Neighbor is taking "Macker Tourney" to court

A circuit court judge will decide the fate of Lowell's famous Gus Macker basketball tournament. Next door neighbors to the Richard McNeal residence at 521 Elizabeth St. have filed a lawsuit seeking a permanent restraining order against holding the annual tournament in the streets of Lowell. Larry and Mary Lee Isenhoff of 604 Lincoln Lake filed suit against Richard and Bonnie McNeal as owners of the residence known during the three day tournament as Macker World Headquarters and the City of Lowell for neglecting to enforce city ordinances and issuing permits that allow the tournament to operate in the streets. The suit does not seek any damages or restitution, it simply requires that the tournament be moved to a park or other public facility.

The case will be heard in a show cause hearing before Circuit Court Judge Robert Benson on Monday, June 30. Robert Dilley, attorney for the Isenhoffs said that Benson's decision will more than likely determine if the tournament will be held in the city streets. If Benson rules in favor of the Isenhoffs, an appeal, even if in favor of the McNeals, would likely not be processed in time to salvage the July 10, 11 and 12 tournament.

Dilley said his clients feel the tournament is simply too big to be held in a residential neighborhood. "The Isenhoffs feel that the tournament, which expects 3,200 players and 10,000 spectators this year, has outgrown the streets, and should be moved," Dilley said. "The Isenhoffs have no complaint with the way the tournament is run, and feel the McNeals have done an excellent job of cleaning up debris, curbing rowdiness, etc." Dilley stated. "The nut is, that it has just gotten too big for the facilities (the streets)," he added.

Scott McNeal, who originated the tournament, said that organizers have collected signed permission statements from 100% of the neighbors, including the Isenhoffs, every year. McNeal confirmed that the Isenhoffs did not sign a permission statement this year.

McNeal says that he and the Macker Council make every effort to protect property, and repair any damage that may be done. Parking has always been a problem, and McNeal says that this year his group is planning a system which will direct all non-resident vehicles to high school and middle school parking lots and incorporate shuttle buses to get players and spectators to and from their cars.

The lawsuit was issued on Monday, and McNeal said on Tuesday morning that he would prefer to withhold any comment about it until he has had a chance to talk with his legal counsel. He did say that he hopes the positive reputation the tournament has achieved will help them through this setback.

The tournament does indeed have the solid support of those in the neighborhood. Early this year the city circulated a survey to the residents in the area of the tournament. Of 143 surveys sent out, 117 responded. With only a couple of exceptions the respondents said they wanted to see the Macker Tournament continue, and most were overwhelmingly supportive in their comments. The positive response to the survey was in part responsible for the city council's unanimous decision to approve the tournament for 1986, even though it will be larger than ever. Isenhoff was present at the city council meeting the night the survey was reviewed and the Macker Council made its annual presentation, but did not offer any comment.

The suit claims that there is ample room in public parks and playgrounds to conduct the tournament. Lowell City Manager, Ray Quada, disagrees. "There just isn't any city facility large enough, and with adequate paving to accommodate the Macker tournament," Quada said. The suit also lists jeopardy to the public health and safety by blocking and obstructing public streets. Quada said that the city has always made sure that there are adequate means to get fire and ambulance equipment into the area if necessary.

A second count to the suit claims that the McNeal driveway basketball court has become a virtual public facility, and is used frequently by persons not related to the McNeals or to neighbors of the McNeals. Dilley claims that because of the fame of the tournament the McNeal driveway attracts people from all over who want to play on it. "The constant bouncing of a basketball has become as irritating as a dripping faucet to the Isenhoffs," said Dilley. The suit asks that the defendants be permanently restrained from permitting the use of the court in a manner which interferes with the peace and enjoyment of the Isenhoffs. "We're simply asking that the McNeals curb the use of the court to family, friends and neighbors," Dilley said.

In response to the second count, Scott McNeal's brother, Mitch, said that restraining driveway basketball is like "cutting down apple pie and motherhood." He was also hesitant to comment on the lawsuit, but did say, "We plan to pursue every legal channel and do everything we can to hold the tournament in the streets this year." He also said that they have no alternative plan, should the Isenhoffs win in court.

"We expect a lot of support from our backers," Mitch McNeal said, "Most people in the neighborhood look forward to these three days each year as much as we do."

Family Fare construction is scheduled to begin soon

By Matt Berry

The construction of Lowell's first Family Fare grocery store is still a clouded mystery concerning when ground-breaking will begin.

Officials at Family Fare's general offices in Hudsonville said that work would currently be underway at the future Spartan store, but they ran into problems and had to delay construction. Contractors A.C. Geenen are now expecting to start work at the grocery store, to be located on W. Main across from Norgas, in early September.

