

LOWELL LEDGER.

INDEPENDENT—NOT NEUTRAL.

LOWELL, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY OCTOBER 16, 1902

FIVE CENTS.

LAI D OFF LAI D UP LAI D AWAY

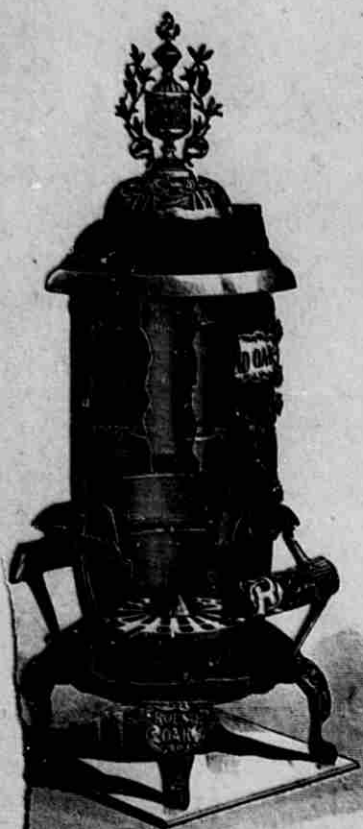

Our Savings Department
accommodates all who wish to lay aside
small sums.

MR. WAGE EARNER:—

Did you ever think what might happen to you or your family if any of the above should find you with no flour in the bin and no money in the purse? Wouldn't it be wise for you to provide against that day, and to begin now?

CITY BANK

HILL, WATTS & CO.

The New Round Oak...

with its smoke and soot consuming device makes it as far superior to all other so-called smoke consumers as the original Round Oak wood stove was superior to all other round oak wood stoves. By having a heavy inside cast pot inside of the outer pot will last four times as long and the outside pot will not turn red but will retain its original black finish and beauty. See the name on the leg to be sure you get the genuine one that will burn hard coal, soft coal and wood.

Sold
only by

R. B. BOYLAN.

WATCH CASES

which is but another way of saying "I WANT THE BEST AND SO DO YOU." Furthermore like the youngster above YOU ARE ENTITLED TO THE BEST.

Watchways have Boss Watch Cases in stock and will not try to induce you to buy some cheap imitation.

Favor us with a visit of inspection.

A. D. Oliver,

The White Front
The People's Store.

Kodaks

The kind that go in the pocket, the kind that load and unload in open daylight, safest from breakage and most convenient to use.

We also have several other kinds if you prefer them and Eastman's and Seed's Dry Plates, Printing papers and Toning solutions, Developers of various kinds, Tripods, Picture Mounts and general kodak and camera sundries. We solicit a visit of inspection from you.

President Roosevelt.

To whose persistency the settlement of the coal strike is largely due.

COAL STRIKERS WIN

BARONS HAD TO EAT THEIR OWN WORDS.

President will Name Arbitrators. Mining to be Resumed.

This (Thursday) morning brings the welcome news that the coal strike, which began last May, has been settled. The miners have won all they contended for—arbitration. Labor will have a representative on the commission to be appointed by the President. Both sides professed to be satisfied with the outcome; and pending the decision of the commission mining will be at once resumed.

The victory for human rights as against corporate greed is decisive; and it is hoped settles forever the "Divine right" of trusts to traffic in human misery.

Public sympathy everywhere has been with the down-trodden miners; and this, ably represented by President Roosevelt, has forced the coal trust to terms. The Baer-Markle crowd is not entitled to an atom of credit for its back-down. It swallowed its words by compulsion, not from choice. If the barons should choke to death in the operation, not a flag in the universe would be half-masted.

A victory for humanity, and a black eye for the trusts! New hope for future battles! Hurrah!

MACCABEES BOOMING

SEVENTY-FIVE NEW MEMBERS GOING IN.

Initiation, Banquet and Speeches to Cap the Climax.

Eddy Tent No. 398, K. O. T. M., has been doing some tall hustling during the past few weeks, under the leadership of Deputy Commander, J. E. Bancroft of St. Johns, as a result of which seventy-five new members will be taken in on Friday evening, Oct. 24, which will bring the membership of the Lowell lodge up to goodly number of 170.

Great Lieut. Commander Charles H. Thomas of Hastings will be present to assist the local officers in the work which will be exemplified in G. A. R. hall.

After the initiation a banquet will be served at Maccabee hall; and it goes without saying that the turnout will be a good one.

NEW EVAPORATOR

BUILDING GOING UP AT CANNING FACTORY.

60,000 Cans of Peaches and 15,000 Cans of Tomatoes.

A carload of canned goods was shipped to Chicago from the Lowell factory this week.

A two-story evaporator building is nearing completion on the grounds of the Lowell Canning company. Its purpose is to take care of the apple waste, which has a commercial value. It is calculated that the savings in this season's operations alone will pay for the building.

The peach season has closed, 60,000 cans having been put up. Tomatoes are nearly closed; only another day or two run being in sight. The output on these has been but 15,000 cans, owing to the poor season and short supply. Growers, however, are not discouraged, and will try again next year, hoping for better luck.

A good sized gang is now working on apples; and growers will find a good market for such fruit as is used at evaporators.

Pumpkins are wanted now; and the Canning company is paying $3.00 per ton for them. Tell your neighbor.

Marriage Licenses.

Ed. B. Barris, 25, railway fireman; Elkhart, Indiana. Myrtle T. Weeks, 22; teacher; Grattan. Rev. J. E. Butler of Belding.

The Vergennes Dancing club will give their opening party at Train's hall Friday evening, Oct. 17.

THE HOT LAST

AIR TIGHT FLORENCE

The Zenith of Stove Perfection.

The only jointless leg bottom and base with full radiation and large ash pan, that has ever been made in the history of the stove industry. The jointless leg bottom and base makes the stove air-tight below the grate, which is the only true fire-keeping principle.

The Hot Blast Air-tight Florence will heat twice the space that be heated by any other stove on earth, at one half the cost.

The only perfect floor heater that has ever been made. All features are patented, and remember no stove manufacturer can copy same for eighteen years from date of patent.

The Hot Blast Air-tight Florence burns soft coal or slack and all the smoke and gases. No filling up of the stove pipe or flue with soot. No dirt inside or outside the house. It will burn hard coal and all the gases which escape from the hard coal base burner. It will burn coke just the same as hard or soft coal. It will burn wood or saw dust wet or dry. It will produce less than half the ashes that any other stove on earth, with any kind of fuel.

Scott & Cambell's

Yes

I shall continue in the Watch, Clock and Jewelry business, and solicit your inspection and comparison of prices on the following goods:—

Clocks—All kinds and styles.

Watches—Solid Gold and Filled in Boss, Deuber, Hansen, Fay and other high grade cases with Elgin, Waltham, Deuber, Illinois, Howard and all standard grades of movements.

Gold Rings and chains, fine assortment.

Save money by seeing me before buying elsewhere.

R. D. Stocking

Lowell, Mich

SAVING MONEY

is something most people try to do and one of the very best ways is to save what you can on your various purchases. Take, for instance, your shoe purchases. If you can buy the best Rubber Boot that is made of us for $3.00, then you have saved fifty cents. If you watch your shoe purchases close you will find, that quality considered, we will save you from five to fifty cents on each purchase and always give you good reliable goods.

Boy's Shoes

is something most of you have got to buy soon and we are prepared to show you as fine and solid line as you ever looked at.

Boy's Kang. Calf	2 1/4 to 5 1/2	at $1.50
Boy's Oil Grain, tap sole	"	at 1.50
Boy's Enamel	"	at 2.00
Boy's Patent	"	at 2.50

The Old Reliable Shoe House.

A. J. HOWK & SON

Citizens Phone No. 79.

"Going Out of Business?"

WELL, I GUESS NOT.

Just because I advertised for sale some things I do not need, some people ask that question. Don't you worry about it. I am getting ready to do THE BEST MEAT BUSINESS ever done in Lowell. Why, the other day, one of our customers said, "Weyrick, you run an AWFULLY EXPENSIVE MARKET!" "How is that?" I asked in surprise. "Because!" said he "you keep your market so neat and your meat so sweet, that I buy more than I used to. So, for me it is expensive." These are facts, for proof call on

A. L. Weyrick.

Special Dry Goods Sale

On various lines of Merchandise
Every Day in the Week at

...NICHOLSON'S...

Our counters are loaded with bargains for our customers continually. Our quality of merchandise is high and our prices are lower than ever before. Don't miss the opportunity to visit our store.

One lot best Dress Prints, 6c quality, at 4c	One lot walking skirts, stitched flounce, felled seams, 2.00 value, 1.45	One lot best light prints, 5c quality, 3c
One lot Children's Heavy Fleece Hose, 25c quality, 15c	One lot walking skirts, stitched circular flounce, felled seams, 2.50 value, 1.98	1200 yards heavy ontings, 10c quality, 8c

Try a New Idea Pattern 10c. No more ordering patterns. We hereafter shall carry over 1000 patterns in stock. Come to us and get your patterns. New Idea Magazines 5c a copy.

