Both drivers injured in two car collision

A small pickup truck and a sub-compact auto collided Thursday afternoon on Flat River Dr. near Burroughs. The impact nearly ripped the truck in two and the drivers of both vehicles were taken to Blodgett Hospital in Grand Rapids. Daniel Young, 17, of 756 White's Bridge Road, Lowell was southbound on Flat River Dr. at about 4:15 P.M. when he lost control of his vehicle, skidded across the centerline and was struck by a northbound vehicle driven by Mary Postle, 35, of 7091 W. Bricker Road, Greenville. Young was ticketed for violating the basic speed law. There were no passengers in either vehicle. Emergency personnel from the Lowell Fire Department, Lowell Rescue unit, and the Kent County Sheriff's Department treated both Postle and Young for their injuries at the scene. They were then transported to Blodgett via Mercy Ambulance. Young was treated and released, Postle was treated for lacerations and released on Monday, July 2.

Fallasburg Road Run is growing

The Lowell YMCA's rejuvenated "Fallasburg Park Road Run" had a total of 84 runners in last Saturday's race, more than twice the number in last year's competition. Y Director Jim Hodges and Program Director Nancy Anderson are looking forward to even bigger and better things in years to come.

This year's event was highlighted by the entry of one of America's top ten women's roadracers Laura Albers of Grand Rapids. Albers runs professionally for Brooks Shoes, a Rockford based affiliate of Wolverine World Wide. Her boss, coach, and husband Will Albers also competed in the race. The pair travel and compete in road running events across the country promoting the Brooks line of shoes and clothing.

Results of the race are as follows:

Overall male - Mike Greehan 26:45; Will Albers 26:45

Overall female - Laura Albers 28:48.

AGE 14 & UNDER

Male: 1st - Lee Christensen 31:03; 2nd - Jason Douma 36:18; 3rd - Randy Schouten 36:03. No females participated.

America is drying up. The water supply is dwindling, demand is accelerating, and things are not going to get any better.

Suddenly, the importance of the Great Lakes is increasing. They provide 95 percent of all the surface fresh water in the United States, and serve as a source of recreation, industry and power for the Midwest. Undoubtedly, that role will increase dramatically in the coming years.

According to a U.S. - Canadian Joint Commission study, Great Lakes water consumption will increase to 16.4 billion gallons daily by the year 2035. In 1975, that rate was 3.2 billion gallons. That increase would result in a nine-inch drop in the water level, devastating shipping and hydroelectric power capability.

In addition to the increased regional use, arid Western states are eyeing the Great Lakes for future irrigation purposes. At a recent meeting in Ontario, representatives of the dry states predicted they will be negotiating for Great Lakes water by the turn of the century. There is a silver lining to this looming cloud, however. Legislation has been introduced in Washington that would order the Environmental protection Agency to study ways to protect the lakes from water raids by thirst-belt states. Also, a Midwest legislator has sponsored the $10 million Save-the-Lakes Act, which would coordinate monitoring activities of the lake. It would also address some of the major threats to the area, such as the accumulation of toxic materials in the food chain, loss of habitat and failure of the U.S. government to live up to international agreements on water quality and treatment.

It is comforting to know that the future of our most precious resource is being protected. The effort will take, however, participation by both federal and state authorities. With our combined input, we decrease the chance that our lifeblood will disappear before our very eyes, and increase the probability of a workable, profitable water resource management plan.

Europe and Asia featured in Arts Council W.O.F. program

Already underway, the 1984 version of World of Fun is an interesting and exciting program for children in grades 1 through 6. Each Wednesday morning, 9-11:30 A.M. Lowell Area Arts Council volunteers present an experience with a different foreign country, urging the youngsters to sample the culture, lifestyle, language, food and crafts of that country.

This year, the Lowell YMCA's successful Day Camp is the setting for WOF programs. Children can participate in the WOF series if they are already a part of the Day Camp with no further charge. If your child would like to participate on Wednesday mornings for WOF only, a $2 charge at the door will cover the cost of craft supplies plus snack. The program is offered at the Lowell Boy Scout Cabin at the end of North Washington Street, Lowell.

Brian Doyle and Bill Edwards took the kids to China in our first program. Hanni Driedger and Joanne Frey guided the group through Germany. Hito Akehi and Jim Hodges opened our eyes to Japan on June 27.

On July 11 Rev. Bill Amundsen will offer Christmas in Sweden. On July 18, Paula Doyle will share her knowledge of Finland. In our last program July 25, Marisa Madias will be our guide to Greece.

