It's official; Lowell McDonalds now under construction

With a giant spatula as a spade, Al Symons, the owner of Lowell's new McDonald's Restaurant and several dignitaries from McDonalds Corporation and the City of Lowell officially broke ground at the building site last Thursday. The real excavators got to work Monday morning, and Symons estimated that the first burgers will come off the grill in mid-June.

Symons owns the franchises of five other McDonalds on Grand Rapids' south side. His restaurants include four locations on 28th Street and one in Cutlerville. No new-comer to the McDonalds chain, Symons bought the first Grand Rapids franchise 26 years ago. Many will remember the red and white building across from Roger's Plaza on 28th Street where hamburgers were just 15 cents and fries were a dime. Symons recalls that his first franchise was only the 47th in the nation, now there are 6,000 to 7,000.

Symons said that the Lowell Restaurant will employ from 60 to 70 people, both full and part time. Many housewives with school age children are employed to work hours during the day when their children are in school. High school students are often hired to work evenings, weekends and summers. Those wishing to apply should contact the manager at any of Al Symons' franchises, Cascade and Woodland are the closest. Apply in person and try to avoid lunch and evening rush periods. All the initial employees will be hired in advance of the opening in Lowell, and will be given about a month of on the job training at another location.

Capitol Column

Senator Dick Posthumus

Someone once said there are only two things which are certain in life -- death and taxes. In Michigan, however, it seems the tax and spenders in Lansing want to combine the two -- and tax you to death.

The size and cost of state government should be reduced by returning the budget surpluses which are now being created by the excessive Blanchard "38" percent tax increase to Michigan taxpayers in the form of a tax rollback.

A Republican-sponsored tax cut, which would reduce the current 6.1 percent income tax rate to 5.35 percent on July 1 of this year and to 4.6 percent on July 1, 1985 was passed in the Senate and sent to the House. This measure would save Michigan taxpayers more than three-quarters of a billion dollars over the next three years.

However, the House, led by the tax and spenders in Lansing, rejected the Senate-passed version during a rare, "dark of night" Sunday session. Instead, the House adopted a $130 million tax rollback measure that would reduce the tax rate to 5.35 percent on October 1 -- period. They said this is the most the state can afford to give back to the taxpayers.

I firmly believe that a down payment on a tax cut, which the working men and women of this state deserve and which Michigan can afford, should begin in the current fiscal year which ends September 30. That is why I will continue to push for a tax rollback to 5.35 percent on July 1. It is reasonable, responsible and attainable. And I would hope that those legislators in the House who want to keep the taxpayer's money will "see the light."

Budget surplus estimates for this fiscal year are already being projected at over $230 million. State revenue figures are continuing to improve; and a July 1 tax rollback to 5.35 percent would cost the state only $130 million. The early tax rollback could take place, the state could still deposit some $350 million in the "rainy day" fund and no cuts would need to be made in state programs or services.

Because of the sharp differences between the House and Senate over the time and amount of a tax rollback, the Senate has postponed further action on a tax cut until April 17. This will give the Blanchard administration and Democratic legislators an opportunity to take a close look at the new revenue projections

Attention to home appliances can help you save energy and dollars. Repair or replace faulty appliances that waste energy. Use small kitchen appliances, rather than your stove, to prepare small meals. Fondue cookers, popcorn poppers, bean pots, electric grills and skillets, etc. usually require less energy than your stove when you use them correctly. Keep these portable appliances out of drafts which can reduce their efficiency. Be sure to turn off your appliances as soon as you stop using them. Buy solid state TV's, radios and stereos whenever possible; They require less energy than conventional sets. These few simple measures can help you cut down on your energy consumption considerably.

Lowell Light & Power

"Owned By The People Of Lowell"

On two occasions in the past few weeks, I've occupied this space with complaints about problems I'm having with the equipment in my life. First it was the typesetting computer at the Ledger, then it was my pile-up on 28th Street which crumpled my car and resulted in personal injuries to a typewriter in the back seat. That's just the tip of the iceberg folks . . .

