Tuesday's election requires various decisions

When voting next Tuesday you will be asked to vote for no less than 29 federal, state and county offices, three state proposals and if you live in one of the townships you will vote for 5 more offices there. To save a lot of time and trouble on our part you will see that we have reprinted the Republican and Democratic tickets from the sample ballot and the entire non-partisan ballot. Because of a lack of space we are unable to print the remainder of the sample ballot which listed candidates from the the Tisch Independent Citizens Party, Libertarian Party, Workers World Party, Socialist Workers Party, Workers League, Communist Party USA and Independent Candidates.

In the area townships there are 20 seats to be decided, but only 2 races among them. In Lowell Township a Democrat, Lawrence Mikulski opposes incumbent Harry Yeiter who is running as a Republican, and in Grattan Township, Democratic incumbent Joyce Oberlin is opposed by Republican James Lally for the clerk's seat.

In other township races all the offices are unopposed. In Lowell Township four incumbent Republicans are running for the following seats Carol Wells, clerk; Doris Boyd, treasurer; Carl Haddan and Richard Huver as trustees. In Vergennes Township a slate of five unopposed Republican incumbents make up the ballot; Fred Moss, Supervisor; Sandy Kowalczyk, clerk; David Hoffman, treasurer; Jim Willyard and Bill Reynhout as trustees. In Vergennes Township five Republicans are unopposed for the seats to be decided. James Cook, Sr., Supervisor; Jenean Hoffman, clerk; Carol Nauta, treasurer; Richard Bieri and Allan Baird as trustees. In Grattan Township Republican Patrick Malone is unopposed for Supervisor, Lucille Slowinski is an unopposed Democrat for treasurer and Democrat Martin Byrne and Republican Eugene Maidens are unopposed for the trustee seats. None of the township or the City of Lowell have any issues on the ballot.

The proposals on the ballot are summarized as follows:

PROPOSAL A, Administrative Rules Committee.

The Official Ballot Wording is: A PROPOSAL TO ALLOW THE LEGISLATURE TO APPROVE OR DISAPPROVE ADMINISTRATIVE RULES. The Proposed amendment would:

Provide for the legislature or a joint committee of the legislature to approve or disapprove administrative rules written by state agencies to implement state law before the rules may be formally adopted by the agency as law, in a manner now or at a later date provided by law.

Should the proposed amendment be adopted? Yes No

POLICY DISCUSSION

The major argument in favor of this proposal is that it would legitimize current legislative practice. Those who support this proposal suggest that it is appropriate for the legislature to ensure that administrative rules carry out the legislative intent and that rules are not used as a means for an agency to implement some alternative or additional objectives.

ATHLETIC BOOSTERS TO MEET

The Lowell Area Schools Athletic Boosters will meet on Monday, November 5, at 7:30 P.M. in the K-Quad of the High School. The boosters urge all those in the community who are interested in athletics to show their support by attending these meetings.

D.P.W. FLUSHING MAINS NEXT WEEK

The Lowell Department of Public Works will flush water mains on November 6, 7, 8 and 9. City water customers should be advised that they may experience cloudy water while mains are being flushed in their area.

FREE RIDES TO THE POLLS

The Flate River Post 8303 of the V.F.W. is offering free transportation to and from area polling places on election day. The veterans will offer this service from 7:00 A.M. until 8 P.M. on Tuesday, November 6. Call 897-5811 to set up your ride or obtain further details.

OFF THE BLOTTER

Involved in a personal injury accident Sunday morning, October 28 was James Verwys, 18, of Lowell. Verwys' vehicle struck a utility pole and mail box on W. Main and West Street.

Majory Lenneman, 49, of Lowell damaged her vehicle Wednesday, October 24, when a deer struck the car she was driving on M-21 near Alden Nash. No injuries were suffered by the driver.

Kerry Cosgrove, 19, and Barbara Roth, 33, both of Lowell collided at Main and Hudson Street Thursday, October 25. The Cosgrove vehicle attempted to make a left turn into Hudson Street and was struck by the west bound Roth vehicle. There were no injuries.

Joanne Gillan, 25, of Lowell, collided with a vehicle driven by Oleta Smith, 17, also of Lowell on Main near Washington Street, Tuesday, October 23. The accident occurred when Smith attempted to close her passenger side door after it swung open while driving along Main Street.

A warrant was obtained by Lowell officers on charges of criminal sexual conduct first degree Monday, October 22 for Larry Churchill, 45, of Lowell. After arraignment he was lodged in the Kent County Jail pending $75,000 Bond.

Christie Belanger, 26, of Grand Rapids was issued an appearance ticket to appear in 63rd District Court at a later date on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property under $100.

Two Juveniles from Lowell will be referred to Juvenile Court at a later date for recreational trespassing violations which occurred Sunday, October 28.

Arrested Friday evening, October 26, for fleeing and eluding police officers was Victor Sturgeon, 17, of Lowell. He was lodged in the Kent County Jail pending Monday arraignment in 63rd District Court.

Opponents of Proposal A are concerned that it would further violate the separation of powers principle. They argue that Michigan's present administrative rules veto procedures appear to be a clearer constitutional violation than what has occurred at

by Senator Dick Posthumus

Computer foul-ups, absentee ballot abuse and outright voter fraud are all under the legislative microscope, as the first of a series of three public hearings have now been held to take testimony on Michigan's voter registration and elections process.

A variety of concerns relating to Michigan elections led to the calling of the hearings, conducted by the Senate Administration and Rules Committee and the Senate Majority Counsel's office.

The first three-hour hearing, held in Saginaw, drew a large response with a number of people testifying about a major computer snafu which casts doubt on the outcome of a number of recent Saginaw-area elections.

Future testimony, at scheduled hearings in Detroit and Ann Arbor, will focus not only on computer foul-ups, but also on misuse of absentee ballots, the methods of tabulating computer punch card ballots; the practice of registering large blocks of voters through churches, senior citizen centers and public agencies; and even the registering of large numbers of the mentally handicapped and teenagers, as was recently found in Southeast Michigan.

The panel will also be looking at the accuracy of voter registration lists; the practice of collecting absentee ballots at a central location and delivering them to the Clerk's office; and ballot printing errors, such as one recently found on the Supreme Court listing on Detroit-area absentee ballots.

Another potential topic is the disproportionate growth of absentee balloting and its use by individuals who are not ill, out of town, or aged, as the law requires. Proposed legislative changes, like registering by mail through the Secretary of State's office and purging inactive voter lists, may also be discussed.

