Softball is a hot issue at council meeting

Softball was the hot topic at Monday's meeting of the Lowell City Council. Don Fizer, owner of Michigan Wire Processing at 138 S. Water St., Lowell got things rolling by explaining an initial proposal of his company developing a new softball field or fields, in exchange for the property currently used as the Recreation Park softball diamond. Fizer doesn't have any details worked out, but his company is growing rapidly, and with the exception of the softball diamond there is no room for further expansion. Fizer said he would be willing to pay for the construction of a modern, up to date softball facility on any site agreeable with the city. Fizer also offered the idea of setting up a trust fund for perpetual care of the new softball diamond.

Councilman Robert Christiansen forewarned Fizer that his proposal would have to be a good one, as he suggested that Fizer had "a very tough row to hoe" in attempting to get designated park land away from the city. Mayor Dean Collins mentioned that there might be many legal hurdles, possibly even a vote of the people requirement in selling off city park property. No location for a new softball complex was offered by either Fizer or the council.

Lowell City Manager Ray Quada and Fizer are to meet soon to try to work out a solution to Michigan Wire Processing's growth problems. As Collins said at the meeting, "We have to help them (Michigan Wire Processing) find room to grow, or we'll lose them."

Bob Ford representing the Lowell Softball Association took the floor next with a proposal to rent both Recreation Park and Gee Drive Park softball diamonds next summer. Ford said that his newly formed Association would operate adult softball games at the two locations five nights a week and on most weekends. Ford's offer to the city was $1,000 for the season, plus the association would completely take over the maintenance of both fields.

Councilman Christiansen asked Ford what he thought would become of the Lowell YMCA adult softball program, and Ford replied that it would have to fold because of no place to play. Jim Hodges, Lowell YMCA Director was on hand and offered that Ford's proposed association is a duplication of what has been a successful operation under the leadership of the YMCA.

Ford explained that his reason for forming a new association is because he feels the YMCA is making a profit on adult softball and not putting anything back into the program in maintenance of the fields. Don Anderson, a supporter of the new association echoed Ford adding that the fields are caught between the YMCA and the City with neither taking responsibility for maintenance and they have now become a disgrace.

Christiansen defended the YMCA because it is a total program, and uses income from the adult softball leagues to fund youth softball and other valuable recreation programs. Hodges threw in some figures to back up Christiansen. According to Hodges, last summer's adult softball program netted about $2,100 while the youth softball program lost $2,700 leaving a $600 deficit for the YMCA to make up from other sources to fund a total softball program.

Quada challenged Anderson's comment about the diamonds being a disgrace. Quada said that he heard nothing but positive comments about the fields from teams that participated in the Memorial Day Weekend tournament staged by WCUZ. Quada defended the city by stating that crews have a 27 acre cemetery with 3,500 headstones and many acres of other park property to keep mowed and maintained.

Quada added that Ford's proposal is a "serious issue" because it cuts into the YMCA program which for twenty years or more has gotten the city out of having to provide a recreation program.

Ivan Blough took the floor and explained that he has been a very active softball player, coach and supporter for over thirty-years in this area, and has seen softball associations come and go in towns like Freeport and Saranac. But, over the years the YMCA has been a catalyst that has held good softball programs together in the City of Lowell. Blough's comment was generally acknowledged as an excellent point by Quada and members of the council.

A committee to review the maintenance problems at the diamonds was formed and will meet this Thursday at City Hall. On the committee are: Quada, Ford, Anderson, Hodges and President of the YMCA Board of Directors Jack Thomet.

Council hears Cable TV update

Ivan Blough, a member of the board of directors of the Lowell Light and Power Company was on hand at Monday's meeting of the Lowell City Council with a slide presentation to update the council members on the Lowell Cable Television system. The Cable TV network is municipally owned, as is the Light and Power company, and the board of directors comprised of Blough, Dr. Orval McKay and King Doyle oversee both operations.

In Blough's report he noted that exact figures were not available as the budget is currently being audited. Blough said that the system which is now virtually complete ran over the initial budget of $500,000 and will finally total near $600,000. Blough said that the technology in cable television is virtually changing daily, and the Lowell system was constantly being upgraded during construction as new technology became available. This along with the fact that the system was expanded to 37 miles of cable rather than initial 25 miles, are the major reasons for going over budget.

