Air Force Band of Flight to perform here in Oct.

Lowell area residents will soon be treated to another free concert, courtesy of the United States Air Force. On Wednesday, October 15 the U.S. Air Force "Band of Flight" wind ensemble will perform in concert at the Lowell High School Gymnasium. Admission is free for the 7:30 p.m. concert, but tickets are required at the door. You may obtain tickets at the Lowell Community Education Office at 12685 Foreman Rd. Tickets will also soon be available at several locations about town. To obtain tickets for distribution at your place of business, call 897-8415.

The United States Air Force Band of Flight Symphonic Wind Ensemble from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Headquarters of the Air Force Logistics Command, near Dayton, Ohio, is noted for its versatility and showmanship as well as its location - the Birthplace of Aviation.

The Band of Flight travels extensively as musical ambassadors of goodwill for the Air Force. It has performed frequently at the request of the White House and, in fact, serves the President and other highly ranked dignitaries during official visits in Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia and Kentucky. The Band of Flight also plays on other occasions in nearby Indiana, Western Pennsylvania, upstate New York, Virginia and Illinois.

The Symphonic Wind Ensemble, possessing a repertoire of wide ranging orchestral selections presents a stirring concert in virtually any setting. As might be expected, the professionally educated men and women that form the band's membership reflect a vast cross section of the nation. Many band members have college degrees and several have performed with nationally known groups.

Performance selections include the finest in concert literature balanced with a variety of traditional military, country and popular stylings. Each performance includes the nostalgic sounds of the Glenn Miller Orchestra and a finale in tribute to the patriotic music of our land.

The Band of Flight enjoys a well-deserved reputation for professionalism and community service. Besides the honor of performing for seven U.S. presidents and numerous foreign chiefs of state, the band often represents the Department of Defense in functions within its service area. Additionally, the Band of Flight has twice received the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award, an honor accorded to less than two percent of all Air Force units annually.

The United States Air Force "Band of Flight," will perform in concert at the Lowell High School Gymnasium on Wednesday, October 15. The Wind Ensemble will perform free of charge.

Crash claims Ada man

Jeffrey Reinke

Tragedy struck early Sunday morning when a 1986 Pontiac Fiero collided with a 22,000 lb. milk truck on M-21 west of Ada. Jeffrey Charles Reinke, 20, of 8990 Bailey Dr., N.E., Ada, was eastbound on M-21 in his Fiero at 6:00 a.m. Kent County Sheriff's Deputy Larry Huizenga, investigated the crash and reported that Reinke drifted across the centerline into the path of the oncoming truck. The accident occurred just west of Crahen.

The truck was driven by James Serne, 48, of 2047 Parnell, Ada. Serne's truck was empty at the time of the crash. He was heading for Grand Rapids after a load of milk. Huizenga said he was traveling in the lane closest to the curb when the accident occurred. Investigators say Serne braked and attempted to avoid the collision.

Officers investigating the crash doubt that alcohol was a factor in the crash. Witnesses speculated that Reinke may have fallen asleep. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Kent County Medical Examiner Ramon Lang. Investigators say Reinke was wearing a seat belt.

Serne was transported to Butterworth Hospital where he was treated for chest and abdominal injuries. He was later released.

Reinke is survived by his parents, Gene C. and Sally

Three injured in W. Main crash

Three people involved in a two car crash on Main St. at the entrance to Valley Vista Trailer Park luckily escaped with minor injuries. The Thursday, September 25, accident took place shortly before noon, and snarled West Main St. traffic for much of the noon hour rush.

Alfred Scott, 31, of Lowell was stopped in the westbound lane waiting to make a left hand turn when a vehicle driven by David Brock, 31, of Grand Rapids, slammed into the rear of Scott's Ford Escort. The impact collapsed the entire rear portion of Scott's car. Scott's wife Linda, 30, was a front seat passenger. All three received minor injuries. Brock was transported to a Grand Rapids hospital where he was treated and released.

Brock was ticketed for a violation of the basic speed law or failure to stop in a safe distance.

This Ford Escort station wagon is barely recognizable after being crushed into while stopped on West Main Street. The three people involved in the crash suffered only minor injuries. The driver of the other vehicle was cited by Lowell Police Officers.

