Truck/train crash hospitalizes Alto driver

A seventeen year old Alto boy was pinned in his vehicle for close to a half an hour after colliding with a Grand Trunk freight train south of Lowell at 1:20 P.M. Monday. Thad (Buster) Burger, of 10067 52nd Street, Alto, was northbound in a pickup truck at the Grand Trunk crossing on Alden Nash when he slammed into the second engine on a 34 car westbound freight. The impact demolished Burger's vehicle, scattering parts, including the engine and transmission, over a wide area. The twisted cab and chassis came to rest upside down about 50 feet from the crossing with Burger pinned inside. Those first on the scene were surprised to find that Burger was conscious, and apparently not too seriously injured. Burger's arm was thrown through the rear window of the truck during the crash, and it was pinned there when the truck came to rest on its top.

Lowell Rescue, Lowell Fire Department, Lowell Police, Kent County Sheriff's Units and an ambulance service all responded to the crash scene. Lowell Rescue personnel used air driven lifting devices to raise the vehicle to allow Burger to be extricated. Besides cuts and bruises, Burger complained of back pains and had trouble using his legs when he was finally out of the wreck. He was listed in fair condition in the surgical/intermediate ward of Butterworth Hospital Tuesday morning. Burger is being treated for a closed head injury, multiple lacerations and a fractured right shoulder. Officials at the Grand Rapids

Fire and rescue personnel work to free the driver pinned in the cab of his tangled pickup truck. Miraculously, the driver was not severely injured, and talked with rescue workers while they attempted to free him.

office of the Grand Trunk did not know how fast the train was travelling, but Sheriff's Deputies estimated that it wasn't going very fast because it was able to come to a stop with the caboose at the crossing. The signals at the scene were working. A grain truck slammed into a Grand Trunk freight at the same crossing last year. Motorists are descending a long, steep grade when they approach the crossing from the south, and are sometimes unable to stop. The accident remains under investigation by the Kent County Sheriff's Department.

POST OFFICE CLOSED FOURTH OF JULY

The Lowell post office will operate on a holiday schedule during Independence Day Thursday, July 4.

Postmaster Charlie Doyle said regular residential and business deliveries will not be made, and lobby services will not be available.

The only mail collection for out going mail will be collected from the collection box in front of the post office. Normal operations will be resumed on Friday, July 5.

ORGAN RECITAL

Mr. William Zinke, Director of Music and Education at the First United Methodist Church of Lowell, will present an organ recital on June 23, 1985 at 3:30 P.M. in the sanctuary at the Lowell Methodist Church. The church is located at 621 East Main Street, in Lowell.

Mr. Zinke's recital will be performed on a 22-Rank Pipe Organ. His selections included: "Toccata" by Joses Rheinberger, "The Cuckoo" by Louis Claude D'Aquin and "Adagio" from Anton Bruckner's VII Symphony.

Everyone is welcome, there will be coffee and punch served during intermission.

ST. PATRICK'S PARNELL FESTIVAL APPROACHING

The annual St. Patrick's Parnell Festival is coming up Sunday, June 30. The Festival will get underway Saturday evening with a Las Vegas Night featuring cash prizes from 8 P.M. until midnight. The Las Vegas Night will also run on Sunday from 1 until 6 P.M. Throughout the day Sunday families can enjoy fantastic food, BINGO, and Kid's Karnival, a beer tent and live music. The sponsors of this event are also raffling off a new Chevrolet Astro 7 passenger window van. Tickets are $5.00 each and are available from many Parnell residents. Tickets will also be sold at the festival until the 6 P.M. drawing time on June 30. Make plans now to attend.

OFF THE BLOTTER

Two Juvenile subjects, 14 and 15 years old, were taken to the Kent County Juvenile Detention home after being arrested by Lowell Officer early Monday, June 17. They were charged with running away, larceny of two bicycles, and attempting to steal a car from a residence on Deborah St.

Ann Thomas, 38, of Lowell was cited to appear in 63rd District Court for furnishing alcohol to persons under the age of 21. The incident occurred June 4.

Raymond Guild Jr., 34, of Alto, was cited to appear in 63rd District Court for shoplifting from Eberhards, Tuesday, June 11.

Mary Brown, 23, of Caledonia was also cited to appear in 63rd District Court for shoplifting from Eberhards on Tuesday, June 11.

Involved in a property damage accident on East Main and Washington Street Wednesday, June 5 were Thomas Fonger, 35, and Kimberly VanHeulen, 21, both of Lowell. Fonger reportedly made a left turn off Main Street into the path of the vehicle driven by VanHeulen.

A car owned by Edward Rash of Lowell slipped into gear while parked with the engine running and traveled unoccupied across Main Street, onto South Washington Street. The car hit a stop sign and tore up some grass on property owned by Superior Furniture and State Savings Bank. The incident occurred in the morning of Sunday, June 3.

Mary Schreur, 21, of Lowell collided with a car driven by Alice Slater, 75, of Alto at Church Street and Main Friday June 14. There were no injuries.

Kenneth Thurston, 44, of Lowell backed into a car owned by Glenn Crossman of Grand Rapids Friday afternoon, June 14. The accident occurred in the parking lot of Erbs Lumber Company on West Main Street. Minor damage was incurred by the vehicles.

Free concert slated for July 17 here

The Grand Valley State College Summer College-Community Band will present an old time "All-American" Concert on the Lowell Showboat on Wednesday, July 17 at 7:30 P.M.

The program, sponsored by the Lowell Community Education, Chamber of Commerce and the Lowell Showboat Association, is offered to the public free of charge and is designed to be a thank you to the people of Lowell.

William Root, Conductor of the GVSC Summer Band, has planned the concert to include only American music, ranging from the Civil War to the present. In addition to the band, special guests are being invited to perform. The idea being to establish a setting which will recreate the old fashioned concert in the park. There will be a Dixieland Band, the popular Grand Rapids group "Dave Spring and Friends," Sousa Marches, and many more exciting musical treats.

The band is comprised of GVSC students, are musicians and members of the Grand Rapids Symphonic Band. Each summer the group presents concerts on the GVSC campus and the Greater Grand Rapids area. The 70-piece band rehearses once a week at the college and the musicians drive in from communities as far away as South Haven, Allegan, Muskegon, Holland and Lowell.

Linda Zaczek, Consortium

Director of the Lowell-Caledonia-Thornapple Kellogg-Community Education, is the person in charge of what promises to be a spectacular evening. The Lowell Rotary Club will sell nominally priced refreshments at the concert.

Vandals cause thousands in damage

Two juvenile females from Lowell decided that the city would look better with green obscenities spray painted all over buildings, homes, autos and playground equipment. The vandalism was done last Friday. The girls allegedly stole the paint from the Rite Aid Pharmacy that evening. Most of the vandalism was done in the area of Monroe and Avery Streets. Police estimate that several thousand dollars worth of damage was done.

The girls were apprehended by Lowell Police early Saturday morning and referred to Juvenile Court. Police also picked up three male juveniles accompanying the girls at the time of their arrest. The males were cited for curfew violation.

Capitol Column by Senator Dick Posthumus

Whenever business and labor interests are on opposite sides of an issue, the sparks fly in Lansing. Recent Senate-passed legislation amending the workers' compensation system was no exception. Senate Bill 7, passed 30-5, makes a number of administrative changes aimed at lowering business costs and speeding up settlements. Some of the major changes include: voluntary arbitration to reduce the number of contested cases; penalties against attorneys who file frivolous claims; eventual replacement of the current system of administrative law judges and the 15-member appeals board with a 30-member commission; and a limit on attorney fees.

