Ceylon Letter.

SIGHTS IN THE CITY OF COLOMBO.

Life on Board Ship in the Tropics.

On board Transport Grant.
March 3d, 1899.

F. M. JOHNSON, Lowell, Mich.

Dear brother:—My last letter was sent I believe to Carl and mailed at Suez, Egypt. Since then we have stopped twice to coal and take on water and supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables, once at the island of Perim and again at Colombo on the island of Ceylon, south of India, on the 26th of February. Nearly all of us, officers and ladies, went ashore during the dirty operation of coaling.

Colombo is a city of 127,000, very interesting and novel to westerners like ourselves. We took in the sights of the town riding about in jinrick shaws, funny little carts, drawn by trotting natives, coolies they are called, lean, black, sweating Ceylon Islanders. Unfortunately, the day being Sunday, all the English shops were closed, but the native shops and tea houses were open. We saw a lot of English troops marching to church, dressed all in white; saw native men and women washing by beating on the rocks great piles of clothing; drove through the parks and saw many wonderful tropical trees and plants. Had a cup of tea in a Colombo tea house, bought a few pictures and views and a carved ebony elephant for a souvenir of the place and gathered in some curious coins, should like to have spent two or three days on the island and visited the ruby and sapphire mines and the great tea fields; but our stay was very short. Dispatches were received at Colombo directing us to push on with all speed as situation at Manila was critical. Our voyage through the Indian ocean and the bay of Bengal was a very smooth one and very hot, though nearly always a cool spot could be found on deck on the windward side out of the sun. Our state rooms have become intolerably hot and it is impossible to sleep in them. People sleep out on deck either in hammocks, steamer chairs or pull their mattresses out on deck and sleep on them. Harry takes a hammock, Louise a steamer chair and Ned and I try the mattresses. It is awfully hot at best and I can get but very little sleep and the heat takes all life and appetite away. We are now passing through the straits of Malacca, between the Malay peninsula and the island of Sumatra. Navigation is difficult on account of many coral reefs, so we are making rather slow progress. As a rule we make an average of 165 miles in 24 hours and have made as high as 308, with favorable winds. Our run for the last 24 hours dropped to 200 miles. Our next stop will be at Singapore which is on an island just south of the extreme southern point of the Malay peninsula. We expect to reach this point some time this evening and I hope to mail you this letter from that port. At Singapore we will be just about one degree north of the equator. From there our course will be north easterly through the China sea to Manila, which place we will probably reach about one week later, say the 12th of March. What awaits us there the Lord only knows. Some think the ladies and children will not be permitted to land and that we will be sent over to Hong Kong, China, until things about Manila quiet down; but nobody knows anything about it. I want to stay in Manila, if possible, to be as near Edward as I can. We are all dreadfully sunburned from living on deck in the sun and wind for weeks. We are all wearing our thinnest clothing and as little of it as possible. Harry wears a shirt waist and cotton trousers and nothing

Arabs Coaling.

HOW THE TRANSPORT GRANT AND A BRITISH BOAT

Exchange Compliments at Sea. Ammunition Issued for Fight.

Manila, Philippine Isls, March 7, '99.

Mrs. N. P. GARDNER, Lowell, Mich.

Dear Mother and Family:

I am in the very best of health and sincerely hope this will find you all the same. I suppose you have received the letter that I sent out at Perim, Arabia. We coaled at Perim instead of Aden. Our next stop was at Colombo, Ceylon.

At Perim the coaling was done by Arabs. They will pick up two big baskets of coal each holding over a bushel and a half, put it on their shoulders and go on the run up the gang plank and come back on the run and keep it up until the scow is emptied which takes about ninety minutes. It is fun to see them work; it looks just like a swarm of ants, as there are over a hundred at work on each scow. They keep up a continual hallooing, a song I suppose. They don't work much like Americans, who always take their time at it. Beggars would come swimming out to the ship which was anchored about a mile from the shore and we would throw pieces of money into the harbor and they would dive down and get it before it sank 10 feet. They were the most expert swimmers and divers I ever saw. They would stay in the water an hour and a half. The men just wore a breech clout and sometimes an undershirt. They wore white cloth twisted into turbans on their heads, held together by a cord made by braiding camel hair three strand wjch was about 10 yards long. They wound this braid around and around the turban and tied the ends together. They are as black as an American negro; but as a rule are handsome people. Their features are as regular as a Grecian statue and if they were white they would be handsomer than the best-looking American man.