He was wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident.

Fire Safety tips offered by AAA of Michigan

Smoke detectors are the best life-saving protection available in a home fire but each family should develop escape plans and practice them regularly, reports AAA Michigan.

"Planning for a home fire emergency is the best way to avoid tragedy later because once a fire starts, there are less than four minutes to escape," says Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Safety & Traffic manager. Those safety guidelines and more are included in AAA Michigan's new booklet, "Planning for Home Fire Emergencies," available to the public at all AAA Michigan offices. The illustrated booklet includes sections on home fire hazards, smoke detectors, fire extinguishers, Exit Drills in the Home (EDITH) and special planning for children, the elderly and the disabled.

Residential fires claim 6,000 lives a year nationally and nearly 80 percent of all fires stem from carelessness due to smoking; heating elements; cooking and other appliances; matches and open flames.

Cullen explained that most fire deaths are due to smoke and poisonous gas inhalation. Smoke detectors are especially important because 83 percent of fatal residential fires occur between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m. when many people are sleeping.

"No home should be without at least one smoke detector and one fire extinguisher per floor," Cullen said.

Smoke detectors should be installed outside bedroom doors and serviced on a regular basis. If a hallway near bedrooms is longer than 30 feet, it should have smoke detectors at each end.

"The early warning a smoke detector provides can be the difference between life and death," he added.

Multi-purpose fire extinguishers should be kept near the doors of rooms with potential fire sources, such as furnaces or stoves. It also is important that a fire extinguisher be kept in the garage. Never spend more than a few seconds fighting a beginning fire.

"Once the smoke detector activates, it is important to know what to do so pre-planning is essential," Cullen explained. "All families should develop a fire escape plan and practice escape drills every six months."

He advised making a home floor plan with two escape routes from each room, primarily the door and a window. Stairways, porches and the porch roof should be included, and it is vital to make sure all windows will open.

If a window is high above the ground, a special fire escape ladder may be needed. A family should have a pre-determined safe meeting place outside the house. The fire department's phone number should be memorized and the call made from a neighbor's house. No one should go back into a burning house.

"Special escape plans are necessary for families with small children, elderly or disabled members," Cullen said.

AAA Michigan suggests that infants and children sleep in a bedroom next to their parents or older youngsters. Children should be taught to call the fire department and how to stop, drop and roll and cover their face with their hands if clothing catches fire. They never should hide in a burning house, but escape quickly.

Elderly persons should sleep on the ground floor, if possible, with a smoke detector and telephone in their room. An escape plan should be developed and practiced.

A visual signal system can aid persons unable to hear the alarm and a whistle or shout helps if a visually impaired person gets lost during an evacuation. A specially designed escape plan may be necessary for the physically handicapped and the mentally impaired must sleep near someone who can help in case of fire.

"Remaining calm and cool are keys to a safe escape," Cullen said.

If trapped in a room, stay close to a safe escape," Cullen said. Feel the door and if there is heat and smoke, do not open it. Seal off cracks around the doors and vents with cloth or rugs, soaked in water, if possible.

Before opening the door, face away, brace and open it slowly. To signal for help through an outside window, use a sheet or other light-colored article, but make sure the door behind you is closed before opening the window.

Fall colors will soon peak

As the weather turns crisp and leaves become drenched with color, fall travelers can board a car, motorcoach, plane or ship to savor a day or week-long autumn getaway, reports AAA Michigan.

"From a one-day tour to Frankenmuth to a three-day visit on Mackinac Island, Michigan has a wealth of great destinations from which to view the state's spectacular fall color show," stated Peter R. Erickson, AAA Michigan Travel Services director.

Those who prefer a longer voyage can try their luck at the casino tables and enjoy Broadway-style shows in Las Vegas, explore South America's majestic beauty and culture or wiggle their toes in the white sands of a Caribbean island during an island-hopping cruise.

While Michigan sports a myriad of areas known for fall color beauty, among the popular favorites are Mackinac Island and the route taken by travelers headed up the Agawa Canyon by train.

