R, Stanley Williams

R. Stanley Williams, his wife Cheryl and children Carrie, Kenny and Shelly have made Lowell their home for four and a half years.

A native of Marquette, Williams earned his Bachelor of Sci-, ence degree from Ferris State College where he majored in Human Services. His past community involvement has been with Lowell Area Jaycees (past president), Big Rapids City Commission membership and a community development board. Of seeking election to the Board, Williams says, "As a parent with three children in Lowell Schools, I take a personal interest in the education they are receiving. As a taxpayer, I am concerned about the fiscal responsibility of our board. I think my past experience in government can be useful as a school board member".

Diana Fulkerson

Candidate Diana Fulkerson, her husband Paul and sons Erik and Matt have resided in the Lowell area for the past five and a half years.

A native of West Michigan, Fulkerson graduated from Creston High School and Western Michigan University. There she received her Bachelor of Science degree and teacher training. Council denies foster home

Mrs. Robet Strouse approached The Lowell City Council Monday evening with a request allowing her to establish an adult foster care facility in her home at 318 Riverside Dr. The State Social Services Department grants such licenses, but there are some criteria that must be met. One criteria is that adult foster care facilities should not be closer than 1,500 feet to each other. Strouse's home is only 1,380 from Nell's Rest Home at 150 S. Hudson Street.

Of her election bid, Fulkerson states, "I see several problems in our schools which need to be addressed, for example, curriculum up-grading, continuity of programs throughout the grade levels, budget concerns and quality teaching time. A school board member should be well-informed on all important issues affecting our school system. I feel I am a qualified candidate because of my educational background and nine years of teaching experience. I have been an active member of my community and schools and look forward to serving in this new capacity".

The act allows local units of government to grant such relief for any period up to 12 years in an effort to attract business to Michigan communities, to help keep existing business and to promote industrial growth. She has also been involved with Project Plant Hope, the National Association of Social Workers, the Baxter Community Center, Trinity Lutheran Church and Kent County Juvenile Court volunteer probation and adoption work.

Of her candidacy Murphy says, "Preparing our children for the future is a critical task. I believe schools as well as parents share in this responsibility. I would welcome the opportunity to assist children in the Lowell Area Schools by providing them with an education which would enable them to meet their dreams for the future".

Currently Wayne is employed as a salesman for Lowell Auto Parts, a business he has owned for 20 years. He is also a past president of the Chamber of Commerce in Lowell.

Asked why he was running for another term, Wayne answered, "To get the best return of tax dollars invested and to make sure the children of this district have the best of what those tax dollars can afford."

I sure have felt pretty dumb on a couple of occasions in the past week or so. I know, I know . . . I should feel pretty dumb all the time. Let's just say I felt especially dumb on a couple of occasions in the past week or two.

The first instance concerned our folding machine. It's an elaborate affair that takes paper from a pile of un-folded stock, sends it down a conveyor to the folding mechanisms and delivers the stuff at the other end all folded up nice and neat at speeds up to 25,000 sheets per hour. It's kind of fun to watch when it's working right, but folders don't always work right, and this one is no exception. I'd like to have a dollar for every oath that has been emitted from our back shop because of that folder. I wouldn't have to worry about a printing business anymore, that's for sure.

We had a couple of rush jobs in the shop that required folding when the thing decided to die on us. The motor that drives the air pump on its paper feeder quit on us. I tested the 220 volt connections at the motor, and my little tester lit up when I touched one leg and ground, and it lit up again when I touched the other leg and ground.

It seemed that I had power, so I assumed the motor was indeed dead. It was a Dayton motor so I called W.W. Grainger only to find out that the seven year old model number on the motor was no longer a good number. After about a dozen trips from the phone to the folder and back to the phone to relay information to salesman about R.P.M.s. mountings, shaft size, etc., we finally settled on a replacement that would work. In a couple of hours our runner was back at the shop with the replacement. I hurriedly installed it, flipped the switch, and . . . nothing.