This bipartisan study is being held in the hope that it will draw attention to areas of inefficiency, tampering, and outdated election practices in Michigan.

The desired outcome: improved accuracy of current voter lists; the elimination of questionable or fraudulent practices; the implementation of modern, up-to-date computer systems; and an all-round better understanding of Michigan's election operation and ways they can be improved.

Is anything more important in Michigan's, and America's, political system than the validity of the voters we cast? I don't think so, and that's why I applaud this important study.

On November 6, we will be voting on a ballot issue - Proposal C - that will have a critical impact on our school district and our quality of life should it pass. This proposal would impose numerous restraints on the ability of our representative government to govern by eliminating over $1 billion in annual revenues from public education, research, business, jobs, and local communities. The resulting effect on the Lowell school system would be disastrous. We estimate an annual loss of revenue in excess of $1.5 million. If the voters should not approve additional millage (approximately 9.7 mills) to make up for the lost revenue, drastic and severe cut-backs would have to be made to our basic education program.

Mind-boggling as this may seem, passage of Proposal C would also destroy our system of representative government as we have known it for the last 208 years. This is why a wide range of people, from business leaders to educators to public officials, Republicans and Democrats, have taken strong stands against it.

Please join us next Tuesday and cast a "NO" vote on Proposal C.

Sincerely,
Fritz Esch

Children's Book Month

As Alice might say, it's 'curiouser and curiouser' that the Kent County Library System will celebrate Children's Book Week for an entire month, beginning Nov. 10 through Dec. 6. Activities are scheduled at 16 county branches and this year's theme will be Through the Looking Glass, the Lewis Carroll sequel to Alice in Wonderland.

"For us, this is one for the biggest events of the year," says Mary Frydrych, coordinator of the Children's Services Department. "We just couldn't accomplish everything we wanted to in a single week so we'll be celebrating the joy of children's books for a whole month."

Two special programs, designed to delight audiences 6-96, have been planned. Each lasts approximately 1 hour.

The first program, a story-theatre reenactment with Alice stepping through a mirror into a backward world where the game of chess is played for real and nonsense is part of everyday, will be held at Kentwood, Plainfield, Rockford, Wyoming, Grandville, Cascade and East Grand Rapids branches. The dramatization will feature live actors performing episodes including the meeting of Tweedledee and Tweedledum, the famous 'un-birthday party' and Alice's fight with the Red Queen.

In the second program, which will be offered at Lowell, Caledonia, Comstock Park, Walker, Gaines, Sand Lake, Alto, Alpine and the Byron branches, Alice and Humpty Dumpty will host an 'un-birthday' party. As Alice will explain, since everyone has 364 un-birthdays each year, practically everyone in the audience can join in and celebrate their un-birthday that day too.

The children will also be making 'un-birthday' cards which will be delivered by the library staff to local nursing homes or homebound community members.

"Because Through the Looking Glass is not quite as familiar as Alice in Wonderland, I think the programs will be as fresh for parents as they are for the children," says Frydrych. "We've been planning the activities for months now and I'm sure they'll be loads of fun for everyone."

As the project is an ambitious one, staff and librarians throughout the system have volunteered to see costumes and serve as actors and actresses.

Individuals need not pre-register for the programs, however, groups should phone in advance to assure adequate seating. For more information, contact your local Kent County branch library or the Children's Services Department at 774-3253.

Alice's un-birthday party will be at the Lowell branch library, Wednesday, Nov. 14 at 3:15 P.M.

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

by Pauline E. Spray

I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen... (Revelation 1:18)

Children have a way of picking up peculiar expressions. One of our children always used to say, "Wonder if..." "Wonder if it will rain?" "Wonder if we will move?" "What Sybil really meant was, "What if it should rain?" "What if we should move?"

No doubt we have all asked the question, "What if?" "What if" Columbus hadn't discovered America—where would we be? "What if" Mr. Bell hadn't produced the telephone—what would teen-agers do?

But there are more serious questions to be considered? "What if" God hadn't loved the world enough to give His only Son? "What if" His Son had refused to die for us? "What if" He had not risen from the dead and thus given us the hope of eternal life?

But God did love mankind. He loved so much He gave His Son, And Jesus Christ gave His life—willingly and freely—to atone for the sins of the world. He arose from the dead and thereby gave us a glorious hope, All who accept Him can live forevermore. What "a wonderful prospect!"

Prayer: Precious Jesus, how wonderful that Thou shouldst die in my stead! What "a wonderful prospect!" Thou has given me! Help me to live today with the promise of living forevermore with Thee in heaven. Amen.

He died that we might be forgiven. He died to make us good. That we might go at last to heav'n.

Saved by His precious blood.

Lowell schools to receive additional state aid

An amendment to the State School Aid Act and curriculum offerings at Lowell Senior High will result in the Lowell School district receiving an additional $28 per pupil during the 1984-85 school year.

According to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip F. Runkel, the additional aid will be given for all pupils in the district not just high school students. This will result in Lowell schools receiving approximately $75,500 in increased state aid said Lowell Assistant Superintendent Gary Kemp.

"The ultimate purpose of the incentive funds is to increase the number of senior high school pupils enrolled in a sixth period and the number enrolled in academic classes," Runkel stated in an August letter to Michigan's public school superintendents.

To qualify for the extra monies, a school district must offer a minimum six hour day at the senior high. Each class must be a minimum of 50 minutes of instruction. Also, 20 percent of all pupils in grades 9 to 12 must be enrolled in six periods.

The school must make available to all pupils in grades 9-12 four years of English; three years of math, science, and social studies; two years of foreign language, and fine or performing arts; and one year of health, physical education, or both. The district must also provide transportation for all pupils who participate in the six hour day.

Lowell has met all these requirements, including adoption by the school board of a resolution stating the district's compliance with state guidelines. The resolution was passed at the September board meeting.

While the additional funds are good news for the district, Kemp states that "we can't get too overjoyed because we've already adopted a deficit budget." The increased aid, along with additional aid from increased enrollment, will be applied to this deficit, prompting Kemp to say that his goal is to "bring a balanced budget to the next school board meeting."

Critical to the district's success at meeting the state's requirements for additional aid was the passage in June 1983 of the millage proposal. "It (the millage) got us back to the six hour day, (it) qualified us for the extra $28," Kemp stated.

