"Macker Mania" comes to Lowell this weekend

By Matt Berry

For over 50 hours this weekend the King of 3-on-3 basketball will return to tyrannize what used to be the streets of Lowell. He and his 54 double-sided disciples (backboards) will overthrow the streets and declare them their own.

4,228 slaves will be forced to throw an inflated sphere through a hole barely larger than the sphere itself. An estimated audience of over 10,000 captives must painfully watch these men, women and children partake in battles more gruesome than their worst nightmare.

Bombs will be launched, bricks will be thrown and a few unlucky ones will even be dunked when Gus Macker arrives to proclaim the streets of Lowell: Mackerville, U.S.A.

The 13th Annual Gus Macker 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament will start its war against non-basketball lovers Friday at 6:30 p.m. and end Sunday at dusk. Saturday's and Sunday's competitions will begin at 9 a.m. All action ceases at dusk.

The streets will be a battle ground for 4,000 plus basketball fanatics this weekend, with 450 players from 29 different states, over two dozen from Canada and most of the remainder from the West Michigan area.

For those not able to witness the event live, ABC will be sending a television crew to shoot tournament play for Wide World of Sports segment. The show, to be run August 9, is on "crazy summer-time fun," according to Scott McNeal, alias Gus Macker.

The 8th Annual Miss Macker Beauty Pageant will begin at 7:30 tonight. Contestants will be judged in basketball attire, swimsuits and evening gowns. McNeal said that the pageant started as a joke, but things changed, as serious contestants began to run for the now coveted title of Miss Macker.

"We had little kids in it until the last couple of years," McNeal said. "Now all these young women are entering and taking it very seriously."

Sonnie North, winner of the 1985 Miss Macker, will have to relinquish her crown tonight, but she has no regrets.

"It was a lot of fun," North said. "I had a chance to represent the Macker in other tournaments and parades throughout Michigan."

The pageant is free of charge, and it will take place on the Macker Driveway, 521 Elizabeth, the home of Richard and Bonnie McNeal.

Opening ceremonies for the 13th running of the first street basketball tournament in the world will start at 6 p.m. Friday. Macker rules and regulations, traditional ceremonies and a Richard McNeal calliope version of the National Anthem will kick-off the competition. At 6:30 Miss Macker will throw out the ceremonial first ball.

The double-elimination tournament will continue Saturday and Sunday, with the championship rounds starting Sunday around 3 p.m. The 54 division tournament will also include a toilet-bowl bracket for teams that lost their first two games.

Spartan Stores, Inc., sponsors for this year's tourney, will be holding an instructional clinic at 8 p.m. Saturday on the main intersection court.

Among the instructors will be Rolando Blackman, from the Dallas Mavericks, McNeal said.

A slam dunk contest will also be in this year's festivities, taking place after the last game on Sunday night. Will McNeal be in the slamming contest? "No way, I'm only 5' 6."

The 13th Annual Gus Macker 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament will feature two new items this year. Referees will officiate the elite divisions in the July 11-13 tourney, and new backboards will be tried out.

BALLOON RIDE WINNER

Mrs. Gladys Thorne of Lowell was the winner of the Chamber of Commerce sponsored raffle for a hot air balloon ride. The raffle is an annual fund raiser for the Fourth of July fireworks display. Bob Pfaller, chairman of the firework project says the raffle and other donations have totalled to just about the break-even point.

ATTENTION L.H.S. ATHLETES AND PARENTS

The Lowell Athletic boosters are again in charge of concessions at the Gus Macker Tournament. This is a MAJOR fund raiser for the Boosters, and they DO NEED more workers. Call Denise Dommer at 897-9678 or Virginia Stencil at 897-7437 if you can help!

Y POOL OPEN EXTRA HOURS FOR MACKER

The Lowell YMCA has announced extended open swim hours at the King Memorial Pool throughout the Gus Macker weekend. The hours are Friday, July 11, from 2:00 p.m. 'til 9:30 p.m., Saturday, July 12 from 11:00 a.m. 'til 9:30 p.m. and Sunday, July 13 from 11:00 a.m. 'til 7:30 p.m. A general admission fee is required.

Strand Theater to become a furniture store

Since 1919 the Strand Theatre has catered to Vaudeville stage acts and lovers of the silver screen. In September of this year the building will open its doors to a different audience, furniture buyers.