I checked all my connections, and finding nothing wrong I began to suspect the switch. I took a couple pieces of wire and jumped around the switch, and Presto, the motor worked. This of course meant there was nothing wrong with the other motor, and I had spent $130.00 and the better part of a day replacing a perfectly good motor. That was exceptionally dumb feeling number one.

Just this Monday I was operating one of our typesetting machines when it died on me. There is a revolving drum that carries the type fonts in the machine, and the motor that drives it quit. I took the cover off to inspect things, looking much like the stranded motorist with the hood up on his car peering into the engine compartment like he might actually know what the heck the problem is. The chances of either the motorist or me fixing our problem usually lies somewhere between fat and none.

Again figuring that the motor was at fault I put in a call to the repairman's answering machine, and started scratching my head as to how we were going to set the headlines for this week's Ledger. I was taking a last look at the sick machine when one of the back shop guys came along and asked what the problem was. After I had explained, he pushed a little safety switch, and the machine took

We decided that the cover had vibrated up enough to allow the safety switch to trip, causing the machine to stop. Then of course when I took the cover completely off it stayed tripped. I was rescued from my own stupidity before I bought another new motor, but I felt especially dumb again.

I figure I should get out of the printing business, and become an electrician. I could make a fortune selling motors. Every job I would go out on would be a potential sale. "Yup, it's your motor for sure", and I'd sell 'em a new one.

BACTERIAL VS. VIRAL INFECTIONS... WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

You've probably heard your doctor refer to either "bacterial" or "viral" infections after he or she has examined you. You've also probably had questions about what the difference between the two is and, more importantly, how these respective infections are best treated. Let's talk about bacteria first.

Basically, bacteria are microorganisms that are normally present in all parts of our bodies. Bacteria become "pathologic" or dangerous when they overgrow to the point of causing the typical Symptoms of bacterial infection: local redness, heat, swelling, pus formation, "chills", and elevated body temperature. Examples of bacterial infections are: "strep" throat, most ear infections, many pneumonias, scarlet fever, and skin boils. Bacterial infections generally respond well to antibiotics such as penicillin, erythromycin, or sulfa, depending on the location and type of bacteria being treated.

Viral infections, on the other hand, are caused by a completely different class of microorganisms, namely viruses. Viruses are universally present in our environment as are bacteria, but they tend to be passed from person to person with greater ease and with more efficiency than do their bacterial counterparts. Viral infections usu-

Wally manifest as "flu like" symptoms: muscle and joint ache, fatigue, nausea, diarrhea, and low grade temperature. Examples of viral infections are: the classic "flu" gastroenteritis or stomach flu, colds, "sinus", herpes, measles, mumps, and chicken pox. Unfortunately, viral infections do not respond to antibiotics, and therapy consists of symptomatic measures only, i.e.; increased oral fluids, aspirin, decongestants, cough syrups, etc. While it may be frustrating to hear your doctor say that you have a basically "untreatable" viral infection, rest assured that virtually all viruses are self-limiting and eventually will go away with one of the doctor's most valuable therapies, "tincture of time".

LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBOOK

Can truth be more interesting than fiction? The real stories behind the glamorous lives of Hollywood's stars of the past have often been too "hot" for studio publicity agents to handle. As a result, a lot of time and money was spent trying to create a public person which would satisfy the demands of admiring fans. The real stories behind the screen lives of some of the stars are explored in the following books now available at your Lowell Library:

BARBARA STANWYCH: A BIOGRAPHY by Al Diorio is the story of the star with a tough-as-nails reputation, hiding a life of heartbreak and hardship. In this biography, the author explores Stanwych's life beginning with her birth in Brooklyn - through her film career and up to the present. The great love of her life was Robert Taylor whom she married in 1939. Their marriage ended in a shattering divorce. There were other romances, an estrangement from her son and a reclusive retirement that rivals Garbo's.

BABY DOLL by Carroll Baker, is the autobiography of the star of "Harlow", "The Carpetbaggers" and "Baby Doll", the film which catapulted her to fame. This is the remarkable story of the triumphs and tragedies in the public as well as private life of a luminous, talented woman. From her first films through an emotional collapse and hard-earned recovery. Baker reveals special moments such as working with James Dean and Elizabeth Taylor.

