Weather dampens WCUZ/Budweiser weekend

Mother Nature cost the Lowell Showboat somewhere in the neighborhood of $10,000 during the WCUZ/Budweiser Showboat Benefit weekend according to WCUZ's Public Relations Manager Kevin Reynolds.

Storm warnings, rain and cold forced the Gary Morris concert to be moved into the Lowell High School gym Friday night and caused the cancellation of two scheduled Showboat rides and ten softball games in the 28 team tournament. The concert was standing room only with about 2,300 people in attendance, but increased revenue, possibly $6,000, was lost due to the limited seating in the gym. "People were being turned away at the door that at $6.00 a head added up to a lot of lost revenue", Reynolds said.

With the forecast for Saturday looking pretty dismal and the logistical problems involved moving all the electronic equipment back to the Amphitheatre, a decision was made to hold all of Saturday's activities at the gym as well. With all these functions taking place at the gym it was decided that the seven scheduled Showboat rides on Saturday be scratched since it was doubtful that there would be even enough revenue to overcome the $930 insurance cost of running the boat. With all the events taking place on school property all the proceeds from beer sales were also lost, since alcoholic beverages are prohibited there.

"We're waiting for concession stand revenues to come in, but an early guess at funds raised for Showboat is about $1,500 to $2,000", Reynolds said. Last year the same event raised over $12,000 and was a tremendous help in reducing the Showboat's debt which stood at over $45,000 before the 1983 decision to cancel shows until the debt is paid. The showboat's debt now stands at about $12,500, and it was hoped that the WCUZ/Budweiser Weekend would put things back in the black.

All in all, the weekend activities went fairly well considering the weather problems. The softball tournament was completed despite the postponement of several games. The parade came off well Saturday, which turned out to be a much nicer day than the weathermen had predicted. The Wrangler Country Showdown drew good crowds and many of the food concessions did fairly well operating in the school's cafeteria. It was the limited seating for the Gary Morris concert, the lost beer revenues and the scratching of the Showboat Rides that really affected the bottom line.

Winners of the 28 team softball tournament were Roger Brower Construction of Wayland, first; Lowell Lanes, second; Stahl's of Grand Rapids, third and Lowell Beer Store, fourth. Most of Friday night's games were postponed which pushed the tournament over into Sunday.

Chamber of Commerce elects new officers

The Lowell Area Chamber of Commerce held the third and final of its scheduled re-organizational meetings last Thursday evening. Despite the no-show of the scheduled speaker from the State Department of Commerce the group went ahead and conducted an informal meeting. The election of officers was completed. The Chamber's charter calls for a nine member board with a president being selected from their ranks. Elected were Dr. Fritz Esch, Lowell Area Schools; Henry VanderVennen, Vennen Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouth, Inc.; Gerald Patton, Patton-J.R.B. Agency; John Curtis, Curtis Cleaners and Heritage Meat Market; Jim Doyle, King Milling Co.; Jim Maatman, Modern Photographics; Bob Pfaller, Pfaller's Riverfront Clothing; Duane Lambert, Lambert's Variety and Chuck Myers, State Savings Bank.

Jim Maatman announced that the downtown grant program for storefront renovation is now available to businesses. The grants are for 25% of cosmetic exterior improvements up to $1,500 maximum. The grants are available to any business between Amity and Jackson Streets. The city engineers have drawn suggested color schemes and minor improvements on the buildings in the central business district, and these drawings are on display at the Rivertown Mall.

130 Seniors enjoy their 'Senior Cruise'

About 130 of Lowell High School's 162 seniors spent last Friday evening at an all-night mystery party. The event was designed to "set the kids off with a real positive atmosphere at the end of the year", said High School Principal Richard Korb. The party was in celebration of the seniors' last day of classes, and was designed to eliminate the worry of the drugs and alcohol that often cloud senior parties.

The seniors boarded buses at 5:30 P.M. at the high school and began their evening with a candlelight dinner at the Crossbow on Bostwick Lake. From there the party moved to dancing and Las Vegas style games at the Casino Club of Grand Rapids at 3260 Salerno Dr., N.E. The party finished with free bowling and breakfast at Lowell Lanes. There were several prizes given to lucky winners, many of which were fairly expensive items such as stereos and luggage.

The affair was coordinated by Sally Johnson at a cost of $2,600. Parents were asked for $25.00 voluntary contributions, and the remainder was raised by community organizations. A few rules were set down for the seniors to follow; no alcohol or drugs, their cars had to remain parked at the high school and if students left the party they couldn't return.

cozy corner

By Roger Brown

Even though the summer equinox is a good three weeks off, and despite the fact that our temperatures are less than balmy, I still say it's summertime when the Memorial Day Weekend is behind us. I don't care if my legs were more blue than tan while sailing this past weekend, it's summer and that's all there is to it.

