RE-UNION

OF OLD RESIDENTS ASSOCIATION.

Large Crowd, Excellent Program—Good Time.

The Old Settlers Association convened at Hotel Irish, on Wednesday evening, March 4th, in their 17th annual reunion, but on account of the large attendance the meeting was adjourned to Music hall, which had previously been prepared for the Old Settlers dance, a companion affair to the annual re-union. Changes were quickly made and the commodious hall was soon filled by an audience which came prepared to be pleased with every feature of the program as evidenced by the generous applause which punctuated the same.

The meeting was called to order by the president, and the exercises were opened with an appropriate prayer by Rev. Jas. Provan, after which President J. M. Mathewson gave his address of welcome. Old and new methods of opening public meetings and of transit to places of amusement were contrasted and the success of the Old Settlers Association dwelt upon. Multiplicity of offices and constantly increasing salaries were mentioned as the curse of politics and responsible in a measure for hard times. A tribute was paid to churches and school-houses, which must be the bulwark of our free institutions. The people were welcomed to this gathering and the speaker hoped they would have a better time than ever before.

Motions to have the treasurer give bonds and to continue old officers in their respective positions for another year were made and carried.

Misses Lottie Sayre and Ora Weekes followed in their pleasing duet, "Fly Away Birdling," rendered in their most charming manner.

Rev. A. P. Moors followed with one of the most happy of his characteristic patriotic addresses. With exception of a few years, he has been a resident of the Grand River Valley for 50 years. The rush for homes in the wilderness, hospitality of the pioneers, as many as five family domiciled in his fathers shanty at one time, beauty of the oak openings of Western Michigan were all direct upon. The rivers were teeming with fish and the woods swarmed with deer. The elder had been almost within arms reach of the pretty creatures but had never shot one. Some of the old sports shook their heads with a "That's a wopper" air at this, but anything Elder Moors says "goes." Great praise was awarded the pioneer Christians, social conditions of early days contrasted with those of the present time of castes and clans. In the old times all belonged to the 400. Old time politics which stirred men's moral nature's were referred to as being better for the Country than modern prating about finance.

Dean McCarty gave a pleasing recitation in which aristocratic Frenchified bill of fare were held up to ridicule.

Miss Bessie White recited James Whitcomb Riley's "Grandfather Speers" in her customary pleasing manner and was awarded an encore to which she failed to respond.

Wesley Johnson of Lowell township read a paper and Paul McCarty followed with a solo, "Papa, what will you take for me?" both of which were warmly applauded.

N. B. Blain was called upon for impromptu remarks. He told the story of the man whose brain was so active that its constant evolutions wore the clinches off the brain roots inside of his skull, causing him to be extremely bald. He called upon S. P. Hicks to say whether the explanation was good in his case.

Mr. Hicks had an announcement to make that would thrill Mr. Blain's nerves from crown to sole. Supper at Hotel Irish immediately after the exercises. Referring to his boyhood home in southern Michigan, the speaker said that of his early friends, those remaining at the old place, he could count on the fingers of one hand, while upon the headstone in the cemetery, were the names of very many friends of other days. This must be the experience of all and the attachments made in early life were the most enduring. No friends like the old friends.

Wm. Farrell of Ada responded to call by a brief talk of pioneer days and people, and the meeting was closed with "Auld Lang Syne."

ANOTHER CHANGE AT THE WAV-ERLY.

R. W. Swayze succeeds Myers & Heliker in Control.

On Sunday, March 1, Hotel Waverly passed out of the hands of Myers & Heliker to those of R. W. Swayze of this village.

During their stay among us Messrs Myers & Heliker have demonstrated their ability to run a first class hotel and leave behind many friends who will wish them success in whatever field they may cast their lot. They shipped their goods to Lansing, Tuesday, but have not settled definitely upon any location.

Mr. Swayze and his good lady bring to their new calling the will and ability to conduct a number one hostelry, and their friends are banking on their success.

The old force remains with the new host, and it is promised that no pains will be spared to continue the high standard of Hotel Waverly.

A toast to Bob, "Long may he Wave" rily.

No, Sir! The Peach Crop is not Killed.

We are glad to learn from N. P. Husted that there is a prospect for a good peach crop. He says that unless further injured by cold, the crop will be all that could be expected, considering the heavy load of last season. No doubt in some low and unfavorable locations peaches are damaged, but on all "fruit lands" with proper elevation the first set of buds, spur and dormant, are all right, even in the river flats, while the second set of buds are mostly killed. While we cannot expect a heavy crop, we may expect a fair peach crop in this vicinity.

More Changes.

A. Levitt of Grand Rapids has purchased the dry goods store of Ruben & Co., and will do business at the old stand. He is desirous of meeting the friends and customers of the old firm, and will endeavor to merit their continued patronage.

C. O. Lawrence has associated himself with W. S. Godfrey and the new firm, Godfrey & Lawrence have purchased the bazaar business of Jas. McPherson and will combine that business with the clothing trade already established by Mr. Godfrey. Success to you boys.
