State Savings Bank to celebrate 50th Anniversary

One would never guess that the State Savings Bank of Lowell with its three modern offices, scores of employees and over $50 million in assets is a product of the Great Depression. But that is indeed the case, and the bank will be celebrating its 50th anniversary all next week. A large tent will be erected just west of the main office at 414 East Main Street and there will be lots of activity there from Monday, August 6 thru Saturday, August 11.

Bank customers will be treated to free Coke and popcorn, player piano music, displays depicting the history of the bank, several contests and free gifts. On Friday and Saturday the tempo will pick up with several bake sales in the tent, clowns, a 1934 Ford and lots of other fun and interesting things to see and do. Make it a point to stop by and enjoy the festivities.

When the Great Depression settled in on the United States back in the early 1930's the nation's banks were hard hit, and Lowell's City State Bank and Lowell State Bank were not exceptions. The problem for banks was the lack of deposits, as nearly everyone was out of work and the bank's assets were steadily depleted as depositors withdrew their accounts. President Hoover set up The Reconstruction Finance Corporation from which banks could borrow against their best mortgages. Both Lowell banks took advantage of this new institution to help bolster their sagging money supplies. Both banks struggled through the first three years of the depression, but the banking situation across the nation grew steadily worse as large city banks began calling in their cash reserves. When such large states as New York and Illinois called "Banking Holidays", Michigan's Governor Comstock did the same and closed all the state's banks on February 11, 1933.

Depositors were left with their money locked up in banks that for all anyone knew, would be closed for good. When Franklin Roosevelt took office on March 4, 1933 one of the biggest problems before him was a nation of closed banks. One of Roosevelt's first acts was to license all banks with owing no debts to reopen. But since both of Lowell banks had borrowed from the R.F.C. they were among 54 banks in the state that still could not open. A plan called simply, "The 54 Plan" was introduced to get these banks reopened. These banks needed relief from having to pay the R.F.C. from their daily deposits, thus having no cash left to conduct their local business. The

P.O. Adds new Rural Rte.

The Lowell Post Office will be changing the delivery on its rural routes starting Saturday, August 4, 1984. The present four routes have been changed to incorporate a fifth route. This has become necessary because the present four routes are overburdened due to the increase in Lowell's rural population. The routes were last changed thirteen years ago. Postmaster Charlie Doyle says the new route will result in an improvement in service for all rural customers. Doyle stated that letters have been sent to all rural patrons that need to relocate their mail box to the opposite side of the road. "This is necessary due to the reversal in travel by the rural carrier", Doyle further stated. During this transition customers are urged to call the Lowell Post Office at 897-9949 if they have any questions pertaining to this change.

WHY HAVE ALL THESE PEOPLE DECIDED TO BACK KEARY SAWYER FOR CONGRESS?

Sawyer understands that we must not let violent criminals back out on the street before serving their minimum sentence.
Lynne Williams
President, I.O.P. Lodge 151

Keary Sawyer really does seem to be a fighter. He's got a little more spunk.
Sandra Cobley
Housewife

I want a Congressman tough enough to get a balanced budget amendment passed. That's Sawyer.
Bill Warkon
Salesman

I know where Keary stands on the issues. Like his support of President Reagan. And he's a tough successful trial attorney we can trust.
Virginia S. Becker
Housewife

I like it when Sawyer says he'll work for new jobs. His program for jobs makes sense to me.
Lynn Schering
Medical Technician

Keary understands the problems working women face and will fight to help us - that's why I think working women will support him.
Beth L. Mann
President, Mann Realty

I trust Keary Sawyer to help us keep our Social Security. That's the most important thing for us. And he seems to understand that.
Frank Wheeler
Retired

Keary is the only candidate I agree with on the issues. The others are too liberal or don't really represent my interests.
Michael F. Kelly
Attorney

Keary Sawyer's against early release of prisoners. The other guy wrote the law that lets them out. What more do you need to know than that?
Paul F. McGraw
Police Officer

He's just a little tougher, a little more decisive, a little more energetic. Keary Sawyer strikes me as someone who just won't take no for an answer. Not a compromiser.
Walter Levine
PH.D.