One sure sign that summer is upon us is the emergence of Frisbees, and there is no one in the world who gets more excited about playing Frisbee than Thor. Yup, this is another column about Thor the Wonder Dog. The old boy will be eleven years old this summer, and in dog years that's a whopping 77. That still doesn't stop him from putting about 150% into his Frisbee playing. He may not catch as many on the fly as he used to, but he's still pretty impressive.

Sunday was a less than desirable sailing day, so a lot of sailors on Silver Lake spent a good deal of the afternoon huddled behind a sand dune on the beach trying to stay out of that cold north wind. We nearly froze to death every time the sun went under a cloud. Thor was there with his Frisbee, absolutely delighted to have about a dozen half-frozen sailors to throw the Frisbee for him. A real captive audience.

Over the years he has developed several techniques for getting people to throw his Frisbee for him. One of the simplest is dropping the Frisbee at your feet and then clawing at your bare ankles. If that doesn't get your attention, he rams the edge of the Frisbee into your shins. Sometimes he resorts to barking at you, and at one point Sunday he got so mad at me because I wouldn't throw it for him that he actually bit me on the ankle. He didn't draw blood or anything, but he did nip me hard enough to let me know that he meant business.

Throughout the course of the afternoon I'll bet he chased that Frisbee 200 times. Finally, after about two solid hours of chasing his Frisbee down the beach, up a sand dune or out into the lake, his eleven years caught up to him. He virtually collapsed in front of us, and the longer he lay there, the more it looked like he might never get up. I've never seen him so whipped.

If you have read any of these stories about Thor in the past, you know that he is a big strapping, over active male yellow Labrador Retriever. He won't ever hold still for anything that you might want him to do, like being brushed, getting a bath, etc. Knowing the way he is, I couldn't believe it when people started covering him with sand, and he didn't move. Normally he would have taken off before the first paw was covered, but he was so tired he just laid there and took it.

Before long he was completely covered except for his head, and he was so totally shot that we could have covered that too. He just moaned a lot. Sunday night he just laid around and moaned a lot. Monday was more of the same, and here it is Tuesday morning, and he's still just lying here by me flaked right out and moaning every so often. I would say he may have overdone his Frisbee catching by just a little.

He may be ready to chase a few by the weekend, but right now his ears don't even perk up when I say "Frisbee".

Each year, graduates face the challenge of making choices which will determine the paths their futures will take. It's a critical choice, but only one of hundreds of important choices all of us must make throughout our lives. The right to make such choices is a privilege only we who live in the free world enjoy. Most of humanity is still being told how their lives must be lived. For them, freedom of choice does not exist. We should think about that once in awhile. The right to make choices is the quintessential element of freedom — and freedom makes all the difference.

'OUTDOORS' with Jack Friesner

The Fisherpeople of Michigan have a great deal to be proud of and thankful for. Michigan has long been regarded as the finest fishing state of the Union. The primary reason for this is very simple. Michigan has almost four times more water resources than any other state in the lower 48.

Our waters consist of 11,000 inland lakes, 36,000 miles of rivers and streams, including 12,000 miles of coldwater trout streams, 40,000 square miles of Great Lake waters, an area larger than several individual states. This states' Great Lakes shoreline is longer than the entire Atlantic Coast of the United States.

There is so much water in this state that no matter where you live you will not be more than six miles from fishable waters. It is little wonder that Michigan leads all states in the ownership of boats. 699,880 boats are owned by Michiganders, compared to the second largest ownership state of Minnesota with 610,777, as of 1982.

Do we fish? You bet we do. In 1983, Michigan sold 1,335,806 licenses. This does not include persons under seventeen years of age, or spouses of licensed fishermen. Including these the total would probably reach two million, which would far exceed that of any other State.

This states' DNR plants 40 million fish annually. Michigan's Tourist industry exceeds two billion annually, and fishing is the cornerstone of this massive monetary gain to the state.

Indeed, we of this state are fortunate in having this outstanding fishery at our doorsteps. Washington State was long reputed as the Salmon Capitol of the Nation. Today Michigan's Sport Fishermen are landing nearly three times as many as Washington Anglers. Today, 1 million chinook salmon per year are coming from Michigan waters, compared to 311,000 in Washington. We take 970,000 coho salmon annually, compared to Washington's 460,000. Although the salmon populations and continued planting programs are highly controversial, all must agree, this DNR program has certainly been a huge success.