According to Blough the system is virtually complete, and the construction crew will be released very soon, from that time on the cable system's employees will be handling all installations and repairs. When Federal Communications Commission inspection of the first portion of the city hooked up to the system was completed, the FCC inspectors said that they had never seen a system with a better quality signal. Blough said that since the system is municipally owned, every resident of the city should be very proud of modern cable television service here.

Blough said that initial projections for hook-ups called for 50% of homes passed needed to be on line to put the system into the black. According to Blough there are currently 1,100 homes using the system, well over 55% of the homes passed. Besides a good percentage of basic service hook ups, a percentage well beyond early expectations are buying one or both the two extra fee channels.

Blough said that the board is currently trying to form an advisory committee of seven members to seek ways to improve the system and pass their findings along to the directors. The advisory board would include representatives from the school, city, and townships.

Following his presentation Blough answered questions from the council. Councilman Robert Christiansen said that he has heard several requests for the additions of channel 47 and 50. Channel 47 is an off the air channel from Lansing and could be added by installing an antenna on the tower and equipment in the head end station. Blough estimated that the addition would cost about $5,000. Channel 50 is a Detroit station that transmits via satellite. Blough guessed that it would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 to get it on the Lowell system, plus a monthly fee for the privilege of airing it. Blough added that finding out what the community wants from its cable system, such as the addition of channels, will be the primary function of the advisory committee.

The Kent County Library is pleased to announce that it is once again offering "Hooray For Halloween," a special holiday story time for youngsters 3-6. Lighthearted children's stories about ghosts, pumpkins, witches and other 'spooky' things will be brought to life by the children's librarians at 16 branches of the county library system. "Halloween can be as important as Christmas and birthdays for little ones," according to Co-ordinator of Children's Services, Mary Frydrych. "Our special library program plays down the scary aspects of the event and emphasizes the fun and excitement of this traditional holiday." Libraries will have displays of Halloween story books available to be checked out and all children attending the program will receive a paper pumpkin puppet to assemble at home.

"Hooray For Halloween," a free 40 minute library program is scheduled at 16 branches of the Kent County Library including: October 26, Lowell, 325 W. Main at 1:00 P.M. 897-9596. October 27, Alto, 6059 Linfield at 10:15 A.M. 868-6038.

Letters . . .

One sunny, bright, beautiful October afternoon while driving up Riverside Drive in Lowell I looked across the river to see the Showboat nestled in front of a colorful October scene. How happy and bright the sky, trees etc., looked, but OH that lonely Showboat acting like it didn't have a friend. It seems so sad that this great boat has to stand there and die.

I know the high price of entertainment has helped to cause its decline. Maybe if we could turn back the clock a few years like the beginning of the Showboat and try to gather up some local talent the boat could be happy again. Through the school I bet many talented people could be found who would be more than willing to help the boat survive.

Most great entertainers have been given a start by showing their talents in such a way.

With low admission prices many people who haven't been able to afford the Showboat would attend the shows. To save expenses there are people who are willing to volunteer their services without pay to make this a worthy cause once again.

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

by Pauline E. Spray

...he hath chosen us... (Ephesians 1:4).

Mom really had her heart and hands full with the seven of us children at home. But if anyone asked her, Mary, which one are you willing to part with? she would invariably answer, "I haven't one to spare."

She loved each of us, individually. We were all different. She needed each of our personalities. The absence of any one of us would have left the family circle incomplete.

Our Heavenly Father has need of each of us, too. Every individual has a definite place to fill in His kingdom. He loves us one and all - regardless of rank, title, or talents.

Jesus, when entering Jerusalem, gave instructions to the disciples to bring the untrained colt to Him. He gave the disciples a reason. He said, "The Lord hath need of him."

No matter how insignificant we may feel, the Lord has need of each of us. He has a place in His heart and in His service for every individual. He cannot do without one of us. He has "none to spare."

Prayer: Dear Lord, I feel so unworthy and unimportant. Still I know Thou hast need of even me. Show me what Thou wouldst have me do and help me to do it with all my might. Amen.

While the souls of men are dying,

And the Master calls for you,
Let none hear you idly saying,
"There is nothing I can do!"

Lowell beats Cedar Springs 18-0

The Lowell Red Arrow's Brian Gessler carries for a first down, led by blocker Steve Wernet in last Friday's game against Cedar Springs. The Red Arrows came out on top, 18-0 and increased their record to 5-0 and 6-0 overall.