J. B. NICHOLSON,

East Side
Lowell

EFFORTS TO END STRIKE.

J. Pierpont Morgan Calls for Coal Road Presidents to Meet Him in New York.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE TO BE HELD.

Belief is that Terms of Settlement Will Be Accepted—Claim of the Operators That Miners Will Resume Work Under Protection to Be Tested—Strike Losses This Far.

New York, Oct. 13.—President Beier, of the Reading, was summoned to New York late Sunday night and left Reading, Pa., in a special train just before midnight. It is supposed that J. P. Morgan, who has been in conference all day with three men, the names of whom are unknown, summoned Mr. Beier, and that the Reading president will pick up another operator on the way.

New Yorkers believe the strike is near its end, and that Mr. Morgan, acting on the request of President Roosevelt, which was delivered to Mr. Morgan by Secretary Root on Saturday, has called upon the coal operators to meet him today and aid him in ending the strike.

Near That Strike is Ended.
Around the Waldorf-Astoria half a dozen men, among the excited financiers, had heard that the strike was settled. John Lambert, of Chicago, said he had been informed by a man prominent in affairs from New England that the strike had been settled. Mr. Lambert, information was in keeping with what others had also heard, but the news was not traceable to any authoritative source.

John Lambert related that no settlement was in sight and that there could be no settlement except by the miners going to work independently. "The situation is unchanged," he said, "except that the conditions are improving in the coal regions."

Asked to Return to Work.
Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 13.—The Erie company posted notices at its collieries at Pitston requesting all striking employes to return to work to-day. The company assured all men who returned ample protection. This is believed to be the first move on the part of the coal companies to break the strike under the protection of troops.

A Critical Week.
Scranton, Pa., Oct. 13.—This is the beginning of a week which it is generally believed will put to rest the claim of the operators that they will be enabled to start up their collieries if given protection, and the counter-claim of the United Mine Workers' organization, as expressed in Wednesday's resolutions, that the strikers will not return to work without concessions, even though the entire military force of the United States should be here, to enforce the claims. With a determination to prove their effort to secure men that they have succeeded to some extent is evidenced by announcements made with some positiveness that various collieries will resume operations in the course of a few days. Claim is also made on the operators' side that the forces at collieries already working are to be largely increased during the week.

The United Mine Workers' leaders continue to assert that the military can do nothing towards inducing men to return to work, and that all the men who are induced to go back to work without concessions are already back.

May Try to Start Collieries.
Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 13.—There are rumors in circulation that an extraordinary effort will be made this week to start the collieries, but information to this effect can be learned from the companies' offices here. An order to make extra efforts to resume operations must first emanate from New York, and the superintendents will then try to carry it out. The strikers are generally not expected anything to develop in the strike-affected territory, but are eagerly following events in New York and Washington.

The Strike Loses.
Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 13.—The losses at the end of the twenty-second week of the strike are estimated to be as follows:
Loss to the operators in price of coal.....$2,500,000
Loss to strikers in wages.....2,500,000
Loss to employees of collieries.....4,000,000
Loss to business men in through.....1,500,000
Loss to business men outside Erie.....1,800,000
Loss to strikers in food.....900,000
Cost of maintaining non-striking.....6,000,000
Damage to mines in machinery.....6,000,000
Grand total.....$18,500,000

Acquitted.
Metropolis, Ill., Oct. 12.—The prisoner, who has been on trial here for killing Will Terrell last spring while the two were working together at a box factory, was acquitted Friday afternoon by a verdict pronouncing the killing justifiable.

A Fatal Blow.
Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 11.—Dot Wells, a prominent keeper at Mill Melroe, killed John Gleason by a blow of his fist Friday night. The killing was the result of a quarrel because Gleason had not paid for a meal.

Heavy Fines.
Marshalltown, Ia., Oct. 12.—Ewart Brothers, of Povebelly county, one of the largest stock raising firms in Iowa, assigned for the benefit of creditors. The liabilities are unknown, but it is said will exceed $100,000.

EXPRESS CAR IS ROBBED.

Three Masked Men Successfully Hold Up Train on Burlington Road Near Lincoln, Neb.

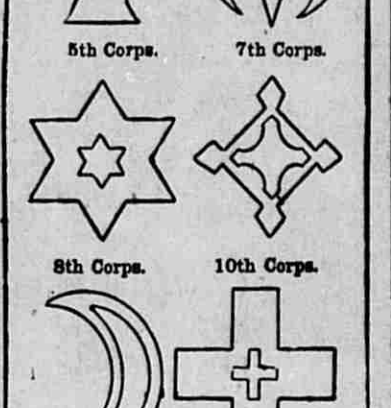

DYNAMITE SAFE AND SECURE CONTENTS.

Reported to Have Secured $50,000—After Stopping Train and Cutting Off Express Car, They Commanded Messenger to Open the Car-Job Quickly and Neatly Done.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 13.—Plunder valued by some as high as $50,000, most of it gold coin, was secured by four bandits, who held up the Pacific coast express on the Burlington road just outside this city early Saturday morning. Officers claim the loss may not exceed $2,000. The robbery was a bold one and carried out with a perfection of detail that prevented serious opposition by the train crew or the necessity for injuring anyone in either party. The whole affair was completed in an hour, and the robbers have long since been in the advance of the train before an alarm could be given.

Officials Warned in Advance.
The officers of the railroad had been warned in advance of the intention to rob the train, which was to carry a large sum in gold. The plan was to stop the train at a point where the express cars are not closely guarded. The robbers waited until the train was in a quiet place, and then they opened fire, cutting off the express car. The messenger was ordered to open the car, and the contents were secured quickly and neatly done.

GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT AT WASHINGTON.

The citizens of the national capital make the stay of the veterans in their power to the citizens in the way of decorations, medals in the way of honor, colors, white, red, purple, yellow and pink flags, and in the way of medals, of which there are in the cut are the most prominent.

Story of the Robbery.
Train No. 41 reaches Lincoln at 12:35 a. m., and leaves for the northwest ten minutes later. It was a few minutes late Saturday morning. On the hill midway between the city and the town of Woodstock the engineer saw a light red wagon on the track, and brought the train to a standstill. Two men sprang quickly into the cab, covering Grayburg and his fellow with revolvers. They lost no time in giving their orders, and they were just promptly obeyed. The express car was cut from the balance of the train and run ahead a short distance. The robbers found the door locked, and after commanding Messenger William Lupton to open it and getting no response fired two or three shots into the car. The door was then opened.

Dynamite Works Safe.
A heavy charge of dynamite on the safe literally tore it to pieces. The contents were taken out and the robbers prepared to go. The two men who were in the car politely bade the trainee good morning, jumped from the car, and disappeared in the darkness. The passengers were not molested, nor were the trainmen asked for their belongings. While the robbers in the express car was going on a third robber walked alongside the train, and the engineer ordered, firing his revolver occasionally to keep inquisitive passengers quiet. A fourth robber remained with the two rigs in the rear of the train.

All Are Pardoned.
Havana, Oct. 12.—An order has been published in the Official Gazette regarding all persons now under sentence for election frauds committed prior to May 29, when the Cuban republic was established, and suspending their prosecution in the courts.

Victims of Heart Disease.
Hannibal, Mo., Oct. 7.—Capt. W. H. Nelson, of Washington, D. C., a well-known newspaper writer, died suddenly of heart disease Monday at Oxford, where he has been visiting.

News in South Dakota.
Aberdeen, S. D., Oct. 13.—Snow fell steadily for an hour Sunday afternoon being the first of the season.

INSANE BOY'S DEED.

Youth Murders His Mother, Two Sisters and Injures Three Others at Homestead, Pa.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 11.—While laboring under mental aberration, the result of the strain of perfecting an apparatus for patents on an air-brake which are pending in Washington, D. C., Charles Cayley, a 17-year-old boy of Homestead, Pa., early Friday killed his mother and two sisters and fatally injured three other children. He also tried to kill his two older brothers, but was detected, overpowered and turned over to the police.

The weapon used was an ax, with which he crushed and hacked his victims beyond recognition. The dead: Mrs. Hannah Cayley, aged about 40 years, head and upper portion of the body pounded almost to jelly; Belle Cayley, aged 13, who slept with her mother; head frightfully crushed; Anna Cayley, aged 4.

INVITES WAR.
One of the Balaes in the Island of Mindanao Sends a Letter of Defiance.

Manila, Oct. 13.—The sultan of Bacoold, Mindanao, has rejected the friendly overtures of G. M. Sumner, commander of the American forces on Mindanao, in a defiant letter in which he invites war. The sultan says: "The sultan of Bacoold desires war forthwith."

Autumn's Apparel FOR Men of Fashion
Clothing, Hats and Haberdashery

We have finished our great task of hunting and choosing... We call particular attention to the great variety of choice fabrics, patterns and styles in suits and top coats that we sell.

$10 to $18

and among them the handsome productions of MICHAEL, STERN & CO., the well known Rochester Clothing Manufacturers.