Co-chairmen and planners for this year's World of Fun program are Hanni Driedger and Kathie Quada.

If you've missed the first few programs, be sure to plan on the second half of our WOF tours. Your kids will be glad you did.

"This Week In Outdoor NR Michigan"

FISHING INFORMATION: Lake Michigan: Grand Haven to Muskegon - Good catches of salmon and lake trout are being taken in 150 feet of water one-third to one-half way down. Water temperatures in close to shore are now 60 degrees F plus.

Perch are now beginning to bite off the piers at Holland, Grand Haven, and Muskegon. Fair to Good catches have been reported.

Inland: Walleyes and smallmouth bass are being caught in fair numbers in the Grand River in Ionia and Kent Counties. Good catches of largemouth bass are being caught in the Grand River bays near Spring Lake and Grand Haven, Ottawa County.

Good catches of panfish are still being taken in inland lakes, but warm surface water temperatures dictate fishing a bit deeper for them. Panfish are finished with spawning for the most part.

RECREATIONAL LAND TRUST FUND: Michigan voters will have the opportunity to approve a resolution guaranteeing the autonomy of the Recreational Land Trust Fund. House Joint Resolution "M" has cleared the Legislature and will be placed on November's general election ballot. The fund will be used to purchase and develop recreational land and facilities, and protect scenic areas throughout the state.

This spring saw only $14 million in the fund, which was nearly diverted to pay for part of Michigan Youth Corps Program. Two state legislators introduced a joint House-Senate resolution prohibiting government raids on the fund. The resolution, which was approved by two-thirds of the members of the House and Senate, creates the Michigan Natural Resources Fund.

Modeled after the Kammer Trust Fund, the new fund will be generated by oil, natural gas and mineral royalties from state-owned resources. The cap will increase to $200 million, and no money may be transferred for any purpose other than that specified in the resolution. Now it is up to the voters to finish what Michigan Legislature has started, to ensure our children will have abundant wildlife to enjoy for many years to come.

KIRTLAND'S WABBLER CENSUS COMPLETED: Michigan's rare Kirtland's warbler continues to maintain its tenuous existence. The world's breeding population is 213 pairs or 426 individuals. The Kirtland's Warbler Recovery Team has set a goal of 1,000 pairs. This is the level which biologists believe the birds should achieve before they can safely be considered out of immediate danger of extinction. Management practices included commercial timber harvests, prescribed burns, and planting. Wildlife biologists point out that the amount of nesting habitat currently available is very low.

The storm has passed, but danger lingers on...

While we understand the urgency of restoring electric power to all of our consumers after a severe storm, we consider hazardous conditions created by the storm to be our first priority. That means the detection and repair of downed overhead power lines, and we need your help.

Power lines which have been snapped or pulled down as the result of a storm present a serious, even deadly danger. If you come across a downed wire, stay completely away from it. Don't touch the lines, the pole to which it is attached, or anything else in contact with the wire. Call us immediately - don't assume someone else will. We want to know about downed wires immediately so we can send our professionally trained linemen to make the needed repairs.

Take some time today to teach your children about the dangers of downed electric wires. Instruct them to tell you or another adult as soon as possible about the problem, and to warn other children away.

Never, never assume a wire is harmless. Let us make the determinations and the repairs. Together we'll continue to keep our community safe from electric accidents.

Don't put your life on the line...

Kent County Health Department and Kent County Parks Department collaborate on walking Brochure

The Kent County Health Department and the Kent County Parks Department have been working together to publish a brochure on walking. Entitled "Walk Through the Summer of '84", the brochure highlights information on walking and how to establish a personal walking program in the your neighborhood. The brochure is sponsored by Wolverine Boots and Shoes. Walking is an activity that is becoming popular. Many people walk as an easy, safe way to exercise, as a form of transportation and to establish quiet times for themselves. Walk Through the Summer of '84 lists how people can set up a walking course in their neighborhood and some of the health benefits derived from a mild exercise program. After people start walking in their neighborhood, the brochure encourages using the "Walk of the Week" as a chance to see some of the scenic spots in Kent County.

To motivate people into starting a walking program, an insert is provided for people to keep track of their progress over the next 14 weeks. At the end of the 14 weeks, a Grand Walk will take place in Lamoreaux Park on Coit Avenue Drive. The walk is September 8 and will be open to everyone who would like to participate. The event is free.

