"Macker Mania" to besiege Lowell this weekend

Well, this is it . . . "Macker Week!" Depending on how you feel about "Macker", it's time to either get out your sneakers, or hitch up the camper and get out of town. This year's Macker, the twelfth annual, promises to be bigger and better than ever with well over 600 teams competing, Scott "Gus Macker" McNeal's wedding and a controversial Sports Illustrated article all combine to enhance the annual (pardon the pun) "Hoopla".

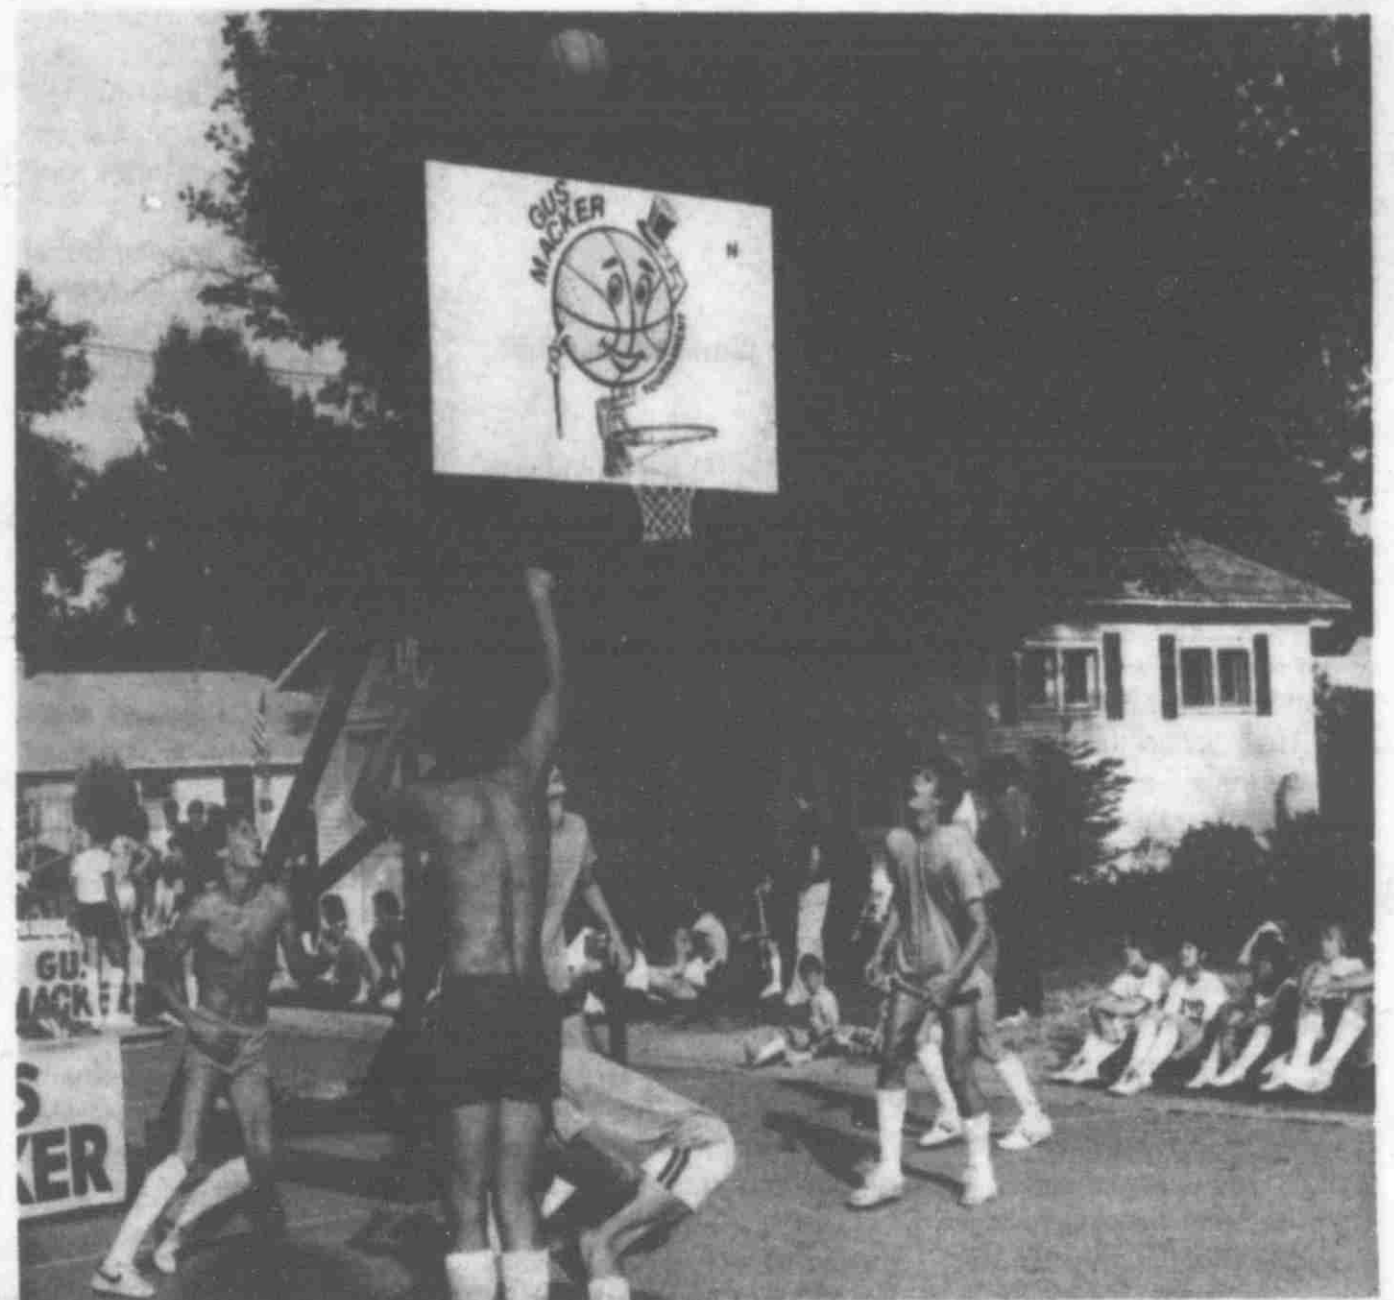

Since "Gus" will be getting married at 2:30 on Friday, the official tournament title has been altered to read, "The 12th Annual, one and only, original, (Yes, we've built an empire) Gus Macker (Is gettin' hitched), all world invitational three-on-three outdoor backyard on the Street, basketball tournament". "Gus" and his pretty bride-to-be Renée Hill of Durand will tie the knot at the Methodist Church rather than center court. Some Macker fans were disappointed, but "Gus" insisted that some things are sacred. An almost unbelievable statement from the guy who started the crazy world of "Macker Mania."

The July 8 (perfect timing) issue of Sports Illustrated carried a 12 page story complete with 17 color pictures from last year's tournament. The article was mostly positive, and will go a long way in promoting Macker Basketball. However, some of the quotes and innuendos contained in the article have upset several neighbors and city officials. A quote from Mackerville resident Orloe Gwatkins, " - @#$% city doesn't do anything about kid's recreation!", didn't set too well at city hall. Lowell Mayor James Maatman claims he was mis-quoted in a sentence that reads, "But, I can't see this going on in the streets . . ." Maatman said his conversation with the Sports Illustrated reporter was totally positive, and added, "I would never make a statement like that, because that is not what I think about "Macker". In another part of the article the reporter suggests that a neighbor, whom he didn't name, but described so thoroughly that he may as well have, was upset with the "Macker" because his daughter never was named, "Miss Macker". Bonnie McNeal "Mrs. Macker" told us that everyone involved in the tournament felt bad about the negative comments, but added that none of them came from "Macker" officials. "They talked to lots of people while they were here, and a big magazine like that just prints what they want to", she said. Bonnie also said that a lot of people who work hard on the tournament didn't get the recognition that they deserve.