According to Family Fare, the delay is because they were unable to secure a deal on the first parcel of land that they contracted. A small piece of land attached to that original parcel was tagged as a public facility and when Family Fare offered to purchase the attachment it was discovered that the small area was designed to be a park.

Family Fare then dropped plans for the original land-area and purchased land to the west of it. While planning was still in the works for the new piece of land, Family Fare decided to delay the Lowell project and step-up construction for a store in Holland.

The completed store will take up 25,000 sq. ft. of land, and connected to it will be a retail center, of which owners A.C. Geenen will lease space to retail merchants. A.C. Geenen will not be releasing any information on either the Family Fare or the mall project for at least one more week.

According to Family Fare, when construction does begin at the Family Fare, Johnson's Food Basket is expected to sell its inventory to Family Fare. Phil Johnson, co-owner of Johnson's, has stressed that they won't make any commitments until ground-breaking begins at Family Fare.

"We've been embarrassed in the past from deals like this which have fallen through, so we're not committing to anything at this time," Johnson said. "When they start construction we will make a statement."

According to Ron Kunnen, executive vice-president of Family Fare, Johnson's have agreed verbally to sell their inventory and are in the midst of doing so in print.

"We shook hands on the deal, and currently they are holding a contract which explains the terms of buying their inventory," Kunnen said.

Johnson would not comment on the written or verbal agreements.

"It's a tough decision for Johnson's," Kunnen said. "They've been an important part of the Lowell community."

The Lowell Family Fare, which will be the sixth of its kind in Michigan, will employ nearly 100 people within a year after it opens. If construction goes as scheduled, it could open early next spring.

Lowell 16-year-old dies from gunshot wound

By Matt Berry

A tragic accident was the cause of a Lowell boy's death as the youth passed away late last Thursday night after suffering a gunshot wound to the forehead Wednesday afternoon.

James Campbell, 15, was in the kitchen at 10819 Sconewood with four of his friends when one of the youths accidentally pulled the trigger of a .22 caliber hand-gun and shot Campbell in the head at 3 p.m. Wednesday. Campbell was taken to Butterworth Hospital and remained in critical condition until he died at 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

The incident is still under investigation, but according to Kent County Detective Lt. Jack Christensen, "Everything points to accidental death, but we're still awaiting the prosecutor's ruling." No one is in custody.

According to Detective Robert Peters, the youths were sitting at Campbell's kitchen table, reloading the gun, when the accident occurred.

"James was putting ammunition in the clip while a 13 year old boy was holding the gun," Peters said. "When James was taking the gun back the 13 year old accidentally pulled the trigger and shot James in the forehead."

"There was alcohol involved, but it was not contributory to the accident," Peters said.

According to Peters, the boys were shooting the gun previous to the accident, and when they ran out of ammunition they went inside Campbell's house to reload.

Earlier this month, Campbell was part of a Kent County Juvenile Court program that serves as an alternative for youths getting into trouble. According to his counselor, Gladys Long, he had been involved in a minor larceny.

James was the adopted son of David Campbell, an Ionia County social worker, with whom he lived. Said Matt Fenske, James' probation officer, "He was a troubled youth with a bad past."

"He was in the Ionia County neglect system, which means he was an abused child, before David adopted him," Fenske said. "His life just hadn't been very good."

"I was very depressed when I heard of his death," Fenske said. "The two of us had spent a lot of time together."

According to one of James' neighbors, who wished to remain anonymous, he was a "nice boy who happened to be a victim of circumstance. I hope somebody can learn something from this."

"He was always polite and respectful to me, but I think his troubled past led to his problems," She said. "He did get into some trouble but that was the result of his past."

She praised David for "doing all he could in bringing up James," but she added, "that the youth was missing something from life."

"Sometimes I would be outside with my family and I would get this lonely feeling when I saw James outside," she said. "I would look over at James in his yard, and I could see in his eyes what he was saying: 'I wish I had a mother. I wish I had a mother.'"

FATHER'S DAY SERVICES ON LCTV

The First United Methodist Church held special Father's Day Services on Sunday, June 15. The service was recorded by Lowell Cable Television to be aired on Public Access Channel 2.

The service will be shown on Wednesday, June 18 at 10:00 a.m., Thursday, June 19 at 5:00 p.m. and Friday, June 20 at 7:00 p.m.

ATTENTION MACKER QUEENS!!!

Young ladies interested in competing in the annual "Miss Macker" competition should contact Marylin Dawson at Man's World Hairstyling. Marylin has entry blanks and can help you with any information you may need. The contest is slated for Wednesday, July 9. A rehearsal pageant will be held on Monday, July 7.