Local sporting goods stores, all city and county branch libraries and the West Michigan Tourist Association. For more information on the brochure, call the Health Department at 774-3030 or The Parks Department at 242-6968.

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

by Pauline E. Spray

Ye are the salt of the earth... (Mathew 5:13).

The Fourth of July, other holidays, and birthdays are big events to children. Our girls anticipated coming events with both joy and impatience. They marked up calendars, crossing off the days one by one, until a special date arrived. Special events make life interesting, but most of life, however, is made up of just plain living—housework, school, factory—wherein we rub elbows with our fellowmen. It's in the common walk of life that Christianity is best expressed through loving attitudes, kind thoughts, comforting words, and generous deeds. "Christianity is the good man's text; his life, the illustration."

A pinch of salt seasons the contents of the dish to which it is added; likewise, Christianity should permeate all of our daily living. It is designed for everyday use and must not be saved for special events else it will lose its savor.

Salt is important. Foods are flat and tasteless without it. Christians are important, too. They are "the salt of the earth" their lives should "improve the flavor" of their surroundings.

Prayer: Dear Jesus, keep my eyes stayed upon Thee until Thy Spirit permeates all of my living. May Thy love season all my actions, words, and thoughts. May Thy likeness be seen in me. Amen.

By looking to Jesus. Like Him thou shalt be: Thy friends in thy conduct His likeness shall see. WILLIAM D. LONGSTAFF

Tennessee Erie Ford highlights the 43rd annual Chesaning Showboat

Tennessee Erie Ford

"SHOWBOAT WEEK" makes Chesaning, Michigan the place to be for fun and excitement beginning Sunday - July 8th. Long before Tennessee Erie's first performance on Monday the 9th the entire population of Chesaning will be involved. The actual festivities kick off with a giant parade at 1:30 P.M. on Sunday. Parade Chairman Nick Kiet promises a colorful event with over eighty units. As early as 7:00 that morning the Dawn Patrol gets the week off to a flying start with a pancake and sausage breakfast at the airport west of the village. Following the parade, the Chesaning Music Boosters will offer their well-known Chicken Bar-B-Q in Showboat Park. Other events scheduled for Showboat Week include daily boat cruises on the Shiawassee River... following the route of the famous Shiawassee Queen... but giving passengers a chance to relax, enjoy old-time music, snacks and conviviality. Carriage trips around the charming Chesaning area will offer riders an opportunity to become acquainted with the historic and picturesque village background. Arts and Craft Shows provide a diversion for visitors from Sunday through Saturday of Showboat Week while the friendly citizens of Chesaning do all in their power to make guests welcome. The week's events are geared for all ages right through the six-mile Showboat Road Race on Saturday the 14th. Meanwhile, Showboat Park is preparing for the Monday night arrival of the famous Shiawassee Queen. In addition to the array of professional talent, Michigan's top amateurs have been chosen to present their best efforts on the riverside stage of the huge Showboat Park Amphitheater. Behind the scenes workers are making ready for the thousands who will be on hand to enjoy one of Michigan's most spectacular summer presentations. Singers, dancers and comics... Plus the popular Showboat Captain, Bob Rhode are putting the finishing touches on acts that are a pure delight for all who appreciate the blending of amateur and professional talent. Lyle Brooks will once again lead the talented chorus composed of vocalists from a large area surrounding the mid section of Michigan. They will also play "straightmen" to the "Fabulous Four"... the ever-humorous endmen: Jack Ware from Bay city, Jeff Murodock and Jim King from Chesaning, and Wayne Suppes of Flint. The Bohaty Dancers will contribute a fast-paced, high-stepping salute to the Showboat tradition. All will be beautifully supported by the music of Chuck Robinette and his Detroit orchestra.

Professional talent will be supplied by the most popular "Pea-Picker" of them all... Tennessee Erie Ford. Ol' Ern, that even-tempered fellow who has won the hearts of all involved, projects a charisma that is irresistible. As a recording artist he is unsurpassed. During personal appearances he has earned a following that makes him one of the most popular entertainers of our time. Ern will be supported by Paul Lennon. Lennon is a performer of versatile talents. His repertoire includes comedy, impressions, satire, vocals and acting. From coast to coast, audiences have laughed, applauded and cheered his originality and energy. Rounding out the professional billing is the return of the popular Goetschi Brothers. These refreshing comedians from Switzerland have created a comedy act with music, dancing and pantomime humor that insures a hilarious performance. Limited seats still available. For information and reservations call (517) 845-3056.