"Macker Week" shapes up like this . . . Tuesday, July 8 was the "Macker Hall of Fame Game." All the old time "Macker" players try to recapture old glory in this seventh annual such event. Wednesday is the "Miss Macker" Beauty Pageant at 7:30 P.M. spectators at this ever-popular event are advised to get there early if they want a good seat. Fifteen to twenty young ladies will be judged in evening gowns, swim suits and basketball attire by area media representatives and Maryann Gwatkins. Thursday is preparation day, during which scores of "Macker" volunteers will transform the west side of Lowell into "Mackerville".

"Macker" action from last year's tournament. "Gus Busters" will be on hand again this year to monitor the games. Over 600 teams are scheduled to compete in the 12th annual "Macker".

Things really get underway on Friday. Registration is from 4:00 'til 6:00 P.M. Opening ceremonies are from 5:30 until 6:00, and the first games begin at 6:00. A "Macker Tip-Off Party" will ensue at Larkin's Saloon complete with videos, Macker celebrities, music and fun. On Saturday the games will begin at 9:00 A.M. and continue all day, along with assorted special events. The final games will begin on Sunday at 9:00 A.M. The finals will be played in late afternoon, and "Macker" will be over for another year.

Missing man is found

Lowell Chief of Police Barry Emmons notified the Ledger on Tuesday that Larry Alan Orr, 20, had been located by the Lowell Police Department. Orr has been listed as a "missing person" since seen leaving work at the Admiral Tobacco Company, 2335 W. Main, Lowell last Monday afternoon. Orr lives with his parents in Greenville, and they reported him missing when he didn't show up at home. For the past several days his picture has been shown on local television stations and in area newspapers. The notice would have appeared in this issue of the Ledger.

Acting on a tip generated by an article in the Greenville Daily News, Lowell Police Sergeant Al Eckman found a motel in Indiana where Orr had made a reservation. Eckman instructed motel personnel to contact him as soon as Orr showed up. They did so, and Orr was found to be in good health and no foul play was connected to the incident. So far no explanation has been given for his disappearance.

Kathie Quada, wife of Lowell City Manager, Ray Quada, and former writer for the Ledger, died at home last Friday at age 40. Kathie had fought cancer for nearly six years.

Kathie graduated from Marshall High School in 1962, and was an Honor Society member. In 1966 she graduated from Central Michigan University with a major in English. She received special recognition in her English Literature studies.

Following graduation, Kathie taught high school English at Lapeer High, Jonesville High and Harper Creek from 1966 through 1970. Ray's career in city government took them from Midland to Plymouth and finally Lowell in 1976. During that time, the Quada's were blessed with three sons, Mark, who died at age 2, Matthew, 15 and Andrew, 12.