Boys' School Suits in Rich Assortment of Dainty Designs Made from Durable Fabrics.

We wish you to note particularly the enormous variety of $3, $4 and $5. Fall Haberdashery is here in a brilliant assortment. The New Autumn Hats are ready.

Chas. Althen,
1st door East of City Bank.

Casp Apples an Pune
at the new York Lowell Factors

Before buying any organs don't fail to see the two best of the Farrand and Estey. Sold only by R. H. Stokck.

4 x 5 folding camera, plateholders, case, tripod, trays, etc., for sale. Outfit cost $30, will sell for $20. Good as new. Apply at this office.

Don't forget to see the item buy at the foot of Tax Locust street every week. Local items applied. Sign your name, not for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

MORRISON
62 Monroe Street
Grand Rapids
Cloaks, Suits, Furs

Every line of a Morrison garment is an artistic composition. The best of the best in the lining to the cloth, there is not a shadow of cheapness in any of our work nor undignified child work. They are made by skilled workmen and destined for artists.

THE DETROIT EVENING NEWS AND MORNING TRIBUNE
Only one cent a word, (cash with order) for publication in both papers.

Do You Get The Detroit Sunday News - Tribune
Michigan's greatest Sunday newspaper! Beautiful color effects, high-class illustrations, special articles, latest news and the most interesting items. 6 cents a copy.

Always One Price to all.

My Lungs

"An attack of the gripe left me with a bad cough. My friends said I had the influenza, and they tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, but it did not cure me promptly."
—A. K. Randic, Nokomis, Ill.

You forget to buy a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral when your cold first came on, so you let it run along. Even now, with all your hard coughing, it will not disappoint you. There's a record of sixty years to fall back on.

Three cents a bottle, 25 cents a dozen. Sold everywhere.

Consult your doctor. If he says take it, then take it. It is a safe, sure, and pleasant remedy. It is a sure cure for all coughs, croup, hoarseness, and all other affections of the throat and lungs. It is a safe remedy for all ages.

ALL CHURCHES EMPTY.
Four Edifices for Worship at Saranac Closed.

Saranac, Mich., Oct. 9. The Rev. H. C. Snyder, who has been pastor of the Congregational church in this village, has resigned and will accept a call tendered him by church at Lake View. This leaves the town in a peculiar position, as there is not a church in town with a pastor, as the Rev. C. Harding who was appointed to this place by the Free Methodist conference, has been sick ever since conference and has not been able to move here.

Was Wood Murdered?
Hastings, Mich., Oct. 10. It is feared that Alonzo Wood, the old pioneer of Irving found dead in his home Tuesday, was the victim of foul play. Ugly bruises were found upon Wood's head, and the officers are investigating.

Alto Farmer Missing—Had Money With Him.
Alto, Mich., Oct. 11.—Last Sunday Walter J. Foster started from here on foot to go to his father's place on the Cascade road, intending to visit there over night, and go to Grand Rapids Monday morning. He did not return and notified his wife became alarmed and notified the neighbors of her husband's absence. No trace of him has been found. His friends are much alarmed, fearing accident or foul play, as he had quite a sum of money with him.

NEW MUSIC, NEW SONGS
At Planner's Music House 216 Grand Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.
Pianos at 15c.

It is a well known fact that you can buy sheet music at Planner's Music House, Milwaukee, at less price than at any place in the country. Both classical and popular music sold at low prices. "My Own" a pretty little classical ballad and "A Mo-Mo-vie," Russian danc, just issued will be sent postpaid at $1.17 a copy. Catalogues and lists mailed free. Address Joseph Planner, Milwaukee, Wis.

You Have Something of Value to Dispose of.....
The Detroit Evening News and Morning Tribune
Only one cent a word, (cash with order) for publication in both papers.

THE DETROIT EVENING NEWS AND MORNING TRIBUNE
Only one cent a word, (cash with order) for publication in both papers.

Do You Get The Detroit Sunday News - Tribune
Michigan's greatest Sunday newspaper! Beautiful color effects, high-class illustrations, special articles, latest news and the most interesting items. 6 cents a copy.

Always One Price to all.

NEW BUILDING FALLS.

One Man Killed and Four Others Severely Injured by Collapsed Walls at Jackson, Mich.

Jackson, Oct. 13.—One man was killed and four severely injured by the collapse Saturday of the north-west section of the New Otsego hotel building, construction of which had reached the fourth story. The dead: Henry Giltner, of Lowell.

The injured: Patrick W. Coughlin, of Grand Rapids, probably fatally; W. Thomas, George L. Van Allen, William McVey.

There were 13 men on the fourth floor when the collapse occurred. The west wall went down first, giving them a chance for their lives. Eight of them ran to places of safety, but the other five were not so fortunate and were carried down with a perfect avalanche of brick, mortar, flooring, and debris. Rescuers began digging them out immediately. Coughlin, Thomas, Van Allen and McVey were rescued in a comparatively short time and taken to the hospital, but it was some hours when Giltner's body was recovered. The cause of the collapse is not known. It was the architect and reported to be thoroughly satisfactory. The contractor, Maj. or Samuel Pickles, was in the building when the collapse came and had a narrow escape.

Harrison Albright, the architect, who had left town Saturday morning after inspecting the building, came back upon hearing of the disaster. Prosecuting Attorney Badgley ordered his detention as a witness for the inquest, Thursday next. Albright was put in jail for a time, but later was released under $1,000 bonds.

A HEAVY LOSS.

Recent Rains Have Cost Apple Growers More Than Twenty Thousand Dollars.

Colwater, D. C., Oct. 13.—A leading apple buyer states that over $20,000 worth of apples have gone waste owing to the rainstorms of the last few weeks. It would be a small estimate to say that there are 20,000 bushels of apples on the ground and these are only good for cider. These would have been worth 40 to 50 cents a bushel if they could have been picked up as a witness for the inquest, Thursday next. Albright was put in jail for a time, but later was released under $1,000 bonds.

Gov. Bliss Injured.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—An accident mangled the great army surgeon, Gov. A. T. Bliss of Michigan by throwing from his horse near Washington circle and suffered several contusions to his body. He was treated at the Army hospital, and later removed to his home. His injuries are not regarded as serious. The horse was killed and made a bolt, which unseated the governor.

Let Off Easily.
Willow, Oct. 13.—Christian Bloom, a farmer who lives east of this place, was arrested on a warrant charging with assault and battery for whipping his wife. His wife made the complaint, and he is claimed, threatened to whip her again if she had any dressed. He was held for trial before Justice Critchfield and fined five dollars.

Stabbed an Aged Man.
Gallen, Oct. 10.—John Sweeney, an old man of New Haven township, died from lock jaw, induced by blood poisoning. The boy was but 11 years old. He ran a splinter into his foot three weeks ago. It was not all removed, and blood poisoning set in. He died in great agony.

Given Two Years.
Bay City, Oct. 12.—Henry (Big) Roberts, who attempted a highway robbery West Bay City a few weeks ago, was convicted in the circuit court, and sentenced by Judge Sweeney to two years in Lonia reformatory.

Took His Own Life.
Grand Rapids, Oct. 13.—Wilfred Tyler, aged 19, was found dead in his room, having committed suicide by spreading a handkerchief saturated with chloroform over his face. He was the only inmate of the city jail.

Went Into Bankruptcy.
Detroit, Oct. 13.—William M. Morse, Jr., manager of the Avery and Morse Book Store, announced that he was filing a petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities are given as about $12,150.00. His assets total $1,000.00.

Secured a Large Sum.
DeKercker, Oct. 13.—The safe in Henry Welsh's store at Dowington was blown open and $1,000 belonging to Welsh and $1,000 in money and papers belonging to James Lane were taken. The burglars escaped.

WINE OF CARDU
Our work always takes the lead and our price is no higher than others and you can have your work when you want it. Try us.

It's Time to buy Your Overcoat and here is the right kind to buy.

We have a lot of extremely fashionable overcoats, not the kind that will be out of date in a month's time but overcoats such as stylish, dressy men always buy, with all the little details corrected up to the minute.

Men's Oxford Overcoats, 44 inches, full box cut, serge body lining and satin sleeve linings, silk velvet collar, vertical pockets, cuffs on the sleeves. Tailored and patterned after the highest class custom coats at the low price of $10.00

As Good as Government Bonds Below Par.

When we show an overcoat like this at $10.00, you may expect something pretty nice if you pay $12.00, $15.00 or $18.00.

We will appreciate a look.

A. L. COOKS

STATE OF MICHIGAN, The Probate Court for the County of Kent. At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Grand Rapids, in said County, on the 21st day of September A. D. 1902.

Present Hon. Harry D. Jewell, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of ETIA STONEY, deceased, RUBEN S. GODFREY having died in said Court her petition praying that the administration of said estate be granted to JOHN E. GODFREY, of and from said County.

It is ordered that Friday, the 21st day of October, A. D. 1902, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said Probate Office, be and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition.

