DID YOU KNOW?

The 1984 graduating class of Lowell High received 73 grants and scholarships worth an estimated $35,000, plus Lowell Sr. High has one of the highest amounts of Private Endowment Monies available for scholarships use in Kent County.

That Lowell Sr. High School has been accredited by the North Central Association of Schools since 1923 and by the University of Michigan since 1903?

Over 25 colleges and universities, as well as all the Armed Services make visits to our Lowell Senior High School each year? Between 36%-40% of last year's graduating class planned to go on to higher institutions of learning to further their education.

Studies of effective schools show that educational leadership, high expectations by teachers, a climate conducive to learning, emphasis on basic skills, amount of time spent actually working on tasks in the classroom, and good evaluation of programs are the most important components of effective education.

This information has been supplied by the Lowell Citizens for Education.

West Main crash injures three

Three people were injured, and one remains hospitalized as the result of a West Main Street accident last Wednesday at about 9:30 a.m. The accident occurred as a 16 year old juvenile female from Lowell exited the McDonalds Restaurant in a pickup truck. She was attempting a left turn onto Main Street where an eastbound car driven by James McCaul, 74, of Ada hit the pickup broadside at the driver's door.

The driver of the pickup truck and her 13 year old juvenile passenger were treated and released following the accident. McCaul remains in St. Mary's Hospital where his condition is listed as "stable."

Lowell police, fire and rescue units responded to the scene. Rescue personnel treated the injured at the scene and prepared them for transport via Life Am-

State Police honor Valentine

Lowell Police Officer James Valentine has been awarded a citation for "Professional Excellence" by the Michigan State Police. The award was issued as a result of Valentine's key role in the arrest of Benjamin Acosta in August of 1983. Acosta was wanted for the hit and run death of a Smyrna woman who was dragged by the suspect vehicle for several hundred yards. A statewide search for the suspect vehicle and driver had proved fruitless for more than two week's. Finally, Valentine, in response to a tip relayed to him by the Ionia State Police, spotted the suspect vehicle parked in the municipal parking lot in the 200 block of Lowell's West Main Street. Valentine kept his car, and the building where Acosta was thought to be residing under surveillance until units from the State Police and Kent County Sheriff's Department could arrive at the scene and make the arrest.

The certificate was presented Monday by Lieutenant Jack Hall, Commander of the Ionia State Police Post. In an accompanying letter from Col. Gerald Hough, Director of the Michigan State Police, Hough stated, "This certificate is sent to you with my best wishes that all law enforcement personnel may continue their mutual efforts in the public interest and for the good of all law enforcement."

State Honors Lowell Students

Eighty-six Lowell area students received certificates in recognition of their performance on the 1984-85 Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) test they completed in October 1984. The MEAP is a statewide testing program in reading and mathematics administered every fall to fourth, seventh, and tenth grade students.

The certificate identifies them as being one of 86 students district-wide who attained 100% of the reading and mathematics objectives tested.

April 14 is National Library Week

Bob Garcia, Lowell

"Coach" Garcia is busy getting his "athletes" in shape for the upcoming State Science Olympiad but instead of a gym, the Lowell Library is the source of the team's mind-building equipment. After placing 3rd in the regional competition, the 15-member science team from Lowell High School will go on to compete at the state level on April 27. In the meantime, Bob will rely on the Lowell branch to supply materials pertaining to earth science, biology, chemistry and physics—the 4 areas of olympiad competition. Knowledge will be applied and tested in events such as paper-plane flying (trajectory), map reading and computer technology. "Competition will be stiff but we're in the ballpark" especially in the computer related events," says Bob. Throughout the year, Bob borrows materials which are useful to him as a teacher. Besides this, however, he borrows and enjoys books, records and video cassettes for personal use.

Jennifer Benedict, Alto

Jennifer is a busy young lady but still manages to visit the Alto Branch Library often. Her favorite book is Misty of Chincoteague which is especially meaningful as, last summer, she visited the island which lies four miles off the eastern shore of Virginia.