The hottest point of contention—how to define disability—was settled during the debate on the Senate floor but could easily be changed during discussion in the House. The existing definition states that workers are disabled and eligible for benefits if they can't perform the same job they were doing when injured. Business groups say the current definition is too lenient and results in too many claims being filed, while Governor Blanchard wants to make the current definition permanent. The current definition expires on December 15, 1985. The Governor will settle for maintaining the current definition until June 30, 1987, conveniently after the 1986 gubernatorial election. Republican lawmakers are pushing to keep the December 15 deadline and revise the definition before then. The definition they support, used in 30 other states, would not consider a worker disabled if the worker can return to some other job "suitable" to his or her "qualifications and training."

Regardless of what happens to the disability definition, most legislators and interest groups are happy with the administrative changes. Workers filing cases now may have to wait up to five years to resolve their claims. Observers expect the House to make changes to the Senate-passed document, which will result in a joint House-Senate conference committee to iron out the differences.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL PLANNED

School's out and the kids are back home, however, the First Baptist Church here in Lowell is planning another week of fun and learning in the form of vacation Bible school. The theme is "Sailing With Christ," and beginning Monday morning at 9:00 sharp on June 24, the church will present a week-long series of lessons.

All stories, crafts, and activities center around the various Bible stories having to do with sailing and fishing in Christ's time. There will be prizes handed out for memory work, regular attendance, bringing visitors, and the display of good behavior through the emphasis on a different character trait each day. An appearance by "Sailor Sam" each morning will be a special treat.

On Friday evening, June 28, at 7:00, the week will climax with a special program featuring "Uncle Charlie" from Children's Bible Hour. The church has recently purchased a bus, and transportation will be provided. If you would like a ride for your child, contact Pastor David Cobb—church 897-7168, home 897-6348. The Bible School is for all those children going into kindergarten through those going into 8th grade. We welcome your attendance.

College News....

A total of 745 students achieved placement on the Spring quarter Dean's List at Michigan Technological University by earning a grade point average of 3.5 or higher. Dean of Students Dr. Linda Belote reported that 183 students earned straight A averages of 4.00.

Among the students honored was Scott A. Bauman, a sophomore in electrical engineering, of Saranac.

One hundred seventy-two Adrian College students were named to the Dean's List for the 1984-85 second semester.

To achieve this honor, a student must maintain a 3.50 grade point average (4.00-A) on the basis of at least 12 credit hours.

Among those on the list was Darla Price, a senior elementary education major, of Lowell.

Nearly 1,600 Ferris State College students were included on the academic honors list for the winter quarter, 1984-85, college officials have announced.

To be eligible, a Ferris student must have compiled a 3.25 grade point average in at least 14 quarter hours of graded work. The total list of 1,579 students included 98 who earned 4.00 grade point averages of all A grades.

Among the honored students was Mark A. Martis of Lowell.

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

by Pauline E. Spray

Then touched he their eyes... And their eyes were opened... (Matthew 9:29,30).

When we're traveling, I always dread stopping at strange motels when night comes. No matter how clean and nicely ordered the rooms are, they look so friendless and cold when we first walk into them. However, if we quickly set our suitcases inside and unpack a few of our belongings, scattering them here and there, the room soon takes on a cozier air. With a few personal touches, it becomes our home away from home.

It's the personal touch that counts! In a motel. In business associations. In all of life. It is God's help in the affairs of our nation. Men must have His help as they guide the world. They need His wisdom in the making of great decisions. Every town and hamlet across the nation needs His help, too. His presence brings peace and order to living.

God is concerned about our nation, our town, our home. He is concerned, too, with each individual. To all who seek Him, He will give "His personal touch."

Prayer: Precious Lord, I thank Thee for Thy personal touch on my life. Thou canst comfort me when no other one can. Thou carest for me individually—and I am grateful. Amen.

I need Thee, precious Jesus. I need a friend like Thee. A friend to soothe and comfort. A friend to care for me. Frederick Witfield

Things you can do to prepare for a power outage

It's nighttime and a bolt of lightning just woke you up. A roll of thunder builds slowly and then... "KABOOM!" The rest of your family wakes up. The kids run into your room and want to get in bed with you. Then, another lightning flash and the power's off.

Now what? Most of Consumers Power Company's over 1.3 million electric customers know what it's like to have their power knocked out by summer storms. When storms occur and cause outages, Consumers Power's repair system quickly assembles and restores power as soon as possible.

But, during the period your power is off, what can you do to make the outage "easier to weather?" Here are tips for making it through an outage more safely and conveniently:

- Keep an alternative light source available, such as a battery-operated flashlight or candles.
- Keep a list of emergency phone numbers near your phone. Consumers Power's customer service number is listed on your bill, or in the white pages of your telephone directory.
- When you call Consumers Power to report the problem, the more facts you provide, the better. What time did you lose power? Are your neighbor's lights off also? Any trees or wires down in your yard or street? Customer phone calls are the primary way Consumers Power knows which customers have lost their electric service.