* As war and violence continue in the Middle East, the National Wildlife Federation has some good news to report. Thanks to cooperative efforts between Israel, Egypt and a multinational peacekeeping force, Tiran Island, which lies just off the Sinai Desert in the Red Sea, has become a safe haven for many different species of rare birds. The island's significance as a sanctuary for spectacular birds was first discovered during the 1967 war between Israel and Egypt.

Some people once believed they could predict the future by looking at air currents blowing across a bowl of water.

cozy corner

By Roger Brown

It's been eleven days since my last insurance claim auto accident. I think I'll write my insurance company to let them know how good I'm doing.

I guess I never really noticed before, but driving amounts to a collection of close calls. Cool as cucumbers we go careening through life at 55 miles per hour or so missing head on collisions with people coming the other way by only a few feet. Or we zip through intersections without a worry in the world as long as the light is with us, never dreaming that someone might not stop for his red light. Blind as bats we calmly back out of a parking space with view of traffic totally obscured by a van, putting our trust in an oncoming driver's ability to see us and stop in time.

At least this is the way Terese and I drove before our recent rash of accidents. Now a trip to the grocery store is a white knuckle experience previously reserved for negotiating 28th Street during the Christmas rush or clearing traffic in a motor home after an M.S.U. game. Ever tire squealer, centerline crowder, intersection noser-outer and poor judgement passer seems to be determined to add to my already abundant gray hair.

Terese's accident was the result of incredibly icy roads. She lost control and hit a guard rail even though she was only going about thirty miles per hour. Since then she is petrified by any type of slippery road. We recently had to drive several miles through a thunderstorm, and the car tended to hydroplane on the wet road surface. She was white as a ghost and had a death grip on the armrest all the way through the storm.

One of my accidents was the result of me being the front car in a four car pile-up at a stop light on 28th Street. Now I sit at red lights with a perpetual glare in the rear view mirror, just waiting for it to happen again. Whenever a car comes up on me particularly fast I feel the hair on the back of my neck bristle as I brace myself for the crash. It'll probably never happen again, but at least I'll be ready if it does.

My other recent accident was the door incident in which I opened my car door into an oncoming car. Now when I go to get of the car I look in the rear view mirror, the door mirror and sometimes even physically turn around in my seat to be sure there isn't a car coming for at least six blocks before opening the door. I even find myself checking for traffic in my garage.

The way I see it I have several options. I can get a chauffeur driven limousine with dark, dark windows and extra sound proofing, sit in the back and try to ignore what's going on with the traffic. Drive an army surplus tank which would almost certainly get some of my confidence back in traffic. Or I could just quit driving. I'm within walking distance of work, and I could just become a home and work recluse, but don't count on it. So, if you see a guy putting around town nervously glancing all around with a white knuckled death grip on the steering wheel you'll know who it is. And people ask me why I love to sail.

Letters

Dear Roger,
The members of the Msgr. Hugh M. Beahan Council No. 7719 of the Knights of Columbus would like to express their appreciation to all who gave so freely of their money. We again had a very successful Tootsie Roll Drive for the Mentally Retarded Children.

With the money that was collected, we again will be able to help the programs in our area.
Thank You,
Dennis Kissinger
Tootsie Roll Drive Chairman

Danish Festival held in Greenville August 18

Musicians, singers, dancers, or anyone else with any kind of talent, are invited to participate in the Greenville Danish Festival Talent Show.

The show will be held at the Greenville High School Lectu-
Study Hall at 111 North Hillcrest Street at 6:00 P.M. on August 18th.

Acts may enter the Senior Division for those sixteen and older, or the Junior Division for those fifteen or younger. Prizes will be awarded to the top three acts in each division.

Acts are limited to seven minutes and must be amateur in nature. A five dollar entry fee also required. Entries are available at the Greenville Chamber of Commerce Office, Hansen's Music House, and Musik Affair
in Greenville and the Belding Chamber of Commerce Office and Ritter's Music Store in Belding, or by calling 616-754-7089 or 616-754-3766.

During the spring, bluebirds are busy creatures, says National Wildlife magazine. They lay two or three broods a year, laying three to eight eggs per clutch. Once they hatch, usually on the same day, it's almost a continuous hunt for food, as their hungry youngsters require feeding about once every 20 minutes.

THE UNSEEN MEDAL.

You wear it inside. It's how you feel about your country, the flag, patriotism. Your own private feeling.

