Lowell School Board Notes:

Board acts on varied agenda; budget approved

The Lowell Board of Education held its regular Board meeting on Monday, September 9, 1985.

During the recognition of the audience, three families voiced concern over the location of bus stops for their children. A Board study committee was chosen to investigate the situation and get back to the parents. Jim Hodges, Christian Education board member of the Congregational Church commended the schools on their New Dawn program being held in the church basement.

Following the payment of bills, the Board received an oral presentation of final report from the Lowell Citizens' Advisory Committee for Educational Excellence. Chairperson of the committee, Mrs. JoAnn Frey, commented on several recommendations made in the report. Each of the committee members received a certificate of appreciation for the many long and tedious hours they put forth in producing an excellent report. The report will be made available to the community, informing them of steps to be implemented for achievement of educational excellence.

Ed Timmer, the school auditor from Helmholt and Company, gave a presentation of the 1984-1985 audit report. The audit revealed revenues over expenditures at $97,893. The complete financial audit will be printed soon in the Grand Valley Ledger and also the school newsletter "DIRECTIONS".

Under personnel items, the Board accepted the resignation of Kurt Holzhueter as Boys Freshman Basketball and Assistant Track Coach positions, and from Janet Goodeman as Girl's Gymnastics Coach. The Board approved the employment of Mrs. Carol DeVecht as the teacher for the newly established severely emotionally impaired classroom at Honey Creek Christian Homes. Also hired was Mrs. Sheila Vanderploeg as a first grade teacher at Alto Elementary School, and Mrs. Suzanne Phillips as the High School Study Hall Supervisor. Extra-duty contracts were approved for coaching positions for the 1985-86 school year, and a new daily rate for substitute teachers was raised from $30 to $35.

In the next items of business, the Board adopted a resolution which qualifies them for incentive funding under section 21 of Public Act 94 of 1979, and directed the Superintendent to seek transfer of the Fallsburg School and property to the Kent County Park Department. A resolution appointing election inspectors for the upcoming special election on October 7, 1985 was adopted. The Board also viewed a video tape of the district repair and maintenance needs reflected in the October 7 ballot proposal.

The Board's next meeting is scheduled for October 7, 1985 in the Board of Education offices at 7:30 P.M.

Second fatal crash in a week claims a Wyoming motorcyclist

The second fatal crash in a week near Lowell took the life of a 29 year old Wyoming man. Kelley R. Peska, of 1320 Marquette Street, was pronounced dead on arrival at Blodgett Memorial Medical Center.

Kent County Sheriff's Deputies say Peska was westbound on M-21 shortly before midnight on Saturday, September 7 when his motorcycle collided head-on with an auto driven by Craig DePree of 1530 Carol Lynne, Lowell. Deputies say Peska had just rounded a curve near Cumberland, and was apparently unable to stay on the proper side of the road. DePree said the motorcycle came directly at him in the wrong lane, and he was unable to avoid the collision.

DePree and his wife Cathy were not injured in the accident. The accident remains under investigation by the Kent county Sheriff's Department. Lowell Police, Fire and Rescue personnel responded, along with units from the Sheriff's Department.

by Senator Dick Posthumus.

For the first time in nearly a decade, 1984 census figures showed a significant decline in the number of people below the poverty line.

According to a recent Census Bureau report, the national poverty rate dropped from 15.3 percent of the total population in 1983 to 14.4 percent in 1984. The figures translate to a reduction of 1.8 million people from U.S. poverty rolls.

Analysts attribute the reduction to economic recovery and continued low levels of inflation, increasing buying power nationwide. Median family income for whites grew by 3.3 percent last year to $26,430, the second annual increase after years of declining real income.

A breakdown of the statistics shows almost all groups benefited, although some benefited more than others. The overall poverty rate for whites dropped from 12.2 percent to 11.5 percent, while the rate for blacks fell from 35.7 percent to 33.8 percent. Among Hispanics, the rate remained about the same at 28 percent.

Senior citizen's poverty rates showed a big decline. The poverty rate among people aged 65 and over fell sharply, from 14.2 percent in 1983 to 12.4 percent last year. Most of that drop is due to increases in Social Security and Supplemental Security Income benefits.

Among children under age 18, the poverty rate declined from 22.2 percent in 1983 to 21.3 percent in 1984.

All the news isn't good, though. Median black family income was up only slightly to $15,432. And although there was a reduction in the number of blacks below the poverty line, there is still one-third of the black population suffering from poverty.

All in all, though, it is encouraging news. It took a long time, but it looks like economic recovery is finally benefiting those who most need it—those existing in poverty.

We aren't likely to see zero poverty in our lifetime. But as the economy continues to improve, we can make great strides in that direction.

COZY CORNER by Roger Brown

Have you ever been to Cedar Point? You know, the place they bill as the "Amazement Park". I had never been to Cedar Point until last Saturday. We went with my brother and his kids. About mid afternoon on Saturday I was wishing I could still say I had never been to Cedar Point.