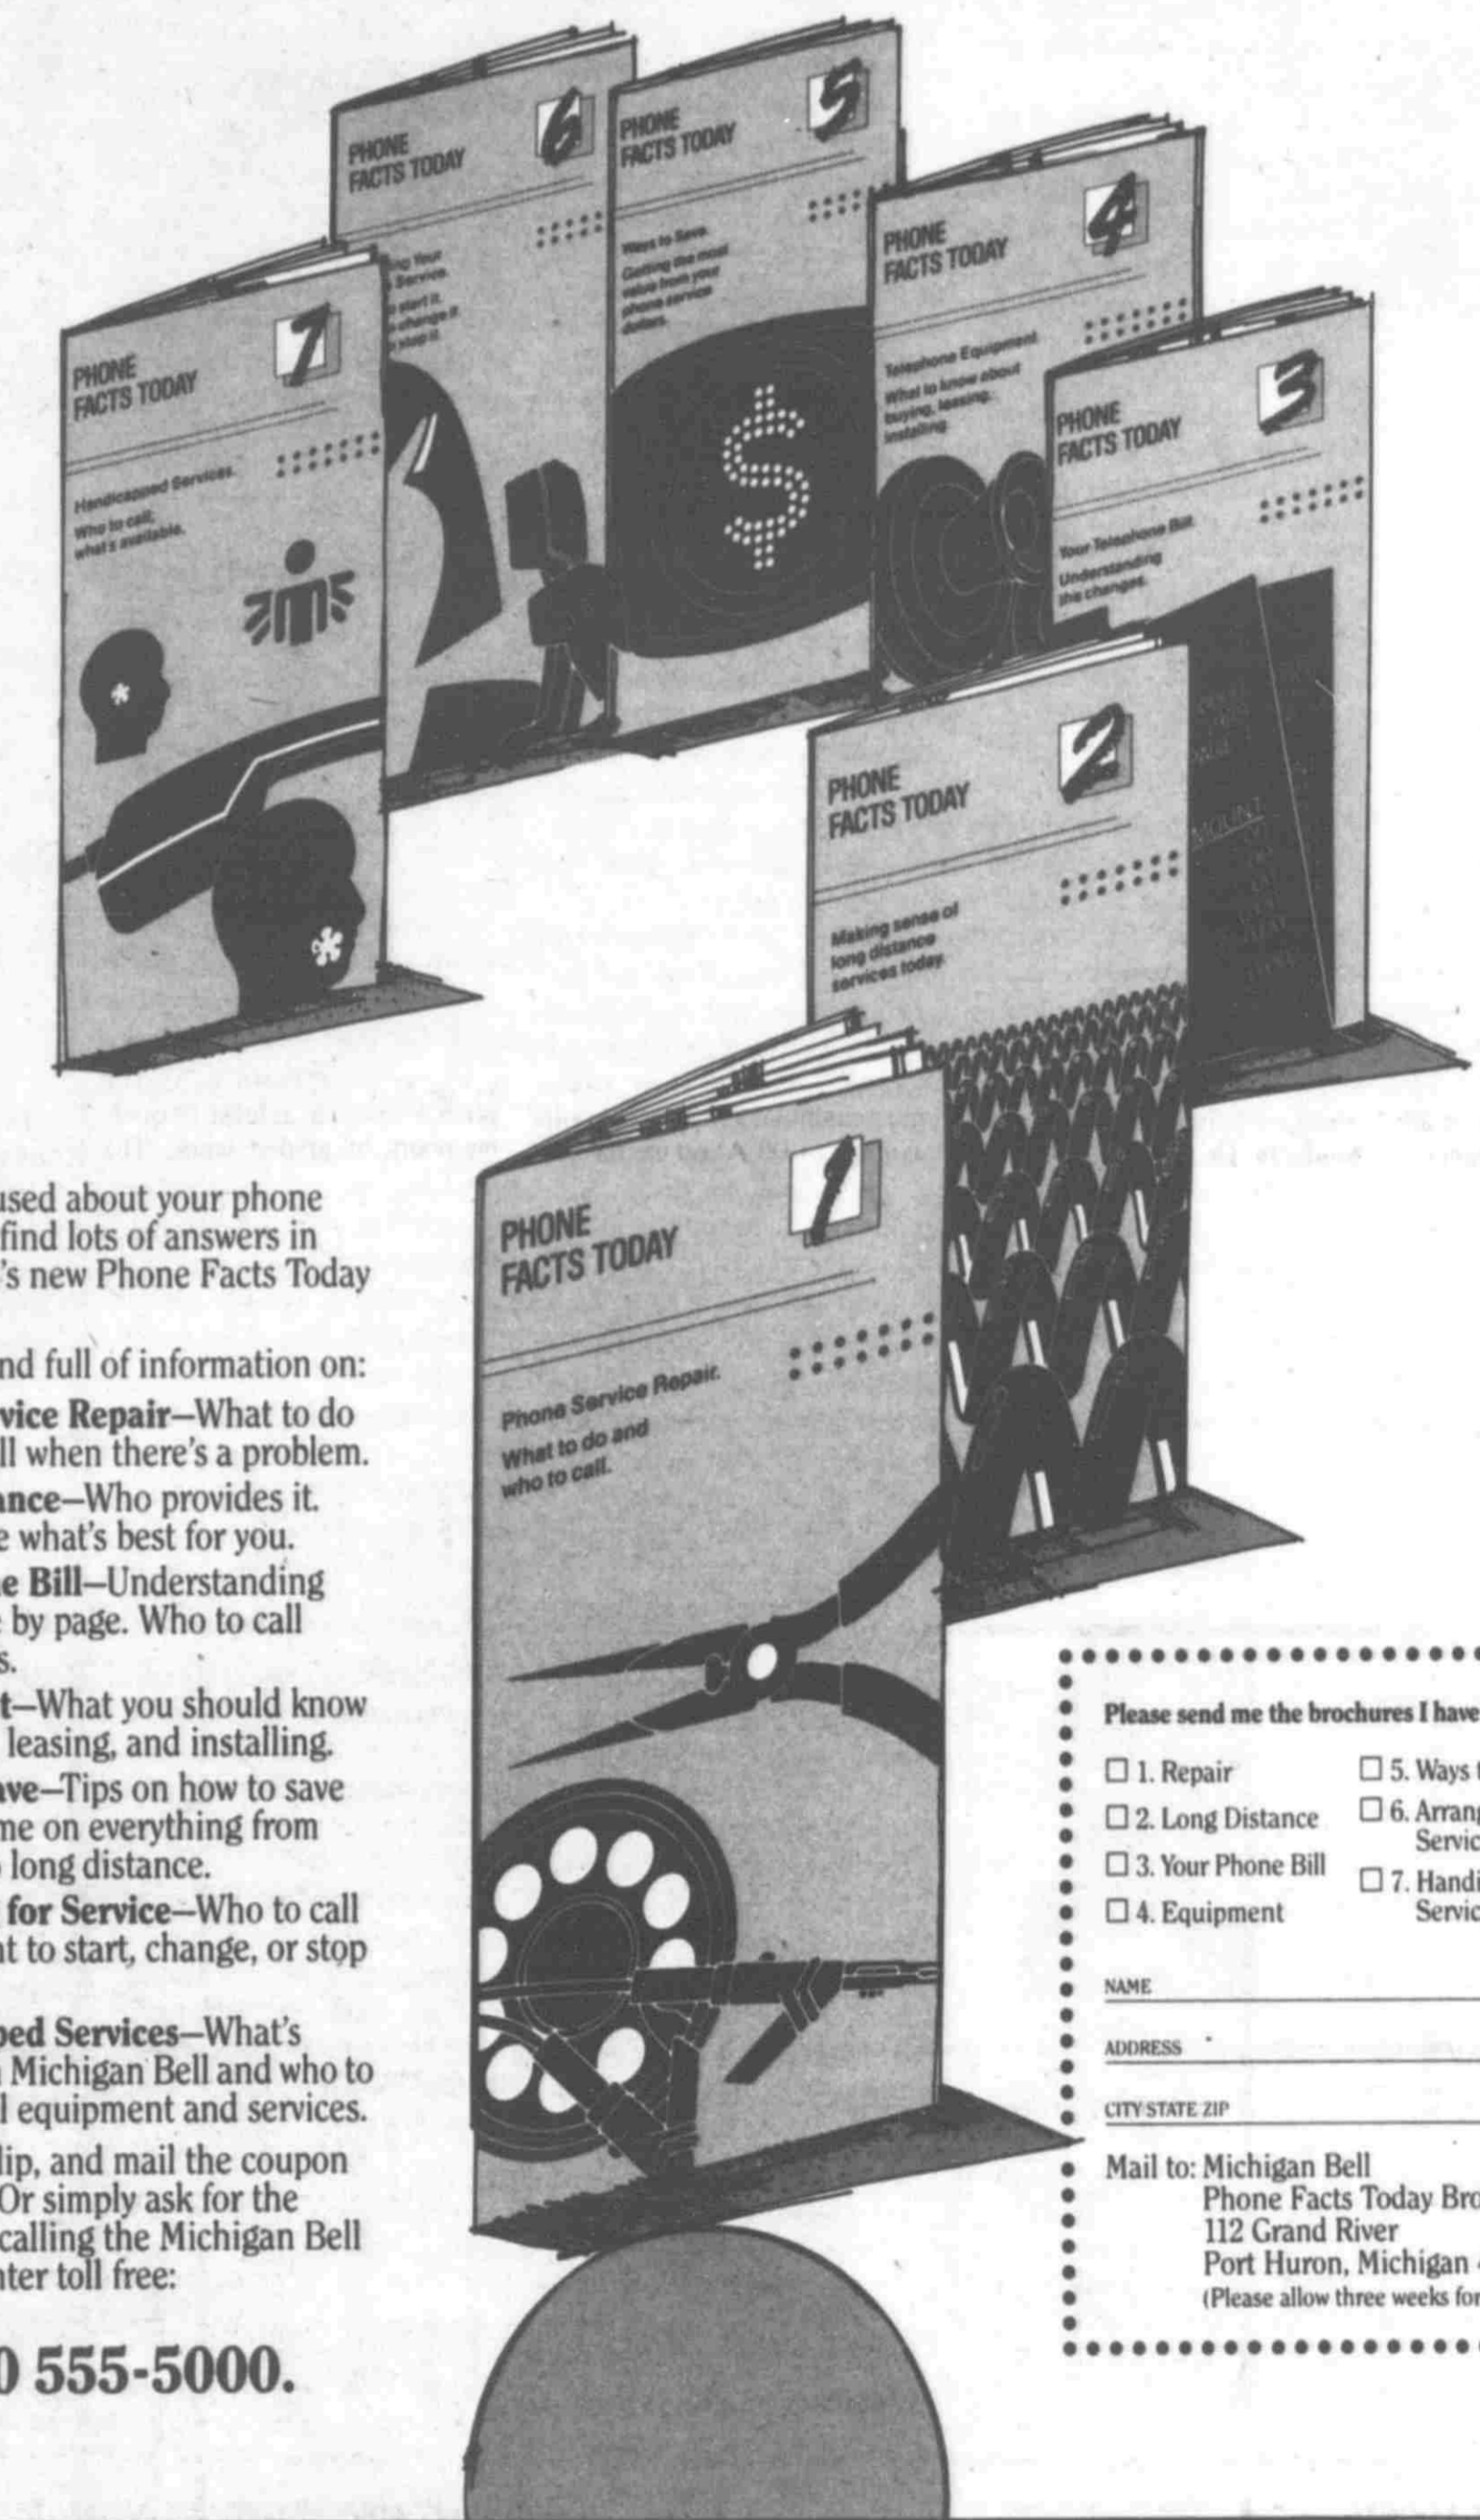

- If you have to go out, treat downed wires as if they were charged with electricity. DON'T TOUCH THEM. Also, beware of branches that may be wrapped around a downed wire.
- Before a storm hits, consider filling your bathtub with water in the possibility that your electric pump loses power. That way, you'll have water for drinking, flushing the toilet and cooking on portable camping stoves.
- Open your refrigerator and freezer as little as possible. Food will usually stay frozen in a fully loaded freezer between 36 and 48 hours. In a half-full freezer, food can stay frozen around 24 hours.

- Cooking during the outage can be done on a camping stove, your fireplace or by using sterno fuel placed in its holder on a flameproof surface.
- If you do use a standby electric generator, be sure that a transfer switch is installed in your fuse box. This will prevent power from your generator from feeding into Consumers Power lines, which would endanger our linemen.
- During prolonged outages of three days or longer, transfer your freezer and refrigerator food to a friend's house with electricity.

A praying mantis may be the answer to your prayers, reports International Wildlife magazine, if you have a cockroach problem, that is. Laura McInnis, of Escatawpa, Mississippi, tried every roach treatment she could think of, then a praying mantis flew into her home. Within a week, the roaches were gone. Mrs. McInnis has grown so attached to the insect that she has named it Mandy Pandey. "Every home should have one," she says.

cozy corner

by Roger Brown

The Brown family's recent move has created at least one problem... an orphaned player piano. Even though our new home is larger than the one we left, there just isn't a good spot in the new house for a big old player piano. Especially an ugly one! The only place where the piano wouldn't look, out of place, is in the recreation room in the basement. The only problem with that is the fact that the basement stairs make a sharp turn about halfway down. I'm afraid that the only way my poor old piano would ever get into that basement would be to enter it in a piano smashing contest, transport it in pieces to the basement, then try to reassemble it.

The living room is big enough, but it just wasn't designed for an upright piano. There isn't a wall in it that is large enough to accommodate the back side of a six foot wide piano. Between windows, the doorway, a bookcase and the fireplace, the entire perimeter of the room is pretty well hacked up. I suggested to Terese that we set the old thing right out in the middle of the room where the previous owners had their baby grand. She took one look at me, one look at the old player, and just walked away. Apparently she wouldn't even comment on such a bad idea.

The only remaining possibility is a sun porch at the rear of the house. There is a spot in there that would work, if all the furniture were shoved together at one end of the room, and if we could live with a door that wouldn't open all the way because it would hit the piano. Besides being cramped, the question of appearance is also a factor. The sun porch is glass on two sides, and is decorated in bright white, yellow and green. An old, red mahogany, upright piano, shoved in a corner, would look as out of place as a "sore thumb to a doctor". But, what the heck, I ran the idea by Terese anyway. She said no, citing all the above reasons, plus a few. She also threw in a few adjectives about my wisdom in such matters, just for good measure. We won't go into that discussion, but I'm sure you get the picture.

That was my last chance. My poor old, forlorn player still sits in the Ledger's warehouse. Ah, but I have an idea! I've thought about mounting the thing on a trailer, decorating it real nice, and using it as a parade float. We could play marching tunes in the Fourth of July Parade, Christmas caroles in the Christmas Parade and patriotic hymns in the Memorial Day Parade. Who knows, maybe we'd have so much fun with it that we could branch out beyond Lowell. We could play Irish jigs in the Grand Rapids St. Patrick's Day Parade, polkas in the Polaski Day Parade and Gay Nineties stuff in area centennial parades.