The Lowell Red Arrows came to life in the second half at Cedar Springs last Friday, to remain unbeaten at 5-0 in league play and 6-0 overall.

The Red Arrows on their opening drive went 77 yards for the score to give themselves a quick 6-0 lead. The extra point attempt by Dennis Jannenga was no good and the Arrows led 6-0 with 5:31 left in the first quarter. The rest of the first half was a battle for yards but, neither team could collect enough to get into the endzone. The first half ended with Lowell on top 6-0.

The Cedar Springs Red Hawks got the kick-off at the start of the second half and started an impressive drive. Cedar drove 44 yards in eight plays before losing the ball on a fumble recovered on the 35 yard line by Arrow linebacker Jerry Adams.

Taking advantage of the turnover Lowell scored on a 76 yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jerry Adams to wide receiver David Kryger, with 4:52 remaining in the third quarter. The two point conversion attempt was no good and the Arrows led 12-0.

Cedar Springs on the next possession drove their way down field for an apparent touchdown, but it was disallowed because of a motion penalty on the Red Hawks. Cedar then went for the first on fourth and three, and the Red Arrows defense stopped them short.

Lowell was unable to put anything together on their possession and were forced to punt. Cedar Springs with good field possession after the Arrow punt were on the move again. The Red Arrow defense held tough as John Lipka intercepted a Mark VanderWall pass and ran it back to the 37 yard line.

Lowell Red Arrow running back John Kloosterman on first down went 63 yards for the score to give the Arrows an 18-0 lead. The extra point attempt by Jannenga was no good. The rest of the game was scoreless and ended with Lowell on top 18-0.

The Red Arrows collected 274 yards of total offense, with 174 coming on the ground. Cedar Springs picked up 260 yards with only 66 yards rushing. Leading tacklers for Lowell were: Alan Southland with 8 tackles, Rob King with 7 and Brian Kidder and Steve Wernet both with 6 tackles.

Girls lose in double overtime

After an extremely physical and emotional game and two overtimes, Lowell fell short on its attempt to defeat Greenville's girls basketball team, last Tuesday night.

The Jackets shot very well from the outside in the first quarter, and that allowed them to jump out to an early 8-0 and 17-8 leads in the 1st quarter.

Greenville's intense defense kept Lowell to only seven field goal attempts in that quarter.

Each team substituted freely in the second quarter. Lowell outscored Greenville 10-9 and was down by 8 at the half.

In the third, Lowell controlled the game; out scoring Greenville 14-4. A layup by Phyllis Beachler put the Arrows ahead 32-30.

In the early stages of the 4th quarter, it looked like Lowell was going to defeat Greenville. They built up a six point lead. A controversial foul by Phyllis Beachler put Greenville to the free throw line and the Jackets sank both shots. They continued to nip at Lowell's lead. With 29 seconds remaining, Amy VanderGalien sank the first of two free throws to give the Arrows a two-point margin. In a span of 6 seconds, Greenville managed to regain the lead. With 10 seconds remaining, Lowell got the ball down court. A baseline shot by VanderGalien put the game in overtime.

Both teams scored six points in the 1st overtime, with 23 seconds left on the clock and the score tied. Lowell had the ball out-of-bounds. They ran down the clock but failed to get a shot off.

Lowell scored first in the 2nd overtime. Greenville's Kris King tied the game up. With 56 seconds left, Greenville went up by two. With 12 seconds left in the game Lowell missed a field goal and King iced the game for Greenville 50-54.

Phyllis Beachler paced the Arrows with 18 points, 10 coming from the free throw line. Paula Doyle added 11, Amy VanderGalien, playing only near the end of the game, scored 9 and Kathleen Beachler added 9. Maria Ritzema scored one and Lynn Dowling 2.

The loss drops Lowell to 4-7 and 2-3 in the conference.

CREATIVE CIRCLE
 Algene Feuerstein, Kentwood, Michigan 49508 recently joined other leaders of the Creative Circle at Inner Circle, a regional convention in South Bend, IN.

"Inner Circle was designed exclusively for Creative Circle managers, called circle leaders, to help them enhance leadership skills," according to Pat Easterling, Midwestern Region Vice President, who presided over the two-day event.