Here, in this area of western Michigan, we have some of the finest fishing to be found in this great fishing state. The Grand River is an outstanding fishery for walleye, smallmouth, Northern Pike, and catfish. It is largely overlooked by most due to its coloration. The water color has no bearing on pollution or purity and the Grand is as clean or cleaner, from this aspect, than are the clear waters of Lake Michigan. The coloration is due to clay silt gained by its long course through southern Michigan's farmland. The Flat and Thornapple Rivers have long been nationally acclaimed among the top smallmouth streams of North America. We have many miles of quality brook and brown trout streams, an excellent run of salmon up the Grand and steelhead in the Spring. Big Pine Island Lake produced the state record largemouth bass and the State record tiger musky, lives in Murray Lake. Panfishing on many area Lakes is excellent.

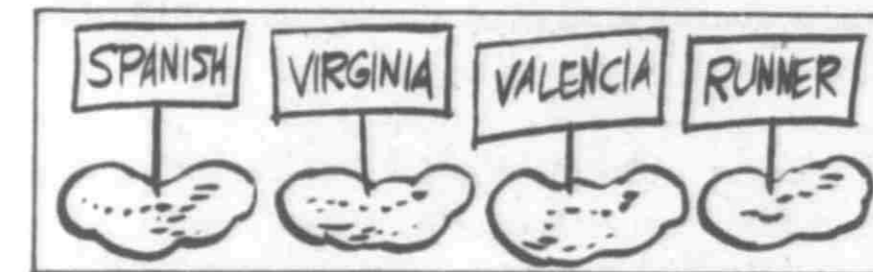

Within a very short drive we have some of the best fishing in North America. Many times I see people driving long distances to fish and they are leaving better waters than they are going to. We at "The Combination" in Lowell, are fishermen. If you desire information on how or when - Please stop by or call us at 897-6111.

LOWELL AREA SCHOOLS NOTICE PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on June 11, 1984 at 7:00 o'clock P.M. at the Lowell Board of Education Offices, 12685 Foreman Road, Lowell, Michigan, the Board of Education of Lowell Area Schools will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1984 of an additional proposed millage rate of 2.0821 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Education has the complete authority to establish that 32.1 mills be levied in 1984 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1983 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by four point five hundred seventy four (4.57378%),

The figure for increase in revenue for operating purposes is based on the latest estimate of state equalized valuation of property located within the school district. State equalized valuation will not be finalized until after the fourth Monday in May. In the event that state equalized valuation as finalized is for any reason higher than the estimate used for this hearing, the Board of Education must hold another public hearing before levying millage on any higher valuation.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Education may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

Driedger receives special YFU scholarship sponsored by Amway

Maia Driedger, daughter of Arno and Hanni Driedger of Lowell has been selected as a recipient of a special scholarship which will enable her to spend two months this summer living with a family in Japan. Maia is selected from a field of applicants competing throughout Michigan for scholarships sponsored by the Amway Corporation, manufacturer of a variety of household products and cosmetics. The program is administered by Youth for Understanding, one of the largest international high school student exchange programs in the world.

Maia, a Junior at Lowell Senior High School, was awarded the scholarship based on YFU's standard selection criteria of academic achievement, personal maturity, the quality of her responses to essay questions, personal interview, involvement in extracurricular, volunteer and/or employment activities evidenced in her written application as reviewed by YFU's independent Scholarship Selection Committee.

Maia has been a member of the tennis team, debate team, Forensics team, art club, Spanish club and ski club. In her spare time, Maia has volunteered as an instructor's aide at the YMCA swimming pool and has volunteered for the local Arts Council during festivals and plays. Maia plans a career in the health sciences field.

Maia will be one of more than 1,200 American YFU students who will depart in June to spend two months living with specially-selected host families. YFU offers a host family living experience in countries located in Europe, the Far East and South America. The purpose of the homestay experience is to encourage a deeper appreciation and comprehension of world cultures through firsthand and reciprocal exposure.

Since 1951, YFU has provided these educational opportunities for young people and adults who want to learn more about other people, languages and cultures. In 1984, YFU programs will have assisted 100,000 students in making lasting international friendships, increasing personal and career options, and preparing to be future leaders. A staff of 250 and thousands of volunteers at an international center in Washington, D.C., 13 U.S. Regional Offices, and 24 National YFU organizations around the world work together towards these objectives.

Over 50 corporations, foundations and youth organizations in the U.S. and abroad participate directly in the scholarship program by providing scholarships for their employees' children or members. Many corporations and foundations provide other types of program support. YFU is also a participant in the President's International Youth Exchange Initiative created by President Ronald Reagan in 1983.

An entire family can participate with YFU by providing a home for a student from another country. Host families are of all backgrounds, the principal requirement being a capacity to provide guidance, understanding and affection.

Mayor Maatman opened the Public Hearing on the proposed 1984-85 City Budget. Manager Quada explained that it was the first of two opportunities for citizens to ask questions or comment on it.

There were no questions or comments from the audience, and the Hearing was closed at 8:04 P.M.