Violent criminals belong in jail. Period. Keary Sawyer understands that!
Lorell E. Herber
Housewife

He's made balancing the budget, reducing the deficit, and bringing new jobs here a top priority. That's what we need done.
Cynthia Yablum
President, Allegan County Republican Women

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

by Pauline E. Spray

God is my strength and power... (II Samuel 22:33)

If we were youngsters we used to spend many enjoyable hours lying on the front lawn watching the cars go by. We entertained ourselves by playing a game in which we claimed by turns the automobiles as they passed by. The youngster with the most late models to his credit won.

A battered jalopy and the sleekest late model convertible do not look alike, but they have at least one thing in common. Without a motor, neither of them could run. The motor is the most essential part of an automobile, regardless of the make or model. Many cars have fine looking bodies, but their exteriors profit them little if the motor is not in running condition.

Like automobiles, it isn't the outward appearance of humans that counts most. When Samuel was about to anoint an earthly king for the children of Israel, the Lord reminded him that He didn't look on the outward appearance of an individual but on the heart. It's having Christ within that makes a difference in our lives. He gives us the "strength and power" to go places and do things for Him.

Prayer: O Lord, Thou art the strength of my life, Thou canst give me the power to go places for Thee. Without Thy presence

Farmers, Food and Jobs

What do florists and popcorn vendors, restaurant cooks and table waiters, truckers and grocers, food processors and packagers, underwear factory workers and shoemakers, clothing sales people and equipment dealers, all have in common?

Their jobs and their income are provided as a result of what farmers do. Cotton farmers, grain farmers, livestock farmers, dairy farmers, fruit and vegetable farmers, bedding plant farmers . . . all producing food and fiber.

Put all those farmers together and they only make up about 3% of the U.S. population, but because of their efficiency and their tremendous productivity, they provide jobs for around 22% of the nation's labor force -- about 20 million people.

These workers are engaged in processing, manufacturing, transporting, exporting, retailing, preparing and serving farm-based products.

In Michigan, farmers employ about 100,000 full-time workers. Food businesses employ another 350,000 and forest product firms employ about 60,000 full-time workers. Our Michigan farmers' purchases of farm machinery creates about 14,600 jobs for factory workers.

These statistics point out the importance of a healthy agriculture -- not only for abundant supply of quality food we enjoy -- but also for the paychecks of those 20 million American workers and their families.

A healthy agriculture is a necessity for a healthy economy.

Jaycees Donate To Burn Unit

Barb Wier, Head Nurse for the West Michigan Burn Unit at Blodgett Hospital accepts a check for $1,000 from Don Green, President of the Lowell Jaycees.

The Lowell Area Jaycees recently donated $1,000 to the West Michigan Burn Unit in Blodgett Hospital. The Jaycees raised the funds by hosting a bluegrass show featuring the "Osborne Brothers". Lowell Jaycees President Don Green said that this contribution to the burn unit is one of many ways that the Jaycees help the area. He added that those interested in joining the Jaycees should contact him or another Jaycee.

There's new hope for saving the world's biggest bug from extinction, reports National Wildlife magazine. New Zealand scientists have moved the remaining endangered bugs -- big as a man's fist and weighing up to three ounces -- to a remote island free of predators.

Summer Reading Program To End

The Kent County Library TEAM '84 Summer Reading Program will be drawn to a close the week of August 6-10 at special awards ceremonies to be held at 16 County branches - Alto - 6059 Linfield, August 9 at 11 A.M. and Lowell - 325 W. Main August 8 at 2 P.M. Children ages 6-12 are invited to come dressed as their favorite sports figure and enjoy refreshments and receive prizes for summer reading achievement. "We'll be awarding a lot of prizes because the kids have really been reading a lot this summer," said Mary Frydrych Coordinator of Children's Services. "We will also be having a special drawing at each branch for a Burger King party and selecting one county winner for a bicycle."

