DID YOU KNOW? . . .

. . . a couple of teachers and some parents have been organizing window displays in local businesses to bring education and its many facets closer to the "public eye"? Currently being displayed in the following places are: Science projects, Social Studies projects and paintings from Art Class at Great Lakes Federal Savings; ceramics from Art class at Speerstra Insurance Agency; original editorials from Reading Class at Bristol Body Shop. These projects are completely designed by students and show there is creativity in academic areas, as well as in the area of arts. Why not stop by these places -- you might be surprised to see a project of some student you know in the Lowell School system! If you, as a parent or grandparent, would like to give volunteer assistance to this program or help in the media center (library), please call the Middle School.

STOP!

When you see a school bus with red lights flashing.

That's the Law.

According to Secretary of State Richard Austin, Chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, most deaths and injuries involving school buses, occur after the student leaves the bus and is struck by a passing vehicle.

Michigan law requires motorists to stop within 10 feet of all school buses with red lights flashing no matter which side of the road the bus is on.

The only time a motorist does not have to stop for a school bus with flashing red lights is when the bus is on the other side of an impassable median of a divided highway.

D.N.R. orders city to build waste plant

In a letter dated October 1, 1985, the City of Lowell was ordered by the Environmental Protection Agency to comply with an order to have a secondary waste water treatment plant in operation by July 1, 1988. Lowell has been pursuing the funding of a secondary plant since 1976. The process is slow. First a study was completed to determine the needs of the community, and how much could be saved by upgrading the sewer systems to reduce the inflow of ground and rain water. Then an engineering study was completed to design a plant best suited for Lowell's needs. The final stages include seeking bids and ultimately constructing a plant.

Lowell completed all the preliminary stages, and was ready to begin construction as early as December of 1982. But, there is one major problem . . . no state or federal funding. Lowell is currently 44 on a priority list for funding. City Manager Ray Quada says there are revenues for only 35 to 40 projects this year. This leaves Lowell on its own to fund the $5 million project. Federally funded projects receive 55% funding from the E.P.A.

Quada fears that if Lowell complies with the E.P.A. order, and constructs the plant, Lowell will then be scratched off the list for funding, and be treated as a locally funded project. Quada wants a written guarantee that Lowell be left in its slot on the list, and be re-imbursed when funding becomes available.

If Lowell does comply with the order, and build the plant on its own, the cost to households and businesses will be astronomical. "A rough estimate of an additional monthly cost to sewer customers is $52.00, well beyond most homeowner's ability to pay," said Quada. Ideally, such projects hold the line on homeowner cost to about $22.00 per month. A Department of Natural Resources document describes a $30.00 per month project as "a high cost project".

If Lowell does build its own secondary treatment plant, Quada is confident that it can be accomplished for a significantly smaller figure than the $5 million price tag on the current design. Quada reasons that because of the E.P.A.'s stringent construction guidelines, the plant would have much more capacity than the city needs. "E.P.A. specifications require such things as making the plant large enough to service a wide surrounding area, and build to handle the discharge from that area for at least the next 25 years. Quada feels that if only the city, and perhaps Lowell Township, are involved in paying for the plant, then the plant will be re-designed to service only the municipalities sharing in the cost.

For the time being, Quada and City Attorney Richard Wendt plant to first determine if the E.P.A. had the power and the legal right to issue the order. Secondly, they want to pursue the possibility of appealing the order. Quada and Wendt also want to determine an appropriate response to the order, and begin the process of reviewing the alternatives.

U-Turn spells trouble for beer truck driver

Bruce Northouse, a driver for B & B Beer Distributors, found himself in a bit of a pickle in front of the Lowell Post Office Tuesday morning. Northouse was attempting to make a delivery at Larkin's Saloon. Because of cars parked where he normally unloads, Northouse explained that he decided to head north up Broadway and make a U-turn in front of the Post Office. Northouse said he had used this tactic several times in the past. But, there was one problem on Tuesday; he wasn't driving his regular truck. In making his usual U-turn, Northouse had to turn the bigger rig so sharply that the trailer pinched against the battery housing at the rear of the truck cab. The housing was pushed against a terminal on the battery causing the electrical system to short out. Northouse, who has been driving for B & B for five years, found himself stranded, blocking both lanes of traffic. "It's pretty embarrassing", was about the only comment he cared to make. A large wrecker from Thomet Chevrolet & Buick soon came to the rescue, and a re-faced Northouse was on his way.

