at 6:00. The parade will commence from there at 6:30, proceed south down Hudson to Main, east to Washington, north to Avery, west to Monroe, south to Main, west to Broadway and then south to Burch Field. The parade will also include the king and queen candidates riding in new autos furnished by the local auto dealers, both the High School and Middle School bands and a unit from the Lowell Athletic Boosters.

At halftime the king and queen will be crowned by last year's royal couple. The floats will be paraded around the field, and judged by a panel of Lowell citizens. The bands will also play at halftime, and the High School art club is planning a demonstration of "sky art". We'll just have to wait to see what that is.

On Saturday the annual Homecoming Dance will be held at the Middle School Cafetorium from 8:00 until ?

BUSINESS DISTRICT RENOVATION DRAWINGS POSTED

A federally funded project is currently underway to offer storefront design ideas to businesses in the central business district. The first of these drawings included Lambert's Variety, Mike Turn mino's Law Office, a now vacant storefront and The Speerstra Agency. Two-sets of drawings were submitted, the first having a nautical flavor, the second being more traditional. Both drawings include an awning running across all four buildings. The drawings are on display in the window of the Speerstra Agency. The City also has some low interest federal grant money available for Main Street businesses wishing to upgrade their storefronts.

City vacates a portion of Pine St.

What do you do when you discover that your house is located about fifteen feet into a city right of way? That's what Ruth Sisson had to figure out, with the aid of her realtor Rick Seese. Sisson' owns a home at the southeast corner of Lafayette and Pine Streets that she has listed to sell. When a survey was done on the property it was discovered that the northeast corner of the house is about fifteen feet into the Pine Street right of way, a fact that did little for the home's saleability. Seese brought the matter before the Lowell City Council Monday evening in a public hearing session requesting that the city vacate that portion of Pine Street which the home is located on. The city right of way is 49 feet 6 inches, and the paved the right of way north of the centerline. Neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Weemoff were present at the hearing. The Weemoffs live across Lafayette Street from the property in question, and they voiced an opinion in favor of vacating Pine Street south of the centerline for the length of the City manager Ray Quada said that when vacating streets, the right of way is typically split down the middle with equal portions going to property owners on either side. Quada said there are exceptions, but the terms are usually worked out beforehand by property owners. The question of whether to vacate the entire street in this manner, or to simply vacate the requested portion was bantered about among the councilmen. The public hearing was closed with all in agreement to vacate Pine Street south of the centerline for the length of the Sisson property. A vote of the council in regular session made the action final.

There are several streets that intersect with Lafayette that have either been vacated or perhaps will be because they dead end into the Flat River and there are situations like the Sisson prperty where residences or outbuildings are constructed on city right of way. The councilmen committed to continuing to take vacation requests at a case by case basis street is entirely on the portion of rather than vacating entire streets.