LAST CHANCE FOR "PERSON OF THE YEAR" TICKETS

If you plan on attending the Person of the Year party aboard the Lowell Showboat on Friday, June 27, you'd better get your tickets NOW! Chamber of Commerce Board Member Bob Pfaller says that ticket sales must be cut off on Saturday, June 21 so that caterers can be notified of the exact number of dinners to be served. "Those in attendance will dine on Roast Beef Au Jus with all the trimmings," says organizer Jerry Patton. After dinner there will be dancing on the showboat to the music of the famous Bruce Early Orchestra. Alcoholic beverages will be served on a bring-your-own-bottle basis for liability reasons. The cost is just $15.00 per person. Tickets are available at Pfaller's Clothing, The Lowell Area Arts Center and from several Chamber of Commerce members. Of course the Person of the Year award is secret, so if you're curious, you'll just have to come to the party.

BEE STINGS PREVENTION AND TREATMENT

If you've ever been stung by a bee, wasp, hornet or yellow jacket, you probably want to do what you can to avoid being stung again. Additionally, if you are allergic to the venom of these insects, avoiding being stung may save your life. We hope the following suggestions will decrease your risk of stings.

1. Wear shoes or sandals when walking outdoors.
2. Do not use after-shave lotion, perfume, cologne or the like when you plan to spend a day or evening outdoors.
3. Select summer clothing of neutral patterns and colors such as tan, white, black or beige. Bright colors and floral patterns attract bees and wasps.
4. Stay away from public picnic areas and waste cans, favorite haunts for yellow jackets.
5. After outdoor bathing, shake towel before drying off; shake your clothing as well before putting it on.

What if you do get stung?

If you are allergic to bee stings and you are stung by a bee or wasp, you should have available a treatment kit. This kit is pre- scribed by your doctor and contains injectable medicine to reverse the effects of an acute allergic reaction. If you do not have a kit available, contact your doctor immediately if any of the following develop:

1. Hives, flushing, or itching over large parts of your body.
 2. Breathing difficulties such as wheezing or hoarseness.
 3. Tightness in your chest.
 4. Difficulty swallowing or the feeling of a lump in the throat.
 5. Faintness or dizziness.
 6. Stomach cramps, vomiting or diarrhea.
 7. A vague feeling of illness or impending doom.
- We hope these suggestions aid you in dealing with the all-too- common occurrence of bee stings.

The storm has passed, but danger lingers on...

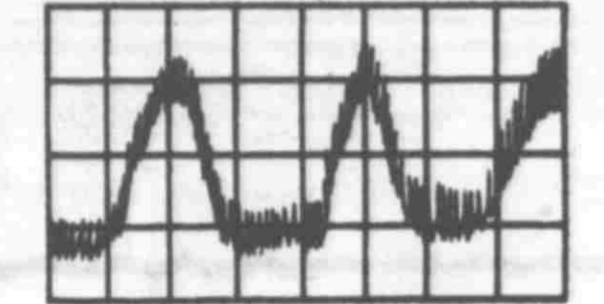

While we understand the urgency of restoring electric power to all of our consumers after a severe storm, we consider hazardous conditions created by the storm to be our first priority. That means the detection and repair of downed overhead power lines, and we need your help.

Power lines which have been snapped or pulled down as the result of a storm present a serious, even deadly danger. If you come across a downed wire, stay completely away from it. Don't touch the lines, the pole to which it is attached, or anything else in contact with the wire. Call us immediately - don't assume someone else will. We want to know about downed wires immediately so we can send our professionally trained linemen to make the needed repairs. Take some time today to teach your children about the dangers of downed electric wires. Instruct them to tell you or another adult as soon as possible about the problem, and to warn other children away.

Never, never assume a wire is harmless. Let us make the determinations and the repairs. Together we'll continue to keep our community safe from electric accidents.

Don't put your life on the line...

Ada Christian School announces $1.5 million expansion program

Plans to expand Ada Christian School and meet its needs through the year 2010 were announced today.

Tim Rottschafer, chairman of the Friends of Ada Christian Education (F.A.C.E.) committee, detailed plans for a $1.5 million expansion program eliminating portable classrooms, expanding athletic facilities and adding middle school classes. Construction will begin this September.

"For the past 35 years, Ada Christian School has been deeply committed to providing a distinctly Christian education for our children," noted Rottschafer. "The basic purpose of the building program is to ensure that our physical facilities support that commitment, now and in the future."

Plans call for 12 new classrooms, a resource center, two new ball diamonds and a new soccer field. The plan is designed to accommodate 415-475 students - the school's projected enrollment through the year 2010. The F.A.C.E. committee's goal is to finance the project without raising tuition. According to Rottschafer, $750,000 is committed already.

"Our plan is that 80% will be raised from corporate and other major donors," said Rottschafer, "and 20% will come from the Ada Christian School constituency via special projects, gifts and pledges."

A walk-a-thon is scheduled Saturday, June 7. The public is welcome to participate in the event, which begins at 8:30 a.m. at Ada Christian School.