It is further ordered, that public notice thereof is given by publication of a copy of this order in some suitable newspaper published to say the day of hearing in the LOWELL LEDGER, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

Witness my hand and the seal of said County, at Grand Rapids, Michigan, this 16th day of October, A. D. 1902.

ALVIN E. EWING, Register of Probate.

BOATS TO LET.
Good boats for fishing and picnic parties to let cheap, at Lowell Water & Light Plant. Fine rowing and sailing.

ANTON KALLINGER
Home Made and Salt Rising BREAD BEHL'S BAKER'S

The kind maker used to make Pie Cakes Cookies Etc. a specialty.

At The Front
Our work always takes the lead and our price is no higher than others and you can have your work when you want it. Try us.

GEM LAUNDRY
CLARK BROS.

MISS PERSIS COWLES
of Greenville will be in Lowell on Tuesday and Wednesday day of each week.

TEACH PIANO.

WINE OF CARDU
Our work always takes the lead and our price is no higher than others and you can have your work when you want it. Try us.

The Russian bear is moving out of Manchuria, but it knows the way back. It is going to be a hard winter for the stinky man who owns a block of steam-heated flats.

It is going to be a hard winter for the stinky man who owns a block of steam-heated flats. We need a large navy, the President says, but not a large army—on land we have the trolley cars.

Foils who suffer from insomnia and nothing else are quite likely to die of old age and nothing else. An enthusiastic exchange says "Senator Quay is never without a book in his pocket." Pocketbook!

Prize Doubtless takes $25,000 a year allowance "ridiculously insignificant." He ought to try earning it.

With call money at 35 per cent in the stock market in New York, the man who has to borrow borrows trouble.

Kaiser Wilhelm says the trolley car is an enemy of humanity. The Kaiser must have been having a dispute over a transfer.

Chicago's rouders will now die content. Grand Duke Boris gasped as he landed in Paris: "I have come here to rest."

It would be a sad state of affairs if every man who loses money on the race should try to get even by blowing up a hotel.

It now costs $20 to say a swear word over a Chicago telephone and the apoplexy death rate is therefore on the increase.

An automobile is well enough as far as it goes, but if the gasoline gives out ten miles from town, it does not go far enough.

Somebody figures that the world will be crowded beyond the limit of sustenance only 189 years from now—but nobody ever saw will be how long.

Some of our esteemed contemporaries are greatly shocked because he costs a bottle in Johannesburg. Well, let them keep away from such places.

The people who are surprised that money is worth 14 per cent in Wall street have evidently never had occasion to apply for a salary loan without publicity.

The University of Chicago has added the chair of Japanese language. This is the first intimation from a reliable source that the Japanese ever use chairs.

A New York woman has just received $18,000 for kindness shown to a sick man years ago. The moral is perfectly plain: Let us all be kind to sick men.

None of these explanations why the price of bituminous coal is so high mentions the perhaps unimportant fact that the dealers think they need the money.

One of the Vanderbilts, before deciding upon a candidate for 1934, wants to know how the president stands on the question of limiting the speed of automobiles.

A New York stock exchange seat has just been sold for $55,000, and another is wanted at the same price. You could buy a good many whole furniture stores for that.

A dispatch from Havana states that a policeman became suddenly insane in the Alhambra theater and fired several shots from his revolver at the actors. Are they sure he was insane?

There are 6,000 football players in the United States. The hay crop going to waste because there is a scarcity of strong men to gather it into bales. Here is a law in our political economy.

The editor of the Fall Mail Gazette subjects to speed restrictions for automobiles. This naturally leads to the inference that the editor is not one of those who have had to dodge. That makes a great difference.

A subscriber asks what to do with a nose which has assumed the color of an Italian sunset. We have referred it to another subscriber who has had experience, who says: "Keep on drinking; it will turn blue in due time."

Active volcanoes are the latest ad to the delights of life in the Philippines. This, however, is only another iteration that we can produce anything that any other people, ancient or modern, have ever produced.

The Klondike Gold Mystery.

By JOHN R. MUSICK.
Author of "Mysterious Mr. Howard," "The Dark Stranger," "Charlie Alameda's Deeds," Etc.

CHAPTER XI.—(Continued.)

"What do you think it is, captain?" Paul asked his companion.
"It is not a stone, Crack-lash."
"No, I can see it move."
"That is why I know that it is an animated object."
"Perhaps it is a horse."

The old man shook his head, saying: "No horse could climb these steep rocks. Then it may be a polar bear."

"More likely that than a horse, and yet I think it is neither, as a polar bear is white, and this object has some black spots on it."

They journeyed on until midnight, and went into camp in a spot somewhat screened by rocks. Next day they resumed their weary march through the most desolate country.

The skies became overcast, and the snow began to fall in great white flakes, which rapidly covered the ground.
When night came they halted under the shelter of some rocks and thick, heavy top spruce pine branches stretched over them, forming a partial shelter.

"We are almost out of food," the captain said as they ate a small portion of the dried mouse meat.
"How are we to replenish our stock?"

"I don't know."
It was a painful subject to discuss. Their chances of ever reaching a civilized camp were gloomy indeed.

Poor Laura lit a cigarette and, at the moment when, weak and faint, he was continually spurred on by the remembrance that Laura was in the wilderness of Alaska.

About the middle of the afternoon the snow ceased falling, and the sun shined brightly through the clouds.
Suddenly the hermit stopped and said: "Do you see that?"

"Yes, what made it a bear?" "No, it is either a dog or wolf."
The thought of a supper on either was repulsive, and the two trudged on in silence. A mile farther they saw a white dog with black spots on the side of his head drinking at one of the lakes. Paul reached for his rifle, but the captain said: "No, don't shoot him; he may prove our friend."

Paul began to call and whistle to the dog, using terms like the Eskimauk. The animal gave them a look of surprise, and then bounded toward them, yelping in his joy at meeting a human companion.

"He has a collar about his neck," said Paul.
"I say, captain, if we release him he will go back to his master, will he not?"

"Certainly."
"Then we may make a courier of him. Let us write a message, tie it to his collar and send him away."

An excellent idea.
Paul had a small strip of seal skin, and under the embankment he dug out a bit of red chalk, or ochre, usually called kool, and drawing one end to a pencil point, wrote:

"We are in the forest, out of food and starving. Follow on the trail at once and find us."
"PAUL MILLER AND COMPANION."

When this had been fastened about the dog's neck, he was released and sent bounding away through the forest.

When the dog courier had been dispatched with his message, the two men trudged on a mile or two farther and halted. Evening was approaching, and they were up the banks of a lake in a marshy ground covered with a thicket of bushes. Here they built a small fire and made a supper on a part of their slender stock of food.

Suddenly they were startled by a crashing among the bushes, accompanied by a snort half of terror and half of defiance. Paul seized his rifle and both leaped to their feet.
"A moose!"

The captain nodded.
"It is our only chance for life."
Again the captain nodded. Paul gave him a sweeping motion with his left hand at the same time disappearing on the right.
"You are to go on carefully through the melting snow and tangled thickets Paul groped his way, holding his rifle in one hand and parting the bushes with the other. Hours after hour he trudged on, pausing occasionally to listen. At last he was about to give up and return to the camp, when the crashing of the bushes not far off awoke his hopes.

Suddenly a dark object loomed up through the night. He only caught a glimpse of it, and before he could raise his rifle to his shoulder it was gone.
"What was that?"
"It was a moose, and Paul felt damp and chilly. He was stunned and confused, and only half-conscious when there came on his ears the sound of splashing feet.

Next he was conscious of a large, dark object coming through the woods. A large animal was drinking at the lake. He roused himself in a moment, raised his gun, brought it to his shoulder, and without hardly taking aim, fired a bullet.

"There was a wild, spasmodic leap, a splash and plunging. He fired again and again at the animal, but a few plunges bludge him into the thick and fell.

Paul roused himself in a moment and rushed to his side. Despair quickly gave way to joy, for here was food. The moose was a giant in size, and would furnish them with food for days. He cut his breast with his knife and then for the first time thought of his companion. He called aloud, and fired a shot in the air, but only the echo answered him.

"He will get on my trail and follow me," thought Paul, and began to skin the dead moose without feeling in the least uneasy. Having finished, completed his task, he built a fire, and, cutting off one of the choicest steaks began to broil them over it. Pa and cracklins.

Laura, who was very much interested in her sad story, asked: "Why are you going to the Klondike?"
"I am going where I can make money," said Paul, "and I can get rich, and help young people, who won't suffer as I have."

From that time on they became the best of friends. They were together, and they shared their hopes and fears, and both knelt at night to ask God for guidance in their course in the future.

The vessel ran to within three-fourths of a mile of the shore and dropped anchor.
They had been discovered by the natives, and they were waving handkerchiefs and hats, firing guns and pistols in the air. The boats were lowered and men climbed into them.

"Don't be in a hurry to go, child," whispered Kate, who exercised a sort of motherly control over the girls. "There's another ship in."

"Where did it come from?" Laura asked.
"San Francisco, I think. Fact, I know it's from San Francisco."