Although Jennifer says she's primarily a pleasure reader, she does rely on the library's resource collection for completion of reports and projects.

Jennifer is a member of the Grand Rapids Figure Skating Club and recently participated in the club's annual ice show. She is also an Alto 4-H Active Achiever, member of the First Baptist quiz team, AWANA (a church bible study group) and assists in the church nursery.

Obviously a gal with plenty of energy, she also likes to cook, sing and do counted cross stitchery. Jennifer clearly fits the bill as a lively person who uses the library!

The Fair's activity begins at 9 a.m. and continues until 7 p.m. Friday evening. The United Methodist Church is located at 621 E. Main Street, Lowell. Come during the day - or stop after work.

Art and Craft Fair sponsored by the United Methodist Women. Included for sale will be country crafts, Teddy Bears, Care Bears, Cabbage Patch dolls and clothing, knitted and crocheted items, wall arrangements, macrame, floral arrangements, "attic treasures" and baked goods. A special feature of this year will be framed charcoal portraits drawn by David Nichols.

... what he had promised, he was able also to perform Romans 4:21).

Disappointments come to all of us. Because of human limitations, we find there are things we are unable to do. These inability bring grief and heartache. Aunt Grace had to forfeit her degree in music because she was too nervous to give her recital.

Human limitations may keep us from doing many things we would like to do, but we can rely upon One who knows no such weaknesses. What He has promised to do, He is able to perform—always, and without fail.

God promised to make of Abraham a great nation, and Abraham believed God. In the face of seeming impossibility, Abraham staggered not, but he was strong, giving glory to God. He was fully persuaded that God could fulfill His promises; and he was rewarded.

God is pleased, too, when we "stagger not at His promises."

He wants us to be strong in faith in the face of seeming impossibility, to be fully persuaded in our minds that He is able to perform those things He has promised to do. If we have this kind of faith, we shall be rewarded, also, for "God never lets us down."

Prayer: "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven." What Thou hast promised, Thou wilt perform. Thou wilt never fail nor forsake me. For this I give thanks. Amen.

He will not forsake;

He will never break!

Lowell students to compete in Airband competition

High School and college students from around the state will be participating in the airband competition at Grand Valley State College on April 12 and 13. This will be the second annual collegiate airband competition and the first for high school students.

A group that mimics the Irish rock band "U-2" will be among the dozens of competitors. The Lowell group is comprised of Chris Jasinski, Ian Haight, Jason Robertson and Kevin Hawley. All four are Lowell High School students.

An airband is a group of performers who mimic a musical group and pantomime lyrics and movements to recorded music. No live microphones or actual playing of musical instruments is allowed. Microphones and instruments are permitted only as props.

Contestants will be judged on synchronization, creativity, showmanship, and audience response. A cash prize of $1,000 for the top college group and $500 for the high school winning group will be awarded. Lesser cash prizes will be awarded to groups coming in second and third.

The high school airband competition will be held on Friday, April 12, and the collegiate competition on Saturday, April 13. Both contests will be held in GVSC's Field House Arena and will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are $2.50 in advance or $3.00 at the door. Information is available from Grand Valley's Student Activities Office at 895-3295.

News from Congressman PAUL HENRY

Most citizens are quite aware of the tremendous trade deficit that this country is running against the rest of the world. In 1984 alone, the U.S. imported $123 billion more goods than it produced for export. Although a small trade deficit or surplus is not a major concern, the size of deficits that the U.S. has been running in recent years calls for at the very least tough trade bargaining positions with our trading partners.

The one nation in which the U.S. trade deficit is most severe is Japan. Last year the Japanese exported to the U.S. $37 billion more in goods and services than they allowed in of American goods. Surely, rectifying the trade imbalance with Japan should be one of this nation's highest priorities.

But there is not good news to report in the U.S.-Japan trade picture. Several weeks ago the Reagan Administration announced that effective April 1 it was lifting the "voluntary" auto import restrictions against the Japanese, allowing that country to determine how much they would increase their imports above the current 1.8 million cars per year limit.

