SENT TO IONIA.

Fred Crampton, the Ada Sparrow Order Forger Sentenced.

MASONIC INSTALLATIONS AND SPORT.

Two More Couples United in Cupid's Bonds.

DEATH OF CONVERSE CLOSE, GRATAN.

Mrs. Mary A. Hodges Gone to Her Last Rest.

A YEAR AT IONIA.

About half the population of Ada seemed to have assembled in Judge Grove's court room Tuesday afternoon to hear Fred Crampton, the young sparrow order forger plead guilty and learn what sentence the judge would impose. Young Crampton, with his wife, came in a moment late and had to walk across the court room with the gaze of every one riveted upon him. He did not seem to notice that but his red and swollen eyes and distressed air indicated that he appreciated the seriousness of his predicament and had been crying recently. His pretty young wife sat just inside the railing and kept admirable control of her features until the judge began to talk to the prisoner, when she buried her face in her hands and wept bitterly. Seven lady relatives of the prisoner were present and none of them had dry eyes when the judge finished. Prosecuting Attorney Wolcott read the information, when the judge asked:

"What do you say, young man, do plead guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," replied Crampton in a very low tone.

The Judge asked him if he had seen an attorney, or if he had been influenced by any one by threats or promises to plead as he had, and was answered in the negative in both cases. He then asked: "Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you," to which Crampton replied that he had not, but by the invitation of the Judge he went on to tell the story of his crime. He said that U. D. McNaughton, the former clerk of Ada township first got him into the scrape. McNaughton met him on the train going home from Grand Rapids one night, and said to him: "I've got a scheme that we can make some money by. You bring me 10 or 15 sparrows, and I'll make out an order for 100 or 150, and we'll divide the money." They went into it, beginning with small orders and gradually working up to larger ones, including one for $25 which they had got cashed after McNaughton had been defeated for reelection.

Prosecuting attorney Wolcott said he had investigated the whole affair thoroughly and in view of all the circumstances recommended the prisoner to the mercy of the court. Judge questioned him considerably and then addressed him in substance as follows:

"It now becomes my duty to pass sentence upon you. It is not a pleasant duty. One of the most painful acts I have to perform is to pass sentence upon a young man whose previous character has been good. It seems like blighting the young man's career just at its beginning. Yet, I think, that inasmuch the law requires it, if the sentence be made in conformity with the circumstances, and with a view to the reformation of the accused, it ought to be accepted by him not as a stigma, but as a wholesome remedy given him for his good. I do not believe in severe penalties in cases of this kind. I shall give you the lightest sentence I possibly can give under the law and in accordance with my duties. I hope you will accept it in the spirit in which it is given. It is the sentence of the court that you be confined in the state house of correction at Ionia for one year from and after this date—good behavior will will enable you to lessen the time by about a month, I think."

Judge Grove delivered the sentence in such a kind, fatherly way that before he had finished many of the young man's friends were seen to rub their handkerchiefs across their eyes, and Crampton was visibly affected.

The prisoner was remanded to jail and will be taken to Ionia at once.

MASONIC INSTALLATIONS.

Lowell Lodge, No. 90 F. & A. M., and Hooker Chapter No. 73 R. A. M. held their their installation of officers at Masonic hall last Wednesday evening.

The ceremonies were nearly completed when Brother Junior Deacon Ryder announced that there was a large number of visitors outside who were vouched for by the "tailor." Worshipful Master Winegar ordered that they be admitted; whereupon the door was opened and the lodge was surprised to see pouring in, a constellation of "Stars" from Cyclopaen Chapter No. 94 O. E. S., supplied with those things that go to satisfy the inner man. The lodge surrendered gracefully, and never was "work" entered into with more zeal, or better done, than on that occasion. After all had feasted on the elegant dainties set forth brother S. P. Hicks was called on and made a few appropriate remarks, expressing the high appreciation of the Lodge and Chapter for this token of remembrance by the ladies of Cyclopaen Chapter.

The evening will long be remembered as one of great enjoyment by all who were fortunate enough to be present.

VOORHEIS-GARDNER

Harrison S. Voorheis of Chicago was married last Wednesday evening to Elizabeth E. Gardner, at the residence of the bride's parents, Wm. B. Gardner and wife, on Hudson street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jas. Provan in the presence of a very large company of invited guests. The presents were many, beautiful and useful.

ANOTHER COUPLE MADE HAPPY.

Thursday evening, December 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Van Dusen, their daughter, Lydia, was married to Edwin M. Potter. About one hundred and twenty invited guests were assembled, and at eight o'clock the wedding march was played by Miss Florence Joseph and the bridal party, consisting of the bride and groom, and Frank Daniels and Ina Findlay as groomsmen and bridesmaid, led by Pastor Shanks, entered the brilliantly lighted and decorated parlors, halting under the festooned arch. In a few words Pastor Shanks pronounced the bride and groom husband and wife, and after congratulations by the guests, a splendid repast was served, which all seemed to enjoy to the fullest extent. A large list of beautiful, useful and costly presents were brought for the happy bride and groom. The guests departed at a late hour, leaving many wishes of joy for the newly married pair. Mr. and Mrs. Potter are off on a short wedding tour.

DEATH OF MRS. HODGES.

Mrs. Mary A. Hodges, mother of Irve Young, the harness maker, died at her residence on Hudson street early on Christmas morning, after a long illness. Funeral services were conducted at the house by Rev. Jas. Provan, on Wednesday morning at 10 a. m.

DEATH OF CONVERSE CLOSE.

Converse Close, one of the best known of Kent county's pioneers, died last Friday. He had been an invalid for twenty-two years. Mr. Close was born in New York state in 1822. He came to Kent county in 1843 and with $800 which he had earned teaching school bought 240 acres of land in Grattan township. He was married the next year to Mary B. Potter. The township was then covered by a dense forest, but the young pair were determined to be married in Grattan, and they decided the location by blazed trees. They stood on one side of the line in Kent county and the justice on the other side, in Ionia county, the ceremony being performed under the huge trees. Mr. Close taught the first school in Grattan, never had a law suit in his life and at various times had filled most of the township offices. After thirty five years of farming, he retired with a fine fortune and resided in Grattan village up to the time of his death.

THE VAN DUSEN WILL.

One of the most bitterly contested will cases of the year came to an end in the Probate court on the 22nd. Adam Van Dusen, a Vergennes township farmer, died, leaving his farm, valued at $4,000, to a son and daughter who lived at home and cut off two other daughters with $5 each. The will was contested and the case was stubbornly fought, the claim being made that the deceased made a will subsequent to the one filed for probate. Judge Perkins made an order sustaining the will.—Grand Rapids Democrat.
