A BIG AGGREGATION OF ACCIDENTS.

Marriage of Charles H. Westbrook in California.

THE DEATH OF SETH T. ROBINSON.

The Woman's Building at the Soldier's Home.

A. W. BURNETT'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Lowell's Staff of School Teachers for '93-'94.

PEOPLE, PLACES, MATTERS AND THINGS.

ACCIDENTS GALORE.

N. B. Blain's horse ran away last Friday evening and smashed that gentleman's buggy.

George Giles had a similar experience on Sunday, himself and buggy being somewhat injured.

On Monday evening H. Nash's team, driven by Delos VanDeusen, with John Karcher as passenger, became frightened by the dropping of one side of the pole, threw out the men, and then ran down East Bridge street, colliding with another buggy, and were finally stopped by Mr.
Ennis. Mr. VanDeusen has a broken arm, which Dr. McDannell set to rights for him, and there are two smashed up buggies.

On Sunday, also, while a party were returning from Cascade Springs, one of the teams became frightened, ran against a stump, broke loose from the carriage, jerking the driver, V. S.
Ward out upon the ground, and injuring his shoulder quite severely.

Harry Courtright, who lives west of the village, while handling a bunch of shingles last Friday afternoon, fell and broke two ribs and bruised himself up generally.

On Thursday, one of a team of horses, belonging to Mr. Mills, of Cannon township, which had been left standing near the woolen mill, on Flat river, backed or rolled into the river and was choked by the rope or strangled in a foot depth of water, and was dead when found. It was a valuable animal. The gentleman purchased another horse before leaving town.

MATRIMONIAL.

At the residence of Mrs. M. Williams, on Hazel street, between Seventh and Eighth, occurred last evening one of those social events which add to the joys of life and exemplify the old but even new story of love. The contracting parties were Chas. H. Westbrook, of Lowell, Michigan, and Miss Winnie Belle Williams, one of our local belles, and a young lady of refinement and culture.

The groom is a young business man of Lowell, Michigan, at present, but was formerly located in Chico, where he has many friends. The bride is known to many of our readers and has a large circle of friends in Chico.
The ceremony took place at 9 o'clock last evening and was performed by the Rev. J. George Gibson.

Miss Cora Kemper played the wedding march, to the music of which the bridal party entered the parlor and took position. T. A. Murphy, of Lowell, Michigan, acted as best man and Miss Alice Williams as bridesmaid. Arthur Westfall, of Michigan, also accompanied Mr. Westbrook to California and attended his wedding.
The wedding gifts were numerous, varied, useful and beautiful. Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook will remain in Chico until Saturday, when they will depart for their future home in Lowell, Michigan, stopping enroute to visit the World's Fair.

One noticeable feature of last evening's wedding was that four generations sat down to the marriage supper, including the bride, her mother, grandmother and great grandmother, the last named, Grandma Bruce, being 93 years of age.

There were a great many present at the wedding, nearly all of them being relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook will have the best wishes of all their friends in this vicinity for a safe journey to their distant home and a prosperous and happy wedded life.—[Chico (Cal.) Chronicle-Record, July 27, '93.

WOMAN'S BUILDING.

The Soldier's Home Board has decided definitely to build a dormitory for the woman's annex, and adopted the plans presented by George W.
Fairfield. The building will have a frontage of ninety-three feet, facing the fountain in the square in front of the main building. It will have a depth of 135 feet, running south into the grove. The building will be built of red pressed brick, two stories high, and in a general way will maintain the general appearance of the other buildings. It will have thirty-two rooms, toilet rooms and closets. There will be no dining room, the women taking their meals in the main building. A pleasant feature of the new structure will be about 140 feet of verandas. The board will advertise at once for bids for construction, and work will be pushed. It is hoped to get the building ready for occupancy by January 1.

AGREEABLY SURPRISED.

A. W. Burnett reached his thirty-second mile-stone last Tuesday. On the previous evening about forty relatives and friends gathered at his home to help him celebrate the event.
The lawn was lighted, and a number of croquet sets being provided, the evening was pleasantly spent with grass billiards and social pastime.
At 11 o'clock refreshments were served, after which B. C. Smith, in behalf of the company, presented the host with a beautiful upholstered chair and a dressing gown. It was an occasion long to be remembered.