Steve Larkin, owner of Larkin's Saloon and the future Strand Furniture, bought the theatre from Bob DeNolf four weeks ago. He is hoping to open the only store of its genre in Lowell in September.

"It should be a great convenience to the people of Lowell," Larkin said. "Being the only furniture store in Lowell, people won't have to travel 20 miles to Grand Rapids to buy furniture."

Before Larkin can begin working on the building, he must show the city council his plans. He doesn't expect the city to reject his proposed minor changes.

"I'm not going to do anything major to the building," Larkin said. "I'm having some tiles and cracks in the walls and ceiling repaired, and I'm taking the screen out, but nothing major."

Larkin is planning to remove the seats in the theatre and sell furniture from where audiences once sat. He is going to tier the slope in the theatre into three decks.

The chairs in the theatre will be sold to "anyone who wants to buy them," Larkin said. "I'm going to sell them to local people first and antique dealers also, but I've definitely got to get rid of them."

Larkin added that he will probably remove the marquee outside the front of the building and add old-style awnings to keep the historic flavor of the building.

"It's got a lot of history to it," Larkin said. "I want to keep that historic feeling there."

Steve Larkin bought the old Strand Theatre four weeks ago, and he plans to run a furniture business from it. If his plans are approved by the city, Larkin will open the only furniture store in Lowell on September 1.

The popular Vaudeville act of Laurel and Hardy once performed on Strand's stage.

Larkin tagged the furniture to be sold at Strand Furniture as "good quality furniture for a low price." The store will also sell jewelry.

City finds insurance for airport

The Lowell Airport may soon be back in full operation thanks to a reasonable insurance quote from United States Fire Ins. Co. The Lowell City Council recently closed the airport to all transient traffic because of problems in obtaining liability insurance. The previous insurer wanted to drastically increase premiums and cut the liability coverage from $1 million to $500,000.

The new policy approved by the Council covers the airport for $1 million per occurrence at a cost of $1,650 annually and the hangars at $50,000 per aircraft and liability coverage of $100,000 per occurrence for an additional premium of $624. Even with what is considered to be reasonable coverage and premiums, the Council still wants assurance that the airport can be self supporting. A committee is being formed to establish a tie-down fee structure that will cover the annual insurance as well as other costs.

If you haven't noticed a big difference in the number of planes flying in and out of the airport since it was closed, it's because most of those who use the strip weren't affected. The chief user of the airport is the Grand Rapids School of The Bible and Music's missionary aviation program. The school is under contract with the city for the use of the airport and is covered by its own insurance. Other frequent users have their planes stored in hangars that are also involved with contracts with the city. These pilots have continued to have use of the airport since the closure.

In other business the Council approved two amendments to the city ordinances to allow the

"Capitol Column"
By State Senator
Dick Posthumus

Now that summer legislative recess has arrived, Senate Republicans can look back at the last year in Lansing with pride. It was a productive and successful session and some vital issues were resolved.

Our top priority -- and top achievement -- was a rollback of the state income tax. When the Governor proposed a plan for raising state income taxes three years ago, it was Republican Senators who insisted it be a temporary hike. In the end, we sponsored four tax rollback plans and it was our bill that finally brought the tax rate down to 4.6 percent from the Blanchard-initiated 6.35 percent income tax rate.

Republicans dealt with more than just income taxes. Our Citizens Property Tax Commission is now at work on long-term reform of Michigan's property tax system. Our property tax relief plan provides a rebate of up to $1,200 per year for small business, expands the circuit breaker for low-income families, and eliminates the school operating portion of property taxes for senior citizens.

Senate Republicans are also committed to reducing the high cost of doing business in Michigan. We reformed the state's Essential Insurance Act, which unfairly tied auto insurance rates in outstate Michigan to Detroit. We also developed new guidelines for liability lawsuits and most of our initiatives were approved by both chambers of the Legislature. Long-awaited changes to Michigan's banking laws were also approved as a result of Senate Republican negotiations. And our Enterprise Zones create special business environments with less regulation and more tax credits for economically distressed areas.

We are also concerned with the quality of life enjoyed by Michigan's nine million residents. We sponsored legislation requiring seat belt usage, which recently celebrated its first anniversary and has saved more than 125 lives. Republicans also sponsored legislation protecting Michigan's Non-Game Fish and Wildlife Fund, took action to ask voters in November whether Michigan's bottle deposit law should include wine coolers, and negotiated an agreement with House members on a state program helping Vietnam veterans suffering from Agent Orange exposure.