Frydrych points out that although the reading programs and contests have been a lot of fun for the children, the primary purpose is to attract the youngsters to the library and keep them reading throughout the summer. Although total circulation figures are not yet available, Frydrych predicts that the kids will top the number of books read last year - a whopping 59,000. "Studies have shown that more than any other institution, including the schools, the public library contributes to the intellectual growth of children during the summer," said Frydrych. "Although the TEAM '84 activities are coming to a close, what the youngsters have gained through summer reading will never end."

For more information regarding the Awards Ceremony, contact your local Kent County Library branch or the Children's Services Department at 774-3253.

POLICY ALTERNATIVES MEETINGS

Hundreds of farmers throughout the state will discuss policy alternatives for Farm Bill '85 at meetings scheduled for:

August 15 -- Grayling Holiday Inn
August 16 -- Amway Grand Plaza Hotel, Grand Rapids
August 17 -- Frankenmuth Bavarian Inn

Should the new farm bill, which the newly-elected Congress will draft early next year, take the direction of strict government supply management controls? Should there be no federal farm program at all? Or should it be something in between? Farmers will take a look at many alternatives during the sessions which begin at 10 A.M. and continue until 3:30 P.M.

NEWS BRIEFINGS at 9 A.M., prior to each of the sessions, will provide news people with an overview of Farm Bureau's purpose in holding the meetings, what some of the key issues will be and the challenges involved in addressing those issues. Your resource people will include Michigan Farm Bureau President Elton R. Smith and American Farm Bureau Federation Senior Economist John Hosemann.

Antimotion-sickness medication are most helpful when used ahead of time as a preventative measure. If you know you have susceptibility to motion sickness, begin taking the medicine (usually a prescription) several hours before embarking on the plane, boat, etc. Newer "transdermal" products are now available for motion sickness also. These are available as a skin patch which is placed on the skin behind either ear. Medicine from the patch is then slowly absorbed through the skin and is effective against motion sickness for up to three days. As noted earlier, the most effective methods of treatment are either adaptation to the offensive motion or complete avoidance of it. For most of us, however, preventative medicine is a wise and often beneficial approach to this difficult problem.

Ask the desk clerk for the room location of the Farm Bureau news briefing. Michigan Farm Bureau information staff will be on hand to help you arrange interviews with farmers from your area who will be attending the meetings. For more information, contact: Donna Wilber, Manager, Information Services, Michigan Farm Bureau, 517-323-700, Ext. 508.

Future agricultural policy

"There is need by all concerned parties to become involved in order to find the answers to the problems confronting agriculture -- to develop farm policy that is responsive to future changes in agriculture and the domestic and world economies. Agriculture is the largest and most important industry in our nation and it is imperative that we use whatever means possible to ensure it a healthy future. "In this day, when everyone seems to be looking for new growth industries that the U.S. can become competitive in, such as high technology, it is ironic that we could lose the most efficient industry we have, which is agriculture, through our own doing." --William G. Leshner, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, USDA

MOTION SICKNESS

Motion sickness is a difficult but common problem seen in the office of most family doctors. It affects approximately 90 percent of the population at some time during life, and for many the problem is recurrent and severe. It has long been associated with the nausea and vomiting induced by transportation devices, especially ships. In fact, the association between motion sickness and sea travel is so wrong, that the word nausea is derived from the Greek word naus which means ship!

The signs and symptoms of motion sickness are quite varied indeed. In addition to nausea and vomiting, they may include drowsiness, apathy, headache, dizziness, changes in salivation, abdominal cramps, sweating, sighing, pallor (pale face), yawning and changes in pulse rate. It is generally agreed, however, that nausea, vomiting, pallor and sweating are the most prevalent and consistent features of the motion sickness syndrome.

Women are more susceptible to motion sickness than are men. Their increased susceptibility has been attributed in part to the functioning of the females Endocrine (hormonal) system. Before puberty, girls are also more susceptible than boys. Interestingly, infants less than two years old are generally immune. The period of highest susceptibility appears to be between the ages of two and twelve, with susceptibility gradually decreasing with age through adulthood. Motion sickness is uncommon after age 50.