Prior to passage of the millage, the district was forced to cut back to a five hour day and lay off teachers and staff at all levels. With the 1983-84 school year, the district was back to a six hour day, setting the stage for meeting the state's guidelines for the incentive funds.

Kemp anticipates receiving the additional monies either this December or February 1985. The state aid payments arrive in six installments: August, October, December, February, April and June. Since school districts had until October 1, 1984 to meet the requirements, the earliest any payments will be sent is December.

The possibility of passage of Proposal C in the November election has caused administrators to be cautious in their enthusiasm for the additional state aid. "If Proposal C passes, the state may renege on the (additional) money because they won't have the funds to support it," Kemp said. He added that Proposal C could have devastating effects on Lowell schools, as the district could lose as much as $1.6 million in operating funds.

The loss in funds would result in the cutting of approximately one-third of the district's teachers, all support staff, transportation personnel and administrators. In order to remain in operation, the district would have to cut back to a four hour school day.

Lowell Women's Club news...

The Lowell Women's Club is sponsoring a film travelogue Saturday, November 10 at 8:00 P.M. at the Lowell Middle School. "New Zealand, A Scenic Adventure" a full length feature, was made by Monroe MacPherson, owner of Radio Station WION, Ionia. MacPherson has traveled the world extensively and made more than two dozen films.

According to MacPherson, who provides a live narration with the film, no other country packs so much scenic variety into such a small area.

Viewers will see close up the thermal wonders of Rotorua, including geysers of unbelievable magnitude, cauldrons, boiling lakes and bubbling mud. Highlighted also is Lake Taupo the country's largest lake and considered the best trout fishing location on earth.

On New Zealand's South Island the first stop is Christ Church, a sizable city located on the River Avon and considered more traditionally English than most of today's England.

A few hours drive from Christ Church are the Southern Alps, the tallest of which is 12,000 foot Mount Cook. Under the shadows of its snow capped peak, viewers will travel along the side of the 20 mile long Tasman Glacier.

The climax of the film is a launch trip in the breathtaking Milford Sound. The numerous water falls and peaks that rise straight up to more than a mile above the surface give it a claim as one of the most spectacular scenic attractions anywhere.

Tickets can be purchased from members of the Lowell Women's Club or at the State Savings Bank, Friday, November 9th and Eberhart Market, Wednesday, November 7th. $2.00 donation adults, $1.00 students.

Cub Pack 3188 Scout Up-date

The Day Hike was very successful with an attendance of approximately 45 pack members. An estimated 550 people from the Ikerno Scouting District participated in the days activities. After hiking through the woods, over bridges, and around the lake, everyone gladly attacked their sack lunches. After a short break they were back at the activity field. Activities such as a three-legged sack race, softball, and the traditional Monkey Bridge helped everyone keep warm and added to the excitement of the day. An educational first aid station was also offered to those who were interested. By mid afternoon all were glad to board the bus and head home to rest.

The Halloween pack meet attracted an interesting group, with everything from Orphan Anne to vampires and punk rockers. Even cub perfect was in costume! The Webelos Den proudly showed how active they have been with awards presented to it's members as follows:
Jason Vanderwarf- Artist,

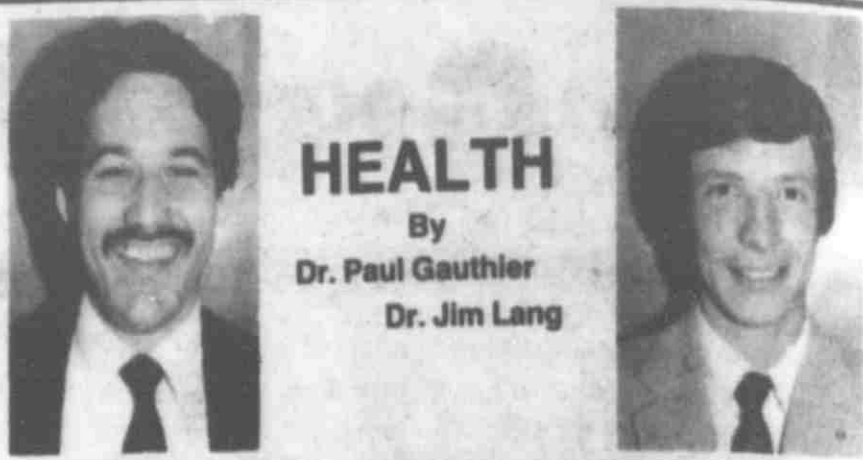

Athlete, Citizen, Engineer, Outdoorsman, Scholar.
Clay Pelon- Athlete, Citizen
Mike Landis- Citizen
Kevin Stremier- Athlete, Citizen, Outdoorsman
Jon Amundsen- Athlete, Citizen, Outdoorsman
Joe Beimers- Athlete
Paul Dreher- Athlete, Citizen
Marc Briggs- Athlete, Citizen, Outdoorsman
Ryan Burns- Athlete, Citizen
Aaron Breland- Athlete, Citizen, Outdoorsman
Mike Westra- Athlete
Scott Heukeis- Athlete, Citizen
Grant Pecor- Naturalist
Rob Kenney- Athlete, Citizen, Outdoorsman

Den 7 had it's latest project of paper machet masks on display. The Mr. Dave Award was taken by the Webelos who turned in 204 pop cans. Each month this award is received by the den contributing the most cans. Refunds from these cans help support the pack.

Den 7 won the Cubby Award for the highest percentage of attendance. The Cubby Award is also passed on at each pack meet. Pfalters Riverfront Clothing Store has generously agreed to be the drop off location for a scout uniform exchange. This exchange includes cub scout and boy scout uniforms, all uniforms must be clean, in good condition with all patches removed. Pfalters is located at 103 East Main Street next to the bridge. This is for drop off only. Any scout in need of a uniform may call Donna Irwin at 897-7243 or Phyllis Lessens at 897-7988.

Any boy age 8-10 years old who is interested in joining a very active, exciting cub scout pack can get information from Mr. Dave, the Cubmaster, by calling 868-7446.

HEALTH

In our column the last couple of weeks we discussed the debilitating affects of degenerative joint disease. Along the same lines, but dealing more with the bones, today we will review osteoporosis.

Osteoporosis is a disorder seen mostly in post-menopausal women and is characterized by decreased bone mass and an increased susceptibility to fractures. The common hip fracture is usually a result of osteoporosis. Over one million fractures per year are a direct result of osteoporosis in people 45 years or older.