Senate Republicans attacked crime with our innovative "Safe Streets" package. It includes: mandatory minimum sentences; tougher chop shop enforcement; new taxes on confiscated illegal drugs; business incentives for hiring disadvantaged youth; repeal of the Emergency Powers Act allowing the early release of prisoners; and increased bond authority to build more prisons. We also created a standing Senate Committee on Corrections to study crime prevention on a continuous basis.

Education has also been a top issue. Besides dramatic increases in education spending, we sponsored two proposals calling for tougher teacher requirements and competency testing for high school graduates, as well as a new program to reduce the state high school drop out rate. Not all of our proposals have become law but I'm proud of the real impact we have had. I'm certain we'll continue to make a positive difference in the future.

Lowell sailor at Statue of Liberty celebration

Carl DeVries

Lowell native Carl DeVries had dinner with President Ronald Reagan last Friday evening.

DeVries, a sailor in the U.S. Navy stationed aboard the USS John F. Kennedy, was on his vessel in the New York Harbor last weekend for the Parade of Boats, Statue of Liberty re-lighting and the 4th of July fireworks display when the President stepped on board his ship for a Friday evening barbecue.

DeVries, 18, didn't get to shake hands with the President, according to his mother, Jane, 2487 Lowell View, but he was still very impressed with the weekend's festivities.

"I talked to him Saturday and he said he had the best view of the fireworks in the city," Jane said. "He was really excited and impressed about the whole weekend, but kind of upset he didn't shake hands with the President."

The President made his speech on board the USS John F. Kennedy with the sailors lined up in their dress whites before the barbecue. The USS John F. Kennedy is the largest aircraft carrier in the world.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

... strengthen thou me according unto thy word (Psalm 119:28).

Since my birthday comes in July, my birthstone is the ruby, the rarest of all gems. In large sizes, it is the costliest. Few can own them. Yet, the poorest can afford the most precious gem of all, the Word of God. Matthew Henry said, "To meditate in God's Word, is to discourse with ourselves concerning the great things contained in it, with a close application of mind, a fixedness of thought, till we are suitably affected with things, and experience the favour and power of them in our hearts. This we must do, day and night; we must have a constant habitual regard to the word of God, as the rule of our actions and the spring of our comforts, and we must have it in our thoughts, accordingly, upon every occasion that occurs, whether night or day. No time is amiss for meditating on the Word of God, nor any time unseasonable for those visits. We must not only set ourselves to meditate on God's Word, morning and evening, at the entrance of the day and at the night; but these thoughts should be interwoven with the business and converse of every day, and with the repose and slumbers of every night."

Prayer: Dear God, for this precious gem Thou hast given me, I thank Thee. Let its precepts sink deep into my heart. Strengthen me as I meditate therein. Amen.

How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord,
Is laid for your faith in His excellent Word!
What more can He say than to you He hath said,
To you who for refuge to Jesus have fled?

Wierenga is All Star

By Matt Berry
1986 Lowell graduate J.J. Wierenga will get to play in one more high school football game before going to college this fall.

The June graduate will be a member of the West All Stars in the 6th Annual Michigan High School East-West All-Star Football Game. The game will be held Saturday, August 2 at Michigan State University's Spartan Stadium, East Lansing.

Game time is scheduled for 1:35 p.m.
Wierenga, a 6' 4", 215 lb. offensive lineman, will be the first-ever Red Arrow to play in the all-star game.

Wierenga received a number of honors throughout his high school football career. His senior year he was named MVP and team captain, awarded honorable mention all-state and placed on the first team for both the all-conference and all-area teams. He also signed a letter of intent for a full-ride scholarship to Central Michigan University in February.

Persons interested in buying advance tickets to the all-star game should contact Phil Christensen at 897-6178, or call the Lowell High School office at 897-9202.

New store opens in town - "What's in Store"

By Matt Berry
Gary Timmermans and Grant Young, co-owners of White's Bridge Tooling Corporation in Grand Rapids, opened a new store in downtown Lowell this week.

What's In Store, located at 106 W. Main, opened its doors for business Monday morning. The grand opening celebration will take place from Monday thru Friday next week. The first 20 children in the store Monday will receive free stickers, and a free drawing will be held Friday at 5 p.m.