The administration took action on two grounds—arguing on the principle of free trade between the two countries, and hoping for reciprocal concessions from the Japanese on concurrent discussions on telecommunications and agricultural trade. It was hoped that freer Japanese auto imports would mean more U.S. high-tech and agriculture goods for sale in Japan.

But that hope has not come true. First, the Japanese announced that they were planning to increase auto imports to the U.S. to 2.3 million units. Then, they announced that they will not be further opening their trade doors to U.S. telecommunications goods seeking a place in the newly deregulated and restructured Japanese telecommunications industry. As a last-ditch effort the Administration sent a special trade envoy to meet personally with the Japanese Prime Minister to seek last-minute accommodations. The outcome of that effort is not clear, although supporters of improved U.S. access are skeptical.

But what is clear is the need for Japan to acknowledge its responsibility to the world community to trade fairly. The response to U.S. lifting of auto import restrictions should have been similar actions by the Japanese. The U.S. government—either through the Administration or Congress—must make clear to the Japanese that fair trade is a two-way street. The Japanese violate that principle at their own risk.

Spotlight on . . . Kent Skills Center

Floral Design
The Floral Design Class is a one year program that not only trains students for future employment, but also provides a service to the community. Students learn skills that help them find jobs in floral shops, wholesale distributors, craft and garden shops, department stores and flower shops in super markets. Students study the principles of floral design such as: proportion, balance, focal point, rhythm, dimension and color. Students gain skill in such mechanical practices as: wiring, taping, container choice, and flower selection. They learn to make various types of arrangements including the Williamsburg vase arrangements, line arrangements, centerpieces, underglass arrangements, corsages and boutonnières, holiday arrangements, silk bouquets, funeral and wedding work. The care and packaging of live, cut flowers and plants is also covered. Emphasis is placed on customer relations such as over-the-counter sales, order taking, FTD procedures, and cash register use. Skill Center customers are charged regular retail flower prices without the labor costs. Customers interested in ordering flowers from the Floral Design Class should order them a week in advance.

In parts of Prussia, it was once believed good luck to see wind in the oat fields.

While we understand the urgency of restoring electric power to all of our consumers after a severe storm, we consider hazardous conditions created by the storm to be our first priority. That means the detection and repair of downed overhead power lines, and we need your help. Power lines which have been snapped or pulled down as the result of a storm present a serious, even deadly danger. If you come across a downed wire, stay completely away from it. Don't touch the lines, the pole to which it is attached, or anything else in contact with the wire. Call us immediately — don't assume someone else will. We want to know about downed wires immediately so we can send our professionally trained linemen to make the needed repairs. Take some time today to teach your children about the dangers of downed electric wires. Instruct them to tell you or another adult as soon as possible about the problem, and to warn other children away. Never, never assume a wire is harmless. Let us make the determinations and the repairs. Together we'll continue to keep our community safe from electric accidents.

Don't put your life on the line . . .

Veen Observatory opens to the public

Jane E. Reagan

Beginning the first weekend in April, the James C. Veen Observatory will be open to the public on the second Saturday and last Friday of each month through October. The Observatory will be open ONLY ON CLEAR NIGHTS from 8:30 to 11:00 p.m.

The Veen Observatory is a multi-faceted astronomical observation and educational center designed and built by the Grand Rapids Amateur Astronomical Association with assistance from the Public Museum. It houses a lecture room seating 40 people, a library, a photographic darkroom and two fully equipped telescopes.

The facilities are used for various activities; field trips for school classes, individual observations and photographic programs.

The Observatory is located at 3308 Kissing Rock Road in Lowell. To reach Veen Observatory, follow Cascade Road south to 36th Street and then east on 36th Street about four (4) miles to Kissing Rock Road. Entrance to the Observatory grounds is from Kissing Rock Road 1/3rd mile North of 36th Street.

Admission to the Observatory is free.