The basic causes and mechanisms of motion sickness are still unknown, but research during the past century has provided a better understanding of the problem. Most authorities believe that a disturbance in the fine network of inner ear mechanics is the prime cause of motion sickness. In some way, motion causes a disruption of the normal "flow" of inner ear function, resulting in the typical symptoms of nausea, vomiting and dizziness.

The only truly effective method of preventing motion sickness is to travel on foot and avoid all forms of passive motion. Since this approach is totally unrealistic in modern society, alternative but less effective measures are used. The most common defense against motion sickness is adaptation. Most people are adapted to their usual modes of transportation and experience no symptoms from them. However, they may suffer from motion sickness when exposed to unusual motion, such as airplane turbulence or transportation on water. Once symptoms of motion sickness are present, the best treatment is to remove the individual from the offending motion. If this is not possible, lying down may relieve the symptoms. Exposure to cool air has also been suggested as beneficial.

Antimotion-sickness medication are most helpful when used ahead of time as a preventative measure. If you know you have susceptibility to motion sickness, begin taking the medicine (usually a prescription) several hours before embarking on the plane, boat, etc. Newer "transdermal" products are now available for motion sickness also. These are available as a skin patch which is placed on the skin behind either ear. Medicine from the patch is then slowly absorbed through the skin and is effective against motion sickness for up to three days. As noted earlier, the most effective methods of treatment are either adaptation to the offensive motion or complete avoidance of it. For most of us, however, preventative medicine is a wise and often beneficial approach to this difficult problem.

"Feeling is the hardest thing in the world to put into words." - Jack London

Since sunlight cannot penetrate the sea's entire depth, some sea creatures living at depths below 3,000 feet have been found to possess their own phosphorescent "lighting system."

All the people on the planet, lumped together, would weigh between 200 and 250 million tons.

Dinner guests in medieval England were expected to bring their own knives to table - hosts did not provide them.

Barrett Attends Workshop

Michelle Barrett, daughter of Merrill and Norma Jean Barrett of Lowell, is shown building an audio amplifier during the applied technology segment of the Women In Engineering Workshop recently held at Michigan Technological University. The week long workshop introduced high school women to ten areas of study in the fields of engineering and technology. Barrett will be a senior at Lowell High School this fall.

Ehlers Seeks Re-Election

State Representative Vernon Ehlers (R-Grand Rapids) today announced that he is seeking reelection to the Michigan House. The Assistant Republican Floor Leader, first elected to the Michigan Legislature in 1982, says he will be pleased to represent the 93rd District for another term.

"The issues facing the state of Michigan are extremely complex and require a far-sighted approach," Ehlers said. "My two years in the Legislature have given me a good grasp of state government. I hope to use this experience to represent the 93rd District even more effectively during the next two years."

The 50-year-old former Calvin College professor and former county commissioner is the only scientist in the state Legislature. His academic, scientific, and county background helped him receive important assignments on the House Committees on Public Health, Social Services and Youth, Colleges and Universities, and Conservation and Environment.

Ehlers also chaired the House Republican Task Force which has issued several reports making key recommendations concerning hazardous and solid waste management, economic development, K-12 education and a training program for social services recipients.

In the Task Force's October report on the environment, Ehlers found that while Michigan has some of the best anti-pollution laws in the country, their enforcement by the various agencies is lagging and complaints are often bounced from one agency to another.

"Not enough is being done to protect Michigan's valuable natural resources even though we have the mechanism to do so," Ehlers said. "During the next few years we must deal effectively with problems like dioxin contamination and toxic waste management."

In addition to environmental protection, Ehlers has also been involved with improving the state's economic development. He co-sponsored legislation making it significantly easier for franchise companies to do business in Michigan. Recently signed into law by Governor Blanchard, the measures have the potential to create hundreds of new businesses and thousands of new jobs.

"By reforming the Franchise Investment Law we demonstrated how state government can take positive, innovative steps to help improve Michigan's business climate," Ehlers said. "I firmly believe similarly innovative legislation can be enacted regarding the single business tax as well as areas like the environment, education and social services."