The miscellaneous store will be selling a wide variety of products, including tools, household items and various gifts.

"We'll have different products every week, but tools will always be sold here," Timmermans said.

Timmermans and Young will be buying the merchandise from overseas importers and warehouses in Chicago and New York. They will be eliminating the middle-man which, according to Timmermans, will save the consumer money.

"We're selling these goods for very close to wholesale prices," Timmermans said. "Our products are very inexpensive."

Timmermans added that the store will be gearing for the fall and winter season soon, but summer products will continue to be sold.

Timmermans and Young have a six months lease on the building, at the end of which they will decide if they need more room to conduct their business.

The store is open from Monday thru Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

"Warbirds" will fly in to Muskegon Air Fair

A squadron of assorted "Warbirds" used by the United States, Germany and Japan during World War II will gather at the Muskegon Air Fair on Saturday and Sunday, July 19 and 20.

Many of the vintage military aircraft will be open for tours and others will perform in the air over Muskegon just as they did over the battlefields of Europe and the South Pacific more than 40 years ago.

"A lot of people in the West Michigan area helped build these planes, provided support for them or flew in them during the war," said Air Fair executive director Terry Grevious.

"Warbirds" descending on the Muskegon County Airport will include a B-17 "Flying Fortress" bomber. The workhorses of the U.S. bomber fleet were a common sight over Germany. The B-17, one of the few still flying, will come from the Experimental Aircraft Association of Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Tours will be available.

Two P-51 "Mustang" fighters built in the 1940s will show they still have what it takes in an aerial display. One of the P-51s is owned by Muskegon Realtor, Elmo Hahn.

A B-25 "Mitchell" bomber, the type flown by General Jimmy Doolittle's Raiders over Japan, will be available for inspection.

Other U.S. military aircraft will include a T-33 jet fighter, an F-86 "Sabre" jet fighter, a T-6 "Texan" two-seat trainer and C-47 transport plane. In addition, the world's largest airplane, the C5 "Galaxy," will dwarf all the planes around it.

From the other sides during World War II, aircraft will include a replica of a Japanese "Zero" and a Luftwaffe Messerschmitt fighter.

Air Fair gates are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day with the three-hour feature show starting at 1:30 p.m. Tickets are $6 for adults and $4 for children five to 12. Kids four and under are free. Tickets are available at all FMB Lumberman's Bank branches and Believe in Music stores.

I've developed procrastination into a fine art. Procrastinating is a trait found in most of us, but this job has drastically increased my ability to procrastinate. I'd dare say I've developed the trait to a professional level. This column is a good example. I always write it the morning we go to press. There are often times when things are slow around here, and I could work on it in advance. But, in the ten years I've been writing it, I don't ever remember going into a Tuesday with my column written.

I blame part of my problem on this job for good reason. The publishing business is based on procrastination. Everything we print here has a deadline, consequently we are continually busting our tails to meet this deadline or that, and putting off the jobs with deadlines further on down the road. All of a sudden they become the ones with tight deadlines, along with the rush, rush jobs that are always popping up. So, it never seems to matter how early a job comes in before its deadline, it always turns into a rush project at the end anyway. It may be involuntary procrastination, but it's procrastination just the same.

With this kind of mental conditioning day in and day out at the workplace, it's not surprising that my personal habits lean...no...sway...no...fall...no...hurtle toward procrastination. I'm sure Terese could describe my procrastinating better than anyone, but I'm not about to let her get going on me in the paper. It's bad enough hearing about my faults at home.

A good example of my procrastination happened this spring. Last year we had a terrible problem with box elder bugs. I located the source of the problem in three female trees on the river bank. I diligently marked them, and planned to cut them down onto the ice in the winter. I could then cut the trees into pieces, and get them out of the river. On a Sunday morning late in March I was standing out on the last remnants of the winter ice with water over my boots. I had to climb out on the tree limbs to cut the upper-most branches that were well out into the flowing water. No, I didn't fall in, and I didn't go through the ice. It may have served me right if I had, but I doubt if it would have taught me a lesson.

Something I got in the mail recently prompted me to write about my problem with procrastination. It was a book, Ernest Hemingway's "The Garden of Eden." I never was a real big Hemingway fan, and from what I've heard and read, "The Garden of Eden" is no "For Whom the Bell Tolls" or "A Farewell to Arms." So, it's definitely not the book I would normally select if given a choice.