Jane E. Reagan, RDH, daughter of Dr. Robert E. and Carol Reagan of Lowell, was intalled as the 59th President of the Michigan Dental Hygienists' Association on Sunday, March 24 at the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids, it was announced by Association Executive Director Katherine A. Radcliffe, PhD this week. Reagan, now living in the Lansing area city of Williamston, is a 1971 graduate of Lowell High School, as well as the Ferris State College Dental Hygiene Program, where, in 1973, she earned her A.A.S. in dental hygiene. She has lived and worked in the Lansing area since 1973, and is currently employed by the State of Michigan in the Department of Social Services, Dental Section of Medicaid, as the Dental Health Consultant.

The Michigan Dental Hygienists' Association is the largest dental hygiene organization in the State, representing over 5,000 dental hygiene licenses, with nearly 1,000 members. Its Central Office is headquartered in Lansing. The legislative body of the Association, the House of Delegates, unanimously passed a resolution at its yearly meeting March 23-24, 1985, that "the Michigan Dental Hygienists' Association supports revisions in the Public Health Code and the Rules of Dentistry (MI laws) which allow dental hygienists to provide preventive dental care directly to the public, without supervision/assignment."

Reagan states, "We have a long, uphill battle if we are to attain this goal set by the House of Delegates," but adds, "it is intended to increase the access of the public to the preventive dental care they need."

planted in Michigan waters in 1912. Ten years later, anglers started catching them.

The annual smelt run has grown into a spring ritual among Michigan's sportsmen. Age is no factor and the sport doesn't require fancy equipment or a lot of expertise.

The AAA's 1985 Smelt Guide lists 63 smelt hot spots, including Point Pelee National Park and the Wheatley area southwest of Detroit, both in Canada.

Extended hours from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. have been set at Point Pelee from April 12-28. Park officials expect an average to poor season after several years of slower runs.

Smelt dippers are allowed to use hand nets up to one-half mile upstream from any river mouth from March 1 to May 31 south of M-72 and from April 10 to May 31 north of M-72. Large dip nets up to 9 feet square are allowed by permit only on some streams.

Additional regulations are noted in the DNR's 1985 Michigan Fishing Guide, available where fishing licenses are sold.

Prepare now for spring power outage

Severe weather can cause a power failure at any time of the year, but energy experts are predicting more frequent power outages, even during mild weather. You can avoid some problems caused by a power outage with some simple preparation.

In a major power failure, the power-company will try to keep the public informed of the progress being made to control the situation. A battery-powered radio will keep you posted. Telephone service is not usually affected by power failure, but it is best not to tie up the power company switchboard with calls. Use your phone only to report a dangerous or emergency situation.

If the power failure occurs at night, your first concern is to provide light to avoid falls and other accidents. Every home should keep a flashlight or battery-powered lantern in proper working order. Every home should also keep a supply of readily accessible matches to light candles and kerosene lanterns or lamps. The enclosed flame of a lantern is safer than the unprotected flames of candles.

When the power goes off, go through your house and disconnect appliances that run continuously or off-and-on automatically on electricity, especially those that have heavy starting loads, such as an air conditioner, refrigerator or freezer. Unplug the appliances if you can get to the wall outlet without straining to move them. It is also a good idea to unplug appliances such as washers, dryers, electric space heaters and even televisions to avoid damage from power surges when the power comes back on.

Disconnect most of the appliances with motors in your household and leave on just a few lamps to tell you when power has been restored. Then you can turn on each appliance separately without overloading your fuses or circuit breaker or damaging the appliance motors.

Lowell teams to compete in Math test

Nearly 400 students from 31 area schools will compete in Grand Valley State's seventh annual calculator contest set for Friday, April 12. The contest is open to students in grades 7 through 12. Teams from both Lowell High School and Lowell Middle School will compete.

The annual event is sponsored by GVSC's mathematics department. The purpose of the contest, according to Jack Musch, chairman of the contest planning committee, is "to create and sustain an interest in mathematics among junior and senior high school students." Musch also sees the contest as an effective way to give recognition to those students who excel in math.