The Ledger could buy the piano from me, pay for the float construction, cover all travel expenses, and the whole thing could be written off as advertising. Ronald Reagan doesn't know it yet, but he may have just bought himself a player piano. I haven't checked this out with my accountant yet, but I'm sure he'll give it the green light. Of course, I was also sure he would approve of my idea to write off a world cruise to gather material for this column. He shot that plan down though. You just never know about that guy... my piano may not be saved from the orphanage yet.

AG WORK COMP INSURANCE . . .

especially for Michigan farmers

If you employ farm workers, you need agricultural worker's disability compensation insurance. But you don't need to pay a lot for it.

Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company of Michigan has the coverages you need at prices you can afford. That's one more reason why we are Michigan's largest farm insurer.

Making your future a little more predictable.

Local couple launches national mail order firm

Watermark, Inc. was recently incorporated by Armand and Jane Aronson to market water purification equipment for residential and light commercial use. The Aronsons are operating their business from the kitchen table at 5388 Hotchkiss Road to keep expenses at a minimum while getting started. With the local phone on one side of the table and their inbound national wats line phone on the other side, the kitchen table is a busy place even between meals. Just a few feet from the table is the home computer used for mailing lists and word processing.

Like so many people, the Aronsons always wanted to have a business of their own. In fact, some magazines have called the '80s the decade of the entrepreneur. In this case, the Aronsons were just waiting for the right opportunity. They wanted a business which could be started with relatively small capital, and that would provide people with a wholesome needed service or product. Pure water seemed just right. After 6 years with Amway corporation, most recently as Manager of International Marketing, but previously as Manager of Nutrition Marketing, Armand left Amway to join Pure Water, Inc. as Director of Sales and Marketing. After a short time in Lincoln, Nebraska, he felt the opportunity was so great in the water market that it would be wise to start a company with his wife Jane. Jane brings a background in teaching and bookkeeping, as well as experience with Modern Photographics in Lowell.

Watermark, Inc. is focused primarily on drinking water. A variety of problems have come to light in the past few years, and there is an industry burgeoning to meet the challenge. Just this year there have been articles in "Readers Digest", "National Geographic" and "Discovery Magazine". Sixty Minutes has also brought problems to light. Often, it seems, chemicals are getting into water supplies. It's not really surprising when we think of the tens of thousands of chemicals that have been created just since World War II. Often, it is the same chemicals that are needed for some other part of our lives that are hazardous when they get into the water supply, like pesticides, solvents, fuels, and fertilizers just to name a few. Most people don't want to drink these chemicals. When they find out that water departments don't even check for more than a few of the over 100 EPA listed contaminants they often resort to their own solutions. Right now home distillers are the biggest item for the Aronson's. Often for less than 20 cents a gallon, people can make great tasting, clean water at home. Distillation removes the water from impurities by heating it past the boiling point to steam, then condensing the pure steam into fresh, new pure water. Distillation is effective with both dissolved and insoluble contaminants. Often distillers are used in conjunction with carbon pre-filters to be doubly sure of stopping many of the nastiest contaminants. However, filters by themselves won't stop dissolved contaminants. So, the Aronsons recommend distillation.

