Along Main Street | Four re-districting plans offered

The Lowell School District is faced with a serious problem in the three elementary schools. Bushnell Elementary is drastically overcrowded, while Alto Elementary, some eight miles to the south, has many empty classrooms. An attempt by the administration to bus Bushnell students to Alto was met with an uproar from the parents of affected students. The pressure exerted by the parents forced the administration to stay with the status quo through the 1986-87 school year, but Superintendent Fritz Esch insists that something must be done before next year.

The School Board established a committee early in 1986 to review the situation, and make recommendations. The 22 member committee was chaired by David Burdette, Principal at the Lowell Middle School. The group was comprised of principals, teachers, parents, an LEA representative and the district's transportation director. The school board charged the committee to review and comment on current school attendance areas as they affect classroom space in each building. The committee also was told to look into school organization as it relates to efficient use of available classroom space within the district. Finally, the committee was asked to review and comment on projected population trends and the impact that growth will have on classroom space and staffing needs within the next ten years.

The problems placed before the committee were immediate as well as long range because projected enrollment figures indicate the situation will definitely worsen over the next five

The committee's findings over the past months were first narrowed to ten possible alternatives. These ten were then further narrowed down to three recommendations for submission to the board. A fourth proposal was added at the eleventh hour when one of the previously eliminated alternatives was found to have additional merit. The final report was submitted to the School Board at their regular monthly meeting on Monday, January 12.

Proposal one calls for sending approximately 180 K-5 grade students from the Valley Vista area to Alto. Officials say all four proposals will work, but each has certain disadvantages. In the case of proposal one, transportation is the key problem. Many students will have to be bussed about eight miles when they can see an elementary school from their homes.

Proposal two would divide the district in half from north to south at M-21. This plan would place all north K-3 students at Bushnell, all south K-3 students at Alto and all 4-5 students at Runciman. This plan still does not shuttle enough students into the Alto school, however, projections show that buildings and rooms will not be overcrowded. The plan also poses some trans-commendation is to put the 4-5 students on the same schedule as the Middle School and High School. There are many advantages to this plan. Classrooms can be balanced easily, materials can be shared, teachers will be able to plan together and boundaries should be stable for about

Proposal three would send all K-1 students to Alto, all 2-3 students to Bushnell and all 4-5 students to Runciman. The biggest advantage to this plan is transportation, particularly K-1. K-1 would have to be the group sent to Alto because the 2-3 and 4-5 groups are too large for that building. Disadvantages include a loss of parent and student identity with a building as the student moves every two years and the problem of parents having children in two or even three elementary schools at once. Advantages again include balanced classes, best use of materials and better teacher planning. In all buildings there is room for expansion and available space for special education programs.

Proposal four would require all Eastgate students plus students south of the Grand River to attend Alto. All students in Valley Vista Village, Key Heights, Bowes Road north to M-21 and both sides of M-21 east and west of the city limits would

The Lowell Board of Education got a bit of bad news at their Monday, January 12 meeting. The administration had hoped to make several energy efficient repairs and improvements to the bus garage and high school this year, but the money available won't go as far as planned. The work was to be paid for with money generated by a special seven year, 1.4 mill assessment passed in 1985. The middle school roof was replaced last year with this millage.

firm thought that improvements could be made to the bus garage's roof, heating plant, windows and doors. Also, many energy efficient improvements were to be made to the high school such as enclosing the breezeway on the west side of the building, reworking all entrances, changing the lights in the gymnasium and replacing some bleachers. When the engineer's projected costs were reviewed, the gymnasium improvements were scrapped to stay within the $300,000 budget available from the special milprovement gone, the lowest of four bids came in at $136,000 over the $260,000 cost projected by the engineers. Esch said the Board will attempt to determine why the engineers were so far off with their estimates, and then decide what is to be done. Esch says he is opposed to borrowing the necessary money to complete the project, and said that the Board may choose only to do the $80,000 work on the bus garage this year. "We may have to bank the remainder and hold off on the high school work until the following year," Esch said.

DIARRHEA IN CHILDREN

Young children, particularly those under one year of age, may be very sensitive to diarrhea. Why? Because diarrhea represents the loss of water and other vital fluids from the body. While adults may "weather" the storm of diarrhea with relatively little risk children and infants can ill afford even small amounts of fluid loss.

Vomiting and diarrhea both cause loss of body fluid. Diarrhea is normally classified as several loose or runny bowel movements over several hours. If the diarrhea is accompanied by fever, even greater fluid loss is possible. If enough fluid loss occurs, the child can become dehydrated. In extreme cases of water loss, such problems as seizures and heart disorders can ensue. A typically dehydrated child will not tear well when crying, will have low urine output and will have a dry mouth.

If your child experiences persistent vomiting or diarrhea you should consult your doctor. His or her advice to you will probably include placing the child on a clear liquid diet for 24 hours after the onset of vomiting or diarrhea. Flat or defizzed 7-Up or ginger ale is usually well tolerated. Chicken broth is another alternative After these 24 hours, if the child is feeling better, he can eat rice bananas, applesauce and other soft foods. During the illness and for about a week afterward, it is advisable for your child to avoid milk or milk products, such as cheese, cottage cheese, yogurt, ice cream, etc. Dairy products tend to make diarrhea worse and may delay recovery.

When a child has lost a lot of body fluids it is also advisable to use some of the commercially available re-hydrating solutions. (Pedialyte a etc.). These solutions bring the body fluid level to normal more efficiently than ordinary liquids. If your child shows no sign of improvement after 24 hours of any "home" remedy. we strongly recommend that you call your doctor. It is vitally important to prevent dehydration in any young child.

Nagy wins 100th match

By Denny Blough

The Red Arrows split last week winning one game and losing the other one.

The win came as the Arrows traveled to Sparta to come up with a very exciting overtime win. The game was tied at 28 all at half-time and 52 apiece at the end of the fourth quarter to go into overtime. The Arrows outscored the Spartans 12-4 in overtime to defeat them 64-56.

Friday, January 9, the Arrows traveled to Wyoming Rogers to take on the Golden Hawks and came up with a crushing defeat in a game that the Arrows led through three quarters, but were outscored in the fourth 19-7 as the Golden Hawks took the win 55-46.

Lonnie Swanson led all scorers against Sparta with 20 points as Ken Nelson netted 16 and Jeff Phillips 14.

Jeff Phillips led scoring against Rogers with 20. Lowell's freshmen and J.V. also lost tough games against Rogers.