Council then discussed the recommendation by the Planning Commission to approve the rezoning of a parcel of property owned by Harold Ball on Kent Street, from I-1 Industrial to R-2 Residential. The lot is adjacent to property already zoned R-2 Residential, and the Planning Commission is looking at the other property in that area, as to whether it might better serve as R-2 Residential than Industrial, because of there being homes in that area, cutting back the Industrial to the property South of those properties.

IT WAS MOVED by Councilman Thompson that the parcel of property located on Kent Street owned by Harold Ball, be rezoned from I-1 Industrial to R-2 Residential, supported by Councilman Fonger.

Carried.

Council then discussed the recommendation by the Planning Commission to rezone the Lowell Granite Company property, located on East Main Street, from C-3 Commercial, to I-1 Industrial, a spin-off from the Superior Furniture Company project, to keep that block of Main Street uniform. Because of their type of operation and planned possible expansion, an Industrial designation would be more appropriate to the business.

IT WAS MOVED by Councilman Collins, supported by Councilman Thompson that the rezoning be approved from C-3 Commercial to I-1 Industrial for the Lowell Granite Company at 306 E. Main.

Carried.

The next order of business was a request by Superior Furniture Company to establish an Industrial Development District under Public Act 198 to include their property at 318 E. Main, (Block 11 except lot no. 1 of Avery's Plat.)

A discussion by Council followed with Mr. Conrad Bradshaw, representing the firm. Manager Quada stated that this hearing was to establish a District only, a separate hearing would be necessary at a later date to grant a Certificate of Exemption. He also suggested that Lowell Granite Company be included in the district at this time, rather than have to hold a separate hearing at a later date to establish another district.

IT WAS THEN MOVED by Councilman Collins that the entire Block 11 of Avery's Plat be established as an Industrial Development District under the tenets of Public Act 198 of 1974, supported by Councilman Fonger.

Carried.

Council then considered a request from Mr. James Pfaller for permission to discharge firearms inside the City limits in order to rid his property of an over abundance of Woodchucks.

Mr. Pfaller was present and stated that he had checked with the State D.N.R. on how best to get rid of them, and found that they are not a protected animal, and was told he could use a .22 calibre hollow point shell to kill them.

Manager Quada read the section of the Ordinance which would allow the procedure on a limited basis by permission of the Council.

Councilman Collins stated that he is very much against the use of guns inside the City for any reason, especially in residential neighborhoods, stating that if one person is allowed to, others will think they can also.

There seems to be a high population of Woodchucks this year, he (Collins) has them on his property. Several people in the audience spoke up saying they are also having problems with them. He suggested using "varmint bombs", products which are safer around humans, and will kill the animals when dropped into their burrows.

The other Councilmen shared his views on the dangerousness of using guns in the City, and concurred not to grant the request.

Manager Quada stated that he had received a request from King Milling Co. to set a date for a Public Hearing to vacate a portion of S. Lafayette Street, South of Main Street, and Kent Street, West of S. Monroe Street.

IT WAS MOVED by Councilman Fonger that the request to set a date for a public hearing be tabled until the second meeting in June, for more information, supported by Councilman Collins.

Carried.

Council then discussed the odyssey of a group of Grand Haven residents who have been traveling the length of the Grand River, from Jackson to Grand Haven, in a large canoe in commemoration of their 150th birthday celebration.

The following resolution was offered for adoption by Councilman Fonger, supported by Councilman Thompson.

WHEREAS, the port city of Grand Haven, located at the mouth of the Grand River in Ottawa County, Michigan, was founded November 2, 1934, and

WHEREAS, Grand Haven will celebrate its Sesquicentennial in 1984, and

WHEREAS, the history of Grand Haven is an integral part of the history of the City of Lowell in that they paralleled one another as life along Michigan's longest river evolved these 150 years.

NOW, THEREFORE, LET IT BE RESOLVED, that the City of Lowell does hereby recognize Grand Haven's Sesquicentennial and extend all best wishes to our sister community on the Grand River for a successful 150th Celebration year.

Carried.

There were no remarks from the audience.

Under the Manager's Report, Manager Quada announced that the Parks and Recreation Committee would have a presentation to make at the first meeting in June, and that all of the City's insurance needs will have to be looked at, and several new categories of insurance may have to be added.

Manager Quada also listed the Lowell businesses that are currently on P.A. 198 Certificates of Exemption:

	expiration date
King Milling Co.	12-31-88
Attwood Brass	12-31-90
C.J. Christoff & Sons	12-31-88
Michigan Wire Processing	12-31-88
Metric Mfg.	12-31-84
Curtis Laundry	12-31-84

Total current tax abatement, $1,935,400.
Total State Equalized Valuation, $35,500,000.

There were no Council remarks or reports.

Mayor Maatman stated that he has only two names of volunteers to serve on the Lowell Cable T.V. Advisory Board, and would like more names from the Council in order to make an appointment at the next regular meeting.