The Aronsons are sending out thousands of pieces of mail across the country. They say the challenge is effective communication. People are used to thinking that water is only bad in foreign countries. Now the tables are turned, but as a nation we'd rather not believe it. For the sake of their family's health, many people are beginning their own home treatment of the water supply. And the Aronsons are there to help them with their new company: Watermark, Inc.

Lowell FFA attend camp

Eight Lowell FFA officers attended the 1985 Region 5 Leadership Camp for Chapter Officers on June 13 and 14 at the Lansing Environmental Education Center in Wayland.

Lowell officers included: Roxanne Brown, Jenny Dine, Jami Johnson, Chad Blasher, Dawn Thompson, Amy Versluis, Paul Wilcox, Mike Nugent and Pete Siler, advisor of the Lowell FFA.

According to Mr. Siler, the purpose of the camp is to "provide new chapter officers with information and ideas to help them run their chapters efficiently for the coming year." Regional officers conducted leadership training sessions and keynote speeches by Mr. Dean Pridgeon, former Director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, and Mrs. Marsha Wilcox, editor of the Farm Bureau News, highlighted this year's camp.

Jenny Dine of the Lowell FFA also served as the president of Region 5 this past year and presided over camp activities. In elections for 1985-86 regional officers, Jami Johnson was elected secretary, and Roxanne Brown was elected treasurer.

Other schools attending the camp were: Ionia, Caledonia, Hastings, Coopersville, Belding, Cedar Springs, Maple Valley, Charlott and Lakewood.

Snowmobile club holds meeting

Members of the Flat River Snowmobile Club met on Sunday at the clubhouse for the regular monthly meeting. With so many summer activities, the attendance was smaller than usual but many plans were made for the coming months.

President A.J. Zengri appointed the committee to start making plans for the Annual Club Picnic in September. Ed Marshall reported that news from the Michigan Snowmobile Association indicate that the prospects for the Trail Program for the coming winter look favorable. Snowmobilers now have a lobbyist in Lansing looking after their interests. Bingo Committee Chairman, Ginny Souser reported that the games are still being played every Wednesday night and that attendance has been better than during the winter months.

"We were happy to see Esther Minges back after her recent hospital stay. Two of our members have passed away during recent months. Steve Stephenson passed away in October and George Scheck in April.

The next meeting will be held on July 21st. We are looking for a larger turnout and hope you will be there. A delicious pot luck is always held before the meeting. Guests are welcome if you are interested in Snowmobiling.

Winners of drawings were Peggy Meyers, Susie Will, Brad Potter and Jim Wert.

BOWNE TOWNSHIP NOTICE

Bowne Township will be conducting a reappraisal program for the next two summers. This is an effort to assure that property taxation is fair and equitable for all residents.

It is to the owners advantage if workers are allowed access to buildings for data gathering purposes as well as taking extensive dimensions. Do, however, insist on proper identification.

The Township would appreciate courteous cooperation of all property owners toward those participating in this program.

The death of the dinosaurs explored at Chaffee Planetarium

The Roger B. Chaffee Planetarium is now operating on its summer schedule. The Planetarium is featuring two sky shows, "DAYS OF DOOM" - The Mysterious Death of the Dinosaurs, and "A CAMPING TRIP WITH GRANDPA."

"Days of Doom - The Mysterious Death of the Dinosaurs," is presented in the sky theatre Thursday through Saturday evenings, at 8:00 p.m. and afterwards, Wednesday through Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Through the month of August, this program will explore the possible astronomical causes of why some dinosaurs became extinct some 65 million years ago. Through the unique environment of the Planetarium theatre, dramatic special effects and lightful experience for all ages, visitors will travel back through time to the swamps and

Tax reform debate begins with full force

President Reagan's recently unveiled plan to reshape the tax system has already set in motion a legislative debate which could have a dramatic impact on the economy and the activities and choices of millions of taxpaying citizens and businesses.

Although everyone involved agrees some adjustments will be made, the strong bipartisan support for the general thrust of the President's proposal generates real hope for riding the nation of an extremely complex tax system. It is important that this enthusiasm be retained as the tax bill winds its way through the legislative process.

In his State of the Union Address earlier this year the President enumerated the following tax reform goals:

- tax reform should not be a tax increase in disguise;
- personal tax rates should be reduced, with a top rate no higher than 35 percent;
- corporate tax rates should be reduced while maintaining incentives for modernization;
- individuals with incomes at or near the poverty level should be exempt from income tax; and
- the home mortgage interest deduction should not be jeopardized.

The President's new proposal generally meets those goals. If the proposal were enacted in current form the tax rate of nearly everyone would be reduced. Many people at the low end of the income scale currently paying taxes would no longer be on the tax rolls. The most traditional of the tax deductions, such as those for charitable causes and primary home mortgage interest payments, would remain in place. Most people would have to spend less time, and money, figuring out their tax forms.

Congressional leaders, especially those who have put forward different tax proposals, have, however, been cautious about embracing fully the President's plan. Some claim that the President's proposal is not revenue-neutral, but actually would reduce revenues up to $25 billion more than the President claims. Others question whether the proposed change in direction might adversely affect the overall economy. There are also, of course, concerns over a number of specific proposed changes, including restricting the charitable deduction only to those who itemize, and eliminating the deduction for state and local taxes.

Some concerns are justifiable, and the most objectionable proposals could well be changed as the tax bill makes its way through the legislative process. But as changes are made it remains critically important that Congress keep tax reform on track. Congress ought to do it this year. And proceeding carefully, openly, and fairly, Congress can.

Bedwetting in Children

Current Treatment Approaches

In last week's article, we discussed some of the possible causes of bedwetting (enuresis) in children. In today's column we will touch on some of the prevailing thoughts on treatment of this common pediatric problem.

Numerous methods have been proposed for managing enuresis. Before any treatment program is started, however, organic pathology (ie bladder infection, urinary tract obstruction, diabetes) should be searched for and treated.

Waiting - One of the most common approaches to enuresis in otherwise normal children is watchful waiting, to see if the child "outgrows" the problem. In many cases nocturnal enuresis resolves spontaneously.

Antidepressants - Moderate success has been reported with antidepressant drugs. It is unknown how these drugs precisely exert their effectiveness in the treatment of enuresis, but it is thought that they may act directly on the wall of the bladder to prevent urination. They should be used only in children who are at least 6 years old, and who have had no previous heart problems.

Conditioning techniques - High success rates have been reported with two conditioning approaches: the bell-and-pad method, and dry-bed-training.

The bell-and-pad method consists of having the child sleep on a pad which has an alarm that sounds when the pad gets wet. The child is awakened by the alarm, stops voiding, turns off the alarm and then goes to the bathroom to finish voiding.

The dry-bed-training procedure incorporates several techniques: positive reinforcement, night-time awakenings, an alarm, cleanliness training (cleaning up after a bedwetting episode) and positive practice (the child lies in bed, imagines the need to void, and then goes to the bathroom). Many parents seem to object to the use of an alarm with the dry-bed-training method and this method has been modified to exclude its use with a high degree of success.