The only reason I have this book is because I am a procrastinator who belongs to the Book of the Month Club. When I received the last monthly catalog, "The Garden of Eden" was featured as the "Book of the Month." If you don't send your card back with a request for a different book, or instructions to send no books, you automatically get the "Book of the Month." I remember setting the catalog aside when I was opening the mail a few weeks ago. My intention was to go through it later, and look for some interesting reading for the summer. They love us procrastinators at "The Book of the Month Club."

However, this may not turn out to be all bad. I remember way back when I was a kid in high school. I belonged to the Columbia Record Club. They had the same kind of deal. If they didn't hear back from you, they sent you the "Record of the Month." Because of my procrastination, I once received a copy of "Cheap Thrills," an album featuring Janis Joplin with Big Brother and the Holding Company. I had never heard of Janis Joplin, but the record became my prize possession. I nearly wore the grooves out of it before anyone at my school ever heard about her. Who knows, this Hemingway book may be a big hit with me, too.

By the way, this book has just been published for the first time. That's right, Ernest Hemingway has been dead for some time now. About twenty-five years to be exact. I don't know about you, but I'd call that the pinnacle of procrastination. Kinda makes me feel like an amateur rather than the professional I thought I was.

It's said the musical juke box gets its name from a West African word, dzug meaning: "to behave improperly."

Marie Osmond to perform at Chesaning

The traditional Chesaning Showboat will embark on its 45th annual six-day run July 14 through July 19 at Showboat Park in Chesaning. Headlining the 1986 edition will be Marie Osmond. Her brothers: Wayne, Merrill and Alan, were the featured performers last year. Marie, who currently has a hit in the Top 20 Country Charts ("Read My Lips") is hoping to break the attendance record established by her three brothers last year.

The community of Chesaning enters the realm of "show business" once again as homemakers transformed into choristers. Efficient businessmen turn their talents to car-parking and program-selling. Even the local youth take their place in the world of show business as they man the popcorn and soft drink concessions. Wherever you go in the vicinity of this charming community you'll find towns people engaged in a flurry of activity. As with all groups, leadership is important in the overall result. This year's competent committee is chaired by Pat Yule and consists of Martin Horger, Charles Sadilek and Ken Valentine. Each committee member has his own area of expertise and each provides the dedication needed to make this event an overwhelming success.

Captain Bob Rhode will again handle the MC duties and challenge the zany endmen... Jack Ware, Jim King, Jeff Murdoch and Wayne Suppes to provide the repartee to keep the show moving toward the Grand Finale.

The entire presentation is a delightful blend between the professionals... Comedian Harry Jarkey, Trampoline Specialist George Huntzicker, and Marie Osmond... to the singing chorus, under the direction of Lyle Brooks, as well as the Bobaty Dancers. The Chuck Robinette Orchestra provides the musical accompaniment throughout the evening.

Everyone has an opportunity to display their ability as five amateur acts precede each evening's presentation of Showboat. They offer a variety of talent starting at 8:00 p.m. each evening. This year's competent committee is chaired by Pat Yule and consists of Martin Horger,

Wine cooler deposit bill is short on signatures

Despite falling short of its goal to gather 300,000 voter signatures to place the wine cooler deposit question on this November's election ballot, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) is urging supporters to continue gathering voter signatures in order to ensure that the proposal will be on the statewide ballot in November, 1988.

"Despite the efforts of MUCC members and tens of thousands of concerned citizens across the state, we are simply unable to meet our own July 7 target date for submitting the signatures of 243,201 registered voters needed to place this important conservation issue on this fall's election ballot," announced Thomas L. Washington, MUCC executive director. "I applaud the efforts of everyone who circulated and signed these petitions, and I strongly encourage them to continue the signature gathering effort to guarantee that the people will be heard on this issue in November, 1988."

"We're disappointed, but not discouraged. We intend to continue this fight because we're absolutely convinced that the people of Michigan support a logical extension of our state's successful 'bottle bill' that will keep containers of wine coolers and pre-mixed alcoholic beverages from trashing our roadsides, parks, and beaches," Washington noted.

Senate Bill 761, sponsored by Sen. Edgar Fredricks (R-Holland), was discharged from the Senate State Affairs, Veterans and Transportation Committee, and then approved by a vote of 32-2 by the full senate. Sen. John Welborn (R-Kalamazoo) and Sen. Harry Gast (R-St. Joseph) cast the only two dissenting votes against the measure.