You know what the weather was like here. Well, I can guarantee you that it was worse there. It was already ninety degrees when we rolled past a bank time/temp sign in Sandusky just before noon. The humidity had to be close to 100%, and the sun was shining relentlessly through the haze. When we had finally struggled through traffic, and parked our air conditioned car, I knew I had completely lost my marbles when I opened the door and immediately broke into a sweat.

Being the weekend after Labor Day, and because of the unbearable heat, we reasoned that we would probably not have to fight a large crowd. The first ride you come to after entering the gates is the "Demon Drop". There is a little sign posted at the end of the line that estimates the wait. It read 45 minutes, and the park hadn't been open for a half an hour. So much for the small crowd theory. Of course, you would never want to go to the bank on a theory developed by the Brown brothers anyway.

The first ride we went on was the "Corkscrew". The name is appropriate. It's a roller coaster that takes you to the top of a high grade, then sends you careening almost straight down the other side to build speed. With your heart now in your throat, the roller coaster takes you speeding through a giant loop and on through a series of spirals. If the heat had dulled my senses, the "Corkscrew" more than compensated by getting my heart pumping like a hummingbird's wings.

From there we went on to ride most of the major rides. "White Water Rapids", "Blue Streak", "Gemini" and "The Mine Ride" are a few that come to mind. We also rode some of the lesser rides, because the lines were shorter, and because it takes awhile to let your heart settle back down out of your throat.

Getting back to the heat. Let me consult my Thesaurus. Unbearable, intolerable, insufferable, agonizing, unendurable, punishing, torturous, sweltering, simmering, torrid, scorching, seething, oppressive, stifling, suffocating and roasting all apply, but no single word could possibly describe it.

Imagine if you can, standing in a 45 minute line in the sun, weaving back and forth through a maze, shoulder to shoulder with hundreds of sweaty people. Some of them were getting real ripe, too. It got so I recognized the really smelly ones as we passed one another over and over on our way through the maze. A couple of good pieces of gear to have had along would have been a large sombrero and a gas mask. I didn't have either, so I checked out of reality by fantasizing about being in a cool, dark bar, drinking a beer from a frosted mug, eating peanuts from the shell and watching a ball game on the tube. But, sooner or later, another assault on my olfactory would bring back to reality.

As we weaved through one of the mazes, another father like myself looked at me and said, "Best money you ever spent, huh?" I was too sunbaked to come back with a quick reply, so I just smiled. Later I thought, "Nope, I've got some money on the Tigers to repeat," would have been a good answer to his question.

We talked the kids in to leaving early so we would have some time to take a swim back at the motel. When we got there, we discovered that the pool was closed for the season. We ordered pizza, showered, ate and crashed early. What a day!

If you ever plan on a trip to Cedar Point, do yourself a favor, and call me first. I can help you with dozens of valuable tips on things NOT to do, places NOT to eat, roads NOT to take, places NOT to stay and times NOT to go. As far as I'm concerned, the best time to go to Cedar Point, is anytime they aren't open.

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

by Pauline E. Spray

Rejoice evermore (1 Thessalonians 5:16).

What to do with leftovers is always a problem, it seems. If the housewife is thrifty, it grieves her to throw food into the garbage can or down the disposal. Yet, if other families are like mine, it is a difficult task to "fool" them with warmed-overs.