IT WAS THEN MOVED to adjourn at 8:35 P.M. by Councilman Collins.

Benefit Rock n' Roll Concert

Goodtime 50's - 60's Rock n' Roll Concert "is a benefit show for the Saladin Shrine Temple of Grand Rapids". The Show will be presented at the Ionia Free Fair Grandstand, Saturday, July 14, at 8:00 P.M. "as a pre-fair concert" according to Fair Manager Lionel Haskins.

It will star Fabian, Lou Christie, Tommy Roe, Johnny Tillotson, Bobby Vee, and AR and the Rockin' Richochettes in what should be a real trip down memory lane for many area residents.

Fabian Forte, now 40, burst into the music scene in the late 1950's and after reaching stardom, left music until 1970 when he started appearing in nightclubs and Las Vegas casinos.

He said, "I wasn't sure I wanted to get back into it. I wasn't sure anyone cared. So I tried a couple of major cities and the reaction was excellent." A similar situation confronted Lou Christie on his comeback. In 1962, when he was 19, he had a million selling record with "The Gypsy Cried".

Other million-selling records, including "Two Faces Have I", came along -- and he joined Dick Clark's "Cavalcade of Stars" on the road. "I'm Going Make You Mine" hit the top of the charts during the Woodstock era.

By 1974, he was out of the music business and stayed out until 1979 when he made a comeback. "He tore the house down at Madison Square Garden and brought 22,000 people to their feet." Other club dates followed. Similar career interruptions are true of other headliners. Bobby Vee had a string of top-10 records during the summer of 1960 and sold 20 million records, most of them between 1959 and 1970. He dropped out for several years. Now 40, he's back doing rock and roll revivals and festivals.

Johnny Tillotson was one of the first recording artists to cross over into both pop and country music charts in the late 50's and early 60's. "Poetry in Motion", "Heartaches by the Number", "Send Me the Pillow You Dream On", and "I'm So Lonesome I could Cry" are some of the hit records to Tillotson's credit.

Tommy Roe hit stardom with "Sheila" in 1962. That was followed by "Sweet Pea", "It's Now a Winter's Day", "Dizzy", to name a few.

"What we think the festival will provide is a real experience of pre-Beatles rock and roll," Haskins said. "These are all entertainers who make it big then. Their fans are still there. Fabian says a lot of his fans are now in the 35 to 40's age group -- and they are bringing their children to the concerts. And, not surprisingly, the youngsters really like the music too."

Tickets are available for the July Rock and Roll Festival and other 1984 Ionia Free Fair Grandstand headliners at the Free Fair office in the Activities/Administration Building on the Fairgrounds, Monday through Friday, 9:00 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. (Tel. 1-(616) 527-1310). Also the tickets are available through the West Michigan Shriners, all Believe-In-Music Stores, Wherehouse Records, Boomtown (Hastings), and Full Moon (Mt. Pleasant).

The Ionia Free Fair runs July 27 through August 5, 1984.

Get septic tanks inspected

Spring is the time of the year when homeowners are busy with housecleaning, yard work, and repairing damages caused during the winter months.

The Kent County Health Department reminds the homeowner with a septic tank sewage disposal system to not forget to have their septic tanks inspected and possibly cleaned. George Pio, Environmental Health Director of the Kent County Health Department, states that, "Homeowners often ignore their septic tank system until it fails." He advised that serious problems may be avoided by proper preventative maintenance on a regular basis.

Cleaning of the septic tank is recommended every three to four years. Regular removal of the solids, grease, and scum prevents residual waste build-up that may damage the drainage system. A listing of licensed and bonded septic tank cleaners is provided in the yellow pages of the telephone directory.

Other preventative measures homeowners may take to insure longer life from their septic systems include not utilizing the systems for disposal of materials such as cloth and plastic. Garbage grinders increase the accumulation of solids in the tank, and depending on the amount of their use, may increase the need for pumping. Water from floor drains, sump pumps, and water softeners draining into the septic system may shorten its life.

The disposal of harmful chemicals, cleaners, or pesticides into a septic system is not recommended. These toxic chemicals could find their way into the groundwater or even your drinking water, according to Pio.

Memorial Day Services around the area were soggy affairs Monday. In the above photo the Lowell High and Middle School Bands march along a rain soaked Main Street in Lowell's annual service.

Festival opens this Friday

Thousands of volunteers will have already put in countless hours preparing for the city's 15th Annual three-day Arts Festival, Festival '84, when it opens Friday, June 1.

The Opening Ceremonies will begin at 12 Noon on Calder Stage. Ceremonies will begin with "Festival", a song written for the Festival by Charles Buffham, followed by an official welcome by Dick Calkins, President of the Arts Council of Greater Grand Rapids. Camp Fire, Inc. will provide a color guard and bands will play "The Star Spangled Banner".