In 1978 Kathie came to work as a part-time writer for the Ledger. Her background in English and journalism were a great asset to the paper. She had been yearbook advisor at each school where she taught and was a staff writer on the C.M.U. newspaper. She was responsible for the Ledger's switch from a broadsheet format to tabloid. She gave up her position here in 1981 after several operations made it too difficult for her to work regularly. Kathie did continue to write at home, designing and writing brochures for several firms.

Perhaps Kathie's biggest contribution to Lowell, was her work in helping to establish the Lowell Area Arts Council. As a charter member, Kathie served three terms on the LAAC Board of Directors and five years as Vice President. She played leadership roles in such projects as: the annual winter play, Fallasburg Fall Festival, establishing the LAAC Newsletter, "World of Fun" and Children's activities at the Fourth of July celebration. The first piece of art donated to the LAAC was given in Kathie's name by her friends. Kathie also worked on several projects for the Lowell Showboat from 1976 thru 1980, including designing and writing the brochure and program each year.

Kathie is survived by her husband, Ray; parents, Arnold and Marian Whitney of Lapeer; sons, Matthew Barrett and Andrew Whitney, both at home, a sister, Mrs. Calvin (Jane Marie) Mott of Saginaw.

The Mass of Christian Burial was performed at the St. Mary's Catholic Church in Lowell on Monday. Monsignor James P. Moran and Rev. Thomas Schiller were the Celebrants. She was buried Monday afternoon in Lapeer. Memorials may be made to the Lowell Area Arts Council.

City and state governments are getting tough with corporate toxic waste polluters, reports National Wildlife magazine. Some cities have organized Toxic Waste Strike Forces to investigate illegal chemical waste dumping. Corporate officers who have intentionally broken environmental laws have been fined nearly half-a-million dollars, given six month jail terms and even forced to take out full-page advertisements in local newspapers admitting their guilt.

He is survived by his wife, Kimberly; parents, Charles and Bethel Stewart of Clarksville; grandparents, Pipp and Dorothy Stewart of Tennessee, Mary Haynes of Virginia; one brother, John and his wife Kris of Lyons; one sister Margret Stewart of Alto; father and mother-in-law, Dale and Joan McCaul; a brother-in-law, Gregory McCaul; a sister-in-law, Christine McCaul all of Clarksville. Helpful hints to prevent burglaries while on vacation

This is the time of year when you dust off that fishing pole, dig out the swimming suit, pack up the car and head out on a two-week cross-country trip or a long weekend at the cabin. Yet while you're off on vacation, John Alzubaydi of Consumers Power Company's Alma district reminds you that home burglars will still be on the job.

Many of those burglars could find their jobs made easier by the telltale signs left behind by vacationers. Crime prevention experts say there are a number of steps you can take to keep the sticky-fingered from having their pick of your belongings.

First, let neighbors whom you trust know that you'll be out of town. Ask them to make sure your mail and newspaper are picked up. If you plan a long trip, you might consider having mail and newspaper deliveries stopped.

Second, hook the lights in your home to a timer. This will give the appearance of normal activity. Once again, if the vacation will be lengthy, ask a friend to alter the times your lights come on and go off.

Other steps to take if you won't be home for some time include getting someone to mow your lawn and letting the police know you'll be gone and where you can be reached.

With your home secured, Alzubaydi says there are some energy saving measures you can take before you go.

Turn the temperature on your gas water heater to pilot. You might also want to remove the circuit breaker or fuse from your electric water heater.

You will not need to worry about the heat, so set the temperature on your central air conditioner to 85 degrees.

Finally, unplug your television and stereo to reduce the risk of damage from lightning during a storm.

Follow these helpful hints and you'll not only find your home in the same condition you left it, but a smaller utility bill when you return.

While we understand the urgency of restoring electric power to all of our consumers after a severe storm, we consider hazardous conditions created by the storm to be our first priority. That means the detection and repair of downed overhead power lines, and we need your help.

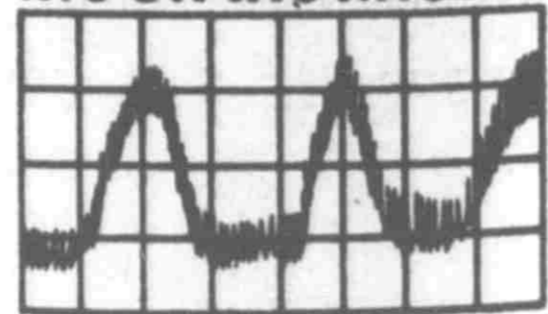

Power lines which have been snapped or pulled down as the result of a storm present a serious, even deadly danger. If you come across a downed wire, stay completely away from it. Don't touch the lines, the pole to which it is attached, or anything else in contact with the wire. Call us immediately - don't assume someone else will. We want to know about downed wires immediately so we can send our professionally trained linemen to make the needed repairs.

Take some time today to teach your children about the dangers of downed electric wires. Instruct them to tell you or another adult as soon as possible about the problem, and to warn other children away.

Never, never assume a wire is harmless. Let us make the determinations and the repairs. Together we'll continue to keep our community safe from electric accidents.