Ordinance violation is costly

A Lowell resident recently came to realize the consequences of disregarding an ordinance in the city. Christopher Lewis Finney, 35, of 514 N. Washington Street was cited by Lowell Police Officers on June 4 for violating the city ordinance pertaining to trash and junk cars. Finney was also cited for a violation of the city's dog ordinance.

The city has an ordinance on the books that specifically prohibits the outdoor storage or collection of discarded materials and inoperable vehicles. When Finney disregarded police orders to remove such items from his yard, he was cited for the violation. He was also cited for allowing a dog to run loose.

On October 7, Finney's case came before Judge Joseph B. White in 63rd District Court. Finney's wife Sandra appeared in his behalf. She plead guilty to the charges.

White levied fines for both offenses. In the case of the inoperable vehicle, he fined Finney $500, plus $50 in court costs. In the case of the loose dog, he fined Finney another $150, plus $50 in court costs. White further ruled that if Finney adequately cleaned his premises within thirty days, he would suspend $350 of the $500 fine.

Lowell City Manager Ray Quada said, "I'm satisfied with Judge White's ruling" adding, "this gives neighbors a tool through which they can protect the interest of their own property."

Board Briefs . . .

The Lowell Board of Education held its regular Board meeting on Monday, October 14, 1985.

Following the payment of bills, the Teens Involved group from the high school gave a slide presentation of last year's Teen Institute held at the Middle School. High School students, Amy Davis, Tricia Frey, and Jami Andrews, reported on the 1985-86 activities to include two Teen Institutes, one in November and the other in the Spring. The Board approved a donation of $300 to help the group in their endeavors.

Several personnel items were acted upon which included the resignation of Gary Griffin as the boys 8th grade basketball coach, and approved an extra-duty contract for Mike Michaud to coach the Freshman Boys Basketball Team. A career exploration Knocking out a ten foot wall and moving it about four feet doesn't sound like a huge project. At least I didn't think it sounded like a huge project last Thursday when I got out the hammer and other implements of destruction. I know, hammers and saws, and the like, are construction tools. But, if you ever see me use them, you'll know why I call them destruction tools.

The project involved moving a wall of the Ledger's darkroom so as to make room for a new piece of equipment that we have on order. Of course the darkroom is basic to nearly every phase of our business, and being without it is akin to a plumber without his plunger. It's something that we use every day. Consequently, I was under the gun to get the project done in a hurry.

About two hours into the project, I had things torn apart well past the point of no return. In fact, I had things so torn up, I considered placing a small nuclear device in the center of the room, and starting from scratch when the dust settled. Finally, after much prying, clawing, pounding, kicking and verbal encouragement, I had the wall to be moved free from the adjoining walls, floor and ceiling. More or less in one piece, too. I slid the wall to its new destination, and tacked in place.

It was nearing noon, and I had finally reached the end of the destruction, and the beginning of the construction. I scabbled in new sections of wall and ceiling to tie everything together, reconnected some wiring, and began putting the panelling on. With the help of one of the back shop guys, the darkroom itself was pretty well enclosed by 7:30 that evening. I slept well that night.

There was still one major hurdle to overcome the next day, and that was moving the 220 electrical line over to where our big reproduction camera was now located. Sounds simple enough, right? Wrong! The wiring came out of a conduit that was buried in the concrete when the Ledger was built back in the fifties. I told the guys at the rental shop that I was probably dealing with about four inches of concrete, and they recommended a huge mall. After an hour or more of pounding away at the concrete, I succeeded in working up several blisters, numbing my entire body and breaking the handle on the mall. The concrete was not very impressed by my efforts. I had broken a hole only about a foot in diameter, just large enough to show me that I was dealing with six inches of concrete and two layers of re-enforcing mesh.