It's part of what makes you feel good about serving in the Army Reserve one weekend a month (usually two 8-hour days) and two weeks summer training a year. And you get paid $1,200 per year to start.

Most of all, you're ready if your country needs you. Call your Army Reserve representative in the Yellow Pages under "Recruiting."

EXERCISE AND PHYSICAL FITNESS PART 2

In our column last week, we told you about the benefits of regular exercise. We stated that frequency, duration and intensity were very important factors in achieving and maintaining fitness. Let's take each one of these variables separately and look at them a little closer before we begin.

"Frequency" of the exercise program should range from 3 to 5 times per week. Three exercise sessions per week seems to be the bare minimum to maintain fitness and five sessions per week is ideal. More than five sessions per week may increase the risk of fatigue and injury.

"Intensity" is working hard enough to elevate your heart rate to 70-85% of the maximum rate for your age. To find your maximum heart rate, subtract your age from 220. Remember, you want to exercise at 70-85% of this rate. Therefore, a target heart rate for a forty year old would be... (220-40 equals 180) x 70% equals 126 beats per minute. 85% of 180 is 153 beats per minute. So, if you were 40 years old you would try to maintain your heart rate during exercise between 126 and 153 beats per minute. Your pulse can be taken ten minutes after starting exercise by placing two fingers at the side of your neck under the jaw. Count the number of pulses for ten seconds and multiply by six. This is your heart rate per minute.

"Duration" of exercise is dependent on the intensity, but generally 20 to 30 minutes is adequate. A very intense activity such as jump roping would require less time, whereas a less intense activity would require 40 to 50 minutes to obtain the same benefit.

In summary our exercise program should be enough to get us to 70-85% of our maximum heart rate for 20 to 30 minutes 3 to 5 times per week.

Aerobic exercises to consider for your program would be running, bicycling, swimming, racquetball, cross country skiing, skating, basketball, tennis or walking.

People who have not been on an exercise program and have a sedentary life style should never start right into a running program. Begin with two or three weeks of brisk walking and gradually start jogging. You should be able to talk comfortably while doing your exercise. Remember to warm up with stretching exercises to prevent injury prior to starting. Also important is a warm down period where you stop exercising gradually, rather than abruptly, to rid the muscles of the by-products of metabolism which have built up during exercise. This will reduce post workout muscle stiffness.

Walking is another good aerobic activity especially for the elderly individual, but remember, because of the lower intensity level, you must walk briskly for 45-60 minutes to get the full benefits.

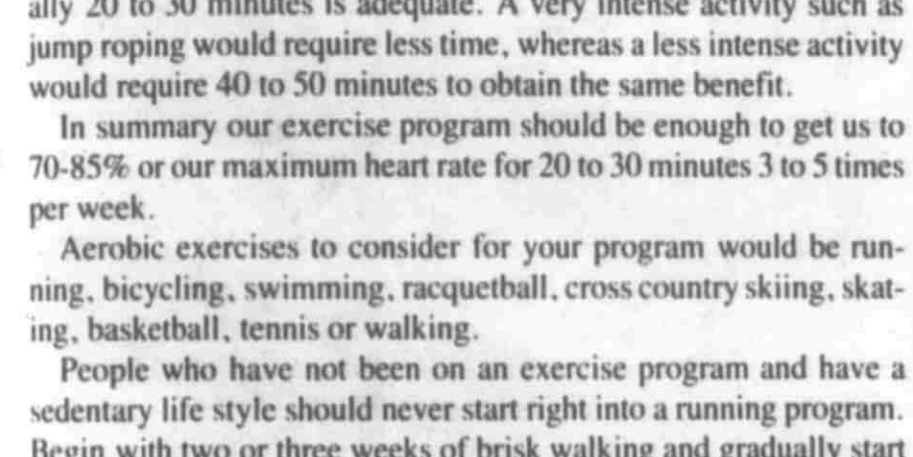

Bicycling is an excellent exercise for the cardiovascular system and the surrounding Lowell countryside is ideal for uninterrupted cycling. A stationary cycle can also be purchased for use during winter months or rainy days.

Swimming provides more upper body conditioning than running. Because water lessens the effect of gravity, this is an excellent activity for individuals with knee or ankle problems. A swimming program should start with 150-200 yards per day for the first week, increasing by 100 yards weekly until you're swimming 100 yards a day.

Six weeks of aerobic exercise will usually bring a person to a basic level of fitness. Again, this can be achieved regardless of age or current level of fitness. Whichever activity you choose, just remember Intensity, Duration and Frequency. Twenty to thirty minutes a day; three to five times per week at 70-85% of your maximum heart rate. See you at the Boston Marathon!