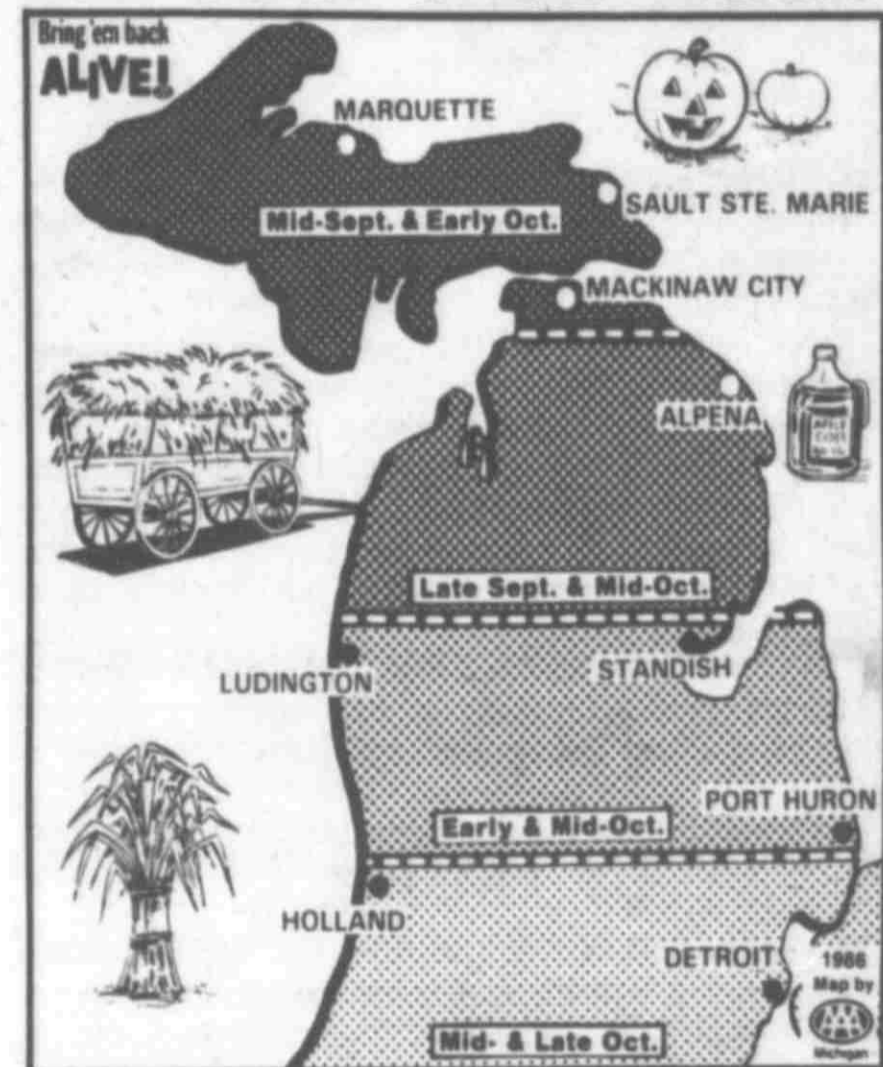

"Mackinac Island's charm and history draw many autumn visitors who prefer cooler temperatures and smaller crowds," Erickson noted. Three-day bus trips depart from Dearborn September 28 and October 5, with the ferry ride to the island, two nights at the historic Island House Hotel, an island carriage tour, two dinners and two breakfasts included. Prices start at $190 per person.

A breath-taking trek aboard the Algoma Central Railway, a Soo Lock boat tour, two nights at the Water Tower Inn in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, some meals and the round-trip motor coach ride from Dearborn await those who book the Agawa Canyon Tour departing September 22 and October 1 and 10. Prices start from $202 per person.

"The bus travels on I-75 along some of the most scenic areas in Michigan's Lower Peninsula," Erickson added. "And the railway ride 114 miles into the Agawa Canyon allows time for passengers to relax, take pictures and enjoy the scenery."

Those with a little less time can motor coach from Dearborn to Frankenmuth, with departures September 9 and November 18.