Don't put your life on the line...

by Roger Brown

If you know me at all, you've probably noticed that I am not a very strong willed person. The fact that I'm considerably overweight proves that I can't resist an extra helping at the dinner table or a between meals snack. You'll notice that on days such as last Friday, which fell between a holiday and the weekend, the Ledger closes for an extra day off. If you follow this column each week, you also know that my wife and kids can usually get me to see things their way when they want something from me. And, if somebody says, "Let's go sailing", then forget work, I'm gone!

But, there is one exception where I have stood firm for well over three months. I've been a Missouri Mule carved in granite on the Rock of Gibraltar when it comes to this issue. I've endured tears, begging, pleading and even threats. Yet I stand firm. What is it that I am so adamantly against? Terese and the kids want another dog. Specifically, a Golden Retriever.

When Thor died last spring I declared, "no more dogs!" Let's face it, dogs are an incredible pain in the neck. They require constant attention, feeding, medical care, boarding when you're gone, etc. What do you get in return? Shedding, accidents in the house, running away, raided garbage cans, holes dug in the yard, drool all over the car windows, chewed furniture, etc. And, despite all that, you get so darned attached to them that you are heartbroken for months when they die. No more dogs!

Yet, no matter how vehemently I state my case, my family persists. Every night Terese reads me the Golden Retriever puppy ads out of the Press. I tune it out. Every weekend on the way home from the lake we pass a billboard bearing a dog food ad with a huge picture of a Golden Retriever staring right at us. The family says in unison, "Daddy, daddy, there's our dog!" I tune it out. I get regular lectures from the three of them telling me how they'll feed it, train it, pay for it, brush it, take it for walks, etc. I tune it out. Terese reminds me that she and I both had family dogs when we were growing up, and says she thinks our kids ought to have one too. I tune it out. In fact, I have to tune out so much lately that I'm thinking of getting one of these little pocket radios with headphones to wear around the house. "What's that Angie? You want to talk about a new dog? Wait a second while I turn up my radio. Okay, go ahead!"

Terese struck a real low blow last Saturday at the beach. She got acquainted with a girl and her eight month old male Golden Retriever. Terese unashamedly made a big fuss over the dog. She even took him for a walk. But, the real low blow came when she found out the dog likes to chase Frisbees®. Terese had the unmitigated gall to ask me to throw a few for the dog to chase, knowing full well that that was what I enjoyed doing most with old Thor. I politely declined, but Terese persisted. I finally had to walk away to put an end to it. See, I told you I was strong.

Yesterday, Casey pulled a leftover can of Thor's dog food out of the cupboard and asked, "Should I just throw this away dad?" "Naw, go ahead and put it back," I said. So much for the Missouri Mule carved in granite on the Rock of Gibraltar.

New Beginnings Raises Money for Ethiopia

Starting line at Richards Park for the 1.5 mile run.

Over eight hundred dollars was raised for Ethiopia at the third annual NEW BEGINNINGS 5 Mile Run on a very wet Saturday morning this past June 15 in Lowell.

Runners and walkers collected pledge money prior to the race for the organization of the sponsors choice. Donations were received for World Vision, Catholic Relief Service, Compassion International, Christian Reformed World Relief, and Project Mercy.

Close to one-half of the money was sent to project Mercy (Fort Wayne, IN) headed by Marta Gabre-Tsadick, an Ethiopian refugee, and former Senator of that country. Marta raised interest in her project earlier in May at the NEW BEGINNINGS Relief Rally held at Aquinas College.

The rally was intended to draw public attention to the famine stricken country, and to hopefully, get people involved for the up-coming race.

Each year we hope to help some group of people or individuals who have suffered from some injustice or misfortune in their lives, in hope of giving them a New Beginning.

This year Ethiopia seemed to weigh heavily as the center of our concern for 1985. The finalization came after receiving a letter from the Office of Social Concerns/Justice and Peace. The Bishop urged Christians to develop some appropriate response to the crises.

Though we had a rainy day, we still had 120 participants. We set out to raise money and we did. We also brought together many good people and Christians to make NEW BEGINNINGS efforts for 1985 a success, organizationally, economically, and profitably.

The race results for 1985 are as follows:

Female: over-all 5 mile: Helen Denczek; 20-29: Helen Denczek; 30-39: Jo Wasierski; over-all 1-1/2 mile: Betty Addink; 0-14: Nicole Marshall; 20-29: Betty Addink; 30-39: Marcia Potter.

Male: over-all 5 mile: Bob Jazwinski; 0-14: Jason Douma; 15-19: Bob Jazwinski; 20-29: Steve Sobleskey; 30-39: James Hundiak; 40-49: Bradley Bennett; 50-up: Ray Aspnall; over-all 1-1/2 mile: John Abloa; 0-14: Rex Dressel; 15-19: John Abloa; 20-29: Mike DeJong; 30-39: Doug Timmer; 40-49: Bradley Bennett; 50-up: Eric Snider

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

by Pauline E. Spray

Yet the Lord will command his lovingkindness in the daytime, and in the night his song shall be with me. (Psalm 42:8)

"Do they run all night?" a little boy asked as he and his father stood on the river's edge, viewing the beautiful Tahquamenon Falls.

"What do you mean, son?" "Well, do they turn them off at eight o'clock?"

"No, son," the father replied, "they never stop running."