My troubles started about six weeks ago when the computerized typesetter at the Ledger decided to develop an intermittent malfunction. Typically, it will run just fine for two to four hours, and then decides it wants a break. Anywhere from one to four hours later it figures it's time to go back to work. Meanwhile everyone sits around developing ulcers wondering if this is the time that it's gone down for the count.

We have trouble-shot the problem down to a specific board in the computer, and that's about as far as we can go toward repairing it locally. Now I have two choices; I can send the board to New York for repairs, during which time the Ledger is out of business (not a bad idea), or I can buy a new board for $1,492.00. Currently I am working on finding a service technician who will bend company rules, and loan me a board from his repair kit while mine is in New York. That is Excedrin headache number one.

About three weeks ago Terese was on her way home from Grand Rapids on icy roads, lost control of the car, and cozied up to a guardrail. She was only going about thirty miles per hour because of the road conditions, but that was fast enough to cause almost $1,300.00 worth of damage. Since much of the car was going to be bumped and painted, I decided that it would be a good investment to have the small rust spots and dents repaired and repaint the entire car for the extra $300.00, that plus $250.00 deductible and there's Excedrin headache number two.

I think insurance will probably cover all the expenses in my fender bender, I hope so because the estimates are around $500.00. Now I'm worrying that my insurance rates will go up. Excedrin headache number three.

I called on my sick typewriter that was injured further in the accident. The serviceman had looked at it that morning, and said quote, "that thing's really got problems." Excedrin headache number four.

I came back from lunch Thursday to find out that a variable transformer on our big offset press had shorted out and fried. Most of my time since then has been spent in a search for a replacement part. We think we have found something that will work for us, but it's in Connecticut. The part is $300.00. Who knows what the freight and installation will be? Start figuring in the down time and the over time it's going to take to catch up again, and there's Excedrin headache number five.

Terese picked me up for lunch last Friday. When we left the restaurant her car wouldn't start. I took it to the shop that afternoon, a new battery, a couple of replacement parts for another small problem, oil change, filter, lube and labor totalled $140.00. Excedrin headache number 6.

Anybody know a good auctioneer?

Letters

Dear Editor
I would like to take this opportunity to say that I agree wholeheartedly with the "Letter To The Editor" in the April 4th Edition of the Grand Valley Ledger, from the Lowell Showboat Garden Club, regarding Recreation Park. They have stated the facts as they are and furthermore offered some worthwhile suggestions.
Let's spruce up the old ball park and river bank. This area located on two rivers (Flat and Grand) would be the envy of any city for Recreational purposes, and not pushed aside for a less than attractive industry in the Center of the City.
It is too bad that Michigan Wire was allowed to encroach on City Property as they have done.
Sincerely

petition drive to reinstate Capital Punishment in Michigan for the crime of murder.
Capital Punishment deters the crime of murder. The many significant studies in support of this proposition are compelling, and including the support of the United States Supreme court on this specific point.
Even if it could be demonstrated that Capital Punishment does not deter murder, there would still be a need for the death penalty for the particular crime on the basis that justice demands it. Basically, it is a punishment that fits the crime. So highly do we value life, the inherent message with Capital Punishment is that we will not tolerate those who callously kill. It is time that we put a premium on the victim's life in Michigan.
I invite anyone who supports Capital Punishment, as I do, to help me circulate petitions to place this question on the ballot before the Michigan public. If you would like to become a petition circulator, please write me at 1200 North Telegraph Road, Pontiac, Michigan 48053.
Very truly yours,