Bone is strongest at about 35 years of age and after reaching this peak, bone mass generally declines because of an imbalance in remodeling. After menopause bone mass decreases rapidly because of loss of minerals. Reduction of this bone density is the most important reason for increased frequency of fractures in post-menopausal women. A slip or fall that would have caused only minor injuries in younger years, now causes a fracture in a woman with osteoporosis. The most common sites of fracture are the spine, hip and wrist. Basically, people with osteoporosis can fracture any bone more easily than another individual without this disorder.

Women are at higher risk than men for developing osteoporosis as they generally have less bone mass to start with and menopause accelerates the decline of bone mass. Other factors leading to an increased risk of osteoporosis are smoking, calcium deficiency, and prolonged bed rest or immobilization. It is felt that the principle underlying causes of osteoporosis are a deficiency of estrogen (seen after menopause) and a deficiency of calcium.

How can osteoporosis be prevented or treated? It is important to treat osteoporosis before bone mass declines to a point where fracture occurs. The mainstays of treatment are estrogen replacement, calcium supplementation, exercise and proper nutrition. Estrogen replacement therapy in women after menopause will reduce bone resorption and halt bone loss. A recent consensus panel from the National Institute of Health recommends that all women under 50 years of age who have their ovaries removed, receive estrogen therapy and that women who have had a natural menopause should also be considered for estrogen therapy. Post-menopausal women require 1,500 milligrams of calcium per day to remain in metabolic balance. It is likely that an increase in calcium intake to 1,000 to 1,500 milligrams per day would reduce the incidence of osteoporosis. Each 8 oz. glass of milk contains about 300 milligrams of calcium. Calcium can also be taken in tablet form available at all drug stores. Modest exercise is also recommended as this seems to reduce bone loss. Walking is an ideal example. Walking for 30-40 minutes daily not only helps maintain bone strength but also benefits the heart.

In summary, osteoporosis, a thinning of bone, can be prevented in post-menopausal women by adequate intake of calcium, adequate exercise and possible estrogen replacement therapy thereby reducing the risk of fractures.

by Roger Brown

I see on the new Cadillac ads that they have installed the new high-mount taillights in the back window. If I'm not mistaken, these high lights are are going to be on all new cars soon. It's another so-called safety feature mandated by the government. To me it's just going to mean two more light bulbs that I'm going to have to keep maintained. I guess I feel that way because automotive lights are beginning to become something of an irritation with me.

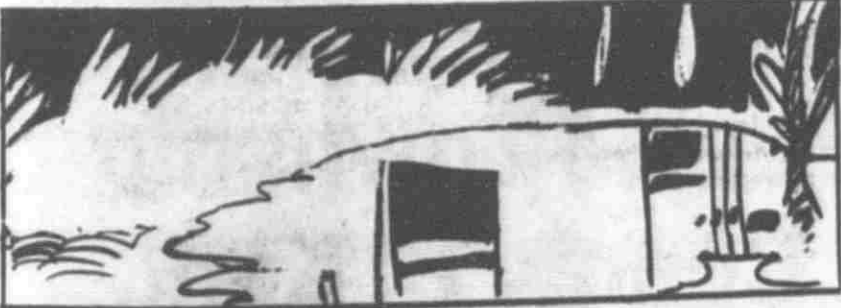

Turn signals have always been a pet peeve of mine. I just hate it when I sit at a corner waiting for traffic to clear from the left, and when it finally gets to me they all turn right without a turn signal in sight. On the freeway there's always a bounty of jerks tooling along in the right lane with their left turn signal going, or vice versa. I'm always a little skeptical about passing these clowns knowing that if they do decide to make that left turn it's apt to be right into the side on my car. Then there are the motorcyclists whose turn signals don't shut off automatically after rounding a corner. These guys are forever flitting in and out of traffic, all the while signaling a left turn. I think they were safer before turn signals and had to rely on hand signals.

Parking lights are another automotive light that get me going. They ought to wire the things so that they only work when they were intended to work, and that is when the vehicle is in park. The law may have changed, but the last I knew it was illegal to travel with your parking lights on. In the past few years it seems like it has become a fad to drive as long as possible with just your parking lights, especially with the younger crowd. I almost hit one of these parking light freaks the other night, and by night I do mean night. It wasn't dusk, or twilight or anything like that, it was night, dark, after sundown, no more sunlight! What's the big deal about turning on your headlights anyway? I don't remember ever getting a bill from Consumers Power for using my headlights.

Fog lamps are another light that grind me to no end. You see them mounted all over 4-wheel drive pickups, and when you meet one with all those lamps burning you wish had a welder's mask on. In a feeble attempt to fight back I usually give them my bright lights. They always flip on their brights, but compared to the fog lamps that's like lighting a candle.

Then there are trailer lights. I was getting ready to haul my boat home and put it in storage a couple of weeks ago. Now we're not talking about the Queen Mary here with a trailer to haul her. We're talking about an 18 ft., 300 pound catamaran with a modest trailer designed to carry it. Guess how many lights there are on this thing? Five? Six? Eight? Try eleven! And guess how many of them worked when I hooked it to the car? Would you believe...two? Four of the lights were completely broken off from stones thrown by the car tires, mishaps with the garage, etc. The rest of the malfunctioning lights were either rusty or the bulbs were burned out. I spent an entire afternoon, and about thirty dollars, but I finally got them all working again. In my opinion about two thirds of them are just ornaments anyway, but a state trooper probably wouldn't see it that way.

When I was sixteen or seventeen my dad had an antique Ford Model A Roadster Pickup that we used as a second car and delivery truck for his business. It had two headlights and one taillight mounted on the left. The taillight would come on when the brakes were depressed, and it would blink to indicate a left turn. That was it. To paraphrase Steve Martin's memorable line in "The Jerk", "That's all I need, these three lights right here, that's all I need".

Shiloh Family residents tell of drug recovery

By Juanita Gerst
"I killed every animal I had... I tried to kill my dad... I was crazy; I did not feel like I had any control at all in my life," a 15 year old alcoholic/addict named Shirlee told a group at the recent DARE meeting.

Shirlee and Carla (16) are residents of Shiloh Family, a Grand Rapids home for drug- and alcohol addicts. She spoke at the Lowell group's meeting at the request of Mr. Jim Kyburz, one of the group's founders.

Shirlee is an alcoholic and drug addict. She began getting drunk at age two because her parents thought it was funny to see her stagger around, so they got her drunk.