The original two-room school was built at the present site, 7192 Bradford, S.E., in 1951. Constructed almost entirely with volunteer labor, the school opened that September with two teachers and 62 students in grades K-9. Currently the school has 25 teachers and 380 students in those grades.

Rev. Dan Roehl will speak at Assembly of God

Rev. Dan Roehl

On Sunday, June 22, at 11:00 a.m., Rev. Roehl, an Assembly of God Minister, will be speaking and giving his testimony of God's healing power in his life. He was recently healed of multiple myeloma, (Bone marrow cancer). There will be special prayer for those with physical needs should they desire it.

The church is located at 3050 Alden Nash South. Everyone is welcome to attend, according to Rev. Melvin Goble, Pastor.

Jerry and Ginny Gauger of Lowell are happy to announce the birth of Tiffany Rebecca. She was born May 28, 1986, weighing 6 lbs, 2 1/2 oz. and 19 inches long.

Proud grandparents are Mr. & Mrs. Ralph Gauger and Mr. & Mrs. Richard Bieri all of Lowell.

In the Service

Air Force Reserve Staff Sgt. Daniel M. Brunton, son of Mary E. Brunton of 1217 Sibley St., Lowell, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force liquid fuel systems maintenance course at Chanute Air Force Base, IL.

During the course, students were taught inspection and maintenance of liquid fuel storage and dispensing systems plus basic hydraulics and electricity. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Marine Lance Cpl. Robert G. Lytle, son of Robert G. Lytle, Sr. of 8650 Blue Water Highway, Saranac, MI, recently returned from a six month deployment from Okinawa, Japan.

Starting the deployment in November, 1985, Lytle participated in demonstrating outstanding readiness by responding with only twelve hours notice for a request for a Marine force to provide a "presence" in a sensitive area of the world. Other exercises during the deployment took place in Camp Fuji, Japan, Cubic Bay, Republic of the Philippines and Diego Garcia, British Indian Ocean Territories. Before returning home Lytle and the other members of the battalion received outstanding results on the required inspections.

He is currently serving with the 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines, Camp Pendleton, CA.

He joined the Marine Corps in January, 1983.

Pvt. Donna N. Thomas, daughter of Keith F. and Donna J. Simon of 6804 Ingalls Road, Belding, MI, has completed training as an Army military police specialist under the one station unit training (OSUT) program at Fort McClellan, AL.

OSUT is a 13-week period which combines basic training with advanced individual training.

Students were trained in civil and military law, traffic control, map reading and self-defense.

Her husband, Robert, is the son of Robert and Jackie Thomas of Saranac, MI.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

"I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me" (Philippians 4:13).

When a relative offered us a refrigerator for our summer cottage, we were delighted. On a warm day we set out in our Ford to get it. But on the return trip our delight turned to dismay when we remembered a sharp hill we would have to climb. What if the refrigerator fell out of the trunk? Would it be best to take another route and evade the dreaded incline?

After several miles of worry, we decided to keep to the regular route and give the hill a try. Much to our relief we discovered that the hill wasn't as steep as we recalled, and we went over it without a bit of trouble.

We found a lesson in this incident. Frequently the Lord gives us a special assignment which at first seems to be too big a job for us to handle. So we fret and stew and contemplate taking a detour. When we finally throw up our hands in surrender, accept the challenge, claim God's help through faith, we find "the hill isn't too steep" after all.

Prayer: Dear God, this task looks too big for me to handle. But I can do it with Thy help. Increase my faith. Strengthen me. Help me not to fail Thee. Amen.

Let the road be rough and dreary. And its end far out of sight. Foot it bravely, strong or weary. Trust in God, and do the right. AUTHOR UNKNOWN

Three youths win bikes in local Bike-A-Thon

Carey Townsend rode 45 miles and collected $24.00. Jamie McCaul rode 30 miles and collected $273.30. Sarah Hall rode 23 miles and she collected $78.85. Each one earned a new bicycle.

We are proud of the 21 riders, volunteers, citizens, and the businesses of Lowell who donated time and money. Thanks to you and them, we raised $1,580.37. I would also like to give a special thanks to Judy and Chris Ellison, Gary Ellison, Rich and Mary Jo Kerr, Jon Vezino and Kim McFall. Also to the secretaries at Alto Elementary, Bushnell, Lowell Middle School and Runciman. Your time and help was very much appreciated.

Out of the 21 riders, 15 collected enough for a St. Jude's T-shirt. Five riders collected enough for a St. Jude's T-shirt and a tote bag. The 21 riders were:

Vergennes UMC Pastor retires

Dr. Stanley Forkner will retire Sunday, June 22, following his final 10:00 a.m. morning service at Vergennes UMC at the corner of Bailey and Parnell.

Although officially retired, Dr. Forkner was assigned as part-time pastor to the Vergennes Community in September 1980.