God's love is like the great Tahquamenon Falls-it never stops running. The nights come. Darkness sets in occasionally. We sometimes feel like God has forgotten and forsaken us, but He hasn't. His love is continuous. It runs on eternally. It never stops.

Man isn't always dependable. Best friends have been known to betray confidences; they have failed to keep their promises; they have let us down just when we needed them most; they have failed to sympathize and understand when we were passing through periods of darkness. Our closest friends and loved ones disappoint us at times, but God never fails. His love exceeds the love of humans. His love is infinite and goes on forever. "It never stops running."

Prayer: Dear God, my mind cannot comprehend the fathomlessness of Thy love. Yet I wonder in its reality. Thou art mine. I shall sing of Thy lovingkindness. Amen.

Oh, if there's only one song I can sing

Michigan transportation map available this week

The 1985-86 Official Transportation Map of Michigan, the first official map published by the state in two years, is making its debut this week. State Transportation Director James P. Pitz said today.

It is the most up-to-date map of Michigan available and may be obtained at no charge from the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

The family of Michigan's governor is pictured for the first time on the back cover, with a "Welcome to Michigan" message from Gov. and Mrs. James J. Blanchard and their son Jay. Inside is a stunning display of photos showing people enjoying "the good life" in Michigan in outdoor settings ranging from a ski area in the north country to Greenfield Village in the Detroit metropolitan area.

"Michigan, like the other 49 states, uses its map as a tool for its multi-billion-dollar tourist industry, and many of the two million maps we are printing this year will be distributed nationally and internationally by the Michigan Travel Bureau," Pitz said.

MDOT cartographers made 308 changes and additions to bring the new map up to date. It was printed in Michigan on Michigan-made paper for less than 12 cents a copy.

The map guides travelers along the 9,500-mile state highway system, on primary county roads and the major thoroughfares of the state's metropolitan area.

Users also can locate airports having lighted runways at least 3,000 feet in length, intercity bus terminals, both commercial and recreational harbors on the Great Lakes, ferry routes, freeway rest areas and roadside parks on the state highway system. The map also shows rail passenger lines and stations and, for the first time, rail freight lines as well.

Hospitals offering 24-hour emergency service and MDOT's 11 travel information centers, located mostly at border points, also are shown.

The map contains information panels on Michigan speed limits and the new safety belt law, Michigan historical markers, highway distances from city to city, location and phone numbers for state police posts and districts offices of MDOT and fares charged on such facilities as the Mackinac Bridge.

The map also identifies all state parks and lists their types of accommodations and provides an index to Michigan cities and villages. Various state symbols such as the state bird (Robin) are shown too.

The new map can be obtained, at no cost, at numerous locations, including all MDOT district offices and travel information centers. Other distribution points include state police posts, district offices of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, local chambers of commerce, municipal government offices and regional tourist associations.

The Department of Transportation also will mail maps to individuals upon request. Post cards should be mailed to: MAPS, Michigan Department of Transportation, P.O. Box 30050, Lansing, MI 48909.

Jenny Dine attends FFA Leadership Conference

Jenny Dine, Reporter of the Michigan Association of FFA attended a National FFA Leadership Conference for State Officers June 23-28. The Conference was held at Mackinac Island. This is one of nine national conferences held across the nation.

The FFA Conference is designed to improve leadership and communication skills, develop an understanding of state FFA officer responsibilities and prepare state officers for more effective leadership roles in their State

FFA Association. The Conference is also a forum for the exchange of ideas between officers from several states.

A highlight of the Conference is the opportunity to work with the National FFA Officers who are conducting the Conferences. Besides the training sessions, the 1985 program includes a public speaking workshop, an FFA quiz contest, a banquet program and many other leadership activities all designed to improve the communication skills of state FFA officers.

The National FFA Leadership Conference for State Officers is sponsored by Merck and Company, Inc. as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

Jenny, age 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dine of Alto.

Other states participating included Ohio, Indiana Kentucky and Tennessee.

Training jet on display at Ionia Free Fair

A supersonic jet aircraft, used to train pilots in the United States Air Force, will be on public display at the Ionia Free Fair, Ionia, MI from July 27 to August 4, 1985.

The aircraft, a Northrop T-38 "Talon," may be seen daily from 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. at the main entrance to the fairgrounds. Air Force personnel will be available during these times to assist visitors and answer questions about the jet trainer.

With a top speed of more than 800 mph, the T-38 can fly faster than the speed of sound and at altitudes of up to 50,000 feet. It carries a crew of two and is usually flown by student aviators during the advanced portion of undergraduate pilot training. The Air Force began using the T-38 "Talon" in 1960 and has since trained more than 30,000 pilots in the aircraft.

In addition to being the nation's first supersonic flying trainer, the "Talon" is used as a chase aircraft during flight tests at Edwards AFB, California. The T-38 is also used as a space flight readiness trainer for NASA's astronauts.

News from Congressman PAUL HENRY

As Congress heads into the summer, the 1985 Farm bill debate is moving to center stage. Comprehensive farm legislation must either be authorized in its present form or a new program must be developed before the end of the current calendar year.

A key area of the farm bill debate is soil conservation, and most proposals now before Congress include much strong conservation provisions than present law.

Soil conservation has received renewed attention from Congress for two major reasons. The first is new evidence and concern over what is called non-point source water pollution-pollution which does not originate at an easily identifiable spot but rather from an accumulation of wastes from a large area. New studies show that as water runs through and erodes soil, it carries with it a great deal of fertilizers, herbicides, and other products which can cause significant pollution.