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

by Pauline E. Spray

Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints (Psalm 116:15).
Spring has a way of sneaking up on us. Suddenly the trees are in full dress. Yesterday they were bare; today they are greened in luxuriant emerald. Yesterday we were getting up in the dark and going to bed long after the sun set; today the sun was up and shining when we awoke and will barely be down when we're ready to retire. The wind was frigid yesterday, and today the breeze blows warm from the south. Almost overnight the dull, drab earth has become spotted with the brilliant hues of crocuses and daffodils and spring has surprised us with its sudden beauty.
How quickly the seasons come and go! How quickly life's drama is played! Only yesterday we were children. Today our children are adults. As we count the intervening years, we realize how short life's span really is. We are here today and gone tomorrow. Time waits for no one.
Death is something we do not like to talk about. Yet, to the Christian it holds glorious promise. For "eternal springtime" with all its beauty waits just around the corner to surprise us with its glorious realities.
Prayer: O God, life is wonderful, but it is fleeting. Heaven will be glorious, and it will go on forever. With Thee I shall triumph even in death. Amen.
I fear no foe, with Thee at hand to bless;
Ills have no weight, and tears no bitterness.
Where is death's sting?
Where, grave, thy victory?
I triumph still, if Thou abide with me.
HENRY FRACIS LYTE

In the last few days I have read in the newspaper about the beating death of a four year old child; a Bloomfield Township (Oakland County) father who was shot in cold blood by two robbers as his family looked on in horror; two sons who went to visit their elderly mother in Detroit and were robbed and murdered in her driveway; nine homicides this past week-end in Detroit, Michigan's largest city once again awarded the dubious distinction of "Murder Capital."
Tragically, the criminal justice system is breaking down. Violent crime is epidemic. It is not only necessary, but timely for me to announce my second

Krause at the House

VICTOR C. KRAUSE • STATE REPRESENTATIVE • NINETIETH DISTRICT

Legislation giving workers the "right to know" about chemicals they handle so exceeds tight federal safety standards that protect against contamination that it would have "a drastically negative impact on jobs in Michigan," State Rep. Victor C. Krause (R-Rockford) said Thursday.

The legislation, which passed the house after two days of debate is estimated to cost employers $2 million.

"This price tag must be paid by every employer in the state, even those whose work place has no appreciable contamination threat," Krause said. "And the cost to the state, which is both an employer and regulator which must oversee the implementation of this bill, hasn't even been addressed."

"I believe that the safety of workers handling hazardous chemicals is a prime concern. But a Senate bill that would adopt federal regulations would assure safety in the work place at less than a quarter of the cost."

Krause said he voted to delay the bill so a bipartisan group of House members could begin a new round of negotiations on the measure. Discussions on the bill broke down last week after Republicans conceded three major issues to labor.

"We were willing to require all employers in Michigan, both private and public to come under the law to give workers the right to refuse work if a chemical label was missing, for instance, and a worker fear contamination; and to allow anyone information about any hazardous substance simply by asked the Department of Public Health.

"In return for these concessions, we asking the Democrats to support the federal regulations. They refused and broke off the meetings. Frankly, I don't think they negotiated in good faith, despite our best efforts to rid the issue of any partisan political implications."

Krause said he was also disturbed that attempts to weigh the fiscal implications and the impact the bill would have on business were not considered.

"We tried to send the bill to the House Appropriations Committee to see just how much it would actually cost the state and we requested information from the Commerce Department on how this would affect our efforts to bring jobs to Michigan. We didn't succeed in either attempt."

The federal regulations, Krause said, address every concern raised by advocates of right to know.

"The bill approved in the House may indeed protect our workers from chemical contamination," Krause continued, "but it cannot protect them from the very real threat that employers, tired of cost over-regulation, may leave Michigan and take permanent jobs with them."

"I would never have voted against the bill unless I were absolutely convinced that the alternative -- federal regulations -- would adequately protect the health, safety and lives, as well as the jobs, Michigan workers."

'OUTDOORS' with Jack Friesner

Water contamination, by pollution, is a subject which has appeared in this column entirely too often. I hate to dwell so heavily on one topic but it seems that various aspects of the problem keep arising which I feel the public should be made aware of.

