Council does some "housekeeping" LAAC winter play nears

some "housekeeping" at their regular meeting of Monday, January 20. On the agenda were three items concerning the disposal or transfer of stocks held by the city.

The stocks were offered for ing company. sale to the highest bidder, at the advice of the city's auditors, bank stock came from a group Biggs, Hauserman and Abraham, Inc. of Saranac. Of seven bids, Dan Vos of Ada was high at $101.35 per share, totalling $113,512.00. Vos was a S.S.B. Board Member when the City worth $1.00 per share. The Council approved the sale. The shares are in a trust with the stock transfer was consummated Chemical Bank of New York, the next morning, so that Vos could vote the shares at State Savings Bank's annual stockholder's meeting held that day. The stocks had little effect on the outcome of the proxy fight at the bank, and Vos was ultimately

Vos also included in his bid an offer to return to the city any profits that he might realize from the sale of the stocks during the course of the year. S.S.B. stock The biggest block of stocks has a current book value of $80.60, but is expected to trade the bank be sold to a large hold-

> Another sale of stocks included 373.738 shares of Eaton Vance Sanders Mutual Funds, and are part of the Lee Fund. The Council approved the sale of the shares, and directed the City Manager to place the money in the Lee Fund Account.

The final housekeeping measure regarded a change in the registered address of one issue of GNMAs in the Helen Look Daly trust. When the Helen Look account was transfered to Buys MacGregor in Grand Rapids from Dean Witter in Arizona, this particular GNMA was logged with Lowell City Hall's address rather than the correct Buys, MacGregor address. The change in address required Council action, and the change was unanimously approved.

In other Council business, a proposal to form a School/City Liaison Committee met with stiff opposition from Councilmen Jack Fonger and Charlie Doyle. The committee idea came about from discussions between Mayor James Maatman and Lowell School Board President Chris Maatman VanAntwerp. explained that the committee would theoretically meet infrequently to discuss goals and ideas, and possibly develop ways to eliminate duplicity in programs, or otherwise cut costs and operate more efficiently. "It (the committee) can't do any harm," Maatman said.

Jim Marron, director of "The Creature Creeps," this year's LAAC Community Play, has had a large cast in rehearsal for several weeks. Pictured above are the cast members who will perform February 20-22, 27-28 and March 1 at the Lowell Middle School. (See "Coming Events" for

OFF THE BLOTTER

Two juvenile males will be cited into Juvenile Court on charges of destruction of property. The pair are charged with inflicting over $200 in damage to Lowell school buses over the weekend of January 18 and 19.

Chris Walter, 20, of Ionia was arraigned in 63rd District Court on Friday, January 24 on charges of larceny from a building. The incident occurred in August of 1985.

Michelle Schmidt, 18, of Grand Rapids was involved in a property damage accident in the High School parking lot on Friday, January 17. Schmidt backed from a parking space into a vehicle owned by Marian Clemens of Lowell.

Ann Woodhead, 21, of Lowell skidded through a stop sign at the entrance to Valley Vista Trailer Court, and M-21, colliding with a vehicle driven by Paul Miller, 21, also of Lowell. There were no injuries.

They were Maric Gahan, 17, Cheri Smith, 17, and Kevin Godfrey, 19, all of Lowell. 897-7506. 897-7049 Rotarians and their guests.

Fonger argued that the city and school don't have much in common, and couldn't determine a need for such a committee. Fonger went on to say that he is not in favor of joint operations with any organization, including the YMCA, 4-H, school, etc.

Doyle agreed with Fonger, and added "These joint committees are fine until the school wants something, then they get their own way." Doyle and Fonger both alluded to past joint committees that went sour.

Maatman further explained the committee's function as being primarily for communication, and exploration of problems. "We're not talking about a millage proposal," Maatman said.

Councilmen Bill Thompson and Dean Collins both agreed with Maatman, saying that such a committee certainly couldn't do any harm. Collins noted that efforts between the city and the YMCA to develop the city's recreation program had to include school facilities, and said that the liaison committee might be very helpful in working out problems there.