McQUEEN By William Nolan, is a biography of the late actor Steve McQueen. This is the first authentic and intimate portrait of the sixties' most idolized screen tough-guy who starred in such classic action films as "Bullett", "The Great Escape" and "Papillion". Nolan takes readers behind the scenes of the actor's 28 motion pictures, his much publicized romances and marriages, and, for the first time, tells the full story of McQueen's heroic battle against lung cancer.

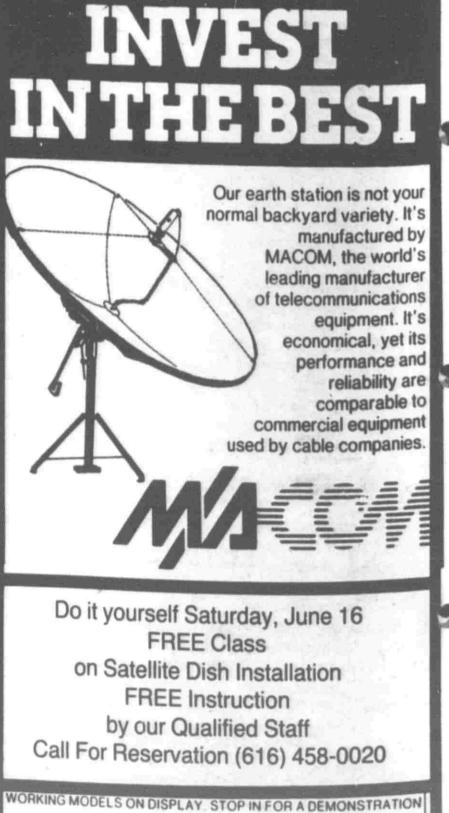

The Lowell Library, a branch of the Kent County Library System, is open from 12:30 - 5:30 Monday, Friday and Saturday; and from 12:30 to 8:30 Wednesday. Our telephone number is 897-9596.

hand at the meeting in support of Superior Furniture's request. Christoff said that he felt the City Council had been unfair in several cases during previous requests for 198 tax relief. Christoff cited varied lengths of tax relief of 6, 9 and 12 years in different cases and an outright denial of one of their requests. Christoff said that he feels the maximum 12 years should always be granted and that the council definitely needs to adopt a uniform policy for 198 and 255 requests.

Rocheleau echoed some of Christoffs feelings and added that in his opinion the City Council has been sending a negative message to the Lowell business community in past years when dealing with 198 requests. Rocheleau cited the last request from Attwood which was only granted for 6 years, and compared it with Kentwood's open arms approach to Steelcase's recent expansion. Attwood Corp. is a subsidiary of Steelcase and Rocheleau pointed out that Steelcase owns over 200 acres in

Strouse appealed to the city council to waive the requirement stating that she had already been approved by the state, and has spent $700 on new locks, handrails, etc. in preparation. Councilman Dean Collins said that the city already has too little to say about when and where adult foster care facilities are established. and he would not be in favor of relinquishing any authority that they do have.

The Council seemed to concur with Collins and did not act on Strouse's request for a variance.

Kentwood and Attwood has over 300 in Lowell suggesting that future expansion might well depend on the community's attitude toward business growth.

Following the discussion the council voted unanimously to award tax relief under P.A. 198 for a full twelve years to the proposed Superior Furniture expansion. Following the approval Lee said, We'll sign the construction contract tomorrow and start digging as soon as the D.N.R. approves our site plan". The expansion is subject to Department of Natural Resources' approval since it lies in the 100 year flood plane.

The proposed Superior Furniture Addition will be an 80' x

120' two story structure to them east of the present structures With an interior mezzanine level it will add 13,880 sq. ft. of sorely production needed and warehouse space to the firm's present 50,000 sq. ft. The new addition will immediately mean the addition of 2 to 4 employees to the Superior's current 33. Lee said that there is a good demand for their solid cherry hand crafted furniture, and some of their patterns are running 5 to 3 months behind. He said the added production and warehouse space will be a great help in speeding their delivery time.

Rocheleau, Christoff and Lee commended the council for their action.