The bands participating are Creston High School, Union High School, Saranac High School, East Kentwood High School and Jenison High School. They will be under the direction of Leonard Falcone of Michigan State University.

Following welcoming speeches by Co-Chairs of Festival '84, Sharon Yentsch and Bill Casey, several other musical selections will be performed. Joining Sharon and Bill on stage will be Mayor Helmholdt, Richard Buth, Chair of the County Commission, and Margaret Cadler-Hayes, sister of Alexander Calder. Following Opening Ceremonies, a Birthday cake, provided by Oven Fresh to celebrate the 15th birthday of the Cadler Stable, will be distributed to the spectators.

Lowell Rotary Club donates to Junior Achievement program

THE BASICS OF STARTING A SMALL BUSINESS

Nowadays, a lot of folks are actively seeking career changes, by choice or necessity, and it may just be the ideal time to test the old American Dream of starting your own business. Unfortunately, it seems that roughly eight of every ten such ventures fail within five years... but there's no reason why yours can't be one of the 20% that will survive and prosper! It's important, though, that you base your new business activity upon the advice of lawyers and accountants, and a smart entrepreneur will also enlist the aid of the nearest field office of the Small Business Administration (SBA).

First of all, you need to establish a written business plan that outlines your objectives, your potential market, your plan for reaching that market, and your method of operating the business.

The next step, assuming that you don't have the capital necessary to implement your program yourself, is to locate financing. A commercial banker, the SBA, commercial finance institutions, small-business investment companies, and business development corporations are possible sources of loans. Friends and family members can also be helpful sometimes, but be sure the loan is made in an appropriately professional manner.

Legally, there are several ways to organize a new business. Most folks begin with a sole proprietorship, which is the least complicated form. The owner is the business in this instance, so all of the enterprise's liabilities are assumed by the individual.

Then again, you may find it necessary (or advantageous) to take a partner when you set up your new venture. A general partnership represents a relationship between two or more individuals who have joined to carry on a trade or business for profit. Each partner is fully liable for the firm's obligations, and each partner's share of the profits or losses is reported on his or her individual tax return. One primary disadvantage inherent in establishing a partnership is that you're legally responsible not only for your business actions but often for the actions of each of your partners as well!

Corporations are the "robots" of the business world. Each is a legal entity that's separate from the principal participants involved. However, because incorporation is such a detailed and expensive process, most small-time entrepreneurs avoid it until their businesses really "take off and roll".

Be sure to enlist the aid of a competent and experienced insurance broker when you begin to put together your new plans. You'll probably need coverage for areas of physical loss as well as for personal injury claims.

Most businesses require a federal identification number, a state retail sales license, a city occupational license, and perhaps a county merchant's license. A new venture operated under any name but your own must be registered with a local government agency. Certain kinds of businesses require special permits: Restaurants, hairdressing salons, auto repair shops, exterminating concerns, real estate firms, and insurance agencies are some. If you sell directly to the public, you'll generally have to charge sales tax, too. And depending on where you're planning to locate your business, zoning regulations may be another legislative consideration. Again, a good attorney will be most helpful in assisting you.

There are many tax advantages to owning your own business. Therefore you must make record-keeping an automatic part of your day-to-day existence. The correct tax form for a sole proprietorship business is Schedule C-1040, available from the Internal Revenue Service.

Advertise in the local newspaper, list your new enterprise in the Yellow Pages, hang out a sign, distribute fliers, or do whatever it takes to let people know you're the new business on the block!

DAVID MORRIS In loving memory of our grandson David Morris who would be 11 years old May 31.

When loved ones go ahead of us, it's hard to say goodbye, And in our grief and sorrow, we are tempted to ask "why", but they have found the peace and joy this world can never give.

And in God's heavenly home, it's they, not we, who truly live. Always in our hearts, Grandma & Grandpa Stevens Roswell, New Mexico

Here's how to view today's solar eclipse safely

On May 30, 1984, 70% of our sun will be hidden (eclipsed) by the moon. During the noon hour (11:13 to 2:03 DST) the moon will slowly "inch" its way across the solar disk, hiding more and more of the sun, until 12:35 (mid-eclipse) at which time the moon will slowly move away from the solar disk.

The danger here lies with the curious. A solar eclipse is interesting and should not be missed. However, preparation is required to safely view an eclipse without permanent damage to your eyes.