While enuresis is a widespread pediatric problem, it usually responds well to a variety of treatment approaches. As noted earlier, it is imperative that any true organic pathology be ruled out before any treatment program is implemented.

Some people once believed that if a girl plants marigolds in soil that contains the footprints of a man she loves, his love will grow and bloom with the marigold.

GRATTAN TOWNSHIP RESOLUTION

At a regular meeting of the Grattan Township Board held on the 10th day of June, 1985 at the Grattan Township Hall at 8:24 p.m. local time.

PRESENT: Patrick Malone, Rex Lally, Lucille Slowinski, Eugene Maidens, Martin Byrne
ABSENT: None

The Supervisor introduced Ordinance No. 85-2 entitled:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE GRATTAN TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE PURSUANT TO THE TOWNSHIP RURAL ZONING ACT, ACT NO. 189 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1943, AS AMENDED.

The Ordinance was then read.

It was moved by Rex Lally and seconded by Lucille Slowinski that the following resolution be adopted:

WHEREAS, the Grattan Township Planning Commission held a public hearing on May 15, 1985 on the attached proposed amendments to the Grattan Township Zoning Ordinance; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission has recommended to the Township Board that the proposed amendments be adopted as part of the Grattan Township Zoning Ordinance;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED AS FOLLOWS:

The attached Ordinance shall be effective upon publication in the Lowell Ledger newspaper.

Ayes: Malone, Lally, Slowinski, Byrne, Maidens
Nays: None
Absent: None

The Supervisor declared the Ordinance adopted.

The following is a copy of Ordinance No. 85-2 as adopted.

ORDINANCE NO. 85-2

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE GRATTAN TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE PURSUANT TO THE TOWNSHIP RURAL ZONING ACT, ACT NO. 189 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1943, AS AMENDED.

THE TOWNSHIP OF GRATTAN ORDAINS:

THAT THE GRATTAN TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE BE AMENDED AS FOLLOWS:

1. Revise Section 2.07 to read as follows:

2.07 Building. A structure erected on-site, a mobile home or mobile structure, a pre-manufactured or pre-cut structure, above or below ground, designed primarily for the shelter, support or enclosure of persons, animals or property of any kind.

2. Revise Section 2.09 to read as follows:

2.09 Dwelling. A building used as a residence or sleeping place by one or more persons. Dwelling shall include, but is not limited to, one and two family units and multiple family dwellings or apartments. All dwellings shall comply with the following standards:

1. It complies with the minimum square footage requirements of this ordinance for the zone in which it is located.

2. It has a minimum width across any front, side or rear elevation of 20 feet and complies in all respects with the township building code, including minimum heights for habitable rooms. Where a dwelling is required by law to comply with any federal or state standards or regulations for construction and where such standards or regulations for construction are different than those imposed by the township building code, then and in that event such federal or state standard or regulation shall apply.

3. It is firmly attached to a permanent foundation constructed on the site in accordance with the township building code and shall have a wall of the same perimeter dimensions of the dwelling and constructed of such materials and type as required in the applicable building code for single-family dwellings. In the event that the dwelling is a mobile home, as defined herein, such dwelling shall be installed pursuant to the manufacturer's setup instructions and shall be secured to the premises by an anchoring system or device complying with the rules and regulations of the Michigan Mobile Home Commission and shall have a perimeter wall as required above.

4. In the event that a dwelling is a mobile home as defined herein, each mobile home shall be installed with the wheels removed. Additionally, no dwelling shall have any exposed towing mechanism, under carriage or chassis.

5. The dwelling is connected to a public sewer and water supply or to such private facilities approved by the local health department.

6. The dwelling contains a storage capability area in a basement located under the dwelling, in an attic area, in closet areas, or in a separate structure of standard construction similar to or of better quality than the principal dwelling, which storage area shall be equal to 10% of the square footage of the dwelling or 100 square feet, whichever shall be less.

7. The dwelling is aesthetically compatible in design and appearance with other residences in the vicinity, with either a roof overhang of not less than six inches on all sides, or alternatively with window sills or roof drainage systems concentrating roof drainage at collection points along the sides of the dwelling; has not less than two exterior doors with the second one being in either the rear or side of the dwelling; and contains steps connected to said exterior door areas or to porches connected to said door areas where a difference in elevation requires the same.

The compatibility of design and appearance shall be determined in the first instance by the Township Zoning Inspector upon review of the plans submitted for a particular dwelling subject to appeal by an aggrieved party to the Zoning Board of Appeals within a period of 15 days from the receipt of notice of said Zoning Inspector's decision. Any determination of compatibility shall be based upon the standards set forth in this definition of "dwelling" as well as the character, design and appearance of one or more residential dwellings located outside of mobile home parks throughout the township. The foregoing shall not be construed to prohibit innovative design concepts involving such matters as solar energy, view, unique land contour, or relief from the common or standard designed home.

8. The dwelling contains no additions or rooms or other areas which are not constructed with similar quality workmanship as the original structure, including permanent attachment to the principal structure and construction of a foundation as required herein.

9. The dwelling complies with all pertinent building and fire codes. In the case of a mobile home, all construction and all plumbing, electrical apparatus and insulation within and connected to said mobile home shall be of a type and quality conforming to the "Mobile Home Construction and Safety Standards" as promulgated by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development, being 24 CFR 3280, and as from time to time such standards may be amended. Additionally, all dwellings shall meet or exceed all applicable roof snow load and strength requirements.

10. The foregoing standards shall not apply to a mobile home park except to the extent required by state or federal law or otherwise specifically required in the ordinance of the Township pertaining to such parks.

11. All construction required herein shall be commenced only after a building permit has been obtained in accordance with the applicable township building code provisions and requirements.

3. Revise Section 3.20 to read as follows:

3.20 Mobile Homes, Motor Homes and Trailer Campers. Except in trailer camps licensed and supervised by a duly authorized government agency, no mobile home, motor home or trailer camper shall be used for more than ten days in any one year without a permit from the building inspector as provided herein.

4. Revise Section 3.20A as follows:

3.20A. A mobile home may be used outside of a licensed mobile home park as a single family dwelling within the A, R, R-L and R-R zoning districts provided all the standards provided in Section 2.09 are met.

5. Revise Section 7.03(2) to read as follows:

7.03(2) Front Yard. There shall be a front yard of at least 30 feet. Accessory garages, sewage disposal systems and storage structures may be located in the rear of a principal building provided such structure is at least 20 feet from a street right-of-way.

6. Revise Section 7.04(2) as follows:

7.04(2) Front Yard. There shall be a front yard of at least 50 feet. Accessory garages and storage structures may be located in the rear of a principal building provided such structures are at least 20 feet from a street right-of-way.

7. Revise Section 3.19(4) to read as follows:

(4) The Planning Commission may permit the use of Lots of Record not meeting the yard dimensions or other requirements specified above as a special use upon making the following determinations:

- The Lots are in single ownership.
- There is no practical possibility of obtaining more land.
- The proposed use reasonably cannot be located on the lot such that the minimum requirements are met.
- The proposed use will not adversely affect adjacent properties or the character of the neighborhood.
- Side yards of at least five feet will be provided.

8. Add a new Section 3.41 as follows:

3.41 Satellite Dish Antennas. Satellite dish antennas shall meet all of the requirements for accessory buildings.

9. Revise the first 8 lines of Section 3.22 to read as follows:

3.22 Mobile Home Permit. Any person desiring to occupy a mobile home outside of a licensed mobile home park, which mobile home does not meet the requirements of Section 3.20(A) and contains at least seven hundred and twenty (720) square feet of floor area, may file a petition with the Building Inspector, as provided by the Township for such purpose which of the petition for Limited Trailer Permit for Migrant Labor (Section 3.21(1)).