I went back to the rental place, and got a huge electric jack hammer and bolt cutters for the mesh. It was still no easy task, even with this heavy duty destruction equipment. It did go a little faster than the mall had, and by noon we had the wire moved. The rest of the day was spent frantically putting things back together so that the camera and darkroom would be ready to use come Monday morning. By 5:00 it was ready, but I had serious doubts as to whether I'd ever be ready. I was one whipped pup.

When it was all done, I stepped back to admire my work. It was the same old darkroom, just four feet bigger, and my aching muscles were not the least bit impressed.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

...glory, honour, and peace, to every man that worketh good. (Romans 2:10).

Are all teen-agers alike? I wonder. Most anytime I needed a bobby pin or two, I could go to our daughters' room and find several on the floor or scattered in the dresser drawer.

And clothespins. I used to send my youngsters to take down the clothes which were hanging in the basement. The next time I went there I discovered clothespins on the floor, the table, and scattered hither and yon. When I stressed the necessity of not losing these simple objects, I met with derision. "Oh, Mother, what's a bobby pin?" Or, "What's the difference? Clothespins are cheap, aren't they?"

But little things count up. It's the little things that irritate. Annoyances, like a door continually banging, or a sweater thrown carelessly down in a chair time after time, grate on a housewife's nerves. They make her unhappy. Little things can become troublesome.

On the other hand, little things can add up to good. Charles Spurgeon said: "Every pea helps to fill the sack. Every worshiper increases the congregation; every member helps to make up the church; every penny enlarges the collection."

"Every little bit adds up." Prayer: Dear Jesus, help me always to be conscientious about little things. May I never grow careless with "little" thoughtless words, indiscreet actions, and unwholesome attitudes. On the other hand, help me not to despise the worth of small amounts. If blessed and used by Thee, they can mean a lot, for "every little bit adds up." Amen.

Helpful suggestions for a safe Halloween

Halloween is drawing nearer and children are waiting for a chance to go trick or treating. To help make this a safe and fun Halloween, Blodgett Regional Poison Center offers some helpful suggestions.

1. Children should be accompanied by an adult to the door of each house.

2. Children should make their rounds before dark and wear brightly colored clothing.

3. Children should eat something before they go out to discourage sampling of the goodies along the way.

4. It is a good idea to stay in your own neighborhood and visit friends' houses.

5. Consider a Halloween party at home or a community sponsored event instead of going door-to-door.

6. Back home, sort out the "goodies" and discard any suspicious items. Check for intact wrappers (no pin holes or signs of being re-wrapped). All fruit should be washed well and cut up to check for foreign objects. No homemade food should be eaten unless it is from good friends.

Anyone needing advice about a potential problem should call the Blodgett Regional Poison Center. Their toll-free phone number is inside the front cover of your phone book.

Halley's Comet comes to Chaffee Planetarium

The Roger B. Chaffee Planetarium is keeping an up-to-date watch on the mysteries of Halley's Comet and is featuring two sky shows, Comet Pills and an audio visual presentation for civic groups.

Halley's Comet, Once in a Lifetime, is the title of the program featured Thursday through Saturday evening at 8:00 p.m. and on Friday afternoons at 2:30 through December 1st.

This very timely program presents up to date information about the coming apparition of this famous celestial visitor and how to prepare to best enjoy it.

While there is some discussion of the historical significance of comets in general, and this one in particular, the major emphasis is on what is happening right now. Telescopic observation of the comet will follow evening shows when possible - Children under 5 are not admitted.

A Comet's Tale, a special sky show for young children premieres in the Planetarium theater Saturday, October 19, and continues through November 30. Showtimes are at 11:30 and 1:30 each Saturday.

The Lowell chapter was presented a silver award for outstanding chapter achievements for 1984-85.

Saranac Library to host a quilt inventory

The inventory is documenting old and new quilts as well as quilters. The quilts are photographed and forms are filled out regarding the quilt, quilter, and past history of quilt to prepare for a publication on Michigan Quilting and the creation of an exhibition that will occur in 1987. The year of Michigan's sesquicentennial celebration. This book will also help to establish a reference center for Michigan's quilts and quilters.