OUR TEACHERS.

The staff of teachers for the coming year has been selected: Superintendent, Ray G. MacDonald; preceptress, Miss Edwina Shaw; first grammar, Miss Ethelyn McDannell; second grammar, Miss Cora Lee; intermediate, Miss Maggie Tate; second primary, Miss Stella Ranney; first primary, Miss Nellie Batt. West ward: Principal, Kate Perry; primary, Jennie Graham. South ward: Miss Mattie Thompson.

"MAMMOTH FAILURE."

The people who advertised "a mammoth failure" in the boot and shoe business, and set up shop in Lowell, found competition close enough for them, and after a brief and fitful existence, boxed their cheap goods and left for greener pastures. Lowell is well supplied with legitimate business houses and has no use for fakes.

DIED.

Mrs. Charles Gibson, of Campbell township, died on Wednesday, August 9, of typhoid fever.
Lowell fair Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6.

DEATH OF SETH T. ROBINSON.

Seth T. Robinson, who came to Ottawa county in 1835, and to this township two years later, is dead at the age of 64 years. Death occurred Wednesday morning, and funeral services were held yesterday afternoon under Masonic auspices. A more extended notice will be given next week.

ANOTHER DISORDERLY.

Frank Sayles had a hearing before Justice Hicks, Monday morning, and pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct. He paid a fine of $10 with $3 costs. It is hoped that the lesson will be heeded.

FOUND DEAD.

Henry Levere, who lived two miles from Ovid, was found dead by the roadside near his house Sunday night.
There was a bullet hole in his back, and he held a revolver in one hand and an axe in the other. Justice Taylor summoned a jury, and the testimony was such that John Lape was put under arrest charged with the crime.

LOWELL, MICH.

The employees of the Oriel Cabinet company at Grand Rapids very sensibly accepted a reduction of 20 per cent. in wages rather than quit work entirely. These are poor times for strikers.

A GLEAM of light is seen behind the dark financial cloud. It shines from Pittsburg, where the iron mills will resume work immediately, and there is much rejoicing among the 20,000 idle men of that city, all of whom will be employed within a week.

The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst has started another campaign against vice in New York. What ever may be said of his methods, it cannot be denied that Parkhurst is a man of courage and energy. It is much easier to fight with the tide than to pull against it.

If General Grant's tomb was to be erected in China there would be some chance for its completion. The Chinese have coins of as small a value as the twentieth part of a cent. The trouble is that in this country we have no coins small enough to justify the millions in contributing.—[Texas Sittings.]

WORD comes from New York that the most conservative bankers in that city, and elsewhere, throughout the country, believe that the stringency in financial circles must end in a very few days, and that the people who have withdrawn their money from circulation will soon see their mistake.

Tax Island Lake encampment has already been disgraced by a bloody row which may yet terminate in the death of Charles Gardner, of company G, second regiment, Iowa. At half past ten, Thursday night, Gardner and several companions, all intoxicated, attempted to pull a farmer from his wagon. The latter objected very forcibly with the butt of his whip, and Gardner has a fractured skull. Moral—don't get drunk.

Ohio democrats in the platform adopted for their fall campaign, of which Lawrence T. Neal is to run for governor, speak of our brave president as follows:

"The country has abiding faith in the integrity, patriotism and exalted courage of President Cleveland. True to the people and watchful of their interests he will enforce honest and economical methods in conduct of public affairs and secure to every section of the country the blessing of good government."

"It is a poor rule that don't work both ways," as ex-Congressman Belknap now sees to his sorrow. When congress was safely republican, he went in "shored and tongs" to unseat democrats who had been fairly elected, little thinking that he so soon would see how it is for himself. With out knowing much of the merits of the case, the LEADER thinks that Mr. Belknap cannot complain of congress for seating Mr. Richardson, unless he acknowledges his own partisan means, in which case he deserves no sympathy. "As ye sow, so shall ye reap."

Our own and only Puck has made a horrible mistake, which only leads additional force to the statement that the best people sometimes go astray. In a recent issue, Puck has a cartoon on the Judge Long pension matter, which is altogether and inexorably wrong. In Michigan, where Judge Long's personal character is known of all men to be above reproach, such an attack will surely recoil upon the paper and the cause it represents. In the effort to make the pension roll a roll of honor, there is no demand for personal abuse of any honorable that we are patriotic as well as he. Some of the republican editors are equally explicit. "The president," says the Philadelphia Press, "has spoken wisely and strongly. It is now for Congress to act. He justly says the question rises above the plane of party politics, and it is for Congress without distinction of party to meet it in that broad spirit."

