holding the Macker tournament increasingly required more detailed organization, Macker members "decided to take it off the streets."

The tournament, which has been growing each year, last year was 1100 basketball players participating on three-man teams, and this year will be enlarged to 350 teams or approximatley 1400 players.

McNeal said he thought the Mackers could easily drum up 2000-3000 hoopsters for the event, but other members of the Macker Advisory Council balked at the prospects of handling a crowd of that size.

McNeal, who thought the Mackers could cope with such a group, conceded that he was an optimist.

Tournament growth has put an increasing strain on the ability of Macker members to provide facilites for players and staffing for games. The present on-the-street tournament format makes efficient organization that much more difficult.

And besides the headaches created by success, time has taken its toll on aging Mackers -some of whom are in their midtwenties. McNeal said that though the Mackers enjoyed putting on the tournament, many members, because of the responsibilites of family and job, have less time to devote to an event that asks more and more of its sponsors.

The decision to take the Macker tournament off the streets did not come easily. McNeal expressed some concern that a transplanted tournament would lose some of its present

"Macker has a personality that players really get involved in," he said. "We have an atmosphere that's something special, something extra. You can't talk about it; you can't explain it logically."

And yet, though desiring to retain Macker flair, McNeal wants to be able to hand down a manthe younger members who will have to assume greater responsibility in coming years.

McNeal said that, considering the time already invested in Macker tournaments and the enjoyment the event brings to people in Lowell, "It would be worthless to me to say, 'no more tournaments"

For these reasons the Mackers are considering relocating in an area under consideration for a park by the Lowell City Council. The proposed park area is south of Foreman Road and east of Gee organization considered the park area the best relocation site yet suggested. It has the advantage of being closed to residential areas and yet not far from M-21 and Main Street restaurants and

In addition, McNeal thought an area of the Park could be adapted to recreate the present tournament atmosphere. Macker members have indicated a willingness to invest Macker money in a protion of the park for the chance to hold the tournament

City plans for the park, however, are still in the incubation stage, and may never come to term. Whatever the City Council decides, the Macker Advisory Council plans to have chosen a definite site for next year's tournament before the '83 Macker rolls around, so that participants can be informed and make plans for next year.

But, since this is the last of the original-style Mackers and the 10th anniversary besides, McNeal promised that the tourney would "finish with a bang".

So far plans for the 10th Macker include a benefit game. the proceeds of which will go to local organizations; a Macker birthday party; and an all-star basketball game, which McNeal says will be "really big -- some-

Council Proceedings

Present: Councilmen Christiansen, Maatman, Schneider and Council next discussed the setting of a date for a public hearing on the proposed Bicycle Licensing Ordinance.

> Councilman Christiansen stated that he was firmly against the licensing, that he feels it is ridiculous to tell people that they can't ride their bikes in the City unless they have a license. He also stated that people should be allowed to come in on their own for the bike registration program, done as a public service. That way lost or stolen bikes turning up at the Police Department can be matched with their owners

IT WAS MOVED by Councilman Maatman that the Minutes of the March 21 Meeting be approved as written, supported by A lengthy discussion followed on bikes being held at the Police Department whose owners can't be identified. The present ordinance requires that bikes be kept at least 90 days, before sale. However, most bikes are not claimed, and end up being stored all year until an annual auction is held.

Bills and Accounts Payable be allowed and warrants issued, Councilman Christiansen suggested amending the ordinance so that unclaimed bikes can be sold after ten days. If not registered put a price on it and sell it.

> Manager Quada was directed to check on the present ordinance and report back at the next regular meeting.

Manager Quada then introduced Ron Robach and Tony Hall who are requesting permission to hold a Rodeo during the Summer on city owned property at the South end of Recreation Park. They have already gotten approval from the 4-H Board so that there is no conflict in dates. The arena would be 7,942.27 a six-inch deep "soft arena and would be removed after the to make it a permanent annual event. Alto, and Bushnell Elementary Schools were treated Wednesday to the story-telling magic o Verna Aardema, author of 14 published children's books.

Mrs. Aardema led a gymnasium-full of K-5 youngsters through the motions of lapping up stew, tying up uncooperative animals, and forming rain clouds while at the same time spinning her imaginative tales.

Mrs. Aardema, who appears requently in school assemblies during April and May, said that all of her stories require audience participation, a feature which helps to eliminate fidgeting and adds to the story's interest in the eyes of young readers.

The author of children's books claims that she became a writer

"It was the only thing I seemed to be good for," she said. As one of the eldest of nine children growing up in New Era, Mich. Mrs. Aardema said that she

Pair of new businesses open in Lowell

Going fishing this summer? Before you take off, you mightdo well to stop in the at The Combination, a bait and tackle shop at the site of the former Drake station which, as the name suggests, offers a variety of goods and services.

Shop owner Jack Friesner says that The Combination is a transplanted and expanded version of Grand River Bait and Tackle. In addition to selling bait and fishing gear. The Combination sells fishing licenses and repairs broken rods and reels.

Friesner says that in a couple of weeks the business will also be equipped with gas and diesel fuel pumps, and at that time will be open 24 hours. The Combination will also soon offer the services of a locksmith -- something new in the Lowell area.

Yet in the works are plans to sell archery supplies, and, come winter, to sell trapping equipment and buy raw fur.

According to Friesner, the shop has "more than enough business to keep busy," and he seemed pleased with the volume of trade despite the fact that fishing season is not yet in full

Friesner expects that once the business is in high gear he will hire three employees to staff the

The Combination is celebrating its Grand Opening now through April 30 by offering reflectorized bike tape kits, free fishing licenses to senior citizens, and a chance on a Lake, Erie wall-eye charter trip.

The Combination owner Jack Friesner expects to offer a variety of items and services at his new business.

Joining the ranks of new businesses in the Lowell area is the Kyburz Insurance Agency. which opened here April 1.

Kyburz is a native of the Rockford area, and has until recently sold life and health insurance in Grand Rapids.

Last fall Kyburz struck out on his own, selling Nationwide Insurance out of his home while at the same time looking for a suitable location for an office and familiarizing himself with Nationwide product lines.

Having lived in the Alto area for the past five years, Kyburz said he has "grown to like the Lowell-Alto area. People's attitudes are nicer in this area."

Response to the presence of a new agency so far has been slow but "encouraging", according to Kyburz.

"Slowly people are becoming aware that there's a new office in town," he said.

Working to his advantage is the fact that many people, Lowell residents included, are looking for ways to cut the cost of living, and consequently are shopping around for insurance poli-