Ground water contamination has recently been discovered in several wells within this area. This pollution is in the form of high concentrations of nitrates, well in excess of levels considered safe for consumption. Water purity checks conducted by the Dept. of Public Health are primarily for bacteriological contamination and do not include checks for nitrates so the problem could be much wider spread than is realized. Shallow wells of less than fifty feet at where most of the nitrate contamination has been noted, however, wells, regardless of depth, should be suspected until tested.

There are several medical symptoms which depict heavy consumption of nitrates however I am neither well read enough or qualified to divulge these. I do know that they are especially noticeable in children and if you are concerned please contact your physician.

Filtration units are available which will neutralize this nitrate contamination to an acceptable level for consumption. The best news is that installation of these units cost approx. $800, plus a $10 per year upkeep.

The suspected culprit of this contamination is believed to be primarily from the heavy use of high nitrogen content fertilizers.

The farming community has been forced, by economic pressures to provide ever increasing quantities of food, at steadily decreasing prices, for many years. These requirements have forced them to abandon organic farming in order to make a living. They have reverted, almost exclusively, to chemical farming and the ever increasing use of herbicides, pesticides and chemical fertilization. In turn the heavy use of these compounded chemicals has destroyed the earthworms, insects and compost which provided for soil aeration and organic fertilization. This prompted the use of even more chemical fertilizers in order to produce a saleable and profitable crop. It is not too difficult to see where this snowballing effect has taken us. Our soils are now saturated with nitrates, herbicides which prevent vegetation growth, and pesticides which destroy insect, animal, and eventually, human life.

These chemical contaminants are now reaching our shallower underground water supplies. In a relative short period of time they will reach, and contaminate, all subterranean waters. Even if the use of all chemicals were terminated today, contamination would continue to increase for decades and there is virtually no way that it will ever be slowed, let alone halted. This is the prime reason that I have made past statements, to the effect that in less than 100 years, drinking water will be more expensive than all other life sustaining requirements combined.

THE CALLING SERVICE THAT'S BEST FOR YOU? JUST PUT YOUR FINGER ON IT.

That's right. You can still put your finger on the calling service you need or want just as easily as before, even though many changes have taken place in the communications industry. Michigan Bell continues to make a wide range of calling services and plans available to you.

A glance at the service options listed below will help you determine if you now have the service and calling plans that best fit your individual needs and budget. As always, reliable Michigan Bell telephone service comes with whatever option you select.

Local Service Options:
Measured Service* - allows up to 50 local calls per month for a small monthly charge. Calls above that limit would be billed to you on a per call basis. If you place few local calls per day, Measured Service could be the most economical choice for you.
Flat Rate Service - gives you unlimited local calls for a single monthly charge. Frequent telephone users may benefit from this service.
 *Not available in all areas.

Long Distance Options:
Circle Calling - gives you a 30% discount on direct-dialed long distance calls placed within a 30-mile radius within your LATA* except calls placed from 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday. The discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.
Budget Toll Dialing - provides a 30% discount on long distance calls anywhere within your LATA between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. Sunday evening through Friday morning and from 5 p.m. Friday through 5 p.m. Sunday. Like Circle Calling, the Budget Toll Dialing discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

Custom Calling Services:
Call Waiting - when you're on the phone, the Call Waiting signal alerts you someone else is calling. You can alternate conversation between both parties.

Call Forwarding - lets you program your phone so that incoming calls are automatically forwarded to any other telephone you desire.
Speed Calling - allows you to program your phone to dial up to eight or 30 frequently called numbers with simple one- or two-digit entries.

Three-Way Calling - lets you add a third party to a two-party conversation, instead of making separate calls.
 (Custom Calling Services are not currently available in all calling areas.)

Dialing Options:
 Through Michigan Bell, you have a choice of Rotary Service or Touch-Tone Service.

Rotary Service is pulse dialing. With this service, you need a pulse dialing phone with either a rotary dial or a push-button dial.