Terese and I recently got a chance to buy some cheap airplane tickets to Chicago. We took advantage of the offer, and planned a weekend in the "Windy City." Terese works for Attwood Corporation, and they were participating in a large boat show at the McCormick Building. We planned to take in the show, hit a couple of nice restaurants and do some sightseeing. We were really looking forward to it, especially since it was a chance for the two of us to get away by ourselves.

Our flight was scheduled to leave at 12:07 last Friday afternoon. At 12:30 we were still on the ground, and the pilot told us we were taking on extra fuel. It seems there were several thunderstorms over O'Hare, and the pilot anticipated delays. Not very comforting for infrequent flyers like Terese and me. Unfortunately, it turned out that the pilot knew what he was talking about.

I was told that the terminal to terminal flight from Grand Rapids to Chicago normally takes about 40 minutes. Two hours after we took off, we were still circling Milwaukee, waiting for the thunderstorms to clear out of Chicago. The pilot told us we were number 16 in the holding pattern, but were getting low on fuel. He said we might have to give up our place in line, and fly to Rockford, Illinois for more fuel if we didn't get clearance soon. A large groan came up from the passengers.

We had been jostled about pretty good. Terese was getting air sick. I was wearing a short-sleeve shirt, and was cold. The stewardess just missed dumping a tray of coffee on me. There were no cocktails; and, we were all very ready to get down on the ground.

Finally, the pilot came on the intercom again. We were all waiting for the announcement that we were headed for Rockford. To our surprise, we were told that we had clearance, and would be on the ground in about ten minutes. A loud hosanna came up from the passengers. Two and one half hours after leaving Grand Rapids, we pulled up to our terminal in O'Hare.

We collected our bags, and sought transportation downtown. A bus was $9.00 and we were told normal cab fare was $18.00 to $20.00. Since we would probably need a cab from the bus station to the hotel anyway, we decided to bite the bullet, and get a cab. The thunderstorms had caused minor floods at many of the exits, so traffic on the Dan Ryan was bumper to bumper and crawling. An hour later we were at our hotel. The cab fare was $41.60! The cabbie and I settled for $40.00, including the tip. Some quick figuring told me that I could have driven to Chicago in less time than it had taken me to fly.

Once in our room, I was ready for a little nip from the built-in bar. When I went to unlock the refrigerator, I discovered there was already a key in the door. An inventory of the stock revealed that it had been pretty well tapped. A few empties in the wastebasket confirmed my fears. So, instead of kicking back with a cocktail, I had to hassle with the hotel over my bar inventory. I didn't need a $200.00 bar bill on top of a $40.00 cab fare.

By this time I was really having second thoughts about the whole weekend. But, that turned out to be the end of our hassles, and the rest of the weekend was wonderful. As it turned out, I'm glad we had all our problems up front, but for awhile I thought I was going to have enough material for a book, rather than just a column.

ANGINA

Angina pectoris is the medical term used to describe pain that is located in the chest secondary to reduced blood flow in the coronary arteries. Today we'll discuss the causes and treatment of this common problem.

The coronary arteries supply blood to the heart muscle. Anything that causes reduced blood flow in the coronary arteries may lead to angina. As we grow older the arteries can become lined with fatty material which narrows the lumen. Angina will occur during exertion, when the heart needs more oxygen which the coronary arteries are not able to supply. Cold weather, emotional stress and even digestion of a large meal can all trigger angina.