In six years he preached 288 sermons, 18 weddings and 17 funerals.

During this time the congregation under his direction re-enforced the 120 year old historical building, rededicated the sanctuary and built and furnished the new Celebration Center, plus attendance has doubled.

Program development has included stewardship, community outreach, publicity. Keen-agers, a community seniors' group, and a church school have been organized.

Historical marker dedicated in Vergennes

The West Central Michigan Historical Society and the Vergennes Historical Commission dedicated an historical site marker at the corner of Bailey and Parnell Roads, in recognition of early pioneer families who established the Vergennes United Methodist Church, Sunday, June 15, 1986.

Although organized in 1843, the site marker will focus on the church building constructed in 1864 and lists continuing family

Dr. Stanley and Naomi Forkner will be honored with a buffet at noon following services. Their retirement plans include traveling to both coasts to visit family and to enjoy their motor home.

Celebrity read-in's at Lowell & Alto libraries

The Kent County Library System will sponsor "CELEBRITY READ-IN'S" at all 17 branch libraries the week of June 23 - 26. On June 24 at 2:00 p.m. the Celebrity Read-In will be at the Alto branch while on the 25 at 2:00 p.m. it will be at the Lowell branch. Media personalities, politicians, school teachers, principals, local authors and other famous and favorite community members join together to emphasize the importance and joy of reading. Readers for Alto are RBrenda Benedict, Rev. Margaret Cobb, Sandy Graham, President, Alto Friends of the Library, Eleanor Green, and Jim White, Alto Elementary principal. Readers for Lowell are Jim Hodges, Lowell "Y" Director, Scott McNeal, alias "Gus Macker", and Barbara Sweetland, library board member. World famous celebrities such as Shel Silverstein, Dr. Seuss, Beverly Cleary and Arnold Lobel will also be heard on tape reading some of their works.

"It's fun to read but being read to is a special treat," says Children's Services Coordinator Mary Frydrych. "The Read-In provides important community leaders with an opportunity to serve as role models and say to children, 'we think reading is important and we want to share the excitement of books with you.'"

The Celebrity Read-In is being offered as a part of the Kent County Library System's summer reading programs which are designed to encourage children to visit the library and read throughout the summer. For schedules or details regarding forthcoming programs, visit your local branch or call the Children's Services Department at 774-3253.

CHARGING ADMISSION?
Roll tickets, single or double, assorted colors. Grand Valley Ledger, 897-9261.

By Matt Berry
The Knights of Columbus were out in full force last Palm Sunday weekend selling Tootsie-rolls in order to assist the handicapped and mentally impaired.

The money they collect, in exchange for the candy, is given to institutions that help the handicapped and/or mentally impaired.

Lowell's chapter is the K of C Monsignor Hugh Michael Beahan Council Number 7719 and they gathered $808 in downtown Lowell during the Holy weekend. Last Monday, $500 was presented to Bill Kirby, Special Education Administrator of Lowell Public Schools.

Of the total collection, $200 went to the Mercy-Respi Center and $108 was given to Sister Rose Callahan.

Grand Knight Tony Stencel said that the $808 raised is the largest he's seen since he joined the local chapter five years ago.

"Every Palm Sunday weekend we collect money for the handicapped and this year's response was overwhelming," Stencel said. "We like to help the impaired any way we can. We just donated our time, the citizens of Lowell donated money."

Lisa Enslin, a middle school teacher in the learning disability program, has already spent half of the money on new reading aides for the students. She is planning on possibly spending the rest of the gift on a special math program. Past donations from the K of C have gone to social studies and science materials.

According to Kirby, the K of C has been donating money to Lowell's Special Ed. for four years and they have never donated this much before.

"$500 is a great plus for the program," Kirby said. "They've been very helpful in assisting these students."

Enslin said that the K of C is the only group that has donated to the Special Ed. department and it adds a lot to the budget the school gives her to work with.

"It's so nice what they do," Enslin said. "We would have to wait a long time to buy these new materials if it weren't for the K of C."

Grand Knight, Tony Stencel, from Lowell's Knights of Columbus, presenting Bill Kirby, Special Ed. Administrator at Lowell Schools, with a $500 check last Monday. The money the K of C collected during Palm Sunday weekend will be used to buy new materials for the Special Ed. department at Lowell.

"You've got to pay to play" is a phrase heard in conversation these days. I'm finding out the true meaning of that phrase following this weekend's activities. I haven't been this sore since my first experience with downhill skiing a few years back. I feel like I re-enlisted and just completed my first week of basic training.

No, I didn't enter a triathlon or wrestle Hulk Hogan. It doesn't take anything that strenuous to wipe me out these days. A second trip to the salad bar can do me in. Seriously, I'm the first to admit that I could be, and should be, in better physical condition. On the other hand, I'm not smart enough to limit myself to activities suited to my condition, and my competitive spirit keeps me involved long after my coach potato body has given up.