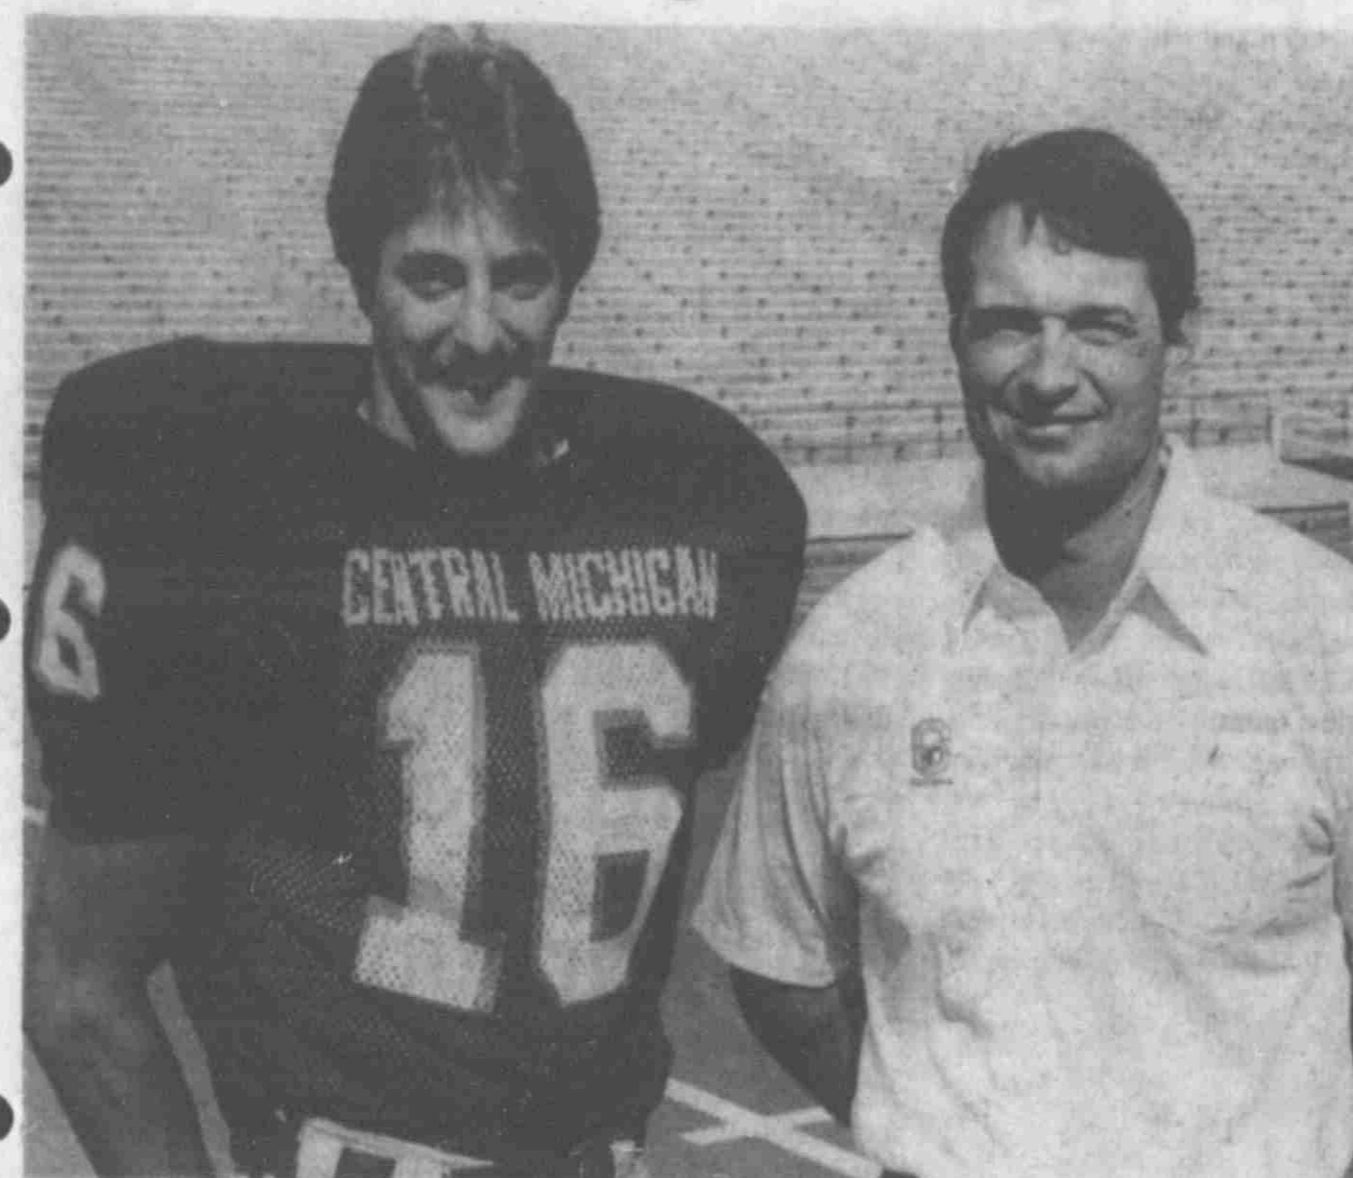

for the time of special blessing, when everything is running smoothly, when the sun is shining and the birds are singing. It is easy to count our blessings then. It is easy to be cheerful when we see enjoying life and eating off the fat of the land.

The testing comes with the monotonous, humdrum chores of everyday living. It requires strength of character to be cheerful when the daily tasks grow repetitious and tiresome. Determination is needed to sing when life is boring. However, when we remember what Jesus Christ has done for us and that He has promised never to leave nor forsake us, rejoicing should come naturally. It shouldn't be difficult to praise Him—even when life offers us "warmed over potatoes."

Prayer: Precious Jesus, Thou hast given me everything for which to rejoice. Help me to remember what Thou hast done for me when I am confronted with the monotonies of life. Amen. Let my hands perform His bidding. Let my feet run in His ways. Let my eyes see Jesus only. Let my lips speak forth His praise.

The Russians Are Coming!! The Russians Are Coming!! Yakov Smirnoff, America's only Russian-born comic will be appearing Thursday, September 12, 1985, at 8 p.m., at Grand Valley State College's Field House Arena. The event is FREE and we encourage the public to attend.