Ehlers has received substantial recognition during his first term. He was elected to a major leadership position in the House.

for another two years I will continue to work hard to see that their interests are well represented," Ehlers concludes. TAKE TWO AND SAVE! Save a dollar when you subscribe to the Grand Valley Ledger for two years at $11. One year $6 in Kent and Ionia Co. Call 897-9261.

Tummino joins husband's practice

Mike and Judy Tummino will be seeing even more of each other now that Judy has joined her husband's legal practice.

Lowell has a brand new full time attorney, but the name isn't new to the community. Judith (Judy) Lee Tummino passed her Bar examination in February of this year, was admitted to practice in May and joined her husband Mike's legal practice about two weeks ago. Judy graduated from the Cooley Law School in Lansing in January of this year, and was on both the honor roll and Dean's list. Previously she had studied at Western Michigan University and Colorado State University where she and Mike met. Judy is a native of Washington, D.C. and Mike is from Cleveland, Ohio. The Tumminos have resided in Lowell for 8 years and they both love the small town atmosphere that Lowell provides. They have two children, Ryan, 11, and Jaime, 8.

Judy says that besides her general practice she would like to concentrate on copyright work in the area of art and computer programs. Being an accomplished artist she thinks this would be an excellent way for her to blend her artistic and legal interests.

Mike has maintained an office in Lowell for over three years. In the beginning he was working with a Grand Rapids law firm and in Lowell. In May of 1983 he decided to devote all his time to the Lowell practice. Mike has been an attorney for 15 years.

Office hours at Tummino and Tummino are 8:30 until 5:00, five days a week. They are located at 119 W. Main St., Lowell and their phone number is 897-5931.

Company of Lowell. During those years he was a director of the Michigan Elevator and Grain Dealers Association and Director of the Michigan Bean Dealers Association.

From 1940 until 1945 Doyle was Vice President of the King Milling Company in Lowell. He graduated in 1939 from Duke University in Durham, North Carolina with a B.A. Degree in Economics. Doyle graduated from Lowell High School in 1935.

Doyle has been an active Rotarian for many years, and was recently elected to serve as district governor for the 1985-87 term. He is the first member of the Lowell Rotary Club to hold a high district office.

Doyle is on the Republican ticket in the August 7 Primary and faces competition from Cascade and Caledonia. Your support next Tuesday will help send representation from our city to the County Board of Commissioners.

Cool Treats For Summer

You can be the big moment in the life of any youngster with a parade of ice cream specials.

Children from two to eight will find carts, flowerpots, nosegays, cones and cups completely enchanting for dessert or a special party treat. All of these can be made ahead and frozen to be brought out just at the moment they're skirting the edges of boredom.

Ice cream and cookies are the main ingredients for these treats, with candies used for decoration or theme. They offer an excellent opportunity to help fan the creative talents in any would-be cooks in your home. Before working with the ice cream, let them make sketches or talk about their ideas with you. Then, make a marketing list and let them do some further thinking about "their recipe" before it's time to put together the foods.

CONES

Fill ice cream cones (flat bottom or cone-shaped) with ice cream; garnish in one of these ways:

1. Make a flower on top of cone using jellied fruit slices cut in half for petals and small gumdrop for center of flower.
2. Place a ring of small pecky or fruit flavored gelatin candies around center top of ice cream. Insert a birthday candle in candy ring.

3. Dip ice cream into chopped peanuts, chopped hard candy, chocolate sprinkles, etc.

FLOWERPOT

Fill a heavy paper cup (6-3/4 oz.) with scoops of ice cream. Insert a flowered or plain candy sucker in center of top scoop of ice cream. Stand candy leaves upright on either side of sucker.

ICE CREAM NOSEGAY

Fill a double thickness of fluted baking cup with a scoop of ice cream. Stand round peppermint candies up around edge of ice cream and sprinkle tiny candies or crushed peppermint candy over top. To serve, place on plate on a small lace paper doily.

ICE CREAM CART

Cut a pint brick of ice cream into quarters or thirds. Arrange

ICE CREAM SANDWICH
Place two graham crackers together sandwich-fashion using a thick slice of ice cream as the filling. Dip sandwich sides into chocolate shot, candy sequins or chopped nuts, if desired. Serve plain or top with favorite sundae sauce.