This weekend started out with some water skiing. I first got up on skis when I was just five years old, but that doesn't necessarily mean I've improved in the last 31 years. In fact, I may have gone the other way. I ski about once every decade or so, which means my skill level is about on a par with the water skiing squirrel they used to have on Real People. Once around the lake, and my arms and legs are oatmeal. My brother-in-law has never skied, and still hasn't, though he did give it the old college try. (He went to M.S.U.)

Since water skiing didn't seem to be our forte, and with my twelve-year-old daughter unmercifully showing us up on a slalom ski, we decided to try the sport tube. For those of you who are not familiar with this masochistic device, it is nothing more than a large inner tube with hand holds and is designed to be towed behind a boat at about 35 miles per hour. Once the tube is planed out, the rider holds on for dear life while the tube accelerates through pendulum swings behind the careening boat. Waves, choppy water and boat wakes pound the tube rider to the point where bull riding would be a pleasant break in the action. As the tube swings away from the turning boat, the resulting centrifugal force tries to roll the tube over. It often does, and the rider becomes a mass of elbows, feet, knees, buttocks, heads, etc., as he is launched across the surface. These crashes are reminiscent of scenes from a Road Runner cartoon.

Of course the driver has to take his turn on the tube, and you know what they say about pay-backs. This exchange went on all day between my brother-in-law and I. We got a few others to try it, but none of them got in to repeatedly pounding their bodies like we did. It never entered our minds to stop and let someone off the tube gracefully. It was just naturally assumed that the rider had to crash. Why let somebody off easy when you can watch them do uncontrolled cartwheels across the lake.

I felt bad about my aching muscles on Monday, until I heard my twelve-year-old daughter complaining about her aches and pains, too. And, I'd be willing to bet a buck or two that my brother-in-law, who is about ten years my junior, is paying for his play too. Maybe I'm not as over-the-hill as I think I am, just too stupid to act my age.

Bicycle Rodeo sponsored by Cub Scout Pack 3188 & Explorer's Post 2004

The weather was cooperative on Saturday, May 31, for the Bicycle Rodeo held at Bushnell Elementary School. It was sponsored by Cub Scout Pack 3188 and Law Enforcement Explorers Post 2004.

The Law Enforcement Explorers is a division of the Boy Scouts of America. The Explorers are young men and women age 14 through 20 organized through the Lowell Police Department. The Explorers set up the obstacle course. Those Explorers that helped were: Shawn Barton, Ken Hall, Dawn King, and Tera Raab. Officers Dave Price, Jerry Despres, and Sgt. Al Eckman also assisted.

There were over 50 boys and girls that rode their bicycles through an obstacle course consisting of ten different areas. They could score a possible 100%. After the boys and girls worked their way through the obstacle course, they could watch a movie entitled "Bicycles are Beautiful" narrated by Bill Cosby.

The ages of the boys and girls participating ranged from 4½ to 14. They rode bicycles of all sizes and speeds. There were three age groups, kindergarten through 9th grade.

The winner was Gerard Depres with a score of 98%. He also took first place in his age group.

Aaron Adams lands a 37 1/2" Tiger Muskie

Fifteen-year-old Aaron Adams must have thought he'd hooked old "Jaws" himself when this 37½" tiger muskie took the bait. Adams was fishing with his brothers Brian and Jerry Adams, his uncle Randy Adams and a friend Bob Wilkerson east of the island on Murray Lake Sunday evening. The big fish was caught on a minnow. He said the 12½ pound fish didn't put up much of a fight, and was landed in about two minutes. Aaron is the son of Jerry and Sue Adams of 721 Avery Street, Lowell.

Just as a reminder to other lucky anglers, we're always glad to run a photo of you and your catch in the Ledger. Just stop by with your fish, and you'll have a newspaper clipping to back up your fish story.

New contracts for Lowell police officers

The Lowell City Council unanimously passed a new contract for the Lowell Police Officers Association at the City Council Meeting on Monday.

The new terms for the first year will include a 4% salary increase and a change in the retirement plan from the C-1 to the C-2 plan. The first year will also allow officers to accumulate up to 56 hours of Compensatory Time Off.

The settlement for second year employees will include another 4% increase on 1/2 pay. Also in the contract is the plan to change the retirement plan by waiver of Section 47 (f) (Unreduced Early Retirement), and a payment of Longevity. The Payment of Longevity will include $30 per year of service, with a maximum of $300 after three years. The previous longevity payment plan was for four years.

The third year terms of the new contract is reserved to wage re-open only.