The inventory consists of the filing of 3 forms, quilter information, quilt history and technical information... due to the fact these forms take some time to fill out, they may be picked up in advance at the library and filled out at home and returned on the desired day when the quilt is to be brought for photography.

The Bowling Corner

By Jay Michaels

Two of the most important aspects of bowling is the stance and the approach. I've heard too many people trying to make someone with an unorthodox stance or approach change it. DON'T!!!! We all have our little quirks, but in this game the whole idea is to be comfortable as possible at all times.

Sure, if you're taking 16 little steps, adding a hop or skip and ending up on the wrong foot then you may want to take some lessons from a certified instructor, but don't change anything just because your uncle Joe said you're doing it wrong; there's a good chance that you're not.

The normal approach for a beginner is the four step approach. If you're right handed, you begin your delivery with your right foot, and just the opposite is true for the left hander. It's an easy beginning to help you and the ball arrive at the foul line at the same time. Remember though, it's not a hard and fast rule that says you must use four steps. Look at Mark Roth, one of the best bowlers on the Pro Tour, he uses anywhere from 5 to 8 steps, depending on the approach and his mood. Find what's right for you and stick with it.

Your stance is every bit as important as your approach. Find a stance that is comfortable for you, not uncle Joe. What I teach is this; take your stance in bowling just as if you're talking to someone you know. Better yet, stand as though you're about to shake your best friends hand. No matter what you choose, BE COMFORTABLE!

You'll find that a comfortable beginning will make for a rewarding ending. And here's a little helpful hint to use the next time you bowl; just before taking your first step of your approach, take a deep breath. It'll relax you and you'll be able to concentrate easier. And one more hint for you to take to the bank, don't listen to uncle Joe too much, ask your Pro Shop operator or lane proprietor, they're a lot more familiar with bowling and can be of more help to you.

Next week we'll cover bowling apparel and shoes, and I'll again be stressing COMFORT. Until then, GO BOWLING and take along a friend.

A big pat on the back to the following for bowling out of their tree last week: Ted Atwood, 258-620; Ron Nead, 228-614; Mary Donnelly, 236-546; Cyndi Addington, 204-534.

Athletic Booster Club News...

The Boosters always extend a welcome to all persons who desire to become involved in our support of the Lowell Area Schools Athletic Programs. Currently we have 104 signed members as reported by membership chairperson Virginia Stencil. It would be really nice to see more Boosters active in our monthly meetings though! Only 18 members were present on October 7, 1985. You don't have to wait until your young athlete is in Middle School or High School to join and support the Booster Club. If your athlete is not a member of a regular varsity sport at this time, you are still needed as a Booster now to help promote your athlete's favorite sport in future years.

The Boosters directed parking for the second year at the Fallburg Fall Festival on Saturday and Sunday, and all Boosters and athletes who helped in this project were thanked by LAAC member Melody Kirby. The Boosters welcomed this opportunity to assist another community organization and to promote the feeling of co-operative community spirit.

The "Winter Sports Program" is now being prepared and the Boosters are offering all supporters the opportunity to join in the list of "Patrons" in the winter edition for a ten dollar donation. Show your support in writing (and Cash) for all our athletes to see!

The Boosters marched with the Booster Bus in a rain drenched homecoming parade and threw out soggy candy to our future young athletes, and in spite of the rain we still enjoyed being a part of Homecoming Night 1985. This is one we won't forget for awhile.

Booster jackets are now available to purchase for $25 each. Call Denise Dommer or come to the next meeting on November 4 if you are interested.

Some of the items which were discussed in our October meeting for consideration of funding were;

- 1) Ms. Kuna presented a request to consider funding a new two-court volleyball net system to replace a deteriorated and outdated single net now in use. This will be discussed with the High School Athletic Department.
- 2) The hockey team ice time for practice has been funded traditionally by the Boosters since the hockey club has assisted the Boosters for years in promoting and assembling the All Sports Program. Joe Vezino - we know you are still out there!
- 3) Funding for the "fat test" procedure coming up for the wrestling team was approved.