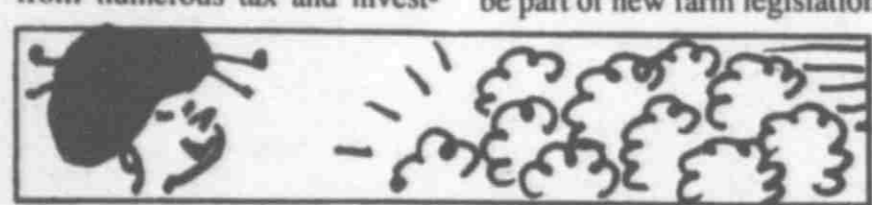

The second reason for increased attention to soil conservation is erosion itself. Especially in Central and Northern Great Plains States, highly erodible lands have been plowed up in huge tracts simply so the user can inflate the number of acres qualifying for federal farm programs, and thus receive more federal subsidies. This "sodbusting" contributes greatly to erosion, and serves only to increase the surpluses of already over abundant stocks and take benefits away from the legitimate farmers for which they were originally intended.

In many cases, government programs encourage plowing up and cropping such lands. Land evaluations for loan purposes make cropland worth 2 or 3 times more than rangeland, providing financial rewards for the shift to cropping. Eligibility for price supports assures income from the land if there is a crop, and disaster payments and crop insurance protect against losses due to crop failure. In addition, "sodbusters" who are in higher tax brackets or who intend to gain rid of their land soon can gain from numerous tax and investment inducements.

Most farm bill proposals address this problem in several ways. One way is through sanctions prohibiting USDA payments to those who farm highly erodible land either only on the sensitive land or for the complete farm operation. Another way is through establishing a conservation reserve-much like the old "soil bank" but targeted to erodible lands-in which farmers would contract with the government to set aside land from production. And there are several variations of conservation requirements for farms involved in other commodity programs, including requiring covercrops for set-aside acreage and cutting off program benefits to those who add erosion-prone lands to production.

It's difficult to say which of these provisions will be included in a final farm bill, but most experts agree that strong conservation provisions ought to and will be part of new farm legislation.

Asthma I
Asthma is a frequently misunderstood respiratory ailment occurring in 5% of all children. It is one of the major reasons for school absenteeism and is an important cause of financial and emotional strain on the family of a patient with asthma.

Asthma is a disease of bronchospasm. The tubes leading to the air sacs to into spasm for various reasons which results in mucous retention and poor ventilation. Usually there is no identifiable cause for bronchospasm. Some asthmatics may wheeze after exposure to cold air, dust, or exercise. Viral infections have been known to incite episodes of wheezing. Patients with allergies to specific agents may experience wheezing after exposure to those agents. Asthma is not caused by emotions or a personality disorder! While some episodes of asthma may be incited by emotional distress, this is not the reason for the presence of asthma. In simple terms, asthma is a disorder of the bronchial tree where several factors interrelate to cause spasm and constriction of the breathing tubes.

The classical symptom of asthma is wheezing. A wheeze is a prolonged sound heard during exhalation produced by bronchial constriction. Asthma is the most common cause of wheezing, although other respiratory infections may also cause short term wheezing. Another common symptom of asthma is a cough. The wheezing and cough of asthma tends to be worse in the late afternoon and early hours of the morning. Asthma symptoms can vary in frequency and severity. This may make asthma difficult to diagnose. In some cases a patient may wheeze once or twice a month or only a couple times per year after exercise. In others, a patient may wake up every night with shortness of breath and wheezing.

A chest x-ray may show some air trapping or bronchial thickening in persistent asthma, but in most cases the chest x-ray is normal especially if taken between attacks. Doctors will often order x-rays to see if a respiratory infection has incited an asthmatic attack. Allergy testing is somewhat controversial in patients with asthma as there is no definite proof that allergy shots will improve the outcome in most asthmatics. Pulmonary function tests (tests which measure breathing capacity by having the patient exhale forcefully into a measuring device) are the most useful in diagnosing asthma. The diagnosis is often made during an acute episode of wheezing followed by clearing after injection of an appropriate medication.

In conclusion, asthma is a common condition which causes shortness of breath, wheezing and coughing. It waxes and wanes - most children will grow out of it. There is no "cure" for asthma but with proper medical treatment it can be controlled. We'll discuss the control of asthma next week.

How to make dual incomes work for you

If you recently added a second paycheck to your household, you may be time to revamp your financial strategies, suggests the Michigan Association of CPAs. Often, two-income couples are so busy earning money that they don't take the time to make their money work for them.

A second paycheck, even a hefty one, doesn't necessarily mean you'll be able to put extra money in the bank or improve the quality of your lifestyle. Much of your dual income may go toward paying higher taxes—including dual Social Security assessments—clothing and transportation costs and, in some instances, child care and house-keeping costs. But you can offset these financial burdens and make the most effective financial plan.

The first step in putting your financial house in order is to know where your money is going. Establish a detailed budget of your expenses, then figure out where you can cut back in order to save more.