Poor Laura lit a cigarette, and, at the moment when, weak and faint, he was continually spurred on by the remembrance that Laura was in the wilderness of Alaska.

About the middle of the afternoon the snow ceased falling, and the sun shined brightly through the clouds.
Suddenly the hermit stopped and said: "Do you see that?"

"Yes, what made it a bear?" "No, it is either a dog or wolf."
The thought of a supper on either was repulsive, and the two trudged on in silence. A mile farther they saw a white dog with black spots on the side of his head drinking at one of the lakes. Paul reached for his rifle, but the captain said: "No, don't shoot him; he may prove our friend."

Paul began to call and whistle to the dog, using terms like the Eskimauk. The animal gave them a look of surprise, and then bounded toward them, yelping in his joy at meeting a human companion.

"He has a collar about his neck," said Paul.
"I say, captain, if we release him he will go back to his master, will he not?"

"Certainly."
"Then we may make a courier of him. Let us write a message, tie it to his collar and send him away."

An excellent idea.
Paul had a small strip of seal skin, and under the embankment he dug out a bit of red chalk, or ochre, usually called kool, and drawing one end to a pencil point, wrote:

"We are in the forest, out of food and starving. Follow on the trail at once and find us."
"PAUL MILLER AND COMPANION."

When this had been fastened about the dog's neck, he was released and sent bounding away through the forest.

When the dog courier had been dispatched with his message, the two men trudged on a mile or two farther and halted. Evening was approaching, and they were up the banks of a lake in a marshy ground covered with a thicket of bushes. Here they built a small fire and made a supper on a part of their slender stock of food.

Suddenly they were startled by a crashing among the bushes, accompanied by a snort half of terror and half of defiance. Paul seized his rifle and both leaped to their feet.
"A moose!"

The captain nodded.
"It is our only chance for life."
Again the captain nodded. Paul gave him a sweeping motion with his left hand at the same time disappearing on the right.
"You are to go on carefully through the melting snow and tangled thickets Paul groped his way, holding his rifle in one hand and parting the bushes with the other. Hours after hour he trudged on, pausing occasionally to listen. At last he was about to give up and return to the camp, when the crashing of the bushes not far off awoke his hopes.

Suddenly a dark object loomed up through the night. He only caught a glimpse of it, and before he could raise his rifle to his shoulder it was gone.
"What was that?"
"It was a moose, and Paul felt damp and chilly. He was stunned and confused, and only half-conscious when there came on his ears the sound of splashing feet.

Next he was conscious of a large, dark object coming through the woods. A large animal was drinking at the lake. He roused himself in a moment, raised his gun, brought it to his shoulder, and without hardly taking aim, fired a bullet.

"There was a wild, spasmodic leap, a splash and plunging. He fired again and again at the animal, but a few plunges bludge him into the thick and fell.

Paul roused himself in a moment and rushed to his side. Despair quickly gave way to joy, for here was food. The moose was a giant in size, and would furnish them with food for days. He cut his breast with his knife and then for the first time thought of his companion. He called aloud, and fired a shot in the air, but only the echo answered him.

"He will get on my trail and follow me," thought Paul, and began to skin the dead moose without feeling in the least uneasy. Having finished, completed his task, he built a fire, and, cutting off one of the choicest steaks began to broil them over it. Pa and cracklins.

Laura, who was very much interested in her sad story, asked: "Why are you going to the Klondike?"
"I am going where I can make money," said Paul, "and I can get rich, and help young people, who won't suffer as I have."

From that time on they became the best of friends. They were together, and they shared their hopes and fears, and both knelt at night to ask God for guidance in their course in the future.

The vessel ran to within three-fourths of a mile of the shore and dropped anchor.
They had been discovered by the natives, and they were waving handkerchiefs and hats, firing guns and pistols in the air. The boats were lowered and men climbed into them.

"Don't be in a hurry to go, child," whispered Kate, who exercised a sort of motherly control over the girls. "There's another ship in."

"Where did it come from?" Laura asked.
"San Francisco, I think. Fact, I know it's from San Francisco."

Poor Laura lit a cigarette, and, at the moment when, weak and faint, he was continually spurred on by the remembrance that Laura was in the wilderness of Alaska.

About the middle of the afternoon the snow ceased falling, and the sun shined brightly through the clouds.
Suddenly the hermit stopped and said: "Do you see that?"

"Yes, what made it a bear?" "No, it is either a dog or wolf."
The thought of a supper on either was repulsive, and the two trudged on in silence. A mile farther they saw a white dog with black spots on the side of his head drinking at one of the lakes. Paul reached for his rifle, but the captain said: "No, don't shoot him; he may prove our friend."

Paul began to call and whistle to the dog, using terms like the Eskimauk. The animal gave them a look of surprise, and then bounded toward them, yelping in his joy at meeting a human companion.

"He has a collar about his neck," said Paul.
"I say, captain, if we release him he will go back to his master, will he not?"

"Certainly."
"Then we may make a courier of him. Let us write a message, tie it to his collar and send him away."

An excellent idea.
Paul had a small strip of seal skin, and under the embankment he dug out a bit of red chalk, or ochre, usually called kool, and drawing one end to a pencil point, wrote:

"We are in the forest, out of food and starving. Follow on the trail at once and find us."
"PAUL MILLER AND COMPANION."

When this had been fastened about the dog's neck, he was released and sent bounding away through the forest.

When the dog courier had been dispatched with his message, the two men trudged on a mile or two farther and halted. Evening was approaching, and they were up the banks of a lake in a marshy ground covered with a thicket of bushes. Here they built a small fire and made a supper on a part of their slender stock of food.

Suddenly they were startled by a crashing among the bushes, accompanied by a snort half of terror and half of defiance. Paul seized his rifle and both leaped to their feet.
"A moose!"

The captain nodded.
"It is our only chance for life."
Again the captain nodded. Paul gave him a sweeping motion with his left hand at the same time disappearing on the right.
"You are to go on carefully through the melting snow and tangled thickets Paul groped his way, holding his rifle in one hand and parting the bushes with the other. Hours after hour he trudged on, pausing occasionally to listen. At last he was about to give up and return to the camp, when the crashing of the bushes not far off awoke his hopes.

Suddenly a dark object loomed up through the night. He only caught a glimpse of it, and before he could raise his rifle to his shoulder it was gone.
"What was that?"
"It was a moose, and Paul felt damp and chilly. He was stunned and confused, and only half-conscious when there came on his ears the sound of splashing feet.

Next he was conscious of a large, dark object coming through the woods. A large animal was drinking at the lake. He roused himself in a moment, raised his gun, brought it to his shoulder, and without hardly taking aim, fired a bullet.

"There was a wild, spasmodic leap, a splash and plunging. He fired again and again at the animal, but a few plunges bludge him into the thick and fell.

Paul roused himself in a moment and rushed to his side. Despair quickly gave way to joy, for here was food. The moose was a giant in size, and would furnish them with food for days. He cut his breast with his knife and then for the first time thought of his companion. He called aloud, and fired a shot in the air, but only the echo answered him.

"He will get on my trail and follow me," thought Paul, and began to skin the dead moose without feeling in the least uneasy. Having finished, completed his task, he built a fire, and, cutting off one of the choicest steaks began to broil them over it. Pa and cracklins.

Laura, who was very much interested in her sad story, asked: "Why are you going to the Klondike?"
"I am going where I can make money," said Paul, "and I can get rich, and help young people, who won't suffer as I have."

From that time on they became the best of friends. They were together, and they shared their hopes and fears, and both knelt at night to ask God for guidance in their course in the future.

The vessel ran to within three-fourths of a mile of the shore and dropped anchor.
They had been discovered by the natives, and they were waving handkerchiefs and hats, firing guns and pistols in the air. The boats were lowered and men climbed into them.

"Don't be in a hurry to go, child," whispered Kate, who exercised a sort of motherly control over the girls. "There's another ship in."

"Where did it come from?" Laura asked.
"San Francisco, I think. Fact, I know it's from San Francisco."

Poor Laura lit a cigarette, and, at the moment when, weak and faint, he was continually spurred on by the remembrance that Laura was in the wilderness of Alaska.

About the middle of the afternoon the snow ceased falling, and the sun shined brightly through the clouds.
Suddenly the hermit stopped and said: "Do you see that?"

"Yes, what made it a bear?" "No, it is either a dog or wolf."
The thought of a supper on either was repulsive, and the two trudged on in silence. A mile farther they saw a white dog with black spots on the side of his head drinking at one of the lakes. Paul reached for his rifle, but the captain said: "No, don't shoot him; he may prove our friend."

Paul began to call and whistle to the dog, using terms like the Eskimauk. The animal gave them a look of surprise, and then bounded toward them, yelping in his joy at meeting a human companion.

"He has a collar about his neck," said Paul.
"I say, captain, if we release him he will go back to his master, will he not?"

"Certainly."
"Then we may make a courier of him. Let us write a message, tie it to his collar and send him away."