4) The Boosters received a nice note from the Varsity Football Cheerleaders in appreciation for the raincoats purchased. It's nice to hear from our athletes like this.

The football coaching staff were commended for their efforts this past summer to refurbish the football locker rooms. Many hours of hard work were spent on their part to show that they care about the athletes and school pride over and above their normal coaching duties. This is a good example of many of our coaches dedication throughout the athletic department.

Mark this date on your calendar! Our next meeting on Nov. 4, will be one that all athletes parents will want to attend. We are planning to feature Mrs. Roxanne DeWeerd as a special guest speaker to discuss sports nutrition.

HEALTH

By Dr. Paul Gauthier and Dr. Jim Lang

SCABIES

The scabies mite, which is found worldwide, is a microscopic parasite of the skin. The itch it causes is excruciating and persistent. Each year, the mite afflicts an estimated two million Americans. Although anyone may contract scabies, its most frequent victims in the United States are school children, patients in hospitals and residents of nursing homes and other institutions.

The scabies mite is not a germ carrier. However, scratching the accompanying itch can lead to infection and can delay healing. The longer the scabies goes untreated, the more likely and dangerous these complications are.

The mite, whose only means of movement is crawling, spreads through skin contact. The longer and more frequent the contact, the more likely the transfer. However, transfer may occur with even momentary contact -- a hand shake, for example. Although scabies can be transmitted sexually, it is far more apt to be spread via the skin contacts characteristic of closely knit families, childhood and neighborhood interaction, and medical institutions.

Scabies is a disease with an extraordinarily long incubation period. Symptoms may not appear for a month or more in people infected for the first time. Because of this, scabies may be passed from person to person, family to family, neighborhood to neighborhood, and community to community without suspicion. Also, having had the disease confers no immunity. Someone who has been cured may contract it again immediately after treatment.

The absence of immunity, combined with the long incubation period and the difficulties of diagnosis, makes it necessary to treat close contacts of a known patient, preventatively -- that is, without first confirming that they have the disease. Treatment of the contact group is the only sure way of preventing the spread of scabies.

Fortunately, the treatment is simple, safe, painless and effective. It consists of coating the entire surface of the body, from the chin down, with a medicated lotion or cream. After 8 to 12 hours (usually overnight) the preparation is washed off the skin.

The scabies mite cannot remain viable for long at normal room temperature and humidity. After only a few hours away from a host, it is likely to be so weak that it will be incapable of breeding. For this reason fumigation or sterilization of the home is unnecessary. All that is required, 24 hours after application of a scabicide, is a complete change of the clothing that has been worn next to the skin. It is also advisable to launder or dry-clean all skin contact clothing that has not been laundered or dry-cleaned since last being worn by the patient.

Theater Van being brought to High School

Students of Lowell High School will have the opportunity to study aviation technology and its impact on our society on Thursday, October 17, 1985, inside an Air Force Theater Van. This theater on wheels contains a fast-paced multi-image show entitled "Gifts of Flight". The show highlights the progress of aviation, particularly in the fields of propulsion, aerospace materials, avionics and aerodynamics.

Through the magic of multi-image, viewers will probe the development of aviation. The show begins by comparing the Wright brothers' gasoline engine with a new fuel efficient propulsion system now being tested. It reviews the structural materials

Lowell Red Arrows defeat Wyoming Rogers 27-12

By Kurt Quiggle
Junior Tailback, Mike Dumas tallied 202 yards on 31 carries and scored 3 touch downs as the Lowell Red Arrows romped the visiting Golden Hawks of Wyoming Rogers, 27-12.

Lowell's offense devastated Rogers' Defense. Aside from running the ball 11 times for 76 yards, Joe Mitchell blocked for Mike Dumas and did so very effectively. Lowell's offense totaled 311 yards.

"Rogers was a very tough team," Coach Phil Christensen said after his Red Arrow Squad brought their OK White mark up to 4-1 and their overall mark to 5-1.

The Defense shut the Hawks down cold. JJ Wierenga led the team with 8 solo tackles.