Americans buy about ten million diamonds a year.

Germans may be paying a higher price than they realize for the freedom to hit the gas pedal, says International Wildlife magazine. Exhaust fumes from speeding cars, traveling faster than 100 miles per hour on "autobahns", are now thought to be a leading culprit of acid rain—killing spruce trees throughout the fabled Black Forest in southern Germany. No government speed limits are yet in sight, and auto emission standards, in effect in the U.S. are still years away.

Letter To The Editor

Unjust and unrealistic school system funding has been the burden of property owners for far too many years. This present system is unconstitutional in that one faction of society has become responsible for educating the entire populace. Who votes on funding issues, school boards, etc? Naturally everyone has the right to vote. Why not just the property owners, since they alone fund the programs.

I personally would like to have some faction of society feed myself and my family, at no cost to me. Do you think that it would be fair for me to demand more steak on my menu or for me to vote to have someone install a roof on my home?

The Lowell Area Schools regularly publish DIRECTIONS, to keep the public informed on school activities and issues. Their most recent issue, special issue, September 85, dealt entirely with the upcoming millage vote of October 7. Quite naturally this issue was all pro passage of the increase. Who paid for publication and distribution of this pamphlet? You guessed it. The property owners, and only the property owners. Consequently, this property owner is forced to pay for literature to influence non property owners to pass legislation which would raise their taxes.

Don't you believe that four percent tax, once again, placed upon foodstuffs, and funnelled directly into the school systems would be a much more equitable solution? There are many solutions to the problem, however, politicians all seem to shy away from any fair system.

Don't misunderstand me, I support quality education and fully intend to do all within my power to assure it. What I do not and will not support is the means by which these funds are now procured.

Alto Grand Marshall

A life long Alto resident was named Grand Marshall of the annual Alto Fall Festival.

Dan Wingeier has been a resident of the Alto Community all his life. He was born on July 12, 1910 at his home, Pine Hill Farm, on Timpson Avenue. It was there that he learned the trait of being a farmer. You might remember him, as he used to petal milk door to door in Alto with his oldest sister Sarah. He also had three other sisters, Ida, Rose, and Marge.

It was on January 31, 1933 that he was married to Ruth Winans from Lowell. They continued living on the farm and raised four children; Donna, Dan, Dick, and Bonnie.

In 1970 he sold the farm and moved to a smaller house on 60th Street, right in the town of Alto, where he is still living. At that time he was still working, but decided it was time to retire from the working world. He now is enjoying all the fun things in life that he never had much time to do while he was farming. Playing cards at the local round table, golfing, bowling, fishing, putting in his garden and going color touring with his friend Paul are just a few of his hobbies. Oh, yes, we can't forget those ball games that he goes to and roots the young fellows on . . . and maybe even give a few pointers.

as he was a great ball player himself and played many years for the Alto Merchants.

Want to fight indoor air pollution in your home? Try household plants. According to National Wildlife magazine, thousands of people may be poisoned in their homes each year by toxic substances such as carbon monoxide and nitrogen dioxide.

Lowell Equestrian Team Takes First Place

The newly organized Lowell Equestrian Club began competing in the District V meets in Cedar Springs. The meets are run like a track meet and a horse show with as many as five or six teams competing together. Seventeen classes are offered in saddle seat, hunt seat, western, and games. The emphasis is placed on equitation and the rider only, except in timed events. Although this is not school sponsored, all Lowell Equestrian Club riders must be Lowell High School students. Our twenty-one members make up one of ten teams in District V with an all volunteer coaching staff.

The Lowell Equestrian Team is part of the rapidly growing Michigan Interscholastic Horsemanship Association. M.I.H.A. has been in existence since 1974 when two high schools decided to get together and have team competition among high school equestrians. Soon, other high schools were becoming interested. It took 4-H leaders, teachers with an interest in horses, parents of equestrians, and willing judges from around the state to keep the ball rolling for M.I.H.A. to grow to 112 high school teams with over 850 riders competing state-wide. Lowell placed first with 212 total points in last Saturday's meet held at Cedar Springs. Rockford finished second with 108 points and Cedar Springs finished third with 77. Also competing were Unity Christian, West Catholic, West Ottawa, Zealand, Hudsonville Public and Kent City. Those placing from Lowell were:

DNR to promote rustic campgrounds

Boasting more than 14,000,000 acres of Michigan forest and a wealth of wildlife and water activities, the Department of Natural Resources has undertaken a major campaign to familiarize Michigan residents with the pleasures of rustic camping.

The major campaign messages will be carried by the state's top-rated radio stations as public service announcements and as news releases in the state's newspapers and periodicals. Posters and artwork have been developed to illustrate the very special nature of rustic camping, and Forest Management Division personnel are inviting the public to enjoy "Some of Michigan's finest resorts for just $4 per night."

Although the campaign will begin this fall, plans to extend and increase the effort are scheduled for early Spring.