Colombo was the finest place we struck. We arrived there at night when we were all asleep and when we got up in the morning the ship was surrounded by boats, trying to sell fruit, cigars, laces, vases and other trinkets; but we were forbidden to buy anything and had to be very careful if we tried to sneak anything aboard or we would get run into the jigger. We struck Singapore Saturday night, March 4. We tied up at the wharf and coaled. The work was done by Chinese. We pulled out of there at daybreak Sunday morning. It was cooler there only 1° from the equator than it was at Colombo, 7° from the equator, the thermometer registering about 97 at Colombo and only about 72° at Singapore. The most pleasing experience we had was between Perim and Colombo. While we were at Port Said, Egypt, the British steamer, Clare Robinson, a whaleback, pulled out for Colombo. We overtook this ship when we were a day out of Perim. When we pulled up along side of her, her captain ordered a sailor to paint the words "good luck" in great white letters on her black side. How us boys on the Grant cheered and halloed. Then the 4th Inf. band played "America" and you know that has the air of "God Save the Queen," and then you ought to have heard those English "blue jackets" cheer. The Clare Robinson then dipped her colors again in honor of that tune. You see that ships at sea always salute each other by dipping their colors, that is by hauling them down and drawing them up again. We sailed along with her for a couple of hours and then left them. While

A SAD DEATH.

A Young Husband, Father and Enterprising Business Man Taken.

Seldom has it been our duty to record so sad a death as that of Mr. Claude Campbell which took place at his home in this village after illness of less than a week. Although he had been a resident of Lowell but three years, his diligence and honesty in business, his enterprising and courteous habits and cheerful disposition had won for him many warm friends and the respect of all who knew him. His sudden call from his earthly home, in the very opening of his useful life, admonishes us all of the frailty of human life and the uncertainty of our tenancy here.

Claude was born at Hastings, Mich. Aug. 13, 1876, from whence he removed with his parents to Wayne, where he remained until 1895 when he secured employment at Pontiac where he remained nearly two years. During that time he became a member of the Baptist church at that place. In 1896 he came to Lowell and was united in marriage to Miss Maude Harris. He engaged in the laundry business and conducted it up to the time of his death last Friday with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of his patrons.

He leaves a wife and babe, a mother, three brothers and one sister to mourn.

Funeral services were held at the late residence of deceased, on Monday, conducted by Rev. S. G. Anderson and the body was laid to rest in the Lowell cemetery.

Mrs. Baker badly burned.

While poking up the kitchen fire, last Sunday morning, Mrs. D. Baker was terribly burned on her left arm and side, her sleeve taking fire. Mr. Baker was milking and hearing her scream as she ran out into the yard had the presence of mind to run and throw the milk upon the flames and quenching them immediately. Kind neighbors came to the relief of the suffering woman and she is recovering as well as could be expected.

figure among the shadows. After awhile, however, it struck me that I was really going to do something that I had not done before.

For half an hour I did not stir, and I am bound to say the two points didn't budge as far as the right or left or the vertical line. This settled the leeway question in my mind, and I took such a liking to the craft that I determined to own one. I asked the colonel what they were worth.

"What, one like this? But a few pesos, never. But I never had heard of one being sold. Each man builds his own."

"Hmpf. Did you ever build one, colonel?"

A man might as well try to put a quart of water into a pint measure as to make a better harness than our famous Oak Tanned hand made harness. Before purchasing it is for your interest to call and look at our goods. Brown & Sehler.

The hypophosphites that are combined with the cod-liver oil give additional value to it because they tone up the nervous system and impart strength to the whole body.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

looks like cream; it nourishes the wasted body of the baby, child or adult better than cream or any other food in existence. It bears about the same relation to other emulsions that cream does to milk. If you have had any experience with other so-called "just as good" preparations, you will find that this is a fact.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

A BUSHEL

OF ALARM CLOCKS.

No, of course, you don't need a bushel; but you should have one as they are so inexpensive and useful and at our price you can't afford to do without one.

Our clocks are not the department store lead clocks made to sell; but are honestly made for business.

Alarm, something built to last. Our guarantee goes with every clock—you take no chances.