Touch-Tone Service is tone dialing. It is the most modern form of dialing. With Touch-Tone Service, you can use either tone dialing or pulse dialing telephones. However, to get the benefits of Touch-Tone Service (such as fast, accurate dialing), be sure to use a push-button phone made for tone dialing, which you can also use to access certain long distance and at-home banking services.

(Touch-Tone Service is not available in all areas.)

Disabled Customer Services:
Special Services and Equipment for disabled customers are available through the Michigan Bell Telecommunications Center for Disabled Customers. Voice customers call 1 800 482-8254. Telecommunications Devices for the Deaf (TDD) customers call 1 800 482-3141. Customers are welcome to visit the Center at 26200 Greenfield, Room 45, Oak Park, Michigan 48237.

We hope this information is useful to you and that you will make the most of whatever Michigan Bell services are right for you.

IT'S AT&T WE'VE SEPARATED FROM... NOT YOU.

Facts down the line. We suggest that you watch for further informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company.

GVSC sponsors calculator contest

Nearly 300 students from 28 area schools are expected to compete in the sixth annual Calculator Contest sponsored by the Mathematics and Computer Science Department of Grand Valley State College. The contest is open to all area junior high and

The proverbial ounce of prevention should also be applied to homes and offices. Indoor air pollutants can be potentially harmful to health.

The principal pollutants include carbon monoxide (CO), nitrogen dioxide (NO<sub>2</sub>), and hydrocarbons from stoves and fuel-burning appliances; formaldehyde from paneling and insulation products; radon from uranium-bearing rock and soil; asbestos, principally from construction materials and toxins from a wide range of household products. Even certain office machines emit pollutants to indoor air.

senior high school students and will be held at Grand Valley State on Friday, April 13. Both Lowell High School and Lowell Middle School are competing.

The contest emphasizes mathematical skills and knowledge. Participants will be required to solve problems which include mathematics applications facilitated by the use of a calculator as well as problems that require insight into the nature of numbers, computations, and the limitations of calculators.

Students will be divided into three categories based on their grade levels with the higher grades using calculators capable of more complex operations. Contestants must supply their own calculators. Prizes will be awarded to three students with the highest scores in each of the three categories.

For more information, interested parties should contact Professor Ted Sundstrom, contest coordinator, at 895-3429 or 895-3362.

The level of these pollutants has increased as a result of the drive to reduce heating fuel use in homes and offices. Glazed windows, full insulation, caulked seams and other energy conservation measures have reduced outdoor ventilation. This allows gases to accumulate.

The pollutants are difficult to monitor, develop average exposures and standards for, and regulate. While many of these pollutants have been found to be harmful, we still don't know how much exposure it takes to cause disease. Several studies have found, however, that CO and NO<sub>2</sub> levels in some homes exceed the Clean Air Act's limit for outdoor exposure. Rising fuel prices have kindled many a home owner's interest in kerosene and wood stoves. Both are primary sources of residential hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide.

Other potential health hazards occur in homes paneled and insulated with formaldehyde-bearing products, which emit irritants to the lungs and sensitizers. Harmful levels of radon, a naturally occurring radioactive gas emitted by some masonry building products and by soils under basements, are found in some poorly ventilated houses.

Asbestos presents a danger in homes whose owners may be unaware of the great variety of materials that sometimes carry the fibrous substance, including steam pipe insulation, ceiling and floor tile, linoleum, plaster, spackling compound, and other building materials. Many homes also contain aerosols, solvents, pesticides and other products with harmful chemical ingredients. Home artists and hobbyists, in particular, are at risk.

Few of these pollutants are regulated for emissions in homes since most environmental laws were written before the problem had been clearly defined. Some regulations, like the Consumer Products Safety Act, provide some basis for limited action.

In Berkeley, Cambridge and Chicago, and at the United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA), several studies are underway to examine "all aspects of indoor air quality". However there is little likelihood that Congress or the USEPA will soon undertake any comprehensive initiative at reducing or regulating indoor pollutants.