She had to be the "mom of the family" and take care of her brother and sister, so she sought escape from her situation.

"I wouldn't party to get drunk, I'd party to pass out. That was my escape," she said.

This Halloween be extra alert for children

Fog lamps are another light that grind me to no end. You see them mounted all over 4-wheel drive pickups, and when you meet one with all those lamps burning you wish had a welder's mask on. In a feeble attempt to fight back I usually give them my bright lights. They always flip on their brights, but compared to the fog lamps that's like lighting a candle.

Then there are trailer lights. I was getting ready to haul my boat home and put it in storage a couple of weeks ago. Now we're not talking about the Queen Mary here with a trailer to haul her. We're talking about an 18 ft., 300 pound catamaran with a modest trailer designed to carry it. Guess how many lights there are on this thing? Five? Six? Eight? Try eleven! And guess how many of them worked when I hooked it to the car? Would you believe...two? Four of the lights were completely broken off from stones thrown by the car tires, mishaps with the garage, etc. The rest of the malfunctioning lights were either rusty or the bulbs were burned out. I spent an entire afternoon, and about thirty dollars, but I finally got them all working again. In my opinion about two thirds of them are just ornaments anyway, but a state trooper probably wouldn't see it that way.

When I was sixteen or seventeen my dad had an antique Ford Model A Roadster Pickup that we used as a second car and delivery truck for his business. It had two headlights and one taillight mounted on the left. The taillight would come on when the brakes were depressed, and it would blink to indicate a left turn. That was it. To paraphrase Steve Martin's memorable line in "The Jerk", "That's all I need, these three lights right here, that's all I need".

Candy is part of Halloween, but 5 year-old Kelly Mathison of Detroit knows that before eating treats, little witches and warlocks should have them checked by an adult. The Automobile Club of Michigan urges motorists to "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" this Halloween by being extra alert for children darting into streets. Trick-or-treaters should follow Kelly's example and wear face makeup rather than masks, wear bright or illuminated costumes and cross only at corners. To make this a safe Halloween, the Auto Club is offering free reflective treat bags and safety tip cards at its 54 offices statewide.

Finally, she admitted she needed help. "You have to get sick and tired of being sick and tired," she pointed out. So, she sought help.

Carla, who has been at Shiloh for one year, told of starting drugs at 13 because she wanted to be part of the gang. Pot was the first drug she experimented with and then she went on to others.

She blamed her mother for her father's death but rather than work out her problems she "stuffed the feelings" and used drugs to keep her "on top of the world."

It was her realization that she was an addict that brought her to Shiloh. She requested admittance to the program and was accepted.

Carla is very concerned for her little sister. She doesn't want her to become a drug addict like she was. Carla told the audience, "I want to be there to protect her."

Shirlee's father abused her and she didn't know how to handle the situation.

"Anyone can find those easy ways out (through drugs)," she said. "That is the path she took."

When asked what they saw as possible solutions to the problem of drug and alcohol abuse, Carla suggested that something be done to form peer groups so teens have something to do besides get high. Peer groups could have bowling, skating or racquetball parties, for example. Even more school dances might help.

Both girls feel very strongly about commercials in relation to alcohol abuse. The biggest problem with these advertisements is that "They don't show the tears or pain or addiction," Shirlee pointed out. An ad never shows the hangover or the family fights that come from alcohol abuse; they only show the fun times.

Carla felt that teachers should crack down on drugs in the schools, and that law enforcement officers should, too. She feels that too many students don't get busted when they should be.

Getting caught could make users realize what they are doing to themselves. "I would say enforce it. (the law). That would be a slap in the face" with reality.

"I've decided that my life is going to be devoted to helping kids like me," Shirlee told the group.

Soccer Club Ties Up Winning Season

Lowell Soccer Club met two strong teams in their last week of the season and emerged with ties in both cases.

On Tuesday, Oct. 23, the LSC hosted Rockford at the Middle School field. Play was even for 17 min. of the first half with Lowell and Rockford each managing several shots on goal. The first score of the game was Lowell's at 17:30 when fullback Joe Driedger hit the goal with a 35 metre kick from the right side unassisted. A second goal was drilled in just one minute later when right wing Matt Quada returned a Rockford blocking shot directly back into the goal unassisted.

Lowell's defense was very strong, disallowing goals on several free and corner kicks by Rockford during the next 20 min. Rockford scored once in the first half at 39 min. on a corner kick and header. Fullbacks Todd Lyon, Lino Svarez, Mark Eldridge and David Douma were very effective at breaking up drives by Rockford.

Rockford was awarded several scoreless indirect free kicks during the first 10 minutes of the second half. Lowell keeper Chris Jasinski continued to make sensational saves. Rockford dominated the offensive play during the next 15 minutes resulting in a goal at 25 min.

The remainder of the game was even play with free kicks and corner kicks awarded to both teams but no scoring resulted. Final score was Lowell 2, Rockford 2.

On Thursday, October 25, the Lowell Soccer club met Grand Rapids Baptist Academy at the Middle School field with misty weather through much of the

Red Arrows

Lose to Wyoming Park

Wyoming Park completed an unblemished 7-0 record in the OK White League with a 25-7 win over the Lowell Red Arrows Friday night. Lowell got behind early when Wyoming Park senior Steven Jenkinson took the opening kick-off 89 yards for a touchdown. Lowell tied things up early in the second quarter when Dennis Jannenga completed a 14 yard pass to quarterback Robb King.

The score remained tied until the final minute of the half when Park took advantage of a fourth-down penalty on Lowell to keep a drive alive. Host passed 19 yards to Jenkinson, who caught the low throw in the endzone while rolling on the ground.

Interceptions in the second half cut short Lowell's comeback bid and set up Park's third score. The Vikings' Agema had two interceptions in the second half while Kraig Koeze and Jenkinson had one apiece. Koeze's interception deep in Lowell territory set the stage for Stade's 5-yard run with 9:49 left in the last quarter, a score that gave Park a two-touchdown lead.

"We just didn't hit the passes in the second half that we've been hitting all year," said Christensen, who saw a four-game win streak end in a 5-3 season. "We have all the respect in the world for Park, but I think we gave them a great game. They had trouble moving the ball on us and we had a couple of nice drives, but hurt ourselves with turnovers."