Just look what magic you can create with ice cream, cookies and a few candies!

Krause at the House

VICTOR C. KRAUSE - STATE REPRESENTATIVE - NINETIETH DISTRICT

The Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) has sold its largest bond issue ever, and Michigan homebuyers are going to profit.

MSHDA is now offering home mortgage loans at 10.95 percent interest rate for low and middle income purchasers, with a five percent down payment required. This rate is more than three points lower than money currently available on the market.

The loans will help about 3,400 people buy homes. For those purchasing new homes, income cannot exceed $28,000 and the home's value must be no more than $70,000. Those buying existing homes can earn up to $23,000 and buy a home worth up to $36,000.

Over 100 banks, savings and loans and mortgage companies are participating in the program. The loan reservations will be allocated on the first-come, first-served basis.

In addition to the homebuyers, the homebuilding industry will benefit from this fund. Over 1,500 jobs should result from the additional money available, providing a shot in the arm to an industry that suffered some of the worst setbacks and unemployment during the recent economic nose-dive. And even though housing starts and homebuying figures show an increase, rising interest rates on home loans are discouraging buyers. This new money should help the surge in homebuilding continue unabated.

If you are interested in finding out more about these loans, you can call your local financial institution or MSHDA at (517) 373-6840.

major clause in the "54 Plan" allowed these banks to keep 50% of their daily deposits and pay the rest in payments to the R.F.C. Former depositors would be allowed to withdraw only half of their holdings until such a time as the bank was solvent. This was enough relief to allow many of the closed banks to reopen.

Directors from both of Lowell's banks met in early 1934 and decided that a merger of the two would be in everyone's best interest. Representing The City State Bank at this meeting were Rudolf VanDyke, Harry Day and H.L. Weekes. On the Lowell State Bank's side of the table sat C.H. Runciman, P.C. Peckham and H.J. Englehardt who serves as the bank's Chairman of the Board to this day. The stockholders of the banks agreed to the merger, and on August 20 of that year the State Savings Bank of Lowell opened its doors in the former home of the Lowell State Bank at the corner of Monroe and Main Streets. The event marked the return of banking to Lowell following an absence of 18 months.

With assets of over $50,000 the new bank served what seemed like hundreds of customers the first day of business, and when the day's balance sheet was tallied bank officials were surprised to find the deposits exceeded withdrawals. The editor of the Ledger commented that "we seem to really only want that which we can't have", in reference to the impounded deposits that customers couldn't get during the bank holiday.

Named to the 10 person board of directors were Van Dyke, Day, Weekes, Lee Lampkin, William T. Condon, Runciman, Peckham, Englehardt, John Freeman and E.D. McQueen.

Since that opening day in 1934 the State Savings Bank has marked 50 years of service to the community as a fine banking institution. In 1961 the bank marked a landmark $5 million in assets, a hundred times more than it started with just some 26 years before.

In the spring of 1960 The State Savings Bank broke ground for a spanking new facility at 414 East Main Street. On December 30 of that same year the bank moved to its new location in a sixteen hour operation that included moving large steel plates from the lining of the old vault to the new one. On February 16 of 1961 the bank hosted an open house at their new location. The new bank was pictured on the cover of The Michigan Tradesman magazine and was featured on four pages inside with extensive pictures.

With the west side of town growing rapidly bank officials broke ground for a west side location in August of 1968. The new location which featured convenient drive-up windows was opened in March of 1969. The bank opened yet another branch in November of 1974 when the M-44-Rockford location was completed.

Englehardt was elected as Chairman of the Board of Directors in December of 1968 following the death of the previous chairman C.H. Runciman. Englehardt continued to serve as President of the bank, a post he had held since 1960. Herbert Elzinga was elected as President in January of 1977 and in January of 1981 Keith Caldwell was promoted to President as Elzinga entered semi-retirement. The current Board of Directors includes Englehardt, Caldwell, King Doyle, Herbert Elzinga, Robert Elzinga, Leonard Jackson, Dan Vos and Everett Wittenbach.

Lowell has come a long way since 1934, and the State Savings Bank has kept pace.