But they would be compelled to pay their labor higher wages than at present for the reason that the demand for laborers to improve the many vacant lots in the cities and the wild uncultivated land in the farming districts, would increase to such an extent that not only would all of the large army of unemployed be given work, but there would not be enough laborers to supply the demand, consequently wages would rise. This may seem ridiculous, but consider for a moment the wide influence this single process of taxing land to its full rental value would have. All must admit that the effect of it would be to cause those holding same to make improvements. What a demand this would make first for laborers; second for building materials and farm implements. And producing these building materials and farm implements would cause an increased demand from the forests and mines, there would be an increased demand for means of transportation, and in supplying this demand there would be an increased demand for the products of forests and mines again, and so on, completely around the circle of business in its many branches, benefiting all the people of the country. In each of the steps noted above there would be an increase in the demand for laborers, and in fact the demand would be so increased that wages could not help but rise. There are other points which should not be overlooked, which should act as a great stimulus to inventions. No man need be poor, consequently no poor houses. No man would have time to kill on his hands, consequently no jails, no need of a jail, or police system. No man would need go into a business which his conscience forbids. Consequently no gambling, no saloons, no brothels. No need of living in a fifteen story tenement house. In fact the adoption of this system would be placing the means of a livelihood within the reach of all, would improve the morals of all, as has been shown, and further, would do more towards filling our churches with earnest "every-day-in-the-year" Christians than any means ever originated. What satisfaction is it to a poor man to be advised by the preacher to be satisfied with his lot, that it is the Creator's will that he should be in his half-floated, under-fed condition, and that it is the will of the Creator that his neighbor should enjoy all of the luxuries without raising his hand. Single taxes, including myself, believe that the earth was made to supply the wants of all men, not the majority at the expense of the minority, and that the condition of the poorer classes is due to man's unwise laws, not to the will of the Creator, and consequently it seems like the very best for a preacher, or any one else, to attempt to explain the unequal conditions on the ground that they are the will of the Creator.

OVERMAN WHEEL CO. BOSTON, WASHINGTON, DENVER, SAN FRANCISCO.

O. W. Gillette, after a three weeks visit with his sister, Mrs. Campbell, left Saturday to visit his mother in Grand Rapids county.

Getting it Done. "It's strange I can't get my wife to mend my clothes," remarked Mr. Bridgely disconsolately. "I asked her to sew the buttons on this vest this morning, and she has never touched it."

"You asked her?" observed Mr. Norris, with a slight shrug of his shoulders. "Yes. What else should I do?"

"You haven't been married very long, and perhaps you'll take a pointer from me," remarked Mr. Norris, with a fatherly air. "Never ask a woman to mend anything. That's fatal."

"Why, what do you mean?" "Do as I do. When I want to have a shirt mended, for instance, I take it in my hand and hunt up my wife. 'Where's that ragbag, Mrs. Norris?' I demand fiercely. 'What do you want the ragbag for?' she says suspiciously."

"I want to throw this shirt away. It's all worn out," I reply. "Let me see it," she demands. "But I put the garment behind my back."

"No, my dear," I answer. "There is no use of your attempting to do anything with it. It is ruined."

"That's me see it," she reiterates. "But it's worn out, I tell you." "Now, John, you give me that shirt she says in her most peremptory tones. 'I hand over the garment. 'Why, John Norris! she cries, with womanly triumph. 'This is a perfectly good shirt. All it needs is a new neck band.' 'And the cuffs are ragged, too,' I answer mildly."

"And new wristbands, and the button-holes worked over," she adds. "Well, never mind what it needs I don't intend you shall bother with it. You'll waste your time. You'll never get it to fit in the neck anyway," I throw in as a final clincher.

"That's just like your extravagance," she cries. "I'm going to fix that shirt. Good friend! I'll fix it so you can never tell the difference." And she does. "That's the way I get my clothes mended," concluded Mr. Norris. "Just tell a woman she can't do anything and then stand aside and see how quickly it is done."—[Brooklyn Life.]