Lowell's Rich Johnson was injured on the third play of the fourth quarter and transported to Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids. Christensen said he believed Johnson had suffered a neck injury; his condition was not available from Butterworth game and a downpour in the closing minutes. LSC starters Brian Hayward, Jason Robertson, Mike Alsgaard, Brad Haight, Mike Korte, Scott DeVries, Doug Kelly, Mike Ray, Mark Eldridge, Todd Lyon and Ian Haight held Baptist scoreless through the first 10 minutes of the half. They generated two drives on Baptist's goal as well. Play was even for the next 15 minutes until Lowell scored at 25 min. when Enrique Delviesca sank a shot centered by Quada. Both Lowell and Baptist generated strong offensive drives but equally strong defenses, disallowing further scoring in the first half.

Second half starters for Lowell were the same as the first half and were substituted for at 10 minutes in to the second half with Jasinski in goal. Svarez, Driedger, Douma, Tim Thompson, Sam Miller, Delviesca, Quada, and Ken Lip-per. LSC held Baptist scoreless until 38 minutes into the second half. Baptist scored on a quick shot from 5 metres on the right side after being repulsed several times by Lowell's fullbacks at the goal mouth. Final score of the game was Lowell 1, Baptist Academy 1, giving Lowell a winning season in its first year of competition, 7 wins, 3 losses and 3 ties.

Thank yous are in order to all of the parents, friends and community members who supported and transported our team this season. A special thanks to Chuck and Jan Lippert, Paul and Diana Fulkerson, Ray and Carol Weigle, and Ray and Kathie Quada for their dedication to fund raising, field preparation, securing equipment and uniforms and giving direction to the club. A special thanks to Coach Rachid Azreg for the excellent soccer skills he taught our young men.

Honorable Mention Awarded

Coach Rodenhouse and Phyllis Beachler

This past summer Phyllis and Kathleen Beachler were named to the Class B All State Softball Honorable Mention Team. In doing so they became the first athletes from Lowell High School to be named to the team in softball.

Phyllis, a senior at Lowell, was a two year Tri-River All-Conference player and a Region 9 All Star. She holds a team record for most hits in a single season. She batted .417 with 3 home runs and scored 47 runs. Phyllis is an outstanding outfielder with a great range and a great arm.

Kathleen was a 1984 graduate of Lowell and was an All-Conference catcher, Region 9 All Star, and voted Team MVP. She now attends Aquinas College.

Two-year old has two great-great grandmothers

Five generation families are a bit of a rarity, but little Nicole Anne LeTourneau can boast of having two living great-great grandmothers. Nicole's parents are John and Tammy (Johnson) LeTourneau. The LeTourneau's are residing in Guam where John serves with the U.S. Air Force.

Nicole's maternal grandparents are Randy and Ruth (Marsman) Johnson, formerly of Lowell and now residing in Texas. From there Nicole has two sets of great-grandparents. They are Martin and Treva Johnson of Lowell, and Rich and Clarel Marsman of Ada. Nicole's great-great grandmothers are Martin's mother Jennie Johnson, 81, of Grand Rapids and Clarel's mother Florence Bennett, 85, who resides with the Marsmans in Ada.

Do-it-yourself maintenance program

Motorists who invest 30 minutes now in a simple do-it-yourself Automobile Club of Michigan preventive maintenance program can help guarantee trouble-free driving all winter.

"By following the owner's manual maintenance recommendations and performing 12 routine checks, motorists will have a more dependable vehicle and find overall operating costs reduced," stated Robert Tellier, Auto Club's Emergency Road Service manager.

A survey of nearly 5,000 vehicles inspected during the Auto Club's 1983 Winter Car Care Clinics showed that 48 percent of the vehicles checked had deficiencies, which if left unattended, could have resulted in breakdowns. The most common problems were low antifreeze, motor oil and tire pressure (28 percent of all vehicles checked).

Each of those items can be maintained through instructions in the owner's manual.

Preventive maintenance is the key to a vehicle's overall performance. "If motor oil is not changed at specified intervals, engine damage can result and is costly to repair," Tellier said.

To perform the following 12-point check list, a motorist will need a screw driver, anti-freeze hydrometer and a tire pressure gauge. The checks can be performed anywhere and require about 30 minutes.

Motor oil—the owner's manual will specify intervals between oil changes, but the oil should be checked each time the car is filled with gasoline.

Brake fluid level should be within a quarter-inch of the top of the master cylinder. The screwdriver is needed to pry off the clip that holds the cover of the brake fluid chamber.

Fill the windshield washer reservoir with a good commercial solvent to prevent freezing.

Check the level and strength of antifreeze in the radiator. Some cars have overflow tanks where the coolant can be checked easily with the hydrometer. Never open a hot radiator.

Power steering fluid level can be checked on a dipstick similar to the oil dipstick. To avoid over-filling, add the fluid gradually and test the level several times.

Hold the carburetor air filter up to the sun or next to a light. If you can't see light through it, it is time for replacement.

Check the automatic transmission fluid with a dipstick located on most cars behind the engine on the passenger side of the car. The car should be parked on a level grade with the engine running.

Test for fan belt tension and look for fraying or cracking. Press your thumb on the middle of each drive belt. If the belt gives more than a half-inch, have it tightened or replaced. Also inspect hoses and connections for leaks.

Clean battery terminals and dirty cables with a baking soda and water solution, and check the battery fluid level.

Turn on all lights and turn signals to make sure they work.

Check tire pressure with a gauge and inspect tread wear. The spare also should be checked.

Check windshield wipers and replace them if worn.

For best results, Tellier advised motorists to perform the checks on a monthly basis.

Girls 4-4 in OK

White conference

The Red Arrow girls basketball team won two OK White conference games last week with wins over Wyoming Park and East Grand Rapids. The wins give Lowell a 4-4 conference record.

On Tuesday, Lowell outscored Park in every quarter to win 54-39. Phyllis Beachler led the scoring drive with 23 points. Maria Ritzema shot 72 percent and added 16 points. Each team had 29 rebounds, Beachler had ten for Lowell.

Others scoring for Lowell were: Nancy Baerwalde 5, Nancy Stencel 2, Cathy Kazemier 4, Cindy Dumas 2 and Jenny Hoffman 2.

On Thursday, Lowell beat East the second time this year 44-29. Both teams had a hard time finding the basket and Lowell had an 8-2 1st quarter lead. The Arrows started pressing in the 2nd quarter and added 14 points.

Beachler led all scorers with 18 and Nancy Stencel added 10. Maria Ritzema had 8, Nancy Baerwalde 4, Cindy Dumas 2 and Tonya Phillips 2.