Homeowners can take their own precautions by ensuring that their homes are properly ventilated, choosing safe alternatives to potentially harmful products, and retrofitting stoves and other appliances with available improvements that reduce their emissions. Seek the advice of professionals because indoor pollutants can require technical expertise and equipment to control.

For further information about indoor air pollutants, call the American Lung Association of Michigan toll free at 1-800-292-5979, or write ALAM, 403 Seymour Avenue, Lansing, Michigan 48914.

PERSONALIZED - Playing cards. Single or double deck. Grand Valley Ledger, 897-9261.

PLAYING PORTABLE KEYBOARDS - The family that plays together stays together? Right! Many families find that sharing musical moments can bring everyone a little bit closer. Thanks to new portable instruments, such as electronic keyboards, instant musical achievement is possible for family members of all ages. Even if you've never touched a keyboard before, you can immediately create music as a one-man or woman orchestra on today's technologically advanced portable keyboards. Some feature specially designed "Playcards" containing full musical orchestration. All have fine tonal quality that makes them delightful to listen to and fun to play. What's more, they're extremely affordable.

One such keyboard that can be ideal for beginning musicians, from the little ones to Grandpa, is the PC-100 CardReader keyboard from Yamaha, one of the oldest and largest manufacturers of musical instruments in the world. This lightweight portable instrument has a computer that reads data from computer Playcards. Dancing melody lamps light up on the CardReader to show the player which keys to play, and the accompaniment follows the player's speed so that even a beginner can enjoy playing a melody correctly. The PlayCard library of songs includes current popular hits, classics, old standards, Latin, show tunes and many more.

The PortaSound models have 37- and 44-note keyboards and can recreate the sound of up to ten musical instruments. Each portable keyboard is polyphonic, capable of playing up to eight notes at a time.

For more advanced musicians, there are the PortaTone keyboard models, featuring 49 full-sized keys with up to 32 instrument voices and a wide variety of rhythms. Auto arpeggio, single finger chord and a polyphonic system, tonal versatility, self-contained speakers, outstanding stereo sound are all included. On all keyboards, volume is adjustable and the keyboards can be connected to stereo headphones if you wish.

LEDGER DEADLINE - To help us meet our deadlines, please take note of the following guidelines for submitted material, including pictures.

All news copy should be in the Ledger office by 5 p.m. on Mondays. The material should be type-written or written legibly. Either way, we ask that you provide space between the lines to make room for possible editing.

Wedding stories should be submitted within six weeks after the ceremony. We prefer black and white photos. Color photos, because they don't reproduce as well, will be accepted only if they are of exceptional quality.

The deadline for classified ads (want ads) is Monday at 5 p.m. Display advertising deadline is also Monday at 5 p.m.

The Ledger is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, closed Thursday afternoons. A story can be submitted after hours through the mail slot in our front door.

MAKING LIFE MORE FUN - Portable electronic keyboards are easy to play. With some, special Playcards show you which keys to press.

Krause seeks re-election

90th District State Representative Victor C. Krause (R-Rockford) announced today that he will seek re-election to the Michigan House of Representatives.

The first term lawmaker had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the 5th Congressional District seat being vacated by retiring Rep. Harold Sawyer.

Krause, the leading advocate of the Part-Time Legislature movement and a key member of a House panel studying health care cost containment, said taxpayers have shown through recall movements that they are tired of the growing costs of state government. He said their continued frustration will be the biggest campaign issue in 1984.

"I intend to continue to speak out against subsidizing the rising costs of state government through tax dollars," Krause said. "My conservative philosophy and my voting record demonstrate my commitment to scaling down the bureaucracy that the legislature has created."

"The next two years will be critical in determining the future of this state," Krause said. "More than ever, state government, private industry and Michigan's educational system need to make the best use of our resources. I pledge that this will remain the first item on my agenda as long as I am serving in the Legislature."