Gus Macker to speak in Team '84 Hottest Headliners program

Area sports figures will be the focus of attention at the Kent County Library's TEAM '84 HOTTEST HEADLINERS program the week of July 16 - 20. The presentations will be held at various branches throughout the county and feature local heroes including cross-country walker Ginny Broersma, Golden Goves Champ John Ebers, Butterfly National Sailing Camp Jerry Bakke and basketball enthusiast Gus Macker (a.k.a. Scott McNeal). The Double Dutch Angels and area gymnasts will also be appearing. Gus Macker will appear in Alto July 19 at 11 A.M. and in Lowell, July 18 at 2 P.M.

"The TEAM '84 summer reading program and the presentations are geared toward children 6-12," explains regional children's librarian Sara D'Archange. "Kids always seem to be interested in sports figures and with the additional excitement regarding the summer Olympics, we hope the presentations will be well attended."

Besides the appearances, book displays will be set-up and the young people will be encouraged to read about their favorite sports or sports figure.

The World's Hottest Headliners appearances are a part of the TEAM '84 summer reading program which is designed to encourage summer reading for all area youngsters. For a complete schedule of events, contact your local Kent County library branch or the Children's Services Department at 774-3253. All programs last about an hour and are free, of course!

Ertl to return for Zaharias Golf Tournament

LPGA pro Sue Ertl, the only LPGA participant in the recently held Charity Golf Classic and a favorite with West Michigan golf fans, will take part in the 1984 American Cancer Society Babe Zaharias Golf Tournament slated for August 20.

Ertl, a native of Ionia, Michigan currently in her third year on the LPGA tour has been named the event's Honorary Chairwoman for the second consecutive year and will participate in the tournament to be held at Saskatoon Golf Club in Alto, Michigan.

Announcement of Ertl's participation came from the general chairwoman of the event, Mary Scanlon. "Sue was such a charming and helpful participant last year," said Scanlon -- "we felt that she would be a welcome addition again this year." Ertl will also conduct a clinic immediately following regular tournament play.

The Babe Zaharias Tournament is open to all women golfers, professional or amateur, regardless of handicap. "It presents the opportunity for golfers to compete in either of two divisions -- handicap or scramble," Scanlon stated, "with a chance to advance to the State Finals in September at Boyne Highlands in Harbor Springs, Michigan, and from there to the National Championship in Florida." Scanlon emphasized that it also presents an opportunity to support the American Cancer Society in its fight against cancer through research, education and patient service and rehabilitation. "Last year the American Cancer Society received a total of $13,000 from the event," Scanlon continued, "this year we hope to match or exceed that amount." Said Scanlon, "With the generous help of this year's sponsor, Mazda Great Lakes, we should be able to achieve our goal." Mazda Great Lakes was also the sponsor last year.

Sue Ertl

Entry fee for participation in the tournament is a $50 donation ($55 with a golf cart) or a donation of $250 to play with the pro. Ertl will play a total of 18 holes, but with a different foursome on each 9-hole segment. Interested golfers may contact the American Cancer Society, 458-1204 for an entry form. Or, potential players can fill out a form wherever they see a Babe Zaharias Tournament poster, and mail it along with the entry fee to the address indicated.

Olympic Gold Medal Meal

Velvety Chicken Rosemary is a new and different stew that requires only one cooking pot and miserly keeps all the goodness in.

There's no better time to be a sports spectator than during an Olympic year. Sit back and enjoy the beauty and excitement of the 1984 Winter Olympic Games in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia while a hearty chicken and vegetable stew simmers. Serve with warm biscuits and homemade applesauce for a meal worthy of a gold medal.

VELVETY CHICKEN ROSEMARY
2 tablespoons shortening
3 pounds chicken parts
2 cans (10 3/4 ounces each) Campbell's Condensed Creamy Chicken Mushroom Soup
1/2 cup Chablis or other dry white wine
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
1/4 teaspoon rosemary leaves, crushed
1 package (10 ounces) frozen whole green beans
2 cups thickly diagonally sliced carrots
8 small whole white onions (about 1/2 pound)

1. In 12-inch skillet over medium-high heat, in hot shortening, cook chicken until browned on all sides.
2. Add soup, wine, parsley, thyme and rosemary; cover and reduce heat to low; simmer 15 minutes.
3. Add vegetables. Simmer 30 minutes or until chicken is fork-tender.
Makes 5 cups or 4 servings.