Mike Barnes passed for 53 yards, and threw a touch-down toss to Sophomore Tight End Jeff Phillips. Bob Essex completed 3 out of 4 PAT'S.

Friday night Lowell travels to Wyoming Park to play the Vikings. The Vikings are the defending Class-B State Champs of 1984. Game time is 7:30 P.M.

used in building aircraft of the past and present, and looks at how adhesives and plastics will play a part in the aircraft of the future. Viewers will see how the crude instruments used on the first round-the-world flight in 1924 have led to systems in space and the micro-miniaturization of computers. And finally, the show deals with aerodynamics, its impact on today's Air Force and the space systems of tomorrow.

The sight-and-sound presentation of "Gifts of Flight" projects more than a thousand slides on a large screen in about 11 minutes. Fifteen slide projectors, a special computer and a stereo sound system help make this program come alive.

The 40-seat mobile theater is being brought to Lowell by members of the Air Force Orientation Group, located in Dayton, Ohio.

leave was granted to middle school math teacher, Gayle Lycos, beginning November 11, 1985 and terminating on August 26, 1986. The Board then approved the employment of Mrs. Kathy Osmun as the new half-time kindergarten teacher at Bushnell Elementary.

The Board took formal action to waive the policy governing the number of exchange students during the school year to accept an additional exchange student by the name of Javier Torres of Spain. Javier will be residing at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Richard Huver for this school year.

In other matters, the Board adopted a resolution which transfers the Fallasburg School to the County of Kent for use as a historical museum. Approval was given to seek bids for one 48 passenger bus and three 65 passenger buses for the 1986-87 school year.

In the last item of business, the Board approved the submission of bids for an energy management system to be purchased with the grant received from the Energy Department.

80 LHS students to take scholarship test

This fall the nearly 1.5 million students across the United States who take the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) will have a special opportunity to familiarize themselves with the testing format also used on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

On the PSAT/NMSQT, the 80 students taking the test at Lowell High School on Tuesday, October 22 at 8:30 A.M. can "Preview" the exam process for the SAT -- the prerequisite for many college-bound students, said Gordon Gould of the school guidance staff.

Since 1959, about 30 million high school students have taken the test, which measures verbal and mathematical abilities.

This year, the PSAT/NMSQT will be offered at almost 20,000 high schools nationwide.

Through the PSAT/NMSQT students are selected for the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Program, which enables talented students to compete for scholarships, and Hispanic students are considered for the National Hispanic Scholar Awards Program, funded through a $2.1 million grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

In addition, students can use the test as a guide to see how they ranked nationally among other students.

As preparation for the 100-minute, two-part test, students receive a Student Bulletin containing a complete sample test with an answer key and scoring instructions.

After taking the actual test, students will receive a booklet, "About Your PSAT/NMSQT scores", a descriptive explanation of test results. Students will also be able to compare their individual answers with the correct answers by consulting the Report of Student Answers, another valuable guide. Actual test booklets will also be made available to allow students to spot mistakes and work out answers correctly.

The College Board provides additional services for counselors and school personnel to better understand and interpret PSAT/NMSQT scores to students and parents. These services include summaries of student answers, profiles of academic characteristics and career interests of students who have taken the test, and a publication for inclusion in the regular guidance program.

Wet weather dampens meet

The entire cross-country team wished for rain coats, Wednesday, October 9, when they ran against Wyoming Park on a rain sodden, mud slicked course at Sparta. Despite the uncooperative conditions, the boys team beat Wyoming Park 23 to 34. The girls fought a muddy battle, but lost by a close 30 to 26. Lowell's boys B. Kirby, M. Harding, A. Milley and C. Kloosterman placed second, third, fourth, fifth respectively out of the top five runners. Girls K. Cridler, A. Kanoza and J. Schank came in third, fourth, and fifth respectively out of the top five girl runners.

Thursday, the cross-country team traveled to Johnson Park for a very wet practice in preparation for the Conference meet to be held there October 19. Although there were no other teams there, Lowell's team was kept company by ducks who had taken to swimming in several large mud puddles which now adorn the park.