Take a close look at the fringe benefits offered by your employers. Make sure you are maximizing these benefits, such as the health, life and disability insurance each of you receive; try to minimize duplicate coverage. If your company has a deferred compensation, stock purchase or profit sharing plan, consider taking advantage of it. With certain plans, employers may match your contribution or part of it, and earnings may be sheltered for current taxation.

Capitalizing on employee benefits, even nontaxable ones, is not enough to protect your hard-earned money from inflation and tax bites. You need to establish investment and tax strategies which will provide you with liquid reserves (ready cash), as well as short- and long-term profits. Your age, number of dependents and joint income will influence your financial goals and the investment plan which best suits you.

Aim for diversity in your investments. Some low-risk investments that can pay off over a short term include the following: Money Market Accounts: For a minimum of $1,000, you can usually open a money market account which provides high yields and allows continuous liquidity through check writing privileges. Beginning January 1, 1986, the $1,000 minimum will be established, enabling you to open an account with even smaller amounts.

Certificates of Deposit (CDs): CDs enable you to make a relatively small investment—anywhere from $500 and up—which can provide yields as high as 11 percent. Maturities range from 30 days and up.

Commercial Paper: These promissory notes are issued by corporations for any term up to 270 days. You'll need $25,000 or more to invest in commercial paper. The interest rate is determined by the amount, the maturity and the corporation's credit rating, and it is usually higher than the interest rates for bank or government certificates.

Treasury Bills: Treasury bills, requiring a minimum investment of $10,000 can provide high yields. They have maturity dates varying from a week to a year, and the interest income is reported at maturity.

Longer-Term Investments: If you're ready to take risks and willing to give your capital more time to grow, consider investing in quality stocks or mutual funds with good growth potential. These investments can produce capital gains (profits realized when you sell an asset) rather than ordinary income. Growth stocks can also provide excellent tax benefits because long-term capital gains (gains on sales of stock held over six months) are taxed at a lower effective rate than other taxable income. However, be aware that only 50 percent of long-term capital losses are deductible.

Tax Strategies: Second paychecks usually push married couples into a higher tax bracket. To avoid being in debt to Uncle Sam at the end of the year, be sure you're having sufficient taxes withheld from both your salaries to cover your anticipated tax bill.

To prevent increased taxes from absorbing significant portions of a second income, consider putting some of your earnings into tax-deferred pension plans, whether offered through a corporation or through Keogh or IRA programs.

Be sure to take advantage of tax breaks made possible by the 1981 Economic Recovery Tax Act (ERTA). For example, working couples can claim a deduction equal to 10 percent of the

Aquinas Announces Dean's List

Aquinas College of Grand Rapids, Michigan, has named 191 students to its 1984-85 Dean's List. These students include those enrolled in all program types.

The Aquinas College Dean's List honors those full-time students (12 or more credit hours per semester) who have maintained a 3.5 grade point average or better for the second semester of the previous academic year.

Included on the List were Michelle M. Serne, of Ada, Kathleen M. Beachler and Donna H. Johnson of Lowell.

first $30,000 in income earned by the lower-paid spouse. In addition, if you both establish IRA accounts, you can claim a yearly deduction of up to $4,000 on your joint tax return.

ERTA also eliminated income, estate and gift taxes on transfers of property between spouses. Because the marital deduction is unlimited, you may want to leave your entire estate to your spouse free of federal estate taxes, provided this benefits your tax situation.

To ensure that your dual income will put more money in your pockets, plan your investment and tax strategies carefully.

Capitol Column

Senator Dick Posthumus

People often claim if government was run more like a business, we'd end up with lower costs, better service, and a more efficient organization. Under legislation approved by the Senate, the state's Medicaid program may have a chance to prove them right.

Senate Bill 330, passed recently, could drastically change the way Michigan's Medicaid program is run. The system is currently operated by the state Department of Social Services, but the newly-approved legislation would allow the state's $1.7 billion Medicaid system to be contracted out and administered by either a public or private entity.

Proposals for running the program would be due by July 1, 1986, and would be based on specifications written by the Department of Management and Budget (DMB). Criteria for awarding the contract would be based on more than just the lowest bid. To be considered, an entity must have financial stability, proven ability in administering a program like Medicaid, and experience with medical claims and underwriting medical services. The bill also requires that the DMB give preference to proposals submitted by Michigan-based organizations, and that private bidders be able to produce a $10 million performance bond.

As the DMB solicits bids, the Legislature will continue to be involved. Lawmakers will have oversight of the specifications written by DMB, review of the bids and will supervise the process DMB uses to match bids with the specifications in reaching its final decision.

Calling someone a birdbrain may not be as insulting as you think! It was commonly believed that a bird's smaller brain did not have the capacity for memory, only instinct. But according to National Wildlife magazine, birds not only remember, but may even be calculating. Nutcracker birds, for instance, are known to steal pine cones from squirrels by luring them away from the pile while another darts in to seize the cone.

More important, though, the recipients will benefit from better services. As health care providers are paid more quickly for their services and the program operates more efficiently, more doctors will participate in the program, giving recipients a wider choice and better accessibility to health care. And that's the bottom line in any health care program.

If a public entity wins the contract, the Auditor General will evaluate the program after six months to make sure all the services that were promised are actually being delivered. If they are not, the contract can be immediately turned over to the next lowest bidder.

If a private company wins the contract, DMB will continually monitor the firm's performance. If the contractor fails to deliver the negotiated services, the DMB will have the authority to impose penalties or terminate the contract entirely.