Home entertainment figures on the rise

By Matt Berry
In an age in which people aren't as close with their neighbors as they used to be, enclose their property with fences, lock themselves in their homes and force a smile to old acquaintances, it seems fitting that home entertainment figures are rising. After all, the home entertainment business has incentives to offer that a night on the town has been having a hard time rivaling lately.

You're not going to find slow-motion, fast forward, reverse or even pause at the local theatre, but all of these and more are offered to television addicts who have VCRs.

97-99 percent of American homes have at least one television, and an estimated 30-40 percent of these have additional home viewing accessories such as VCRs. The number of Americans with VCRs is expected to increase at a steady pace, now slightly slower than the numbers who have purchased home video equipment since the explosion started nearly three years ago.

The home entertainment business has been booming according to local wholesalers and retailers of the trade. The fairly recent explosion is nowhere near settling down as wholesalers and retailers of video equipment have projected sales and rentals to continue their upswing over the next few years.

"Business has been great," said Tony Ellison, co-owner with his wife Sharon of Lowell's Front Row Video. "More people are getting into home entertainment because it's very convenient and the price is right."

Ellison estimated that 30 percent of American homes have VCRs today. He sees that number rising above the 50 percent mark within the next two years.

"The figure of Americans with VCRs should be well over 50 percent in the next two years," Ellison said. "After that it will continue to rise at a slower pace to over 75 percent spanning the next five to 10 years."

"They won't become as common as something like a refrigerator, but eventually there will be as many VCRs in homes as there are televisions now," Ellison, originally from Michigan, has a keen eye for the future. He started his video career in Colorado a few years back and returned to Michigan two years ago when he envisioned the video boom in the West to sweep in to the East.

Currently, business has been slow for most retailers, as people are going outside more in the warmer weather. According to Curtis Albrecht, owner of Lowell's Radio Shack, most home video stores do their best business during late fall, winter and early spring.

"Most people stay inside during that time of the year, and they like to go outside now, when the weather is nice," Albrecht said. Hans Mason, operations manager for Williams Dist., a Grand Rapids wholesaler of video equipment, said that sales do slip in the warmer months, but not drastically, as the business has lagged to satisfy the outdoors lovers.

"During the summer months the emphasis shifts from the watching of movies indoors to the making of movies outdoors," Mason said. "Cameras with recorders started catching on in the early '80s. It's just another of the many dimensions that the video industry has to offer."

"The home entertainment business has always been big, ever since the Victrola," Mason said. "It's the addition of the new product which enables the industry to grow."

Albrecht said that there are some die-hard movie-goers who go to the theatre no matter what season it is; however, the added dimensions of home movies is what attracts most buyers. VCR owners have the luxury of pause at their fingertips enabling them to leave the room and not miss part of the movie. Recording players make it possible to record a program the owner was not home to see.

Keena agreed that video sales and rentals are a "seasonal thing," but he added that this summer's rental figures should be a bit above last year's. Some of last year's biggest box-office attractions, including "Back to the Future," one of last fall's most popular movies, will be available for the home viewer this summer. On the average it takes three to four months for an "average" movie to be in video stores, while more popular titles will be on the retailers' shelves within six to 12 months.

Two injured in building accident

By Matt Berry

Two workers were injured when a gust of wind knocked more than 30 roof trusses into the shell of a church under construction to the east of Lowell Thursday afternoon.

Ivan Holtzen, 63, of Hastings, NE., and James Lawrence, of Sturgis, were sent to Butterworth Hospital after being knocked unconscious in the accident. Both are currently in good condition with Holtzen suffering from a fractured vertebrae and Lawrence sustaining a fractured skull and vertebrae.

Holtzen is the supervisor of the Laborers for Christ, the construction crew that is working at the future Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, to be located on M-21 in western Ionia County. The church is moving there from 2287 Segwun in Lowell.

Laborers for Christ is a volunteer organization of the Lutheran Church with its headquarters in St. Louis, MO.

According to Holtzen the workers had five trusses to finish when the accident occurred. He said that a gust of wind from the West to the East knocked the trusses over in a domino effect.

"I had a hunch that it was going to happen before it ever did, so we secured some extra bracings to be safe," Holtzen said. "Then the wind still knocked 'em over. Trusses of this type are very unstable."

Holtzen was knocked to the ground first when the trusses threw him eight feet from his scaffolding. As the falling trusses swept to the east of the church, Lawrence hit the cement from 15 feet in the air.

The church was scheduled to be completed by August 1. The church's Pastor, Joseph Fremer, said that he cannot give an exact date as to when construction will be completed now, but he is estimating it will be finished "sometime in September."

According to recent estimates there are about 40,000 different varieties of fish.

Teens Involved is a very active group

By Matt Berry

"If peer pressure gets kids into drugs and alcohol then peer pressure can get them out." That could very well be the motto of Teens Involved (TI) according to Barb Pierce, a counselor at Lowell High School and advisor to the student group, TI.