East outbounded Lowell 40-23. Beachler and Stencel had 6 each and both had 6 steals.

New home equity loans can offer opportunity -- or risk

You could lose your home; that's a fact borrowers must face when taking a home equity loan. These loans, which offer a revolving line credit and use the investment you have in your home as collateral, are being marketed for the first time in about 30 states. Bank industry analysts say it's just a matter of a few months before these loans become available in the rest of the country. But, as one banker confides, "home equity loans are not for everybody."

It's wise to examine the terms offered, says the Michigan Association of CPAs, before you risk the roof over your head.

A home equity reserve loan is like a second mortgage, but instead of borrowing a fixed amount against the equity built up in your home, you are given a revolving line of credit. This renewable line of credit, under most loan programs, is equal to 65 to 75 percent of the equity in your home. If your home is appraised at $200,000 and you owe $20,000 on your mortgage, for example, you would be given an approximate $115,000 to $130,000 revolving line of credit.

The loans are offered by banks, savings and loans, brokerages and finance companies. In some states, laws prohibit open-ended credit using a home as collateral. But officials at the Federal Reserve Board note that states are changing such laws. Critics of these loans fear that some borrowers will tap the equity in their home for frivolous or risky purposes, and this could result in foreclosures.

"These loans are not for a worker whose job is not secure," said one banker. In addition, reserves are usually tapped through credit cards or check books, so people who cannot resist temptation to spend need to be careful, but if you understand the terms of the loan and feel that the risk is not great for your personal situation, a home equity reserve loan can be a very useful instrument. CPAs say.

According to an account executive at a brokerage firm, a businessman recently has been using his $600,000 line of credit to purchase needed machinery for his tool and die company at bargain rates. "He's buying equipment at bankruptcy sales because he knows his return will be greater than his investment."

Using credit to buy appreciating assets is "leveraging," and for those who can safely meet the terms of home equity loans it can pay off handsomely. One banker said a few of his upscale clients have used their equity reserves to allow them to make tax-advantaged investments.

If you are in the 50 percent tax bracket and the finance rate on your line of credit is 14 percent, your effective finance rate is seven percent because finance charges are a tax-deductible expense if you itemize deductions. Thus, you need only find an investment with an after-tax yield greater than seven percent in order to turn a profit on money you borrow.

IRS rules forbid deducting interest charges on your federal income tax return when you use borrowed money to purchase tax-exempt securities. However, the IRS does not prohibit owning tax-exempts while deducting interest costs if there is no direct link between the two transactions.

The most popular uses for a home equity reserve are to finance a college education and home improvements. For someone paying for a child's education and buying a new car, tapping the line of credit in a home equity reserve may be cheaper than two separate loans.

In sizing up the terms of a home equity loan, look for finance rates that are tied to easily verifiable indexes, such as Treasury Bill rates. All of the home equity reserves surveyed for this article carry adjustable rates. Having a verifiable index will allow you to check the "spread" above the index charged by your lender.

Check to see if a balloon payment comes due at the end of the term. That could mean paying off most of the loan at the very end. Find out about closing costs and maintenance fees. These loans do require a deed for a second mortgage.

'OUTDOORS' with Jack Friesner

All properties upon which we hunt, trap, fish or pursue any outdoor activity, are owned by someone or some form of government. No one has the God given right to enter upon these premises without permission to do so. Nothing blackens the eye of the outdoors person more than the flagrant disregard of ownership. It is generally accepted that all have the right to utilize our federal, state and county properties. In a broad general sense, this is true, but even then we must abide by certain restrictions.

The repeated disregard for personal property by a very minority group of outdoor people has resulted in more and more no trespassing signs. We in this immediate area are very fortunate in that the vast majority of personal properties are not so posted. This fact however does not alleviate the responsibility of gaining permission. It is in fact illegal to enter upon the lands of another without written permission. Written permission is, in fact, a technicality and is often a bother for the land owner. Verbal permission is all that is actually needed since the landowner must prosecute trespassers and he is not going to prosecute if he has given permission.

A few general rules of conduct should suffice to gain you repeated access. Always secure permission and let the land owner know where you will be. Never litter, if you are strong enough to carry a container or wrapper in with you full, you sure can carry it out empty. Drive only where you are instructed to, or better yet, walk. Leave things exactly as you found them. If a gate is open, leave it open. If it is closed, leave it closed. Don't break down fences. In general, be more careful and considerate than you would be with your own. It is almost certain that you'll be invited back if you'll stop by and offer your thanks, or a piece of game when you leave.

Every group has its share of slob, make certain that you're not one and if one in your party is, leave him or her at home on the next trip. Remember if you are not on your own property, you are on someone else's. Treat it a little better than you would your own.

MOVE IT With Your Head!

Moving a waterbed does not mean a bridge over troubled waters. To ensure safe transportation of your waterbed, adequate pre-planning and packing are required. Although waterbeds differ, all require time to drain the mattress and disassemble the frame. Most professional movers require the customer to drain the mattress before the moving van arrives. Contact a waterbed store or manufacturer for information on how to drain your mattress. Since some mattresses contain fiber-filled baffles, care must be taken to avoid damaging them.

Drain the mattress and disassemble the frame before moving a waterbed.

If moving professionally, inform the mover before moving day if you have a fragile or bulky item such as a waterbed for which special handling is required. You will pay an additional fee for this service. Should you discover any damage upon arrival, contact the mover for assistance in filing a claim. United Van Lines offers free information on moving waterbeds. For your copy, send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Department WB, United Van Lines, #1 United Drive, Fenton, MO 63026.

PROPOSAL B, Natural Resources Land Trust Fund.

The Official Ballot Wording is: A PROPOSAL TO ESTABLISH A NATURAL RESOURCES TRUST FUND AND A BOARD TO ADMINISTER IT, TO PROVIDE REVENUES FOR IT FROM NATURAL RESOURCE LEASES AND EXISTING FUNDS AND TO SPECIFY AND LIMIT THE EXPENDITURES THEREFROM.

The proposed amendment would:

1. Establish a Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund to be funded by certain royalties, bonuses and rentals collected by the state from the drilling of oil and gas or the mining of minerals on state-owned land.

2. Require that earnings from the trust fund be used only for:

- a. purchasing land or rights in land:
 - (1) for public recreation
 - (2) of environmental importance
 - (3) of particular scenic beauty
- b. Developing public recreation facilities.
- c. Administering the Natural Resources Trust Fund.