To be placed on this November's statewide ballot, the legislation must be approved by a majority vote in the Michigan House of Representatives. "Although the senate vote took us by surprise, I'm delighted that the Legislature has begun to move on this issue," Washington added. "It's very apparent that our membership and our supporters sent a strong message to their legislators urging them to address the issue."

"I would like to personally thank Sen. Ed Fredricks for taking a strong leadership role on this issue, and I would like to thank all of the senators who rejected our opponent's futile, last-minute lobbying efforts to thwart the will of Michigan voters."

The MUCC strongly urges all concerned voters to write letters and make phone calls to their local state representative and to House Speaker Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti Twp) requesting a speedy vote on Senate Bill 761, when the legislature returns from its summer recess. As a backup, Michigan's largest environmental organization is also encouraging voters across the state to continue circulating the group's petitions.

Infectious disease bill passes Michigan House

A bill that would require physicians to notify funeral directors when they release a body for burial if the deceased was diagnosed as having AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) or any other infectious disease was approved recently by the state House.

House Bill 5300 also stipulates that a funeral director who has received the notification may not refuse services as a result of the infectious disease report.

The only way individuals and the state can make informed decisions about the AIDS problem is with adequate knowledge. Legislation that improves the transfer of information will help us get a handle on infectious diseases. The bill would also help protect funeral home workers from the risks of such contagious diseases as hepatitis B, tuberculosis and typhoid.

Typically, hospitals do not provide notification of the presence of these diseases and death certificates are not sufficiently informative. Frequently the death certificate arrives too late to the funeral home to serve as a warning to workers. The bill would require the notification arrive before the body. Information contained in the physician's report would be confidential.

The state must respect private concerns, but it also has an obligation to protect the public's health. This legislation would help give a more definite understanding of the AIDS problem. It's a sensible health protection measure for Michigan.

Lake Superior tour officially signed

The Lake Superior Circle Tour, long a popular excursion for motorists, is being officially signed for the first time.

Green and white signs showing an outline of the largest of the five Great Lakes and a belt circling the lake area being placed about every 10 miles along the 1,240-mile route. Each carries the legend "Lake Superior Circle Tour."

The signing project was proposed by Michigan's first lady, Paula Blanchard, and won support from the transportation departments of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ontario as a boon to their tourism industries.

The Michigan Department of Transportation coordinated the design of the signs and fabricated them for the three states and the Canadian province.

The two-by-two-foot signs are being placed along 515 miles of state highways in Michigan, 140 miles in Minnesota, 100 miles in Wisconsin and about 480 miles in Ontario.

In Michigan, the tour route extends from Ironwood on the west to Sault Ste. Marie on the east. Following state highways, it goes from Ironwood to Ontonagon, Houghton/Hancock, Copper Harbor at the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula, L'Anse, Marquette, Munising, Newberry, Paradise and then to the International Bridge at Sault Ste. Marie.

FOLLOW THE GREEN AND WHITE SIGN - Michigan's First Lady, Paula Blanchard and Rep. Pat Gagliardi, D-Drummond Island, chairman of the House Tourism and Recreation Committee, show off one of the new signs that will officially mark the 1,240-mile Lake Superior Circle Tour. Mrs. Blanchard proposed the sign project and won support from Wisconsin and Minnesota and the Province of Ontario.

The first woman to see her son inaugurated for a second term as president of the U.S. was Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Many imitate Macker

By Matt Berry

They can steal from it, copy it and try to stop it, but the one and only will always be an original.

Lowell's Gus Macker 3-on-3 basketball tournament has gained enough national attention in the past two years that it has led to the creation of similar tournaments throughout the country.

Communities from Manistee to Dallas have begged, borrowed and stolen from Macker Mania ever since Sports Illustrated ran an article on Scott McNeal's creation last year.

"It's flattering, but it's also upsetting," McNeal said about the imitations. "I haven't seen or heard of a tournament that equals the hometown feeling of the Macker."

McNeal didn't enjoy the idea of others stealing from his tournament, so he started Gus Macker Enterprises, Inc. to protect the name, logo and rules of the Macker.

According to McNeal one difference between his tournament and others is that the Macker remains relatively commercial-free.

"Spartan Stores, Inc. is sponsoring us this year, but they don't overdo it and get in the way. We keep the commercial aspect to a minimum," McNeal said. "Some of the new tournaments revolve around its sponsor."