Of Interest To . . . Farmers!

Dairy Association honors Keiser's Kitchen

Keiser's Kitchen recently received American Dairy Association of Michigan's "ADAM AWARD." The award was created to honor restaurants and other dining places serving real dairy products including milk, butter, cheese, cream, sour cream, half-and-half, and yogurt.

The "ADAM" Award plaque cites Keiser's Kitchen's use of real dairy products, and displays American Dairy Association's "REAL" Seal, the symbol that designates genuine dairy foods as opposed to imitation dairy products.

Keiser's Kitchen, located at 521 West Main Lowell, Michigan 49331, has been serving area residents since it opened. American Dairy Association of Michigan commends the restaurant's "consistently high standards in food preparation and service."

MOOING BILLBOARDS

We all know that farmers are an enterprising lot, but if they had a contest for the most unique idea for offsetting some production costs, the prize would have to go to Puck's Farm in Kleinburg, Ontario, Canada.

Puck's Farm is a dairy operation which also operates as a non-profit educational center where school children and others come to experience farm life. Puck's also sells dairy products and manure and now they've added a new item to their sales line -- mooing billboards. That's advertising on cows.

They use six cows for advertising, selling each side of a cow separately. They get $500 a side for a year's advertising -- and they're sold out. The income is used to buy feed for the cow herd.

The signs are painted on oil cloth and hung over the cow while she's out in the pasture. Who would advertise on a cow? Well, they've got a local restaurant, a frozen food manufacturer, a sign shop, a livestock breeder and maybe an attorney if he can get the Canadian Bar Association to approve.

Puck's Farm is strategically located near the Toronto Airport and it's estimated that the mooing billboards are seen by 100,000 people a year. And many of those 100,000 take photos to show to friends so advertisers are getting good mileage for their ad dollars.

There's a clever P.S. to this story, too. If a cow gives birth while wearing their sign, advertisers get a sign on the calf-free!

Immigration reform is major victory

Passage of the Immigration Reform bill by the U.S. House of Representatives has been called a "major victory" for agriculture by Michigan Farm Bureau's director of public affairs, Al Almy.

"All of the amendments, with the exception of one, that Farm Bureau actively and very vigorously supported, were passed, so it represents a big victory for agriculture," Almy said.

"One of the issues that was won is the requirement that a search warrant be obtained by law enforcement personnel before they enter open fields to check on workers and determine whether or not any illegal aliens are present," he said.

An optional temporary worker program for producers of perishable agricultural commodities was listed as another victory for agriculture by Almy. This amendment allows foreign workers to come into the U.S. on a temporary basis.

"Another amendment that is a victory for agriculture gives the Attorney General, rather than the Secretary of Labor, the authority to determine the length of time that these temporary foreign workers can stay in this country. The Secretary of Labor is not noted for being favorable to temporary foreign workers," he said.

"A final victory for agriculture provides that the federal law which preempt any state law which would otherwise outlaw the employment of such temporary foreign workers."

The Farm Bureau supported provision that did not pass the House was an amendment that would have exempted employers from compulsory documentation and recordkeeping on all the workers they hire.

"Overall, agriculture fared very well and we're pleased that the House action is favorable to the industry," Almy said.

Almy said the immigration reform bill has special significance to Michigan agriculture because of the large number of farm workers employed by the fruit and vegetable industry.

Old fashioned farming methods are the order at Bob Evans Farm

Acres of golden wheat blow gently in the summer breeze while a skilled farmer lowers an old-fashioned wheat cradle, blow by blow, to cut the stocks of grain. Around the farmer, bales of freshly cut hay dot the fields and a team of work horses draw a plow to prepare the ground for next year's harvest.

This long, exhausting process of harvesting wheat is just one of the many homesteading skills of yesteryear to be demonstrated from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. July 7 and 8 on the 1100-acre Bob Evans Farm near Rio Grande, Ohio. Hay making and wheat binding can also be observed in the Farm's fields during Homesteading Days.

A horse drawn wagon carries visitors from site to site or the curious can explore on foot. While some of the demonstrations take place in the fields, other artisans perform their old-fashioned crafts in cabins which make up the restored 19th century Adamsville Village where many different facets of colonial life can be seen.

There were no shortcuts for Early Americans. Visitors can observe the long process it took to transform raw ingredients into finished products. Sheep are sheared in the barn area, and at Adamsville the spinning wheel gently whirs as the spinner turns long curls of the combed wool into smooth, even yarn with her nimble fingers.