After much discussion, a motion was made to form the liaison committee and appoint Maatman, Thompson and City Manager Ray Quada. Fonger and Doyle held firm, and voted no, but the issue passed with Thompson and Collins voting yes, and the Mayor casting a tiebreaking "yes" vote.

Further Council business included the appointment of Quada to serve as Airport Manager for another year.

The Council then adjourned to a work session to discuss the Macker Tournament and the sidewalk snow-removal ordinance.

Rent speaks at Rotary

Radio and TV personality Andy Rent was the guest speaker at last Wednesday's Lowell Rotary meeting. Rotary President Gordon Gould is pictured to the right. Rent was scheduled to appear with sidekick Dennis Sutton, but his WCUZ morning show partner was down with the flu. Rent told of his career, and how he progressed from a do-everything employee at radio station WGLM (GLUM) in Indiana, to his present position at WCUZ. Like most successful people, he prescribed hard work, and lots of it, to anyone in the broadcast field. Rent discussed the responsibilities of his profession, from reporting the news to choosing the music he plays. "Everything you do on the air sets a mood, creates an impression or projects an image," he

s it just me, or is there an unusually large number of "Popeves" the road? You know what "Popeyes" are, don't you? They're with just one headlight, or at least that's what we called them he "old days", when I was in high school. I counted them from outskirts of Lowell to the two-lane in Ada while on a trip to and Rapids one evening last week. Of 46 cars that I met, eleven re missing a headlight. That's almost 25%!

missing headlight is an obvious safety hazard that only costs ew bucks to correct. So why are all these "Popeyes" running und jeopardizing the public's safety. I've got two explanations. e got an explanation for everything, even if I don't have the giest idea of what I'm talking about.) Number one: the new adlamps are so powerful, that even just one does a pretty good of illuminating the roadway, and the drivers actually don't lize that they are "Popeyes". Number two: the cops don't want get out in the cold just to write a repair and report ticket. Put e and two together, and we have an unusually large number of opeyes" running around out there. By the way, I checked to ake sure my headlights were working before I wrote this,

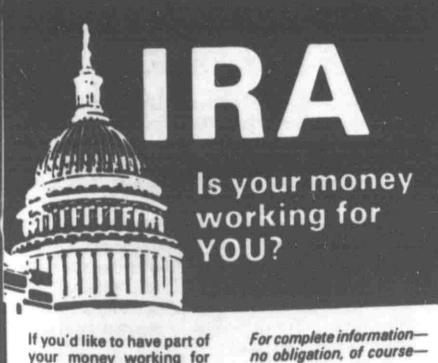

I was going to progress from griping about "Popeyes" on to iping about other automotive lighting peeves of mine. There are fifty billion candlepower foglamps that burn your eyes right t of their sockets. There are the dip sticks who think it's cool drive around with just their parking lights on until well past my finition of darkness. There are the volunteer fire and rescue guys nning around with ninety pounds of lights on top of their cars. taring the $/\% \pm @#@$ out of all of us who are prone to exceeding e speed limit a little. There is a huge percentage of drivers who mazingly don't know how to operate a turn signal. And, there re several other complaints that I could list.

But, as I began to write about foglamps, etc., that French thing it me. You know what I mean, even though I can't find the pelling for it in any of my dictionaries . . . "dej a vue". Dog one French, why'd they have to go around inserting junk like hat into our language anyway? Ah, but that's another column.

So, when I realized that I had written about these gripes of mine efore, I had to come up with something else. How about a solution or them? Galagher, the comedian, always has a solution for his problems. He says he drapes his car with old tires in an attempt o deal with the heavy traffic where he lives. Well, I've got a few deas of how to deal with some of the characters around here.