10. Revise Section 9.03(7)(a) to read as follows:

9.03(7)(a) A one-story house without full basement shall have a minimum first floor area of 720 square feet.

Adopted by the Township Board of the Township of Grattan, County of Kent, Michigan on the 10th day of June, 1985.

"Feet First, First Time," is the theme of a new Saint Mary's Hospital program aimed at preventing spinal cord injuries from diving accidents.

A graphic illustration of a character jumping feet first will be used throughout the campaign to emphasize diving and water safety.

The new program is sponsored by Saint Mary's Hospital Neurotrauma program, Rogers Department Store, and Brann's Restaurants and will feature billboards and a number of educational programs.

Dr. David Herz, medical director of the SMH Neurotrauma program which treats spinal cord injuries, recommended adoption of "Feet First, First Time," at Saint Mary's because western Michigan is a tourism center known for the popularity of water sports.

Saint Mary's is prepared to field a number of representatives who can speak to high school students, campers, civic groups and places where swimming lessons are given. Included in the presentations will be a short film entitled "Consequences" and a slide presentation on spinal cord injuries prepared by Saint Mary's.

Dr. Herz brought information about "Feet First, First Time," here from West Florida Regional Medical Center in Pensacola which developed the original program.

Spinal cord injuries, which are permanent, are growing with 10,000 occurring each year in the U.S. Though more than 50% are caused by auto accidents, water sport injuries also account for a good number. Of those the greatest percentage of injuries happen to those 15 to 19 years of age with males making up 82% of the injured. Most occur in home pools of which there are at least 2200 in Grand Rapids.

How can spinal cord injury in water sports be prevented? Quite simply. Follow the rules, "Feet First, First Time."

Dr. Herz points out that until diving and swimming areas (lakes, pools, rivers) are really well known, all swimmers should use caution and explore the swimming area with feet first.

Shoving, pushing, or running at poolside are also cited as factors in spinal cord injury accidents as are using alcohol or drugs that impair judgement.

Camp counselors or lifeguards may call 774-6425 to obtain a "Feet First" T-Shirt.

Always over the Fourth of July

The Lake Odessa Fair will be starting Wednesday, July 3rd at 1:00 p.m. for the 51st consecutive year, and ending Sunday, July 7th.

The Carnival, Leisure Time Amusements, has many colorful and fun rides for all ages. They sponsor reduced midway ride coupons, which feature old time prices at 3 rides for $1.00. Plan to pick up special discount coupons at local merchants before the fair begin. They also sponsor Midway Madness which will be held on Wednesday, July 3rd from 5:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. and Sunday, July 7th from 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

The parade will begin the festivities on Thursday, July 4th at 10:00 a.m. This year the fair will be sponsoring a combined grandstand on July 4th of Three-Wheeler Racing followed by Figure Eight Derby. Grandstand will include both of these events for $5.00 for adults and $2.00 for children.

The State Championship for Light Horse Pulling is being held at the Fair again this year. The best teams in the state will vie for first place. This exciting event will take place on Saturday, July 6th at 7:00 p.m.

The Demolition Derby is always a hair-raising event. The Lake Odessa Fair sponsors their own Derby, with a $1,000 purse and trophies. Come and watch or enter your own car on Sunday, July 7th at 7:30 p.m. and see the smashing, colliding, starting and stopping with a bang. Be sure to stay for the big fireworks display to be held after the derby.

The Fair is presenting its second annual Ladies Day this year which will feature a stage show, door prizes, demonstrations, and Miss Michigan, Barbara Jean Crandall who is a ventriloquist. Don't miss this event on Sunday, July 7th at 3:00 p.m.

On Friday, July 5th at 3:00 p.m. the Lake Odessa Fair has the honor of hosting President's Day in honor of Fred Morris who is the fair president and is also serving as the 1985 President of the Michigan Association of Fair's and Exhibitions. All ninety fairs have been invited to attend this event as well as many state, county, and local dignitaries. The event will begin at 3:00 p.m. with guest speakers, and tours, followed by hospital-ity and dinner. Leisuretime Amusement is sponsoring the dinner for this event.

On Saturday, July 6th beginning at 10:00 a.m. the fair will host its annual All-Breed Draft Horse Show. These horses will compete for prize money and ribbons.

There are many exhibits to come and see, such as sewing, knitting, arts, crafts, horse show, beef, dairy, sheep, swine, goats, canning, painting, clown contest and crops. The Lake Odessa Fair extends an invitation to everyone to come and enjoy an Old Fashioned, small Country Fair and learn a little of yesterday!

The proposed tax on life insurance cash values

Since the Treasury Department unveiled its tax reform proposal early this year, I have received large amounts of mail opposing specific items targeted by the plan for significant change.

One of the major items of concern is the Treasury Department's proposal to tax as income the cash surrender value of whole life insurance. Although the balance of mail I have received on this issue is opposed to taxation, I have noted some misunderstanding of what the Treasury Department's plan proposes in this regard.

Currently a person holding a whole life insurance policy (as opposed to term insurance) pays a premium used by insurance companies for three different purposes. A major part, the insurance component, is used to pay the beneficiaries of other policyholders who have claims. A second part, the loading component, pays the company's administrative costs and provides for a small measure of profit. The third part, the investment component, is the amount the company can invest before it has to be paid to beneficiaries.

Returns from this investment component are added to the value of individual's policy, thus providing a small return to the policyholder on his investment. From the perspective of the Treasury Department, a policyholder who pays a premium in excess of the insurance and loading components is in effect making a deposit into a savings account. Thus, the Treasury tax plan proposes to tax value increase—just as if it were interest earned from a regular savings account. This would mean a policyholder would have to include in interest income for a taxable year any increase during that year in the cash surrender value.

The Treasury Department insists that its proposal would have relatively little effect on the average taxpayer, claiming that for families with income less than $30,000 annually the average increase in taxable income would amount to less than $200. Wealthier taxpayers would pay more in tax, as families with incomes over $200,000 annually would average more than $3,000 in additional taxable income.

Opponents to this plan point out that any significant changes in the tax treatment of life insurance policies would probably discourage individuals from holding policies. If this were to happen, there would be significant pressure on government to provide for uninsured persons what insurance used to cover.

From this view, the tax code now encourages private companies to efficiently provide services the government could only provide under a much more extensive and expensive social program.

As with more issues in regard to tax reform, each side has important arguments in its favor. That is why tax reform is such a difficult and slow process, as each side seeks to present its view of an issue, and, in some cases, exaggerates the consequences of action or inaction on a particular proposal. As the debate on tax reform continues, it is important to have a clear understanding of what particular proposals would mean. If you have any questions in this regard, I hope you will not hesitate to let me know.

Michigan State students off to Scandanavia

Nicole Curtis graduated from Lowell Senior High in 1983. Now she is in her second year at Michigan State University. This summer she will be participating in the Overseas Study Program through MSU. She will be going to Scandanavia to take Social Science classes. While she is there, she hopes to meet the relatives she has that live right outside Stockholm, Sweden.

The following article was written for her journalism class at MSU. She interviewed Dr. Al Levak, the professor leading the trip, about the program. This summer 27 students will be going to Scandanavia to participate in one of the nation's best Overseas Study Programs through Michigan State University.

During the program, the students will be spending two weeks in Helsinki, Finland, two days in Leningrad, Russia, and the last two weeks will be spent in Stockholm, Sweden. This will give students a chance to see a few different countries and the varying cultures.