An excellent idea.
Paul had a small strip of seal skin, and under the embankment he dug out a bit of red chalk, or ochre, usually called kool, and drawing one end to a pencil point, wrote:

"We are in the forest, out of food and starving. Follow on the trail at once and find us."
"PAUL MILLER AND COMPANION."

When this had been fastened about the dog's neck, he was released and sent bounding away through the forest.

When the dog courier had been dispatched with his message, the two men trudged on a mile or two farther and halted. Evening was approaching, and they were up the banks of a lake in a marshy ground covered with a thicket of bushes. Here they built a small fire and made a supper on a part of their slender stock of food.

Suddenly they were startled by a crashing among the bushes, accompanied by a snort half of terror and half of defiance. Paul seized his rifle and both leaped to their feet.
"A moose!"

The captain nodded.
"It is our only chance for life."
Again the captain nodded. Paul gave him a sweeping motion with his left hand at the same time disappearing on the right.
"You are to go on carefully through the melting snow and tangled thickets Paul groped his way, holding his rifle in one hand and parting the bushes with the other. Hours after hour he trudged on, pausing occasionally to listen. At last he was about to give up and return to the camp, when the crashing of the bushes not far off awoke his hopes.

Suddenly a dark object loomed up through the night. He only caught a glimpse of it, and before he could raise his rifle to his shoulder it was gone.
"What was that?"
"It was a moose, and Paul felt damp and chilly. He was stunned and confused, and only half-conscious when there came on his ears the sound of splashing feet.

Next he was conscious of a large, dark object coming through the woods. A large animal was drinking at the lake. He roused himself in a moment, raised his gun, brought it to his shoulder, and without hardly taking aim, fired a bullet.

"There was a wild, spasmodic leap, a splash and plunging. He fired again and again at the animal, but a few plunges bludge him into the thick and fell.

Paul roused himself in a moment and rushed to his side. Despair quickly gave way to joy, for here was food. The moose was a giant in size, and would furnish them with food for days. He cut his breast with his knife and then for the first time thought of his companion. He called aloud, and fired a shot in the air, but only the echo answered him.

"He will get on my trail and follow me," thought Paul, and began to skin the dead moose without feeling in the least uneasy. Having finished, completed his task, he built a fire, and, cutting off one of the choicest steaks began to broil them over it. Pa and cracklins.

Laura, who was very much interested in her sad story, asked: "Why are you going to the Klondike?"
"I am going where I can make money," said Paul, "and I can get rich, and help young people, who won't suffer as I have."

From that time on they became the best of friends. They were together, and they shared their hopes and fears, and both knelt at night to ask God for guidance in their course in the future.

The vessel ran to within three-fourths of a mile of the shore and dropped anchor.
They had been discovered by the natives, and they were waving handkerchiefs and hats, firing guns and pistols in the air. The boats were lowered and men climbed into them.

"Don't be in a hurry to go, child," whispered Kate, who exercised a sort of motherly control over the girls. "There's another ship in."

"Where did it come from?" Laura asked.
"San Francisco, I think. Fact, I know it's from San Francisco."

Poor Laura lit a cigarette, and, at the moment when, weak and faint, he was continually spurred on by the remembrance that Laura was in the wilderness of Alaska.

About the middle of the afternoon the snow ceased falling, and the sun shined brightly through the clouds.
Suddenly the hermit stopped and said: "Do you see that?"

"Yes, what made it a bear?" "No, it is either a dog or wolf."
The thought of a supper on either was repulsive, and the two trudged on in silence. A mile farther they saw a white dog with black spots on the side of his head drinking at one of the lakes. Paul reached for his rifle, but the captain said: "No, don't shoot him; he may prove our friend."

Paul began to call and whistle to the dog, using terms like the Eskimauk. The animal gave them a look of surprise, and then bounded toward them, yelping in his joy at meeting a human companion.

"He has a collar about his neck," said Paul.
"I say, captain, if we release him he will go back to his master, will he not?"

"Certainly."
"Then we may make a courier of him. Let us write a message, tie it to his collar and send him away."

An excellent idea.
Paul had a small strip of seal skin, and under the embankment he dug out a bit of red chalk, or ochre, usually called kool, and drawing one end to a pencil point, wrote:

"We are in the forest, out of food and starving. Follow on the trail at once and find us."
"PAUL MILLER AND COMPANION."

When this had been fastened about the dog's neck, he was released and sent bounding away through the forest.

When the dog courier had been dispatched with his message, the two men trudged on a mile or two farther and halted. Evening was approaching, and they were up the banks of a lake in a marshy ground covered with a thicket of bushes. Here they built a small fire and made a supper on a part of their slender stock of food.

Suddenly they were startled by a crashing among the bushes, accompanied by a snort half of terror and half of defiance. Paul seized his rifle and both leaped to their feet.
"A moose!"

The captain nodded.
"It is our only chance for life."
Again the captain nodded. Paul gave him a sweeping motion with his left hand at the same time disappearing on the right.
"You are to go on carefully through the melting snow and tangled thickets Paul groped his way, holding his rifle in one hand and parting the bushes with the other. Hours after hour he trudged on, pausing occasionally to listen. At last he was about to give up and return to the camp, when the crashing of the bushes not far off awoke his hopes.

Suddenly a dark object loomed up through the night. He only caught a glimpse of it, and before he could raise his rifle to his shoulder it was gone.
"What was that?"
"It was a moose, and Paul felt damp and chilly. He was stunned and confused, and only half-conscious when there came on his ears the sound of splashing feet.

Next he was conscious of a large, dark object coming through the woods. A large animal was drinking at the lake. He roused himself in a moment, raised his gun, brought it to his shoulder, and without hardly taking aim, fired a bullet.

"There was a wild, spasmodic leap, a splash and plunging. He fired again and again at the animal, but a few plunges bludge him into the thick and fell.

Paul roused himself in a moment and rushed to his side. Despair quickly gave way to joy, for here was food. The moose was a giant in size, and would furnish them with food for days. He cut his breast with his knife and then for the first time thought of his companion. He called aloud, and fired a shot in the air, but only the echo answered him.

"He will get on my trail and follow me," thought Paul, and began to skin the dead moose without feeling in the least uneasy. Having finished, completed his task, he built a fire, and, cutting off one of the choicest steaks began to broil them over it. Pa and cracklins.

Laura, who was very much interested in her sad story, asked: "Why are you going to the Klondike?"
"I am going where I can make money," said Paul, "and I can get rich, and help young people, who won't suffer as I have."

From that time on they became the best of friends. They were together, and they shared their hopes and fears, and both knelt at night to ask God for guidance in their course in the future.

The vessel ran to within three-fourths of a mile of the shore and dropped anchor.
They had been discovered by the natives, and they were waving handkerchiefs and hats, firing guns and pistols in the air. The boats were lowered and men climbed into them.

"Don't be in a hurry to go, child," whispered Kate, who exercised a sort of motherly control over the girls. "There's another ship in."

"Where did it come from?" Laura asked.
"San Francisco, I think. Fact, I know it's from San Francisco."

Poor Laura lit a cigarette, and, at the moment when, weak and faint, he was continually spurred on by the remembrance that Laura was in the wilderness of Alaska.

About the middle of the afternoon the snow ceased falling, and the sun shined brightly through the clouds.
Suddenly the hermit stopped and said: "Do you see that?"

"Yes, what made it a bear?" "No, it is either a dog or wolf."
The thought of a supper on either was repulsive, and the two trudged on in silence. A mile farther they saw a white dog with black spots on the side of his head drinking at one of the lakes. Paul reached for his rifle, but the captain said: "No, don't shoot him; he may prove our friend."

Paul began to call and whistle to the dog, using terms like the Eskimauk. The animal gave them a look of surprise, and then bounded toward them, yelping in his joy at meeting a human companion.

"He has a collar about his neck," said Paul.
"I say, captain, if we release him he will go back to his master, will he not?"

"Certainly."
"Then we may make a courier of him. Let us write a message, tie it to his collar and send him away."

An excellent idea.
Paul had a small strip of seal skin, and under the embankment he dug out a bit of red chalk, or ochre, usually called kool, and drawing one end to a pencil point, wrote:</

A Chance for a Hero
By GEORGE W. ROSE.

MISS DOROTHY COURTNEY is a Daughter of the Revolution. In the same sense she is a daughter of all the wars of English speaking peoples since the crusades. Her ancestors spent so much time fighting that one naturally wonders how they came to be ancestors at all.

A courage absolute is what Dorothy most admires, and until lately she has thought her cousin Harold (several times removed) possessed it.

At present she doubts whether any man (except the few Courneys who haven't been killed off) is really brave under all circumstances.

Harold vanished, and the young man, Mr. Kempton, was installed as hero. He was a reserved young man, and did not find it necessary to inform her that there are some men whose bees will not sting.

Now comes the sad tale of Mr. Kempton's tumble from his pedestal. He followed Miss Dorothy and her aunt to Frankfort, and foolishly allowed himself to go out in a boat. He might have had a telegram from home, or even a vulgar tramp in the stomach, but, misled by a clear sky and an Annulus of a boatman, he went like a lamb to the slaughter.