For the "Popeyes". I'm going to politely give them a hint that hey have something wrong by wiring my headlights to a switch That allows me to blink them from one to the other. That ought o make 'em wonder what the heck is going on. For the eyeball burners with the foglamps, I'm mounting a war surplus searchlight on my car with an electric eye that automatically points it at the brightest light it sees, and neutralizes it. For the guys with the emergency lights, I'm installing a police radio so I can dispatch them on phony missions to the far corners of the county. For the people who don't use their turn signals, I'm wiring mine so they can all come on at once, including an extra on in the middle. Then I'll pull out into the intersection first, and freak 'em right out. For those that come up behind me at night with their bright lights still on, I'm installing about a dozen foglamps in my back window. And finally, to defend against these clowns that use their radar detectors to do ninety on the expressway, I'm installing a little unit that transmits a police radar signal. I'll let 'em get just past me in their Porsche, or whatever, and zap 'em with a dose of radar beam, then laugh like crazy when they slam on their brakes.

My little Escort wagon will probably need a generator in the back to power all this stuff, my dashboard will look like the cockpit of an F-16 and all the electronics will probably cost more than the car is worth. But, like the bumper sticker says, "I don't get mad, get even."

your money working for the future, perhaps you should be putting a part of it into a personal "IRA" retirement plan. New legislation makes it possible for virtually all working people -including those already covered by a qualified pension program where they work-to save tax dollars today and have more money to enjoy at retire-

"We only had three gymnasts competing on the floor exercise," Coach Annette Sterling said. "That hurt our overall score because the top four scores are taken. But the girls are improving with each meet."

Junior Jenny Dykhuizen won the floor with a score of 6.25 points. Hobbs had a fourth place finish (5.7) and junior Trudy Watson placed sixth.

Missing from Lowell's line-up was senior Michelle Shick, the Arrow's top all-around gymnast. Shick broke her ankle at Rockford, the Arrows last away

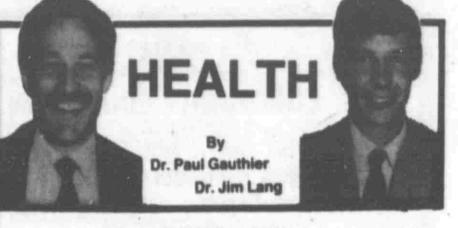

Lowell was very consistent in the balance beam event taking three of the four top places. Dykhuizen placed second with a 6.2. Kidder took third (5.6) and Hobbs rounded out the scoring taking fourth (5.5).

TENNIS ELBOW

Not only racket and throwing sports, but other activities that stress the forearm, such as carpentry, can produce tennis elbow. This syndrome seems to be caused by a repetitive overload and overuse of the tendons of the forearm and elbow. For some reason, the human elbow seems to have a mechanical predisposition to such force overloads.

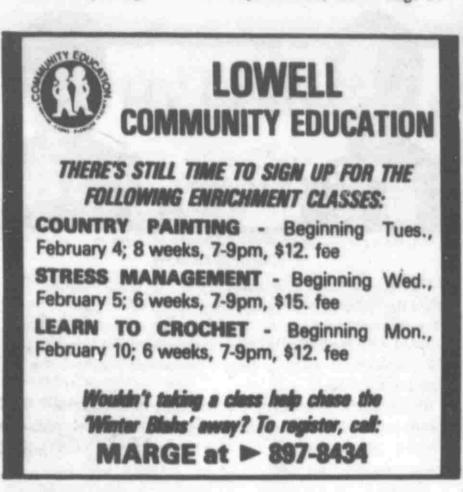

Tennis elbow is actually a true tendinitis (inflammation of the tendon) and can occur in 3 different areas of the elbow -- medially (inside), laterally (outside) or posteriorly (backside). The lateral area of the elbow accounts for the vast majority of the cases.

Age and physical condition influence risk. Tennis elbow usually occurs in people between ages 35 and 50 whose tendons and muscles lack strength and endurance. In sports, poor technique is a major contributor to overload of the forearm and elbow tendons. Most people think of tennis, racquetball or baseball as arm sports. In fact, they are lower-body or leg sports. Good technique depends on deriving power from the lower body and the ground-reaction force -- proper leg push-off -- and transmitting it to the upper body, which controls and directs it. Whether using a racket, throwing a ball or using a screwdriver or hammer, overloading the muscles of the forearm tends to predispose one to developing tennis elbow

Although some people can relate their elbow problems to a specific sudden insult, such as a mis-hit tennis ball or a direct blow to the elbow, symptoms usually begin insidiously. Pain commences after a tennis match or softball game, for instance, and increases on resuming the activity. Many times there is simply a dull ache in the elbow which is worsened with even simple ac-

While the diagnosis of tennis elbow is usually easily made by your doctor, based on history, symptoms, and examination, many imes X-rays can rule out the possibility of calcium deposit, fracture, or even a bony tumor in the elbow.