3. Require creation of a Natural Resources Trust Fund Board to recommend projects to be approved by the legislature.

Should the proposed amendment be adopted? Yes No

PROVISIONS OF PROPOSAL B

Supporters of the proposal have expressed concern over the practice of using monies from the trust fund for state programs other than those specified in the legislation. Another concern has been access to the monies for other purposes during state budget shortages. If approved by voters, the newly established Natural Resources Trust Fund would operate in essentially the same manner as the present Kammer Trust Fund. The major difference would be that the monies in the fund could not be used for other budgetary needs. If Proposal B is not approved, the Kammer Fund will continue to operate as it does at present, unless the law is changed by the legislature.

The principal features of Proposal B include:

- Provision that interest and earnings can be spent for acquisition of land for recreation or for protection of the land, and for administration of the trust fund. Grants may be provided to local governments or public authorities for the purpose of this act.

- Specification that at least 25 percent of the total expenditures from the trust fund in any fiscal year must be spent for acquiring land and land rights.

- Specification that no more than 25 percent of the total expenditures in any fiscal year can be used for the development of public recreational facilities.

- A restriction limiting the principal in the fund to $200 million. Any additional revenues would have to be appropriated for other purposes by the legislature unless the $200 million ceiling were increased by law. The current limit on the Kammer Trust Fund is $150 million.

PROPOSAL C, Voter's Choice

The Official Ballot Wording is: A PROPOSAL TO AMEND ARTICLE 9, SECTIONS 1 AND 2 OF THE CONSTITUTION RELATING TO TAXES, OTHER REVENUES AND VOTER OR LEGISLATIVE APPROVAL OF SAME.

The proposed amendment would:

1. Prohibit changes in the base or rate of any state or local tax which would increase its revenue yield, or adoption of new taxes, unless approved by voters.

2. Make void 90 days after the adoption of amendment:

- a. new or increased rate or base of state or local taxes since 12/31/81 unless/until approved by voters;
- b. new or increased license, user or permit fees since 12/31/81 unless; until approved by voters or four-fifths vote of legislative body adopting same.

3. Limit nonresident local political subdivision income tax to one-half of 1 percent.

4. Require tax proposals to state purpose, total anticipated amount and expiration date. Should the amendment be adopted? Yes No

PROVISIONS OF PROPOSAL C

Proposal C specifies the rollback of taxes and fees to 1981 levels unless:

- There is a popular vote for the increase in the base or rate of any state or local tax.

- There is a four-fifths approval by the appropriate governing body or majority approval by the voters for any increases in state or local fees, licenses, permits, etc.

The same approval procedures would be applicable to any proposed increases in taxes and fees in the future (i.e., four-fifths majority of governing body or voter approval).

The proposal would cancel any changes since Dec. 31, 1981, in the base or rate of tax by the state or by local governments that resulted in an increase in revenue. It would not, however, require that any money be returned to taxpayers.

If Proposal C is approved, state and local units of government would need to make these decisions within 90 days after the proposal takes effect:

1. which taxes, fees, licenses and permits levied by state and local government would be affected;

2. whether to attempt the reinstatement of any increases since 1981 in the fees, permits and licenses or in tax rates;

3. whether to attempt the reinstatement of the increases in fees, permits and licenses by trying for a four-fifths favorable majority vote by the appropriate governing body, or by holding an election within the jurisdiction to which the fee applies. All state and local tax increases since 1981 could only be reinstated by a majority vote in an election.

If reinstatement of tax or fee levels is not attempted, or if it fails, appropriate budget and service reductions would have to be made.

Tips for deer hunters

At best, only one in seven or eight hunters will tag bucks during this year's deer hunting season, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources predicts.

A majority of Michigan deer hunters, therefore, will eat their hearts out--instead of the much sought after venison--unless the plan wisely for a successful season.

To improve a hunter's chances of success, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) has published a list of recommendations by veteran deer hunters.

Writing for Michigan Out-of-Doors, MUCC's monthly magazine, Tom Huggler, an Otisville author of three books on the outdoors, cites a number of pointers which will help both beginning and experienced deer hunters.

For example, scouting for deer before the season is a big factor as to whether a hunter will be successful, according to Huggler.

Generally, he recommends that scouting take place a week or two before the season begins. Waiting until the evening before the opening day is foolish, Huggler says.

When searching for a prime hunting area, deer hunters should bear in mind where and how they plan to assemble their blind or stand.

Hunting right on top of a runway or breeding scrape is a sure way to scare off an incoming buck. Building a ground scrape which does not blend in with the surroundings is quite likely to do the same thing.

A blind, preferably built a couple of weeks before the season, should be made of logs, stumps, or branches of downed trees. Ideally, the blind should be fashioned into a hillside or around a small depression so that it becomes a natural part of the surroundings, Huggler suggests.

A tree stand, legal only for archers, is best if it is located in a cluster of trees--with plenty of cover overhead--rather than along a single bare trunk. The optimum height for a stand is 15 to 20 feet above the ground.

Once your hunting site has been established, another important consideration is approaching the blind or stand. More times than not, hunters tend to spook deer rather than sneak up on them. So on the way to and from your hunting spot, try taking three steps, then stop and count to 10 before moving again. The reason is that animals rarely move with measured tread through the woods and hunters should do likewise, Huggler points out.

While some deer hunters might have great success by using only one blind or stand during a season, certain veterans are strongly opposed to that practice.

Larry Hartwick, a Cass City hunter who has tagged 23 whitetails to date, is one such exception. Hartwick hunts from several stands, relying upon time of season, weather, wind, general behavior of whitetails, and a hunter's hunch to choose the correct one.

He is especially careful to use different access routes to and from his stands and he rarely hunts the same one on two consecutive nights, claiming that human scent builds up from overuse.

Bob Knopf of Iowa is another hunter with his own approach to hunting deer in Michigan. A veteran hunter with 24 whitetails to his credit, Knopf says that he usually enters his stand with only 15 to 30 minutes of showing light.

A final--but quite noteworthy--consideration is the hunter's physical fitness. Once you have killed that trophy buck, you will probably have to haul it back to your vehicle. Make sure that you are fit enough to do so. A brisk walk and a few morning exercises long before November 15 can prepare a hunter for what can be a tremendous strain.

"A 150-pound buck pulls none to easily over bare ground for a hunter whose only exercise has been trips to the office water cooler," Huggler emphasizes.