The Chaffee Planetarium has been working in conjunction with the National Society to Prevent Blindness, 79 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016 (NSPB) in the production of a pamphlet on safe viewing techniques (available from the above address). The NSPB reminds us of the following facts:

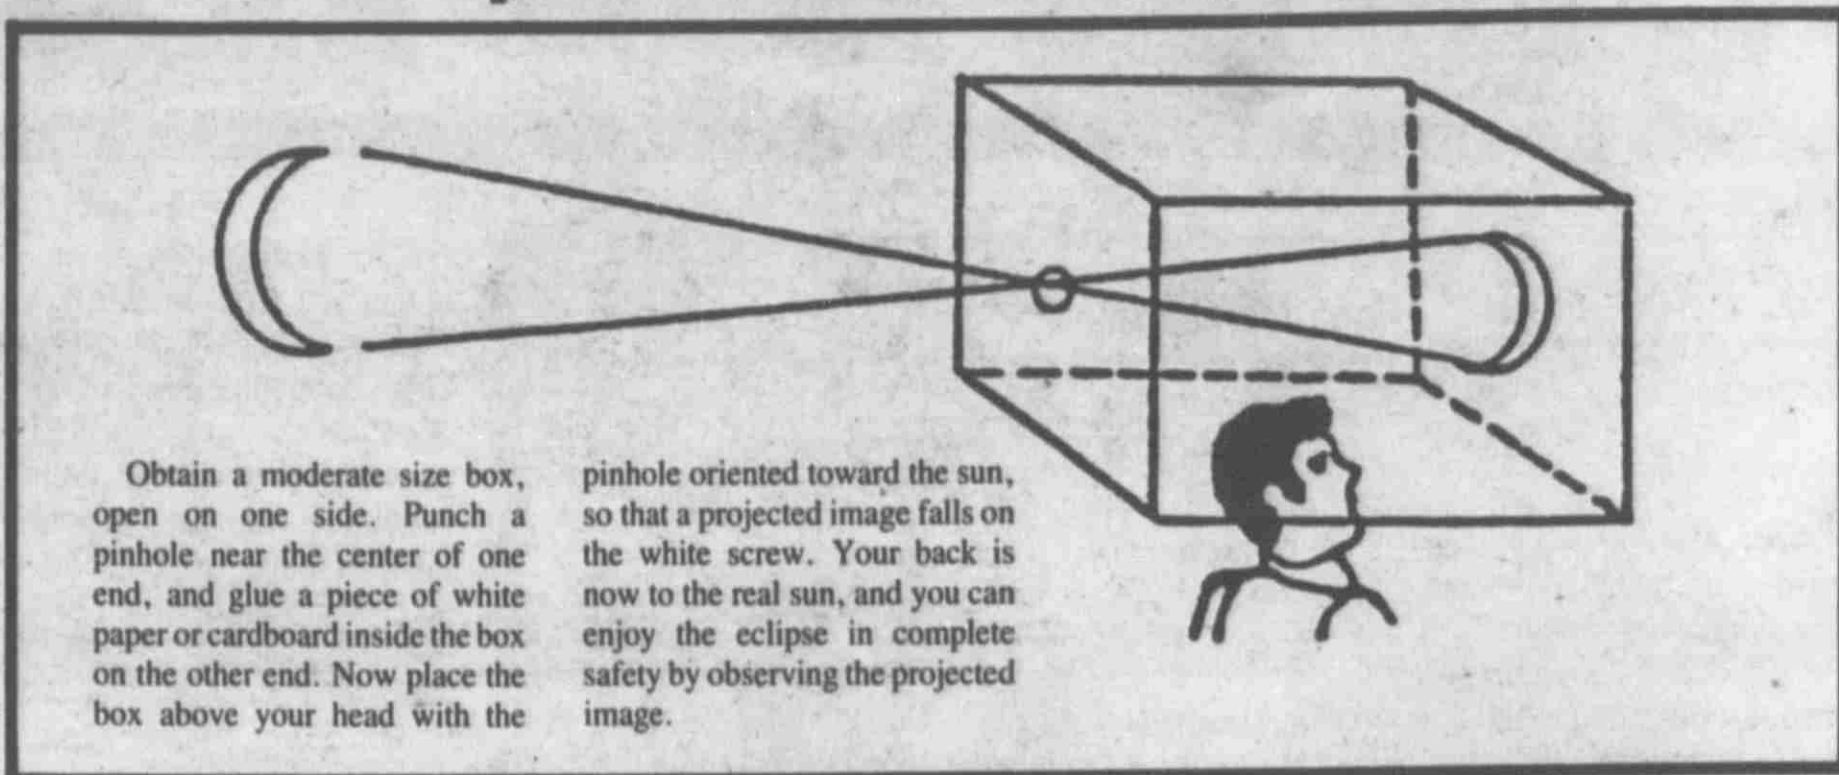

145 cases of eye injuries in the U.S. were reported after the March 1970 eclipse.

125 of these were eclipse burns.

60% of these looked directly at the sun.

The other 40% were using what they thought were safe protective devices - sunglasses, totally exposed photographic negatives, smoked glass, and welders goggles. Some of these will protect you if you know exactly what you are doing, but the point the NSPB is making (and it is a good one) is that if you don't know exactly what you are doing, DON'T do it - don't look directly at the sun.