Dallas' West End Hoop-D-Do tournament is the second biggest 3-on-3 tourney, second only to the Gus Macker. The first annual running of the Hoop-D-Do took place June 21 and 22, and almost 2,000 pavement pounders participated. Macker officials have said that 4,228 3-on-3 thrivers will invade Lowell this weekend.

According to an article in the Dallas Morning News, Terry Murphy organized the Hoop-D-Do after being "inspired by reports of the Gus Macker Basketball Tournament." McNeal claimed that anyone associated with Macker who was in Dallas for the Hoop-D-Do was "treated like a god."

"There were some guys who play in the Macker every year who went to play in the Hoop-D-Do," McNeal said. "They were put in the top divisions and treated with a great deal of respect. People would say to them 'Wow, you played in the

McNeal's tournament rounded up 2,500 hoop fanatics in 1985 before the Sports Illustrated story came out. The article led to a 90% increase in participation for this year's action, and an even larger jump can be expected for next year.

The Macker tourney will be part of an ABC's Wide World of Sports segment, to be shown August 9, and the New York Times have talked to McNeal about writing a story on the 2 1/2 day tournament.

ABC will be in town for the start of the competition Friday, and the show, a 30 minute segment on summer fun, will be shot throughout Mackerville.

Since the Sports Illustrated story prompted the birth of a host of Macker-A-Likes, the Wide World of Sports segment and New York Times article could create even more imitators. McNeal is foreseeing no threat to the Macker should this happen.

"There's nothing wrong with more basketball," McNeal said. "The Macker will always be big because our main emphasis is for people to have fun."

Sgt. Tate retires

Wendall Tate, Sergeant of the Lowell Reserve Police Department, has retired from the department. Tate was honored at an appreciation supper held at the Showboat Restaurant on May 3rd. Following the supper, Wendall was presented with a gift and a plaque from those who had worked with him as an officer or as a member of the Lowell Area Rescue, which Tate was also responsible for. The plaque recognized that Sgt. Tate gave outstanding, dedicated service to the City of Lowell from January 1, 1970 to April 30, 1986.

"What a good thing Adam had—when he said a good thing, he knew nobody had said it before."

city's building inspector to inspect and approve or disapprove electrical and mechanical building projects within the city. To date the city has relied on state inspectors that are often slow in responding due to the large areas they must cover. City Manager Ray Quada said the new system will go into effect about the first of August.

The Council also approved a request to establish an industrial development district at Michigan Wire Processing's property at the northeast corner of M-21 and Alden Nash. Establishing a development district is the first step in obtaining tax relief under Public Act 198.

Michigan Wire Processing intends to construct a 10,000 sq.

ft. building on the site and equip it to manufacture iron sulfate for the fertilizer industry. The building and equipment is estimated to cost $645,000 and will create approximately 15 new jobs for the community.

Public Act 198 is intended to stimulate industrial growth by offering 50% exemptions on property taxes for specific projects for any period up to 12 years. The Lowell City Council has traditionally granted the full 12 years to such requests in an attempt to create jobs here and expand the city's tax base.

Quada informed the Council that the city has a wealth of trees on the property recently purchased from the Moose Lodge. The city's forestry consultant, Edward Gross, walked a portion of the 19 acre parcel at S. Division and Front St. Gross tagged 45 trees suitable as nursery stock, 27 suitable for street planting and five which could be transplanted to city parks. The trees are burr ash and white oak, and are very hardy in almost any conditions. The trees range in size from 3/4 inch to 5 inches in diameter and have an estimated value of $20,000 if purchased from a nursery and planted here. Gross estimates there may be as many as 200 trees available on the property.

According to Gross's 1984 city-wide survey, the city needs about 550 trees to establish the numbers that lined our streets 20 years ago.

Quada updated the Council on streets that he feels are in need of re-surfacing. They include portions of Gee Drive, Valley Vista Dr., Church St., Grindle Dr., Avery St., Lafayette St. and Hudson St. Quada was told to develop specifications and seek bids on the work.

Quada was appointed to represent the city at the Michigan Municipal League meeting September 18-20 on Mackinac Island.

TENGELSEN RETURNS TO GENERAL PRACTICE

His last three years were spent at the R.A.F. Base in Alconbury, England, where he was Chief of Aerospace Medicine.
