must make 'em wonder.

Last week was a different story though. As I have mentioned so many times in this space, 1 get up at 5 a.m. Tuesday (press day) to get something down on paper that good, bad, or otherwise is long enough to fill this hole in the Ledger. I figure anything is better than another Jello recipe. Last Tuesday we were awakened by the babysitter when she arrived at 7 a.m.

The Brown family was one of the victims of the "Phantom Phone Pole Clipper Offer". I don't know if you caught the item in last week's "Main Street", but a hit and run driver clipped off a telephone pole on Foreman, just around the corner from our house. The whole north end of town was without power from about 1 a.m. until 4 a.m. and the loss of electrical current tends to have a direct relationship to the advance of time as far as a clock radio is concerned.

To say that the telephone pole was "clipped off", is using that term very loosely. I checked it out and the pole had to be about a foot in diameter and you don't just "clip" something like that off as you would a lock of hair or blade of grass. No. you gotta "SMASH" the &#%$&# out of something like that to break it in two.

I'm writing this without benefit of reading this week's police report, so I don't know if the hit and run driver has been captured, and subsequently the vehicle identified. If and when the police do catch him (her?), I for one would like to know what kind of car can break a telephone pole in two and keep on going. One report had the car identified as a late model brown sedan, possibly an Oldsmobile. I've got to question that. The way late model cars have been down-sized and lightened up for better gas mileage. I don't think that there's a late model anything that could perform such a feat. A late model Mack Truck maybe, but not a late model car.

I know none of my present cars could accomplish such a trick. Two of them are so small that I don't think they could jump the curb, let alone take on a telephone pole. My van is big enough, but it has a tough enough job just getting itself down the road and would faint at the thought of knocking down a telephone pole.

If the police want a real tip, I think I might have one for them.

They should track down the current owner of my old '73 brown Dodge Polara Custom Station wagon. That's the only car I can think of that could pull off such a stunt. It weighed about 2 and a half tons, had a huge engine and could easily go over a hundred miles an hour. While camping in the back woods. I once used it to push down a dead tree for firewood, so I know it could handle a mere telephone pole.

There, now isn't that better than some old Jello recipe?

stretching tip for fruit lovers: Nearly all fresh fruits mix well. So, whether you buy a variety deliberately or use up the odds and ends of your latest foray to the produce counter, you can produce a succulent fruit compote for any meal.

We like some of the softer fruits best in a mixture blueberries, raspberries, peaches, oranges, melons but we're sure just about any mixture would be tasty.

It's an impressive company dessert, especially when a liberal measure of brown sugar is added to the cut-up fruits. Some like the results with milk for breakfast - others with a dab of whipped cream for an indulgent snack. Experiment till your heart's content. It's hard to miss. Without any of the additions, of course, your compote is not only a taste delight, it's good for you (pretty low in calories, too).

And, for those of us who tend to overbuy the fresh fruits (we tell ourselves the season is so short), the compote is a terrific reputation-saver. Just before the whole batch is about to go over the hill, we can toss it all together and pretend that was our plan all along. Aren't we smart?

Air-tight homes outfitted substantial mortality and premature mortality."

The problem is much more prevalent in newer homes. In older, draftier homes the air is replaced by fresh air about once an hour. But in some of today's tightly-sealed houses the inside air is replaced only about once every ten hours. Because most Americans spend 80 to 90 percent of their time inside rather than out, there is a real health threat.

Board awards two bids

Board of Education held their regular meeting last week and awarded two bids, accepted a resignation and discussed its tax levy position.

Price for school milk by the pint will remain at 10c at least through October. The school milk bid was awarded to Kraft of Lansing at 13.5

Members of the Saranac cents per pint. Board members were advised that the five cent per pint federal subsidy was eliminated in recent budget cuts by President Reagan. A price hike may be necessary in October, according to Superintendent Al Butler, since, under current pricing, the school is losing three cents on each milk sale.

The board also began discussion on its tax levy position. It appears that the board is in favor of levying the total allocated amount, 30.13 mills, but will earmark a portion, up to one-half mill, for specific items.

Pamphlet is energy saver

Michigan's Energy Ad-ministration Clearinghouse has prepared a new publication -- "It's Curtains for Heat Loss" -- about energy-saving treatments for windows.

'This publication explains many techniques for reducing window heat loss," said Acting Energy Administration Director Joann Neuroth. "In Michigan, windows can account for as much as a third of a home's total heat loss, so savings from treatments like these can be really significant," Neuroth said. Two other Clearinghouse publications about windows, 'Calculating Energy Savings from Window Modifica-tions" and a "Window Treatment Bibliography' also are available for interested Michigan residents. All three can be ordered by calling the Energy Administration toll-free hotline (1-800-292-4704) or by writing Energy Clearinghouse, PO Box 30228. Lansing, MI 48909

Sales of the Lowell history update, "Lowell: 1931-1981." and the reprint of the first history volume, "Lowell: 1831-1931," have gone exceedingly well, according to the new book's author and editor Betty Coons. The new volume and the reprint are still available for $6 each or $10 for a set. However, there are very few of the new history left.

Once full payment is made for printing of the volumes, income from the sale of the books will go to the Sesquicentennial Committee for a community project.

The two history of Lowell volumes can still be purchased at Lippert Pharmacy, That Special Place, Buyer's Guide, Lowell Savings and Loan, Lowell City Hall, State Savings Bank, Ionia County Shopper in Saranac and the Grand Valley Ledger in Lowell. For mail delivery, add $1.00 postage and handling. Send request with payment and address to: Lowell Sesquicentennial History. 215 W. Main, Lowell, MI 49331.

One of the photos featured in the update volume of the Lowell: 1931-1981 history shows four young people sketching a river view of downtown Lowell. The identification of the young people is unknown as is their reason for their outing. Someone hereabouts must know the answer, right?