Participants must use their calculators to solve mathematics problems that require insight into the nature of numbers and computations. They'll discover the limitations of calculators in solving some of the problems.

Students will be divided into three grade-level categories, with the high schoolers using calculators capable of more complex operations. Contestants must supply their own calculators. Prizes will be awarded to students with the highest scores in each of the three categories.

The competition will be held from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. in the Kirkoff Center. Winners will be announced and prizes awarded at 1 p.m. on the Promenade Deck.

Every once in a while I stumble across some material for this column that is of an unknown origin and is suitable for a little innocent plagiarism. Kelly Holst saw the following descriptions of small town life in some obscure trade journal, and passed them along to me. I got a kick out of them, and thought the rest of you small town folk might find some humor in them too. Here goes.

- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- You don't have to use your turn signal because everyone knows where you are going anyway.
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- You can't walk for exercise because every car that passes offers you a ride.
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- You drive into a ditch five miles from town, and the word gets back to town before you do.
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- You write a check on the wrong bank, and it covers for you anyway.
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- You are born on June 13th and your family receives gifts from the local merchants because you are the first baby of the new year.
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- Pickup trucks and recreational vehicles outnumber cars 2 to 1.
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- You get to the store and the folks at home have already called in three more items for you to pick up . . . and the order is ready!
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- You have carefully selected the items for your "Famous, Secret, Special Dish", and the cashier reminds you that you have forgotten the most important and secret ingredient.
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- Someone asks you how you feel, and then actually listens to your reply.
- You know you live in a small town when . . .
- You dial a wrong number, and end up talking for 15 minutes anyway.
- And last, but not least! You know you live in a small town when . . .
- The editor of the local paper can get away with this kind of thing for his weekly editorial.

Bloomers were named after Amelia Jenks Bloomer, a 19th century feminist who wore them in 1851.

"OUTDOORS"

with Jack Fiesner

Acid rain, an environmental contamination problem which is ever increasing, is of great concern to me, and deserves continuing coverage in this column.

This, like many of our environmental problems, is not going to go away, simply by ignoring it. It is going to take the combined efforts of all concerned citizens. In the past, much has been reported upon concerning acid rain problems within Europe and Canada and the higher elevation areas throughout New York State.

The MUCC, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, have recently launched a Michigan acid rain watch program and will issue a weekly report, which I will attempt to add to this column. The nearest testing sites to us and the test results are as follows: Beaver Island - insufficient amounts of precipitation to measure; Benton Harbor - 4.20 PH level, 25 times higher than unpolluted rain; Empire and Kalamazoo - Insufficient test; Muskegon - 4.05 PH level, 35 times above unpolluted. Many scientists believe that persistent acid rain at PH levels over 8 times the acidity of unpolluted rain will damage man made structure, fish populations, lakes, streams, crops, trees, and soil.

Much of the following is excerpted from the MUCC news release dated April 1, 1985. According to the MUCC, fish population in lakes and streams are in particular danger during spring because of "Spring Acid Shock." Warming temperatures melt acid laden snows, causing a dramatic increase in acidity levels of these waters. Studies have shown that heavy doses of acids disrupt fish life and reproductive cycles. It is a sad state of affairs when our "Spring Cleansing Rains" contain such a sinister threat. Not only Michigan, but the rest of the Northern Hemisphere as well, now takes it's spring bath beneath a deluge of acid rain.

"Acid rain" is primarily nitric and sulfuric acid produced in smoke from the burning of petroleum products and coal. These acids mix with atmospheric moisture and are distilled by the sun and redeposited back on Earth as acid rains, often hundreds of miles from their points of origin.

In response to the acid rain threat the MUCC has established its acid rain watch program, funded by a grant from the C.S. Mott Foundation. This is a joint effort by the MUCC, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and Michigan State University. Additional information can be obtained by contacting MUCC, Box 30253, Lansing, MI 48909 or by contacting myself: Jack Fiesner, 526 E. Main, Lowell, MI, 897-6111. I am well versed on the subject and available for free public speaking engagements to any groups throughout the area.