A mile from shore a wind struck them savagely. It slanted the sea, buffed the poor little Siren, and jerked the sheet from Kempton's hand. The sail swung out over the bows. Kempton threw himself on the tiller; the lower fastenings of the rudder broke and the boat was helpless. It swung side on to the waves and wallowed. A larger wave struck it amidships and dumped half a barrel of water into it.

Kempton lost what nerve he had. "We shall be drowned! There is no good deal of this young couple, and a pleasant sight it was; she, with her clear-cut face, blond hair and dainty summer costume; he, dark and alert, in a blue yachting suit.

The finest setting for these two jewels was the blue waters of the bay, with the purple hills beyond. You should have seen them in the canoe skimming the waves. She among the cushions, deep in dreams, while he, carelessly watching of wind and weather, pictured to himself a future with her.

But Nemesis, riding hard, was close behind Mr. Hathaway. They were walking one day and spoke of the revolution. "My grandfather's mother stood on a balcony in Philadelphia when the American troops entered," he said. "She waved a welcome to them."

"The old Continentalists in their ragged regimentals," Dorothy quizzed. "My grandfather's father was one of them." "Perhaps she waved to him," the young man said. "Suppose they had met and loved and married. You and I would have been brother and sister."

This statement was open to criticism, but the subject seemed to interest her so much that she would not let go. "You are talking to me as if I were a child," she said. "I don't know what you mean, but I will take a drive." With a slightly heightened color Miss Dorothy explained that she could drive a motor car as well as a summer resort. "But when they were seated in the 'run about' she related and gave him the reins, saying: "I will teach you to drive, as you taught me to sail."

Half a mile brought them to a turn in the road, the horse trotting sedately. Mr. Hathaway was nervous. "We'll have to come about there," he said. "How do you do it?" She showed him, and, bracing his feet as they came to the turn, he said: "Let go the reiner sheet! and dropped one wheel. 'Ha! in the lee sheet!'"

"No, no," she cried. "Don't pull with both hands!"

"What shall I make this line fast to?" He handed it taut and gave it a couple of half hitches around his foot. The horse stopped, looking around reproachfully.

"She's in a stony! Mr. Hathaway cried. "She'll never make it. Throw her head over to port!"

Miss Dorothy took the reins and started the horse. Mr. Hathaway drew a long breath. "That was a good maneuver," he said, looking back at the turn. "But I would feel better if we had an anchor aboard."

"You are talking to me as if I were a child," she said. "I don't know what you mean, but I will take a drive."

With a slightly heightened color Miss Dorothy explained that she could drive a motor car as well as a summer resort.

But when they were seated in the 'run about' she related and gave him the reins, saying: "I will teach you to drive, as you taught me to sail."

Half a mile brought them to a turn in the road, the horse trotting sedately. Mr. Hathaway was nervous.

"We'll have to come about there," he said. "How do you do it?" She showed him, and, bracing his feet as they came to the turn, he said: "Let go the reiner sheet! and dropped one wheel. 'Ha! in the lee sheet!'"

"No, no," she cried. "Don't pull with both hands!"

"What shall I make this line fast to?" He handed it taut and gave it a couple of half hitches around his foot.

The horse stopped, looking around reproachfully.

"She's in a stony! Mr. Hathaway cried. "She'll never make it. Throw her head over to port!"

Miss Dorothy took the reins and started the horse.

$3.00 WORTH OF PAPERS FOR ONLY $1.70

We offer the Lowell Ledger, the Grand Rapids Semi-Weekly Herald and the Pilgrim Magazine, total value $3.00, all one year for only $1.70. For such as do not wish the Herald we will furnish the Lowell Ledger and Pilgrim Magazine one year each.

Regular value $2.00 for the small sum of $1.10
Everybody is in This.

All those subscriptions to the Lowell Ledger are paid one year in advance can secure the Pilgrim Magazine for an additional payment of Only 10 Cents.

People on the rural routes may SUBSCRIBE with the CARRIERS. Do not neglect this opportunity to secure your best home paper, a state and county paper and a splendid magazine, all for $1.70, but little more than half their value.

THE LEDGER, Over Postoffice Lowell, Mich.

Gastritis Dyspepsia Malnutrition
NEALE'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS
Am Arbor, Mich.
Price 50 cts.

Neale's Dyspepsia Tablets
Price 50 cts.

Send One of the Children

Our Grocery Business

McCARTY & CO.

Washington's Stone Trough
Philadelphia, Pa.
The famous old stone basin from which Washington entered his horses in revolutionary days is no longer used as a pump trough. It has been removed from the obsequy of the old stone pump house adjoining the Bartram mansion (where for nearly a century it collected the water from the cooling springs of the old well) and has been given a position of honor just outside of the historic mansion, says the Philadelphia Record.

New Plans Made.
Detroit is to have current of Electricity Carried on Tall Towers from the Sea.

Fine Riggs

Jones' Livery

Apples Wanted

Particular Men

Guaranteed Linen

Van Landt, Jacobs & Co.

Apples Wanted

Washing's Stone Trough
Philadelphia, Pa.
The famous old stone basin from which Washington entered his horses in revolutionary days is no longer used as a pump trough. It has been removed from the obsequy of the old stone pump house adjoining the Bartram mansion (where for nearly a century it collected the water from the cooling springs of the old well) and has been given a position of honor just outside of the historic mansion, says the Philadelphia Record.

New Plans Made.
Detroit is to have current of Electricity Carried on Tall Towers from the Sea.

Fine Riggs

Jones' Livery

Apples Wanted

Particular Men

Guaranteed Linen

Van Landt, Jacobs & Co.

Apples Wanted

BARCA'S in Dry Goods and Carpets

Honest, honorable treatment to every one at all times under every condition seems something here. That is why we say One Dollar for a Dollar article instead of 98c for 75c worth. No guess work about qualities either.

Jackets and Capes for everybody. You'll think so when you see the stock. Greatest Values yet shown. All the new things.

Always Something New- E. R. COLLAR

HOME NEWS

Why, Godfrey says so, it is so. $1.00 buys a good umbrella at Coons'.

BONE FOOD
Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food and blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

FEAR THE WORST.
Three boys the sailing, and indications are that they have been drowned.

A FATAL ROW.
A fatal row near Traverse City, in which two men are killed, and one badly wounded.

Send for free sample.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists. 400-415 First Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Send One of the Children
Our Grocery Business

McCARTY & CO.

Fine Riggs

Jones' Livery

Apples Wanted

Particular Men

Guaranteed Linen

Van Landt, Jacobs & Co.

Apples Wanted

BARCA'S in Dry Goods and Carpets

Honest, honorable treatment to every one at all times under every condition seems something here. That is why we say One Dollar for a Dollar article instead of 98c for 75c worth. No guess work about qualities either.

Jackets and Capes for everybody. You'll think so when you see the stock. Greatest Values yet shown. All the new things.

Always Something New- E. R. COLLAR

Dr. Porter's Cough Syrup

FEAR THE WORST.
Three boys the sailing, and indications are that they have been drowned.

A FATAL ROW.
A fatal row near Traverse City, in which two men are killed, and one badly wounded.

Send for free sample.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists. 400-415 First Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Send One of the Children
Our Grocery Business

McCARTY & CO.

Fine Riggs

Jones' Livery

Apples Wanted

Particular Men

Guaranteed Linen

Van Landt, Jacobs & Co.

Apples Wanted

Excursions

PERE MARQUETTE
TO POINTS IN THE WEST, NORTHWEST AND SOUTH WEST!
Tickets will be sold to above points any day from Sept. 1 to Oct. 31 at very low rates. Ask agents for particulars as to routes, rates, etc., or write to W. E. Wolfenden, 13 P. A., Grand Rapids for full information.

MILTON M. PERRY
Attorney and Counsel at Law, Train's Hall Block, Lowell, Mich. Special attention given to Collections, Conveyancing and Sale of Real Estate.

DR. E. D. McQUEEN
Veterinary Surgeon
Dentistry and Surgery a Specialty
Livery, Feed and Sale Barn in connection.
Both Phones No. 55. LOWELL, MICH.

FOR Fire INSURANCE
Call on F. D. EDDY & CO.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine original Grand Rapids Business University...

203 Positions
From Jan. 7th to Aug. 14th, 1903, 128 of these positions were taken by its students 75 of them were graded for lack of graduates at the time called for. This marked appreciation of the work of this school proves its high grade character. Its records are open for inspection.

Lowell Planing Mill
ECKER & FOSTER, Proprietors
Manufacturers of... Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Cedar Fence Posts, Brick

FARM IMPLEMENTS
of all kinds.
Also Buggies, Wagons, Robes, Blankets, Etc.
H. NASH

Big Sales Means Big Values

Just as long as we offer, week after week, better goods for the same money or the same goods for less money than other stores, just so long will ours remain the busiest store in Lowell. If our prices for Dry Goods were not lower than elsewhere our sales would not be so large. If you think this over you will see the force of it and will feel inclined to come here to buy whether you have purchased of us before or not. "Once a customer always a customer;" for it is values such as we offer that hold our friends and constantly increase their ranks.