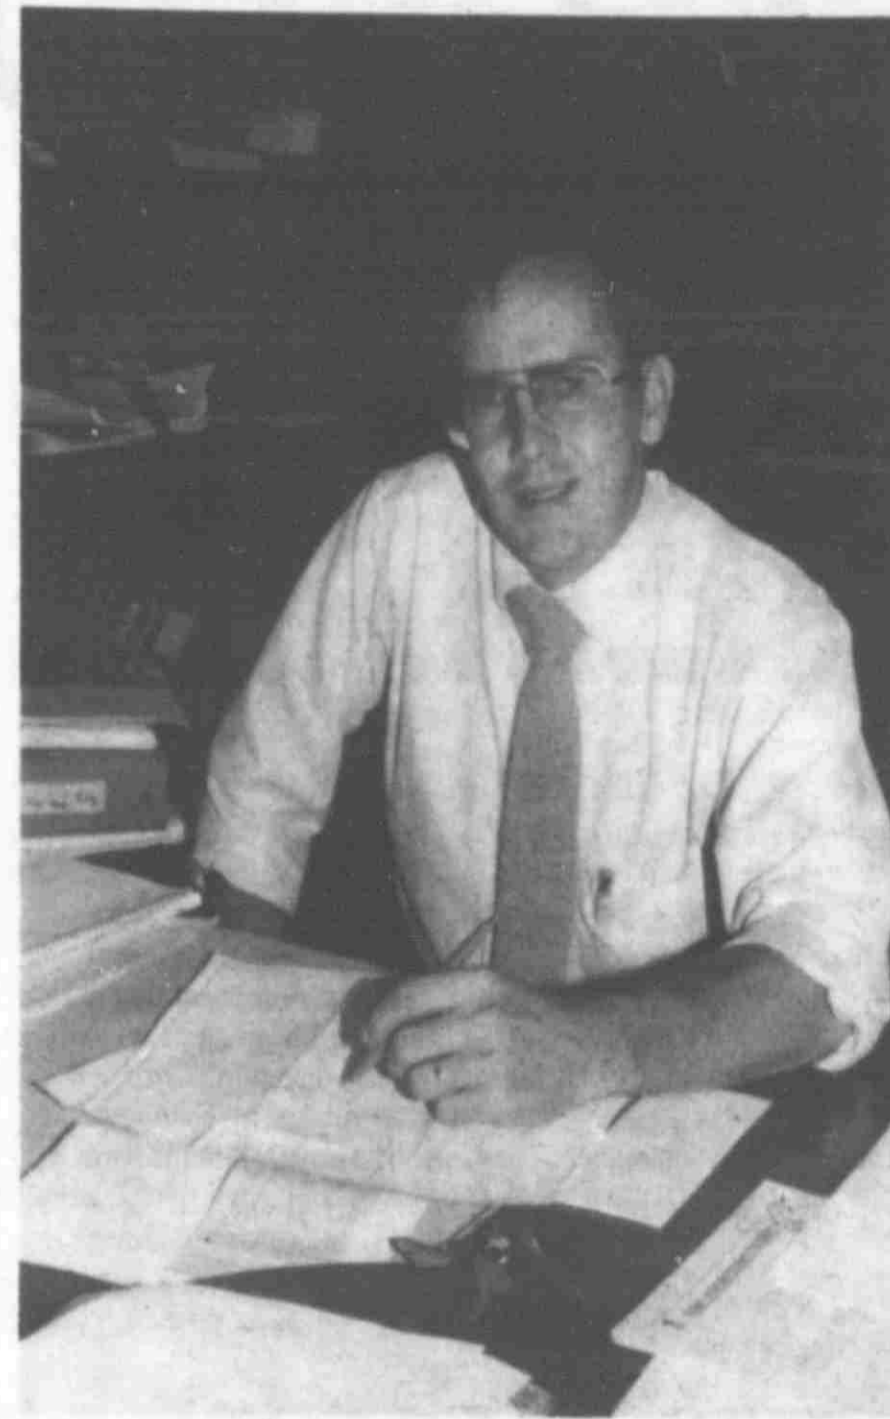

Angina is usually described as a pain or tightness in the chest which can radiate to the arms, neck and jaw. It is classically brought on by exertion and relieved by rest. Patients will often describe the sensation as if someone is sitting on their chest. Angina can be associated with profuse sweating, shortness of breath and palpitations. Angina can be confused with other causes of chest pain such as indigestion, stress, infections and disorders of the chest wall. Frequently, tests will be performed to determine the exact cause of the chest pain. Your doctor may perform an EKG (electrocardiogram - a tracing of the electrical activity of the heart) and will often recommend a stress EKG.

The stress EKG is a more valuable tool to diagnose angina because it is performed during exercise. During exercise the heart works harder and requires an increased blood flow. If the coronary arteries aren't able to deliver enough blood, changes will show up in the stress EKG. Occasionally, a coronary angiogram will be indicated. This x-ray procedure is done in a special lab at the hospital. A catheter is placed in one of the large blood vessels of the leg or arm, then passed up to the opening of the coronary arteries. Dye is injected and multiple pictures are taken. This procedure gives us a direct picture of any narrowing of the coronary arteries.