Therapy is directed at reducing and eventually eliminating the inflammation of the affected tendon. Local heat or ice with an oral anti-inflammatory agent sometimes will suffice. Many times, however, a local injection of long acting anesthetic and cortisone is necessary to relieve pain and reduce inflammation. In severe cases, surgery is considered, but only as a last resort, and only when as many as three cortisone injections have been proven to be of no benefit.

If you remember last week, I mentioned that we'd discuss finger weight, thumb weight and side weight in your bowling ball. Before I explain just what exactly these different weights do to your ball, I'd better explain why a ball is weighted to begin with. All bowling balls on the market today are made of synthetic materials. There Calvin Coolidge once said, November 8. Senate Republi- is no such animal as a rubber ball anymore.

"Collecting more taxes than is cans immediately supported an Because it is impossible to make these materials any heavier, income tax reduction on the bowling ball manufacturers have to implant a "weight block" robbery." Normally the placement of this weight block isn't dead center inside the ball, to compensate for the pro shop operator's As Governor Blanchard suitable rollback day. But what drilling out the material for your finger and thumb holes. To find proudly announced, Michigan's about those almost five months center weight on your ball, look on the label for a tiny pinprick that's been colored in, and that's dead center weight. Most pro - as a result of his 38 percent under his plan? That amount shops will drill your ball directly over this label to make the ball income tax increase. But even equals $150 million. He hasn't travel true when it's rolled down the lane. By the way, since we're though the debt is gone, the in- outlined what that extra money being somewhat technical today, this weight block under the label come tax rate remains at 5.1 per- will be spent on, which makes is referred to as "top weight". It's a whole dif- label, weighs 3 lbs. and 2 oz. more than the bottom of your ball. Senate Republicans have in- ferent story to continue collect- All this means to you is absolutely nothing, but to a good pro shop itiated a number of plans to re- ing excess taxes when that objec- operator, it tells him exactly where, and how deep, to drill your finger and thumb holes.

"Side weight", if it's positive, helps your ball to hook. And all side weight means is that when the ball was drilled, it was drilled slightly to the side of the label, rather than directly over the label. Side weight, when added to "finger weight", will make your ball hook later. Finger weight is accomplished by moving the finger holes down towards the label. The advantages of the combination of finger and side weight are, you can make the ball travel further down the lane before it begins to hook, thereby reducing the angle that the ball strikes the pins. This combination of weight has a very distinct advantage when the lanes are on the dry side.

On the other hand, when side weight is coupled with "thumb weight", the ball will begin its rotation earlier, making the ball hook earlier. To obtain thumb weight, have your pro shop operator drill the thumb closer to the label. The combination of side and thumb weight has a very distinct advantage on lanes that are wet, or somewhat oily. By getting the ball into its revolutions earlier, you can overcome the oil and make the ball driver harder into the pins at the back end.

Just remember one thing when you go to have a new ball drilled. date is unacceptable. But why will also be opportunities for if you have been trying to make the ball hook, let your pro shop operator help you by weighting the ball to your game. And ladies, if you have any combination of weight drilled into your ball, make sure it's side and thumb weight. Why? Because of the physical differences between a man and woman's elbow, you need help getting the ball to break correctly to the inside.

Enough high tech for today. The Lowell Women's Bowling Association's City Tournament begins this coming Saturday at both Lowell and Legion Lanes. According to Linda Colburn, the Association's secretary, entries are up slightly from last year, and that's a good sign. Team event is being held at Lowell Lanes this year, while the doubles and singles are at Legion. Get out and cheer on your favorite female in this year's City tournament, be it your wife, girlfriend, mother or whomever.