Anyone interested in receiving a free Directory to Michigan's State Forest Campgrounds should write to Information Services, Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909.

"OUTDOORS" with Jack Friesner

The one talent which will gain you an invitation to nearly any hunting, fishing or camping trip is to become a really good camp cook. Good food, properly prepared, can make an otherwise, poor trip, memorable, whereas poor food can ruin nearly any excursion.

To begin, a few basic rules must be observed. Plan all meals in advance. Keep all meals simple. Live off the land as much as possible and don't include any prepared or so called fast food items. Canned pork and beans and hotdogs maybe fine fare for the Cub Scouts overnight campout, but a very poor meal indeed for a group of hungry outdoor people.

Let me make a few suggestions: Pancakes, sausage, bacon, eggs and S.O.S. are breakfast staples. No self-respecting, hunter, fisherman, or camper is ever going to take time out for lunch, however that big pot of bean soup or chili, with home made bread, always seems to disappear around mid-day. The big meal of the day where huge amounts of good food are consumed is what fancy folks call dinner and what will always be referred to, by me, as supper. This meal must also be nutritious, simple, and generally a one pot meal. Old fashioned boiled dinner, stew, a giant platter of fried steak, swiss steak, etc. are good examples.

How about that big stringer of walleyes? That deer, those rabbits, squirrel, partridge. All kinds of delicious possibilities. Potatoes, rutabagas, onions, carrots, cabbage etc; along with gallons of coffee are always consumed. Don't forget the apples, when deer hunting. Everyone likes to fill their pockets prior to taking to the woods. There are many good bread and biscuit recipes available which are relatively fast and simple. Good hot homemade bread always seems to vanish into thin air.

I have personally seen ten hunters consume one half venison, ten pounds of potatoes, a gallon of gravy, four head of cabbage and four loaves of bread, topping this off with thirty mugs of hot coffee. The first comment after supper was, "Boy that was good, whats for breakfast?" Now tell me the cooks not appreciated.

The menu you prepare will depend upon several factors. Type of trip, length of stay, number in party, cooking facilities, individual tastes, etc. Wilderness camping with only an open fire to cook over, or under, naturally requires a different approach than does the mobile hotel, which some consider as camping. Whether you cook on a stick, or in the microwave, whatever you cook should be delicious. When figuring quantity, allow for liberal amounts for everyone, then, double it. Remember also the cook does not do dishes or other camp chores.

Beginning with this column, I will include one time proven recipe in each issue.

This week, S.O.S. (something on a shingle)
5 lbs. Hamburger, venison burger or sausage
1 lg. bermuda onion
5 tablespoons flour (approx.)
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup (optional)
1 can condensed cream of chicken soup (optional)
1/4 lb. butter
1 qt (approx.) milk.
Salt & pepper to taste.
Large 16-20" skillet or dutchoven
Dice onion and brown slightly in two tablespoons butter. Add ground meat and chop up, medium fine, salt and pepper. Simmer until meat is done and starts to brown. Sprinkle in flour and stir until it begins to brown. Dump in both cans of soup (if used) and all milk. Add remaining butter and stir until thickened. Serve over buttered toast or biscuits. A hearty breakfast which will stick to your ribs until noon.

Next week: Bannock, a bread staple.

Saranac hosts "The Parthenon"

The Greeks are coming! Thanks to the Detroit Institute of Arts and its Statewide Services Program, "The Parthenon: 2,500 Years of Change," will be on display at Saranac High School, Thursday, September 12 through Wednesday, September 18.

The librarian of the school says that the students and the public may see the Parthenon Friday, September 13 through Wednesday, September 18 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. or Thursday evening, September 12 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the school library. Admission is free!

A scale model of the Parthenon and 42 photos detailing the history of the famous Greek monument are featured. And, viewers will be able to get a feel for the beauty and complexity of the Parthenon.

Visitors will see color, sepia and black and white photos of the temple that has served to inspire countless architects, artists and writers with its vision of classical perfection. Many versions of the Parthenon have been built around the world, including a huge replica in Nashville, Tennessee.

The original Parthenon on the Acropolis of Athens was built in the fifth century B.C. It was also known as "The Temple of Athena the Virgin." From the time of its construction, the Parthenon was the symbol of Athens's power, wealth and sophistication.

Today, the worn and fragmented structure tells its own story of survival-through wars, looting and years of neglect-to last through time as a precious work of art and a symbol of the glory of ancient Athens.

The Detroit Institute of Arts brings the Parthenon exhibition to Saranac High School as part of the Art Institute's state-funded effort to provide cultural events to communities throughout the state.

Lowell over Ionia 26-13

Hot, humid weather ushered in the 1985 Lowell Red Arrow football season. Lowell ignored the very un-football like weather to score an impressive 26-13 win in the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars sponsored match-up with Ionia. It was also the season opener for the bulldogs.