In the Craft Barn skilled weavers then transform the yarn into colorful rugs and other articles for the home on huge looms. There's even a story teller who weaves his own sorts of yarn providing old-fashioned entertainment. All the exhibitors are dressed in clothing depicting Early America.

The whirring sound of the gristmill powered by the old-style piston gasoline engine can be heard in another exhibit barn where corn is ground into fresh cornmeal for visitors to take home. The light melodies of handcrafted dulcimers drift in and out of Adamsville along with the other sounds of colonial America at work -- the blacksmith pounding tools, the colonial cooper shaping wooden barrels and the shingle splitter making shingles.

A variety of dulcimers can be heard at the Bob Evans Farm during the Dulcimer Festival July 21 and 22 which like the Homesteading Days craft weekend, highlights the arts of the Appalachian region.

A large covered stage and attached big top tent provide a performance area for the dulcimer players while the acres of farmland allow the festival goer to stretch out under a tree to enjoy the event.

With a variety of different dulcimer categories including children's events, duets and vocals with the dulcimer, there is something for everyone. Cash prizes are awarded for several events with no registration fee. Contestants must register between 9 A.M. and noon each day of the competition.

Featured guest at the Dulcimer Festival is Susan Jennings from Slatington, Pa. Susan was instrumental in forming the Arizona Dulcimer Society and then the Appalachian Trail Dulcimer and Folk Music Society after moving to eastern Pennsylvania. She is best known as a singer with a unique, virtuosic Irish style.

For more information, contact the Bob Evans Farm: P.O. Box 330; Rio Grande, Ohio 45674; (614)245-5305.

Proper diet is key to proper butterfat

Properly balanced feeding programs, the key to maintaining efficient and profitable butterfat levels, are especially important in today's volatile market, according to dairy industry researchers. Considering shrinking price supports, in fact, milkfat percentages could spell the difference between failure and a viable dairy operation, they say.

At an average of 17 cents per hundred weight for every 0.1 percent of butterfat, a feed program's effect on milk checks can be truly significant, they explained. The question of butterfat content, these researchers added, is especially serious during hotter summer months, when many milk producers experience lower fat levels.

Purina research has shown that heat-stressed cows eat less forage, effectively unbalancing their total ration. Dr. Larry Prewitt, manager of applied dairy nutrition at Ralston Purina Company added, "Reduced roughage and fiber increases the percentage of grain and starch consumed. As a result, more propionic acid is produced, leading to a lower acetic-propionic acid ration which can cause butterfat depression."

Dr. J.W. Thomas, professor of dairy nutrition at Michigan State University, agrees that heat stress is the most likely cause of summer butterfat depression. "But," he added, "you also have to look at your feeding practices and analyze the content of your ration."

RECOMMENDS TOTAL MIXED RATION

Thomas adds that feeding grain and roughage separately can also lower butterfat content. He advises a total mixed ration to assure that every cow consumes the right balance of each nutrient and maintains a more even rumen pH.

Prewitt, in turn, cited a recent study showing that feeding a milking ration six times a day instead of twice helps maintain more stable rumen environment, with less variation in the rumen pH over the entire day.

Feeding in the milking parlor alone is another practice that can restrict both butterfat levels and milk production, added Prewitt. "Cows have enough of a problem obtaining all the nutrients they need, and limiting feed to the parlor can reduce the amount they consume because of the short time they have the ration available," he claimed.

Other critical areas to be looked into are the moisture content, protein level and particle size of the ration, Prewitt said. BUFFERS MAY BE REQUIRED

If a butterfat depression persists after examining and making changes in management practices, Thomas recommended treating the problem with buffers, specifically a combination of sodium bicarbonate and magnesium oxide.

But, Prewitt added, Purina research suggests that there are several other factors that can further improve fat production caused by imbalances in the rumen. "This research led to the development of our unique Cow Chow BF-1 concentrate with butterfat enhancers," he added.

"Life would be easy if there was only one factor which controlled fat test, and we could focus all of our attention on it," Thomas observed. "But many things are involved, and all play a role in each dairy operation. Careful attention to good management and feeding practices are important and required for maintenance of optimal fat test, and profitable production. This is an increasingly important key to achieving top profit potential."

The first bicycle trip around the world was made by Thomas Stevens, who started from San Francisco, Calif., on April 22, 1884 on a 50-inch bicycle and returned January 4, 1887.