Introducing private competition into the Medicaid arena is not completely new. Private firms run at least a portion of the medical assistance programs in more than 20 states.

The state stands to benefit from contracting the Medicaid program out. Under the legislation, the state negotiates a fixed premium rate for one year. If it costs more to run the program, overruns up to a certain level must be paid by the administrator, not the state. This will help stabilize annual budgeting, since the state will pay a fixed sum every year. If it costs less, 85 percent of the savings revert to the state.

School Board Notes:

The Lowell Board of Education held its regular meeting on Monday, July 8, 1985 at 7:30 P.M. in the Board offices. Prior to the approval for the payment of bills, the Board elected Chris VanAntwerp for President, Roger Kropf for Vice-President, Sandra Nagy for Secretary, and Wayne Dowling for Treasurer. It is at the July meeting each year that the Board holds an organizational meeting to establish various guidelines and procedures to follow for the coming year. A resolution was adopted to continue to hold regular Board of Education meetings on The second Monday of every month. The public is invited to attend these meetings which are held in the Board of Education office at 12685 Foreman Road at 7:30 P.M.

Under personnel items, the Board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Lyn Snyder from her 2nd grade position at Bushnell Elementary effective June 25, 1985. The Board then approved the employment of Miss Laurie McMahon to fill the women's physical education position at the high school, and approved the employment of Mrs. Ingrid Baird to fill the new French/English position at the high school.

In other Board action, the Board gave approval to continue with the high school attendance policies as established during the 1984-85 school year and set them as standard policies for the high school attendance program.

In the last items of business, the Board gave approval to purchase two used vans from Harold Zeigler Ford which had been leased by Honey Creek Christian Homes, and approved the sale of two used school cars (gray station wagon and the blue four door) to the highest bidder.

Board adopts new facility use policy

At a recent meeting of the Lowell Board of Education, the School Board adopted new and revised policies relating to the use of buildings and facilities to take effect August 1, 1985.

Lowell Area Schools encourages the use of school buildings and facilities by groups and organizations that have as their objective the development of personal character and community enrichment. However, the primary purpose of the Board of Education is to guarantee a satisfactory educational program. Therefore, all other activities that take place on school property or in the school buildings must be subordinate to the primary purpose.

While the Board of Education has always adopted an attitude of service, service does cost money and, in adopting a policy for non-school use of public school buildings, budgetary consideration must be taken into consideration. Even though the Board would like to give worthy groups and organizations free access to all building facilities, the cost of this extra service can not be to the detriment of the regular school program.

The Board recognizes the value of cooperating with officially sponsored school groups that contribute to the welfare of the district's youth through their activities. The following groups are eligible to use school facilities on a no-charge basis, provided that such groups agree to pay for custodial, kitchen, and any other personnel fees with applicable:

1. Officially recognized school sponsored clubs and school sponsored organizations.
2. Officially recognized parent-teacher organizations and booster clubs.
3. Lowell Area Schools Boosters Club.
4. Boy and Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Campfire Girls, Little League athletic teams, and other similarly organized groups sponsored by an organization with in the school district boundaries.

The Board also recognizes the value in cooperating with groups located in the school district whose purpose is to provide student and community oriented educational and leisure time activity. The following groups are eligible to use the school facilities on a reduced charge basis, provided the groups agree to pay for custodial, kitchen, and any other personnel fees where applicable:

1. Lowell Area Arts Council
2. Lowell YMCA
3. Adult and Community Education programs
4. Area service clubs within the school district

The following groups shall be eligible to use school facilities and pay the basic hourly rental rate or the flat rate* fee when applicable:

1. Churches and affiliate religious groups
 2. Non-Profit Corporations within the school district
 3. City of Lowell and Village of Alto
 4. Civic groups and private citizens within the school district
 5. Other similar groups as determined by the Superintendent or his designee
- *Profit making organizations using facilities for a money-making activity shall be charged ten percent (10%) of the receipts or a flat rate fee of fifty dollars ($50) whichever is more, in addition to the rate schedule.

Those interested in using the Lowell Area Schools facilities can make application through the building administrator. Each user is required to complete the request form titled, "Request For Use of School Facilities or Equipment".

Copies of the complete revised Building Use Policy will be sent to all groups generally using school facilities. All school buildings will possess additional copies for other interested citizens.

DOVE HUNTING SEASON
- At the urging of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), the Michigan Natural Resources Commission is expected to order the establishment of a season on mourning doves this year.

Extensive legal research on the issue, conducted by MUCC attorney Kenneth Franklin, concluded that the commission has the authority to order a dove season without legislative approval.

The commission ordered Department of Natural Resources staff to draft recommendations for a dove season for action at the commission's July meeting in Gaylord.

If a dove season is approved by the commission, Michigan would join 36 other states with seasons on the top game bird in the United States.

WILDLIFE ART CONTEST
- Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) has doubled the top prize money for the winner of the Michigan Wildlife Artist of the Year competition to $2,000.

MUCC, which is sponsoring the contest for the sixth consecutive year, announced that entries for the 1985 competition are now being accepted. The winner will be chosen by a panel of judges on Thursday, September 26, in Lansing.

In addition to the $2,000 prize, the winner will receive 75 artist's proofs and the winning painting will be reproduced on the cover of the December issue of Michigan Out-of-Doors magazine.