Turning in an outstanding performance for the Arrows was running back Mike Dumas who rolled up 175 yards in just 18 carries. Dumas scored two of Lowell's four touchdowns. Lowell led 14-6 at the half, and added touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters.

Ionia quarterback Jack Skoog had a nice game connecting on 14 of 27 passes for 117 yards and one touchdown.

Lowell came on strong during their first possession as Mike Dumas ran from 55 yards out to put Lowell up by 7 points with Essex's extra point.

Lowell scored a second time as Rich Johnson busted through on a 6 yard run that was set up by a 60 yard pass play from Mike Barnes to Kurt Quique. Essex's kick was good.

In the second half Lowell's Pat Schaefer recovered an Ionia fumble. Kurt Quique had an interception toward the end of the game to stop Ionia's drive and put it out of reach for the Bulldogs.

The Arrows host Northview next week in their first league match-up.

Mr. Riojas presented Chairperson Buth with a poster designed by Hispanic artist Linda Vasquez announcing Hispanic Heritage Week.

Under a Special Order of Business, a Hearing was held as required by Truth in Taxation Public Act No. 5 of 1982. Controller Richard Platte explained that a Truth in Taxation Hearing is required under Public Act No. 5 if the County millage levy would generate more property tax revenues than the previous year. Based on the state equalized valuation of the County, Act 5 would limit the County's operating tax levy to 4.5992 mills. The County is seeking to levy an additional .2608 mills to bring the millage levy to the current rate of 4.8 mills. The levy of 4.8 mills will generate an additional $1 million. As there were no questions from the general public, Chairperson Buth declared the hearing closed.

Following the Truth in Taxation Hearing, a Hearing was held on the proposed 1986 Kent County Budget and the 1986 Revenue Sharing Budget. The Budget totals $115,244,737 of which $2,572,520 is Revenue Sharing. The major funds represent a 3 percent increase, and employee labor contracts are budgeted at 3 percent. The budget includes $500,000 for the Public Improvement Fund, an appropriation for The Right Place program, $70,000 for Recycle Unlimited, and $25,000 for Kent CAP. As there were no questions from the general public, Chairperson Buth declared the Public Hearing on the 1986 Kent County Budget and Revenue Sharing Budget closed.

Commissioner Vaughn moved the approval of the minutes of the July 11 and August 7, 1985 Meetings, as written and published. Seconded by Commissioner Doyle. Motion carried unanimously.

A report of the Finance Committee of their meetings of August 6, 1985 through August 20, 1985 was presented. (All have received copies and copies are on file in the Office of the County Clerk.)

School Night For Scouting

The West Michigan Shores Council of Boy Scouts of America is sponsoring "School Night for Scouting", an opportunity for young men age 7-17 to sign up for scouting. Locally, Cub Packs 3188 and 3102 along with Boy Scout Troop 102 will participate. Cub Scout Pack 3102 will meet on Tuesday, September 17 at the Bushnell Kiva beginning at 7:00 P.M. All present Pack members, and anyone interested in joining Cub Scouts are invited to attend. Boys age seven who have completed the second grade, or are eight, nine or ten are eligible to join Cub Scouts. Tiger Cubs is a program for boys who are either six years of age and have completed the first grade, or are seven. If enough interest is shown, a Tiger Cubs Pack will be formed by Cub Pack 3102.

Cub Pack 3188 will meet at the Runciman School All-Purpose room on Thursday, September 19 from 6:30 until 8:30. Pack members and those interested in joining should plan to attend. Adult volunteers are always welcome, and are invited to attend these meetings. Boy Scout Troop 102 meets every Monday at 7:00 P.M. at the Boy Scout Cabin located at the north end of Washington Street. The Boy Scout program is for boys who have completed the fifth grade, or are eleven years of age, and not yet eighteen. Boy Scouting offers an ever-popular call for outdoor activities and its challenge of gaining knowledge through Merit Badges earned that could become interests for a lifetime.

Sailing for America II

If you've ever wanted to cruise Lake Michigan aboard a yacht, your chance comes Saturday, September 21.

Members of the Anchorage Marina Yacht Club in Holland will cruise their motorized or sailing vessels of all sizes between Holland and Grand Haven that afternoon in a four-hour "Sailing for America II" fund-raising event.

This special nautical activity on Lake Michigan is part of a nationwide effort to reclaim the America's Cup from Australia. All proceeds from these $25 per person cruises will go to the America II Challenge, a $12 million bid to win back international yacht racing's most famed trophy in 1987.

Many observers, including the Australian defenders, already consider America II the leading challenger for the Cup.

In addition to donating the use of their vessels, club members also are providing box lunches for those joining the 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. cruise.

For reservations on a space-available basis, contact Ron Lindblom at 399-5596 in Holland or 676-5025 in Ada.

In case of foul weather, the cruises will be held Saturday, September 29 at the same hours.