Circle leaders are responsible for training and motivating other independent Creative Circle sales representatives.

Convention participants exchanged ideas on recruiting, time management, how to improve sales and how to effectively guide and support circle members.

Inner Circle's theme, "We're Number One," celebrated the firm's announcement earlier this year that it is the world's largest manufacturer of needlecraft kits. Its exclusive product line is marketed only through sales representatives and circle leaders who teach in-home needlecraft classes and provide fund-raising opportunities for non-profit organizations.

The Creative Circle is headquartered in Los Angeles, with additional facilities in Kansas City, KS, and Canada.

Kerry Vezino of the Lowell Red Arrow golf team plays his second shot into the green last Saturday in Class B Regionals. Kerry led the Arrows with a score of 83, but it wasn't good enough as the Arrows finished 11th out of 19 teams entered.

No interest loans for insulation

Consumers Power Company has the ultimate bargain for its customers -- a no-interest loan for eligible gas heating customers who want to insulate their ceilings.

The loans are available to residential customers whose homes now have 2-1/2 inches or less of ceiling insulation, according to C. Jury Carpenter, Conservation Programs Supervisor for Consumers Power. "The loan interest rate is zero, and customers can take up to five years to repay the loan."

Customers are being encouraged to sign up for the loan now before the inevitable freezing weather moves in. Carpenter said the company is promoting the program to help as many customers as possible to insulate their ceilings before they begin to receive higher winter heating bills.

Customers may contact the utility by telephone for information and a free attic inspection.

A family's income is not a factor in determining whether a loan should be granted, according to Carpenter. The program is aimed at all residential gas heating customers regardless of their income.

Renters who are Consumers Power gas heating customers, including those in multifamily dwellings, may also qualify if they have approval from their landlords.

Carpenter said the company implemented the program in 1981 with approval of the Michigan Public Service Commission, as an energy conservation measure.

Carpenter noted that adequate ceiling insulation is one of the most effective ways to reduce energy use and cost.

Under the zero-interest loan program, a qualifying customer may borrow up to $1,000 to have a contractor perform the insulation work or up to $700 to finance a do-it-yourself project. The company can also assist in finding a contractor or supplier for the materials. In either case, Consumers Power will handle all the paperwork and pay the contractor or materials supplier directly.

The company will also send out a representative to inspect the completed work.

Participating customers have up to five years to repay the loan through monthly installments included with their energy bills. The monthly installment for do-it-yourselfers has been averaging $5 since the program was initiated, while the payment for contractor-installed work has averaged $8.

'OUTDOORS'

with Jack Friesner

As most of you hunters already know and all of you will discover, the local deer herds are down by at least one-third, from their peak levels of the past two seasons. You will also discover that the buck to doe ratio is much higher than usual. We now have probably nearly as many bucks as we have had in the past but the breeding stock of does are much reduced. This can be attributed to at least three major factors.

The first of these is the result of the DNR. Far too many doe permits were issued for these areas during the 82 season, this resulted in far too heavy a harvest of does and fawns. Heavy political pressure was brought upon the DNR by Automobile Insurance Companies due to the large number of deer/car accidents and increased crop damage complaints also contributed.

The second factor is the result of an ever increasing number of archery hunters who may take deer of either sex and consequently harvest many more does than bucks.

The third reason is due to the economy. Any time a large percentage of the labor force is unemployed, especially in small towns and rural areas, increased poaching is sure to result. These poachers, for the most part, could care less about the sex of the meat on the table, therefore even more females are taken.

It is not my place to condemn nor condone any of these actions. I would just like to point out the facts and urge all hunters to be as selective as possible when harvesting this years venison.

Hunting, this coming season, is going to be a little tougher also, due to the fact that we are going to see much more standing corn during the early part of the season. Due to the wet spring much corn was planted late. And the extremely dry summer resulted in some awfully poor fields which will not be picked nor will be pastured. The mild fall and late frosts have resulted in some of this crop maturing but the harvest is going to be late.

I am quite frankly surprised at the number of nuts, acorns and other wild mast crops considering the dry summer. In most areas these wildlife feeds are excellent.

Our deer herds are a renewable resource and must be properly harvested in order to preserve a continuing crop of healthy well fed animals. I would just like to make you aware that the breeding stock is down in numbers and caution you to hunt accordingly.

Thanks, Jack