Infra-red rays emitted by the SUN can burn the retina, causing scarring and resulting in blind spots in the victim's vision. The retina is the light-sensitive layer of nerve cells at the back of the eye that transmits images to the brain. Normally people avoid looking at the sun because it is so bright. During an eclipse the light dims while the sun still emits its invisible but burning infra-red rays. Since the retina is

Obtain a moderate size box, open on one side. Punch a pinhole near the center of one end, and glue a piece of white paper or cardboard inside the box on the other end. Now place the box above your head with the pinhole oriented toward the sun, so that a projected image falls on the white screw. Your back is now to the real sun, and you can enjoy the eclipse in complete safety by observing the projected image.

not pain-sensitive the burn will not be noticed until the damage is done.

The bottom line is this: Direct observation of the sun - partially eclipsed or not - is risky business. Know what you are doing and if you don't, you better stick to the pinhole camera method. (See diagram). Your eyes are too valuable to injure. The damage done during direct solar observation is not only irreversible, it is also painless. You won't even know it is happening - until it is too late.

Star's color may hint at further information

To early spring sky watchers, many stars in the evening skies may appear tinted with colors -- a pleasing dimension of heavenly artistry.

But there is more to these sparkling, subtle hues than meets the eye, says University of Michigan astronomy Prof. Richard G. Teske.

"The color of a star is an indication of how hot its outermost layers are," he explains. "The spectrum of color from red to orange to yellow, white and blue signals differing temperatures progressing towards higher and higher heat."

According to present theories of star longevity, the colors and temperatures of stars should remain constant for great spans of time -- much longer than recorded human history, he points out. Yet written records dating back a few thousand years -- cosmically a short time -- indicate that some of the early spring stars may have changed color.

Writers in classical Greek and even in middle Roman times referred to clearly visible spring stars such as Sirius, Capella and Pollux as "reddish" or "fiery red," Teske says, "although these stars certainly don't look that way today. Their colors now indicate much hotter temperatures."

Scientists, he adds, have considered these discrepancies, and concluded it is improbable that the old descriptions seriously challenge current theories of stellar evolution.

While no explanation accounts for the difference between statements in ancient literature and modern observations, Teske finds a suggestion offered by astronomer Robert Burnham most interesting -- that the color sensitivity of the human eye has changed or evolved over the past few thousand years. "The notion is arresting that people not too long ago might have seen a different array of star colors than we perceive today."

Using a verbal shorthand, astronomers speak of a star as being "red" if its yellow light is brighter than its blue light, Teske says. Should the opposite be found, the star is said to be "blue." A star is "white" if it is about equally bright in both wavelength regions.

The U-M astronomer points out two objects in the March and April night skies that display nearly the fullest possible range of normal star colors.

Betelgeuse is in the eastern shoulder of the constellation Orion, the mighty hunter. It is nearly as "red" as a star can be, with a temperature of only 4,500 degrees Fahrenheit, a value very low by stellar standards. Despite this, Teske notes, the star is not especially ruddy-looking to many people, but instead appears to be orange.

By contrast, Bellatrix in Orion's western shoulder, a scorching 45,000 degrees Fahrenheit, is one of the bluest objects in the sky.

Among the bright stars between this pair on the color scale are Sirius, Capella and Pollux, says Teske.

Sirius, the brightest star south east of Orion, is considered a "White" star, with a temperature of nearly 19,000 degrees Fahrenheit. To the human eye, Sirius often appears a steely blue-white.

Capella, in the constellation Auriga, and Pollux, the brighter of the twins in the constellation Gemini, are somewhat cooler than Sirius. Both have a definite yellow tinge. Look for Capella directly to the far north of Orion and for Gemini beyond Orion's upper left, Teske adds.

Star Trek memorabilia at Planetarium

From June 7 through August 26, the Chaffee Planetarium, of the Grand Rapids Public Museum will feature an exhibit on Star Trek - that popular science fiction television series that spawned three major motion pictures. Designed with the help of the Star Trek Club of Grand Rapids, the exhibit will include look alike props from the series, dolls, models, posters, Mr. Spock's Vulcan ears, uniforms and more.

The Star Trek Memorabilia Exhibit was developed in conjunction with the Planetarium's sky show "Star Trek - The Planetarium Program." This show is part of an evening double feature presentation in the Chaffee Planetarium Sky Theater and is shown Thursday through Saturday at 8 P.M.

The exhibit may be seen during regular Museum hours 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. Monday through Friday and 1 to 5 P.M. Saturday and Sunday and during evening Planetarium sky theater hours 7 to 9:30 P.M. Thursday through Saturday. The exhibit is free with Museum and/or Planetarium admission.