Varsity Scouting is a new program targeted directly at the young man who feels he is too old to be a typical Boy Scout, and not yet ready to be an Explorer. Young men fourteen through seventeen years of age are eligible to join. There is no Varsity Scouting group in Lowell, but additional information can be obtained by calling 863-3828.

Prison "Pen Pals" prey on "Lonely Hearts"

She was lonely. She wanted a meaningful relationship. So she placed an advertisement in a lonely hearts publication.

A response filled her with hope. Yes, he was lonely. Yes, he would like to relocate to her city. But that would have to wait. He was an inmate at the Indiana State Penitentiary.

There was an exchange of warm, sometimes loving letters. She wondered if something could be developing.

Something did develop. A letter with several U.S. Postal Money Orders ranging in amounts from $500 to $700 arrived. He had received them, he said, from family and business interests, but he was unable to cash them in prison. He needed the money for legal fees, he wrote. Would she help?

Just deposit them in your bank account, and later withdraw the money and send it to a third party who will get it to me, he instructed. She did as he asked.

The correspondence then stopped without explanation. Several weeks later the bank informed her that the money orders had been altered and increased from their purchase value of $1.00. Responsible for paying the bank, she lost her life savings.

The case is far from unique. A woman in Texas lost $62,000. One in Illinois lost $15,000. Another in Indiana lost $19,000. Church organizations and homosexuals also have been frequent targets. All were victims of a nationwide U.S. postal money order scam.

"Ironically, this scheme is being perpetrated by individuals who are exactly where they should be -- in prison," says Kenneth C. Weaver, Postal Inspector in Charge of the Chicago Division.

Inmates at state penitentiaries in Indiana and Mississippi have been fraudulently increasing the value of U.S. Postal Money Orders for five years. Friends and family members of inmates, guards and other prison employees get the money orders into and out of the prisons where skillful inmate artists increase money orders to any desired amount.

Accomplices are handsomely rewarded when the proceeds of the scheme are passed on to inmates. Inspector Weaver said inmates use the money to secure prostitutes for conjugal visits, and finance the purchase of drugs, liquor, weapons and other assorted contraband within the prison.

He said criminal activity involving money orders has been detected in other state correctional systems, but the prison administrations have promptly responded with appropriate countermeasures to stop it. Today, the scheme is virtually confined to the Mississippi and Indiana prisons.

Many of the inmates involved are serving life sentences and their prosecution is difficult to obtain, Inspector Weaver says.

However, 20 people, including eight guards, were prosecuted and 15 people, including three guards, recently were indicted at the Mississippi prison. Twenty-four people, including a former correctional officer, were recently indicted for their involvement at the Indiana prison.

Inspector Weaver said that because the scheme poses such a serious threat to the integrity of the U.S. Postal Money Order System, the U.S. Postal Service will spend nearly $50 million during the next two years to purchase new money order printers and develop a more secure money order document.

A real concern, he said, is that these modifications might not provide the ultimate solution to the problem. Additional prison controls as well as increased public awareness must accompany any cosmetic cures these measures might temporarily provide. Recently, he added, officials at the Indiana State Prison have adopted security measures that should help control inmate involvement in the money order scheme.

Inspector Weaver advised anyone receiving a U.S. Postal Money Order from prison inmate to carefully examine the amount for pin holes or discoloration by placing it in front of a ceiling light or lamp.

"If you suspect anything is wrong with the money order, take it to your post office or Postal Inspector," he said. "And do not deposit the money order in your bank account unless you are certain it is authentic," he said.

Smoking's impact on "killer cells" increases risk of lung cancer

Recent studies show cigarette smoke to be a major cause of defects in the lungs that may increase the chances of developing lung cancer. Though all the specific details of the process have not been discovered, cigarette smoke seems to decrease the effectiveness of the "killer cells" within the lung that are a major natural defense against lung cancer.

David N. Weissman, M.D. of the Tulane University School of Medicine and the Veteran's Administration Medical Center in New Orleans, LA, said, "The activity of natural killer (NK) cells, and important and necessary part of the immune system that kills cancer cells, may be below normal in smokers' lungs."

When these cells were mixed with lung cancer cells, the cancer cells were destroyed. He then obtained lung samples from smokers and nonsmokers. These samples contained alveolar macrophages, specialized lung cells that digest foreign substances such as bacteria. Alveolar macrophages also lower the activity of NK cells.

"When we added alveolar macrophages to a mixture of NK cells and cancer cells, we found that fewer cancer cells were destroyed by the NK cells," Dr. Weissman said.

In these experiments, macrophages from the lungs of smokers and nonsmokers had the same effect of lowering NK cell activity. But smokers have many more alveolar macrophages in their lungs because these cells tend to collect in lung tissue as a response to swelling caused by smoking.

"This local increase in the number of alveolar macrophages may cause more blockage of NK cells activity in the

Exciting Michigan salmon season promises to be strong

The late summer and early fall chinook and coho runs in the Great Lakes should be strong and only slightly below the outstanding 1984 salmon fishing season, reports AAA Michigan.