Alto-Bowne Fire Department gets new tanker truck

The Alto-Bowne Township Fire Department recently took delivery on a brand new 4,000 gallon G.M.C. tanker truck. The $98,231 fire truck was funded through a variety of sources. The Bowne Township Fireman's Association kicked in $5,000, much of which was raised in a raffle held last year. Lowell Township contributed $17,000 to the cause as they depend on Bowne Township and The City of Lowell for fire protection. The remainder was paid out of Bowne Township's general fund, but much will be replaced by Federal Community Grant money to be received over the next several months.

The fire department had been depending on a relic army surplus tanker that was very slow and unreliable. The old tanker will be kept in service however, and the combination gives the department a total of 7,500 gallons on trucks and available for immediate transport to a fire. Besides the two tankers, the department has two modern pumpers and a grass fire truck.

Bowne Township Supervisor Fred Moss receives a $5,000 check from Bowne Township Fire Department Chief Jerry Posthumus. The money will go toward the purchase of the new tanker in the background. The money was raised by several projects sponsored by the Bowne Township Fireman's Association.

Two juveniles will be referred to Probate Court on charges of larceny from a building in connection with the breaking and entering of several lockers in the Lowell High School in mid March. Both subjects are students at the school.

The Lowell Medical Unit responded to 19 dispatches in the month of March.

Receiving appearance tickets to appear in 63rd District Court at a later date were, Steven Selders, 17, of Lowell for possession of alcohol by a minor, and Robyn Potter, 18, of Lowell for disorderly person. The citations were issued in connection with an incident which occurred April 3.

Mystery Kitchen Tour

On Saturday, April 27, holders of Mystery Kitchen tour tickets will meet at Schneider Manor's Hospitality Room between 10:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. for coffee and Danish, and to receive the new Women's Club cookbook and the tour packet. After visiting the five outstanding area kitchens, they will receive end-of-tour refreshments at the new kitchen of the Vergennes United Methodist Church. Today's sample recipe from the cookbook is Evelyn Tichelaar's Barbecued Beef or Pork Ribs:

- 4 lbs. ribs
- Barbecue Sauce:
 - 1 C. catsup
 - 1-1/2 C. water
 - 1 large onion, diced
 - 2 T. Worcestershire sauce
 - 2 T. Brown Sugar
 - 1 T. Vinegar

Cook ingredients for barbecue sauce together for 10 minutes; pour over salted and peppered ribs. Bake covered for 4 hours at 325 degrees.

Today's mystery kitchen is in one of Lowell's older homes, a Victorian-style house built in 1865. The fully-equipped kitchen is set up for handicap convenience with pull-out shelves and lazy susans in all storage. The appliance "garage" is reminiscent of a roll-top desk. The computerized dishwasher, side-by-side refrigerator and gas range are almond-color; the oven has microwave, convection and regular baking capabilities. A free-standing chopping block includes pot hangers and a wine rack. Two skylights, overhead track lighting and two brass lamps keep the kitchen well-lit. A Caribinna fan circulates air from the cathedral ceiling. The south wall of the kitchen is open above the counter to the 2-1/2-story Great Room, which also gives solar heat benefits to the sitting/family room on the other side of the kitchen. Unique art & handwork is displayed throughout the house.

Mystery Kitchen Tour tickets are available by calling 897-5331, 897-5223, or by seeing Marj Harding at the Lowell State Savings Bank. Donation is $7.50; proceeds go to scholarships for Lowell High School students. Pick yours up soon, as only 150 are available.

Next week, Mystery Kitchen Nos. 3 and 4 will be described.

According to the EPA's latest estimates, under the Superfund program's current funding levels of approximately $1 billion a year, it could take up to 23 years to clean up the nation's 2,500 most hazardous toxic waste dump sites, reports International Wildlife magazine.

Humans aren't the only ones with babysitters, says Ranger Rick magazine. If a mother animal has to hunt, she will often leave her young with an "auntie" or teenage animal. Apparently, it is a shared duty and animal sitters don't get paid.