TI is an anti-drug and alcohol program fronted by students at Lowell that promotes natural highs.

TI evolved from Lowell's S.A.D.D. two years ago because the students involved felt S.A.D.D. had a negative connotation.

"Students against", is a negative phrase so we chose Teens Involved as our name," said Jami Andrews, co-chairperson of TI. "We are against drugs and alcohol, but more than that, we would like to think we're for alternative highs."

The name change was for the better as last year TI boasted 120 student members and 11 student officials. Pierce is expected participation to increase next year.

Included among the many activities, or alternative highs, that TI offered this past year were a talent show, post-prom party and a TI Day.

According to Andrews the talent show was a surprise success. TI was expecting 200-300 people to attend the variety show, but their prediction fell far short as nearly 600 turned out to cheer on the 50 performing acts.

Students involved in the competition played live music, 'lip-synched' to recorded music and performed dance routines.

Michael Michaud, a teacher at Lowell, showed his talents in a guitar-vocal duet with his wife as part of the staff's competition. The post-prom party took place at the West YMCA, on Leonard St. in Grand Rapids, starting at midnight. The students participated in basketball, volleyball, swimming and watched movies until breakfast was served at 6:00 a.m. Seven hours after it began the party was over.

TI Day saw 130 students turnout for the day-long activities. The events started at 8:00 a.m. and lasted until 11:30 p.m. Some of the more popular activities at TI Day were the family groups, alternative highs and skill builders.

The family groups were eight to 10 students per "family" in a communication session, in cooperation we got was great." When the subs arrived at 6:30 the assemblers broke into groups of 15, set-up shop at eight different tables and did their job.

Peel said that the Little League made about $7,000 from the sandwiches. The profit will go towards fields improvements, new equipment and uniforms and possibly buying property for a new field.

Peel also said that the league has expanded to 325 players and it would be easier and better for the players if they had another field.

According to Peel, it took a 20 foot refrigerator truck to transport the subs from the Bun Basket to the high school.

which they would talk about their problems to each other. The latter two activities were focused on learning and having fun.

"TI Day was a phenomenal success," Pierce said. "A lot of students showed themselves they don't have to get drunk to have a good time."

Andrews and Trisha Frey, juniors, are both co-chairpersons, and according to the Pierce, they and the other nine student officials, "run the show."

"It's amazing how they've taken over the responsibilities," Pierce said. "They're very committed and interested in helping students who drink or take drugs to find alternative, natural highs."

It may take a lot of commitment too. Statewide last year, 2,246 persons 16 and 17 years old were arrested for drunk driving. 25 more licensed drivers under 18 were killed in alcohol related accidents.

In the 18-20 age group, 8,276 were arrested for drunk driving last year. 100 people in that age group never walked away from their car after drinking and driving.

Kurt Dunning was one of those numbers. The former Lowell student, he was killed last fall in a drinking and driving accident.

"(Dunning's death) shook a lot of people up," Frey said. "It made people think."

Still, many students don't think enough Pierce says. "The accident woke some students up," Pierce said. "But most of them still insist 'It can't happen to me.'"

Pierce has been at the high school for 13 years and she said that the drug problem worsens every year.

"It's getting easier and easier for kids to buy drugs," Pierce said. "It's starting to creep into the junior high also."

"The junior high needs a TI group or at least a TI Day," Frey said. "They look up to high school students, and I would rather see them idolize a TI member than someone who drinks."

"A lot of students say that you can't have a fun party without drinking or doing drugs, and we're just showing them that you can," Andrews said. "More of our peers are becoming aware of the problems of drinking and drugs, and hopefully the peer pressure will turn the tables and pressure kids to stop."

Little League sub sale

By Matt Berry

How long does it take 120 people to assemble 10,600 submarine sandwiches? Two hours and 20 minutes is what it took about 120 parents, friends and players of the Lowell Little League to do so.

The volunteers started putting the subs together at 6:30 p.m. Friday night in the high school cafeteria, and they were finished with the pre-sold sandwiches by 8:50 p.m.

"I had no idea we would produce so many so soon," said Jeff Peel, president of Lowell's Little League. "I thought we sold maybe 6,000 subs and I feared only about 30 people would show up to assemble them. The cooperation we got was great." When the subs arrived at 6:30 the assemblers broke into groups of 15, set-up shop at eight different tables and did their job.

Peel said that the Little League made about $7,000 from the sandwiches. The profit will go towards fields improvements, new equipment and uniforms and possibly buying property for a new field.

In Memorium

In Memory In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Mark Taylor Kropf, who left us so suddenly June 18, 1970. Softly the leaves of memory fall, Gently we gather and treasure them all, Unseen, unheard, you are always near, Still loved, still missed and as always very dear. Lovingly, Your family P31