New leaders emerged last week-end in the 1st Annual "Snow Bowl" Doubles at Legion Lanes. Mary Donnelly and Cliff Geluso took the lead on the strength of Mary's 618 actual for a fine 1356 total. Doug Stevens and Tony Borrello, both former Grand Rapids Men's All-City team members, combined for a 1242 actual, 1293 handicap total to take over 3rd place, while Jeannie Baylis and Ted Catlin of Ionia moved into 5th spot with a 1283. Ted, by the' way, is the owner of Cat Lanes in Ionia. The "Snow Bowl" ends the 26th of January, and I'll have a complete re-cap in next week's

The 2nd 10 game Mini-Marathon at Lowell Lanes drew 50 entries. Mike Murphy won the $200.00 first prize by shooting a fine 2208 series for the 10 games. According to Jack Thomet, there will be more special events coming up in the near future, and you'll be able to read about them right here in the Bowling Corner as soon as the dates are set.

Since I began writing this column on Friday past, the final squads have taken their best shots at the leader board in the "Snow Bowl" at Legion. Mary Donnelly and Cliff Geluso's 1356 withstood the onslaught to win the inaugural event, while Rick Schall and Dennis Bauman of Grand Rapids posed the biggest threat by shooting a super 1352 set on Saturday. A complete list of cashers will appear right here next week.

A ruling that increased benefits for workers' compensation recipients on January 1 conflicts with state law and will create a bureaucratic nightmare, according to the Republican vice chair of the House Labor Committee.

State Representative Fred Dillingham (R-Fowlerville) said that the Bureau of Workers' Compensation issued its emergency rule December 18 to increase maxium benefits from $18,616 per year to $19,500 per year without consulting the Legislature. He is asking the Attorney General for an opinion on the rule's legality.

The rule was issued one day after the Legislature recessed and just before the holiday. To many business leaders and lawmakers, this action appears to be a deliberate attempt to amend a law without legislative participation.

compensation benefit levels be based on a percent of the State Average Weekly Wage (SAWW) as determined by the Michigan Employment Security Commission. Such a determination has been prevented because of the MESC's problems in installing and operating its $80 million computer system.

Because the MESC was un-

In addition to conflicting with state law, the rule will also create administrative headaches. The emergency rule states that if the benefit level estimate is incorrect, insurers must make adjustments retroactive to January 1 without interest penalties. Such retroactive changes will be difficult and expensive.

If the payments are too high, how will insurers recoup the overpayment if the individual is no longer collecting benefits? Recovery costs will be very high. Different individuals will have collected for different numbers of weeks and in different pay periods. Adjustments, up or down, will be a nightmare.

The bureau should have consulted the Legislature or just paid the 1985 benefit rate until the MESC was able to provide the correct figure.

The ultimate responsibility Current law requires workers' falls on those who created the automation fiasco at the MESC. The blundering there makes it impossible to perform such basic tasks as calculating the state average weekly wage. This problem could have been avoided if the bureaucrats had brought the issue before the Legislature or waited until the figures could be calculated.

Lambert Variety expanding

No, this isn't a jail break. Lambert Variety is just busting into the building next door. Owner Duane Lambert recently purchased the small building to the east of his store, and is expanding into it with a new card and gift shop. The 300 sq. ft. of space will be used primarily for a new greeting card display, and for assorted gifts. Lambert says he will use space currently devoted to those items to expand his clothing department. He hopes to begin moving things into the building by the end of the week. The work is being done by Ivan Blough Construction. When warmer weather arrives, Lambert plans to tie the front of the small building into his bigger building by using matching paint and extending his new awning.

City D.P.W. employees designed and built the pretty display. Wot's next? A giant green Leprechaun in March?

The Department made all of the markers in order to save money for other needed things and still give better service to all the area residents.

The firefighters would like to thank Dey Machine and Tool for the use of their company truck to pick up the steel needed. Also to the I.T.M. Company for the use of their saws to cut the steel which helped make the job easier.