Adding excitement to this year's salmon hunt is the odd-year run of 3 to 4 pound pink salmon which should be excellent. The naturally reproducing pink salmon, which up to now have been caught mostly in streams but are showing up in Lake Huron, peak in early September.

A Michigan Department of Natural Resources' official said Lake Huron is "exploding with pinks." Pink salmon, which have been in Michigan waters for 30 years, spawn every other year.

The Great Lakes salmon peak -- as chinook and coho begin schooling before ascending spawning streams -- should last through mid-September. From then through mid-October, the best results will be in the 41 streams listed on AAA's 1985 Salmon Fishing Guide.

Good salmon results were reported at most Great Lakes ports beginning in late August. Lake Huron salmon fishing is running ahead of last year. DNR officials report that Lake Michigan salmon action has been good, but slightly behind last year due to some storms which scattered the fish.

Trout and salmon license sales are 16 percent ahead of 1984 with 234,000 issued through June 23. Daily fishing licenses, popular for non-resident anglers and charter fishermen, are up nearly 53 percent. Michigan resident licenses have increased 29 percent in one year.

Nearly 8.5 million salmon are planted each year in the Great Lakes, with about 10 to 30 percent surviving for spawning runs. The most recent plantings included 2.4 million chinook and 1.6 million coho stocked in Lake Michigan, 3.1 million chinook and 450,000 coho in Lake Huron and 350,000 chinook and 325,000 coho in Lake Superior. Additionally, 400,000 coho have been planted in the Huron River and in the Detroit River near the Detroit Yacht Club.

Chinook average 15 to 25 pounds but can reach up to 35 pounds at maturity while coho average 8 to 15 pounds. Both are battlers when hooked and offer tremendous action for anglers.

AAA Michigan offers some helpful tips to salmon fishermen, including:

--Understand water temperature since fish go deeper as the water temperature rises. They also scatter in inclement weather. Salmon generally begin schooling when the water temperature hits 60 degrees, but time of maturity and stream flow are the most important factors triggering spawning.

--Find a rod and reel that works best for you. Many anglers use a medium to stiff action rod, 6- to 7-foot long, with 15- to 25-pound test weight monofilament line.

--Select a general area to fish and then talk to charter captains, bait store operators and other boaters and fishermen about where to find the best catches.

--Be sure to select the right type and color lure. For trolling, Northport Nailers, Huron Herrings, J-Plugs, Canadian Plugs, Squids, Sprakle Flies, Dodgers, Flutter Chucks and Zippers generally work well. Stream fishermen get good results with Mepps Spinners, Little Cleos, salmon flies and spawn.

--Look for coho farther out in the lake than chinook. Most coho are taken within 10 miles of shore from 20 to 40 feet below the surface. Good boat trolling speeds range from a slow chug to 7 miles per hour.

--Fish for chinook generally deeper in the waters. Trollers usually find good king results by running bait 10 to 15 feet off the bottom.

From Sept. 10 through Oct. 25, salmon snagging with artificial baits or unweighted hooks is legal on five rivers. They are West Michigan's Big Manistee, Pere Marquette, Muskegon and

Sable rivers, and the Au Sable River in East Michigan. Liberalized areas for each stream are listed in the DNR's 1985 fishing guide. The Ocqueoc River from Lake Huron to US-23 is closed to fishermen from Sept. 10 through Oct. 31.

Millage proposal is explained

The Lowell Board of Education is seeking voter approval of a 1.9 mill increase for 1986 with a drop to a 1.4 mill increase beginning in 1987 and continuing through 1993. The proposal is placed on an October 7 ballot as the result of an extensive eight year plan designed to make district-owned buildings energy efficient and to make needed repairs. It is a credit to the citizens of Lowell Schools that so many fine programs for students continue to exist on such tight budgets. But in the process, maintenance of buildings and systems using energy have been neglected. The middle school roof is of immediate concern. An infra-red survey of the roof in 1983 revealed that over 65% of the middle school roof's 2 inches of insulation is wet. Wet insulation tends to conduct heat rather than to retain it. The same engineering firm stated that repeated attempts to patch the roof will not prevent continued leaks. The first year's request of 1.9 mills will generate sufficient funds to replace the existing roof with a top quality roof with improved insulating ability to reduce heat loss and lower gas costs. Left unattended, roof condition in most of the district's other buildings will continue to decay.

The master eight year plan also calls for changing building controls regulating heat levels and peak electrical usages. At the time most of our buildings were built, energy conservation was not a concern. Costs for natural gas and electrical power were relatively inexpensive and fluctuated little in annual costs. Today's increasing costs for natural gas and electrical power, demand control and regulation from users to avoid continued unnecessary cost in the years ahead.

It is time to pay attention to the energy issue. Taking steps now to avoid future excessive cost for energy consumption makes sense. It's a sensible and logical way to protect the taxpayer's biggest investment - their schools.