Once angina has been diagnosed, a decision is made to treat with medication or surgery. Medication such as nitroglycerin work to allow more blood to reach the heart muscle. Another class of medications, called Beta-blockers, actually decrease the work load of the heart, therefore reducing the demand for oxygen. If the angiogram reveals critical narrowing of the main coronary artery or several coronary arteries surgery may be recommended. The type of surgery usually performed is the classic "bypass" surgery when a vein is taken from the leg and grafted to the coronary artery to bypass the obstruction.

No one treatment plan is right for different patients with angina. Your doctor will determine which treatment program fits your needs.

Fire Department urges Fire Safety awareness

If a fire would occur in your home do you have a family escape plan to get out safely? Thousands of people die each year from fires in the home. And while fire drills are a common practice in the school system, they are often forgotten around the home where more than 80 percent of all fires occur.

McDonald's Restaurant and the Lowell Area Fire Department would like to invite you to participate in the McDonald's "Plan to get out alive" fire drill program. It will be on Wednesday, October 8 at 8:00 p.m. There will be more details to come on Channel 3 and 10 leading up to the eighth of October. The Fire Department will be handing out pamphlets to all of the area elementary schools that will be helpful in planning your home fire drills for the eighth of October. We encourage all of you to plan the fire escape plan and practice a few times throughout the year.

Fallasburg Festival is again a success

Despite constant predictions of rainfall, the 18th Annual Fallasburg Fall Festival was a success under two days of rainless skies.

While crowds weren't as plentiful as in previous years when no stormy weather threatened, it is estimated that 15,000 visitors came to the annual outdoor art festival.

While art and food seem to be the main attractions, a pleasant addition to the atmosphere is the entertainment provided by area musicians who perform for the love of music, donating their time and talent to the cause of the Lowell Area Arts Council.

The following acts were heard: The Choice Ingredients, Sweet Adelines Quartet-Marge

Lancaster, Pat Namey, Alverne Lieffers, and Marian Meehleder; Plain Folk-Dr. Fred Parent; Beats Sett'n Home-Al Exod, Jim Foerch, and Steve Nelson; Ranger-Joe, Jim and Dan Hooker, Mark Smith, Don Alexander, and Don Fegel; Evie and Friends-Evie Marron; Contemporary Folk-Greg and Kathy Proulx; Cornsilk-Thelma Matthews and Kim VanDusen; Hosanna-Gordon and Evie Proulx, and Gerald and Mary Rinks; and the Bozart Ensemble-Gary Eberle, Tom Good, and Bert Bach.

The highlight of the festival seems to be the annual quilt raffle. The main item to be raffled is the Fallasburg Quilt, designed each year around a Covered Bridge motif. Dolores Dey designed the 1986 quilt and it was won by Brian and Cheryl Doyle. Other prizes were a decorative vase made by Philip Wilson of "Lots O' Pots Pottery" in Grand Rapids and won by Gary Kemp of Lowell; 4 hand painted wool placemats from "Visions" in Grand Rapids, made and designed by Vee Matusko and won by Marie Ludwick of Grand Rapids; a reproduction of "Golden Lion" a lithograph by Dennis Curry of California, won by Violet Gill of Lowell; a sculptured basket made by Alice Gresham-Snyder of Hopkins and won by David Davis of Lowell; an American primitive painting done by Donna Kelly from Benton Harbor and won by Joyce Barber of Greenville; a fine gray leather purse designed and made by David and Linda Mastervich of David's Leather in Climax, won by Karen Lambert of Lowell; a box created from carefully selected driftwood by Richard Foley from the San Juan Islands of Puget Sound donated to the raffle and won by Doug Didion of Grand Rapids; and a stained glass kaleidoscope created and donated by Ann Havens of Grand Rapids and won by Linda Mier of Greenville.

All winners will be contacted and can pick their items up at the Lowell Area Arts Council Center.

Winners of the food booth contest for booth decorations, costume, and menu display were: first place, Lowell Women's Club; second place, Lowell Nature Pantry; and third place, the First Congregational Church of Lowell.