Dr. Al Levak, 63, from the Social Science Department at MSU, will be the professor on the trip.

Classes are set up in a very relaxed atmosphere which allows the students to enjoy themselves. They will also have plenty of time to explore on their own. Dr. Levak understands the student's needs to be relaxed and to explore because he has traveled around the world about three times. Dr. Levak is more concerned students gain a cross-culture knowledge from the program, which he feels will be very important in the future, rather than having students spend time in a classroom or reading a textbook. "I have a sensitivity to the importance of international involvement," Dr. Levak said.

"Hopefully, when they get back they will better understand other people in our own society and its culture. They will behave differently when they come back because they can understand the minorities in our own society." When the students are overseas they are a minority themselves, maybe for the first time in their lives. This gives them a common bond, according to Dr. Levak.

"When you get into a foreign country you're in a sensitive and defensive position because you're not quite sure what's going to happen, you look out for each other." Dr. Levak has taken about eight groups overseas and he has had only a couple minor problems while abroad. Once a student had his wallet and passport stolen from the hotel. It was a Sunday afternoon, Dr. Levak went down to the police station with the student.

"When we came back, I don't know, within a couple of hours, both the wallet and passport showed up again. Evidently, somebody from the staff of the place we were staying decided to appropriate it and somebody else put the pressure on them to put it back." Another minor problem Dr. Levak encountered resulted when some students found out a car dealer was looking for people to drive new cars to places in Europe.

"A bunch of students got together, I think about five of them, maybe more, they had two cars. They took off and didn't tell me, which is perfectly alright, the weekends are their own, I'm not going to watch everybody. But the thing is they had an accident, totaled the car, ended up in jail, got freed, and came home (back to the hotel). Nothing was ever done about it. Somebody slipped one day, that's how I found out about it, they weren't going to tell me. They weren't hiding it or anything, they were just being more protective of me than they should have been."

"One has to be careful, that's all," Dr. Levak said. "The students are generally well behaved and take the program very seriously, according to Dr. Levak. He doesn't anticipate any problems. This program to Scandanavia began in 1975. Dr. Levak became the professor for it in 1976 and he has taken his wife along with him every year.

There is new activity in Congress to crack down on Soviet spying on the United States after two incidents this spring have pointed out glaring weaknesses in current U.S. security efforts. Early this year, U.S. diplomats in Moscow discovered that some of the typewriters used in the Embassy had been fitted for years with electronic listening devices that enabled the Soviets to monitor the classified documents being typed on the machines. Just last month, the FBI arrested several people on espionage charges in a far-ranging spy ring the end of which is still not in sight.

The public and Congress are justifiably upset. Many have called for the death of the alleged American spies, some even suggesting the executions be broadcast on national television. While that response is understandable, from the Congressional viewpoint, it is more important and significant to make long term changes to reduce the opportunity for espionage. Restricting the activities of Russia's U.N. diplomats is especially important, as recent reports suggest that as many as one-fourth of the 800 Russians working for various U.N. agencies are intelligence officers, and many more are actively cooperative with Soviet spy agencies. Their duties include recruiting cooperative agents and pilfering scientific and technical information.

Domestic spying may never be completely eliminated, but much tighter laws can and ought to be passed by Congress and implemented by the President. The security of our nation demands nothing less than our best efforts in this regard. Dr. Levak and his wife particularly enjoy going to Stockholm because their 33 year old son has lived there for about 12 years. Their son, his wife and their 8 year old son live in a village called Stockholm right outside of Stockholm.

If any of the students have relatives in Scandanavia, he strongly encourages the student to contact them. The Scandanavians are great cooks, very hospitable, and their general attitude towards Americans is very positive, he said. If you are an American relative you are sure to get the red carpet treatment.

Dr. Levak has three requirements during the course. Classes are set up as field trips with some lectures given by people from those countries. These field trips must be attended by all students. One essay exam will be given to everyone at the end of the program and all students must write a term paper about their major in those countries.

"After all, if you're majoring in something here, you want to see how they do it over there," Dr. Levak said.

The paper itself is not due until about the middle of October, three months after the program ends. Also, the length of the paper varies from an informal 6-10 page paper to an extensive, research paper 25-30 pages long. The paper is the only distinction in the program between the level of credits the student can take.

Dr. Levak said. "The paper itself is not due until about the middle of October, three months after the program ends. Also, the length of the paper varies from an informal 6-10 page paper to an extensive, research paper 25-30 pages long. The paper is the only distinction in the program between the level of credits the student can take.

Michigan State Graduates

Michigan State University lists 4,895 candidates for degrees awarded at commencement exercises June 6-8 on campus.

The degree candidates include 3,536 bachelor's, 887 master's, 189 doctoral, 11 educational specialists, 116 doctors of osteopathic medicine, 67 medical doctors and 89 doctors of veterinary medicine. At the June 6 University Convocation, undergraduates were addressed by Michigan Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, who received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

The convocation also included remarks to the class by President Cecil Mackey and a representative of the Senior Class Council, presentation of the class gift and introductions of major national and international award winners. MSU's spring term ended June 7. Summer classes resume June 19.

Among those graduating were: Jo Belyea and Tammy Gruner of Ada; Nancy Quirk of Alto; Christine Powell and Tracy Timpson of Lowell.

Lowell Lions install new officers at summer meeting

Two exhibits slated for new LAAC building

The Lowell Area Arts Council Center Gallery opened June 1st with an exhibit of Lowell and Saranac School student's art work. The colorful paintings, ceramics and paper mache sculpture made a striking exhibit even amid the unfinished floor and bare pipes and wires over head. The building was funded by a grant from The Michigan Council of the Arts, matching funds from the Helen Look Daley Fund and a lot of extremely hard work by dedicated volunteers. The volunteer work continues and by this Friday when the second exhibition is scheduled, the gallery space should be complete with dropped ceiling and carpeted floors.

On Sunday, June 23rd, there will be a reception heralding an exhibition by a group of seventeen watercolorists called "Harry and Friends." The group under the direction of Harry Hefner, retired Art Department head from Western Michigan University meets weekly during the winter months. Exhibiting will be Harry Hefner, Sylvia Krissoff, Alisia DuRand, Loritta Sailors, Susanne Remes, Bertha Verbruege, Mary Heunelhorst, Russell L. Shepherd, Donn Palmer, Woody Palmer, Marg Kemper, Judy Tummino, Donna Williams, Donna Westra, Elsa McFarland, Louise Meeuwssen and Jan Johnson. Gallery hours are 1:30 to 4:30 Sat. & Sun. 1:00 to 5:00 weekdays.

Building renovation will continue throughout the summer along with several more exhibits. LAAC hopes the planned classroom with three potters wheels and kiln, auxiliary classroom that can double as gallery space, offices for LAAC and the Lowell Area Chamber of Commerce and rest rooms, will be completed for a September Grand Opening. Any volunteer muscle will be appreciated. Call 897-8545.

The new Lowell Area Arts Council building on South Hudson is fast becoming a cultural center for the area. High school art is currently on display there, and a water color exhibit is scheduled soon.

Coulson is on Western Dean's List

A total of 840 students are included on the dean's list for the winter semester of the 1984-85 academic year at Western Michigan University.

To be eligible, students must have compiled at least a 3.5 grade point average in at least 14 hours of graded class work.

Among those students honored was Kimberly Coulson of Saranac and Barbara Boshoven of Ada.

Better start turning out the lights. According to the Worldwatch Institute, global energy use is expected to grow by 225 percent in the next 40 years, reports National Wildlife magazine. It will take the equivalent of two additional oil producing Saudi Arabias and a tripling of world coal production to meet the world's projected energy needs.