We sell the best DRESS PRINTS for 40c, not just a little bunch of cuts, but 4 or 5 cases of the best kinds made, such as Indigo Blues, Simpson's Greys and Blacks and Windsor's Fancies.

The Best American Shirting Prints 30c
The Best Apron Check Gingham 50c
The Best Outing Flannels 80c
The Best Table Oil Cloths 12 1-2c

A. W. WEEKES.

Lowell State Bank

LOWELL, MICH.

Organized under the general Banking Law of this state.
Capital $25,000.00

Commercial and Savings Departments.

OFFICERS.

CHAS. McCARTY, President
Geo. W. Parker, Vice-President
WILLIAM E. MARSH, Cashier
D. G. MANNING, Asst. Cashier

DIRECTORS.

Chas. McCarty, F. T. King
Geo. W. Parker, F. J. Laver
E. L. Bennett

All the reliable Patent Medicines advertised in this paper are sold by D. G. Look—the Lowell Drug and Book Man.

HOME NEWS

Elegant showing of sweaters at Coons'.
Calvin Rogers spent Sunday in Ionia.
Eastern Star meeting to-morrow evening.
J. E. Tinkler and wife are visiting at Hastings.
Hear Washington Gardner at the opera house to-night.
To wear good clothes for a little money, go to Godfrey's.
It is cheering to note that small-pox is subsiding in the State.
Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Hodges spent Sunday in Grand Rapids.
Mrs. David English of Clarksville is visiting Mrs. A. L. Peck.
When good goods and low prices count, Godfrey wins the trade.
F. N. White is attending a session of the County Board of Supervisors.
Born—in Lowell, Oct. 15, to Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bush, a daughter.
If you find a price below Godfrey's you'll find quality below also.
Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Flanagan returned Saturday from their Chicago trip.
A new cement walk has been made fronting the new Raymond block.
Born—in South Lowell, Oct. 15, to Mr. and Mrs. George McNutt, a daughter.
Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Wright are spending a few days with friends at Grand Rapids.
Lowell Dancing club will give a party at Train's hall Friday evening, Oct. 24.
Mrs. S. B. Knapp left Wednesday for Middleville where she will visit her son, Jon Ackerson.
Mrs. Eli Colvin, aged seventy-nine, an old resident of Caledonia township, died Sunday. Funeral services were held at Alaska Tuesday, conducted by Rev. Freeman of Bowne.
The party that went to Washington returned Tuesday night and reported a pleasant time. Rowland Ryder was ill part of the time and unable to enjoy the sight seeing. The entire party was entertained at 652, East Capital St., at the home of a Virginia lady, and were delighted with the treatment received. Albert Oliver remained until Thursday, when he left for Philadelphia. He is expected home the latter part of this week. Mr. Hicks claims to have seen a printing office somewhat larger than that of THE LEDGER; one employing 3700 people. It was the government printing office at Washington.

Boys' knee pant suits with vests $3.50 to $6.00. Coons.
Miss Mary Wilson spent Saturday and Sunday with the family of H. Zeigler in Ionia.
Mrs. Frank Taylor of Windsor, Canada, a former resident of Lowell, is visiting friends here.
Hotel Brace has a new landlord, Geo. W. Wing of Mefflon, who took possession Tuesday.
Mrs. S. A. Williams and son, U. B., were called to Ionia yesterday by the death of a relative.
A fair inspection and an honest judgement is all we ask. Yours truly, The Godfrey Clothiers.
Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Boyle have moved into the home owned by Wilder Wiley, on Monroe street.
Mrs. G. G. Towsley, Misses A. L. Morris and Martha Thompson spent Saturday in Grand Rapids.
Mesdames Geo. Fuller and Geo. Rouse are spending to-day with the former's mother in South Lowell.
It is a duty you owe your judgment and your purse to visit Godfrey's clothing and shoe store before you buy elsewhere.

The M. E. Ladies Aid society cleared $45 at their chicken pie supper Tuesday evening. They say it was "the best ever."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Hewitt, of Bay City, enroute for the Upper Peninsula, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hewitt.

W. S. Turner, who will be remembered as a former Lowell resident, died at his home at Lakeview, September 25, at the age of 57 years.

Wilson Armstrong was made a Master Mason by Lowell Lodge Tuesday evening. Another special meeting next Tuesday evening, first degree work.

"I got $5.90 for last week's work in the Canning factory," said a woman who lives several miles out of town. "It's worth coming after." There will be no haul about wages next year, nor no difficulty in getting help.

That advertising pays has again been demonstrated. Tuesday morning, Mrs. J. D. Kelly missed her gold watch. The last she remembered of it was putting it in her dress Monday evening previous to walking down town. She came to THE LEDGER office, ordered some hand bills printed offering a reward for the return of the watch. The job was quickly gotten out and Mrs. Kelly went home and found the watch in the bed.

M. D. Sneathen, A. V. Wright, P. C. Freeman, J. S. Graham, Fred and Edson O'Harrow, Will and V. P. Graham, Andrew and Frank Rittenger, J. W. Yeiter, A. W. Winger, James Easterly, Charles Harris, H. J. Vandermonde and C. G. Rittenger have organized an association for the purchase and use of a stallion not to exceed $2,000 in cost. A committee composed of P. C. Freeman, J. S. and Will Graham and J. W. Yeiter was appointed to go to Chicago and purchase a desirable animal.

Jardiniere

Time Again.

We have the finest lot you ever saw and at prices that come within reach of all.

25c Jardiniere for 10c
35c " " 25c
50c " " 35c
Etc.

Fancy China

The best assortment in this neck-o'-the-woods. Come and see it.

COLLAR'S BAZAAR

Nothing But... Buttons

We are showing some hand-some new patterns in Cuff Links in our west window this week. They represent some of the newest creations of the jeweler's art and the price won't keep you from buying—76c, $1, $1 1/2, $1 3/4, $1 3/8, $2, $2 1/4, $2 1/2, up.

They are much nicer than you would expect for the money.

Eclipse of the moon tonight.
Big gun bargains at Stocking's Heavy fleeced underwear 50c quality at 38c. Coons.

M. A. Wilkinson of Saranac was in town Tuesday.

Football here next Saturday, Belding vs. Lowell.

H. W. Hakes has been granted a license as an embalmer.

A. C. Sherman spent Sunday with his son, H. A., at Owosso.

The Lowell Juniors were defeated in football at Belding last Saturday.

Henry Needham and Will Lind, who are attending school at Big Rapids, were home Sunday.

This is the store of plenty. The stocks yield to every wish and bend to every purse. The Godfrey clothiers and shoers

For the benefit of their health, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. English have decided to move West and are advertising their residence and personal property for sale. They will go to Seattle, Wash., and perhaps to the Pacific coast on a prospecting tour.

More prosperity. Doctors M. C. Greene and A. E. Cambell are occupying their remodelled offices, which have been conveniently re-partitioned and elegantly finished. Hand-some carpets, furniture and fixtures complete a model suite of offices, where the proprietors are now "at home" to their many friends and patrons.

THE LOWELL MARKET REPORT

Thursday, (to-day) Oct. 16, 1902.

GRAIN.
Wheat—69c per bushel.
Oats—30c per bushel.
Corn—56c per bushel.
Rye—45c per bushel.

FEED.
Corn and Oats—$30 00 per ton.
 Bran—$16 00 per ton.

VEGETABLES AND FRUITS.
Yellow Peaches—25c to 75c per bushel.
 Apples—75c per bbl.
 Pears—25c to 40c per bushel.
 Potatoes—25c to 35c per bushel.

PRODUCE.
Butter—17c to 18c per pound.
 Eggs—17c per dozen.
 Lard—12 to 14c per pound.

Alaska Clover seed—$6.25 to $7 00.
 Clover seed—$5 00 to $5 50 per bushel.
 Beans—$1 75 and $2 00 per bushel.
 Corn meal—$28 00 per ton.
 Middlings—$18 00 per ton.

MEATS.
Beef, live weight—$2 50 to $3 60 per cwt.
 Beef, dressed—$5 00 to $6 00 per cwt.
 Veal dressed—$6 50 to 7 00 per cwt.
 Sheep, live weight—$2 50 to 3 00 per cwt.
 Lamb, live weight—$3 50 to 3 75 per cwt.
 Pork alive—$5 50 to 6 00 per cwt.
 Pork dressed—$7 00 to $8 00 per cwt.

Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat SPECIALTY,
G. G. TOWSLEY, M. D.

Office: GRAHAM BLOCK, LOWELL, MICH.

Go to Stocking's if it's guns you want.

You are missing it by not buying your furniture now at the Red Ticket Sale.

Did it ever occur to you that Godfrey is selling a good many shoes these days? Did it ever occur to you?

The Grand-Rapids High school football team met a Waterloo at the hands of the Lowell team on Train's ground last Saturday. Score 27 to 0. This is the third Grand Rapids team defeated by Lowell this year. Three games played, each a victory for Lowell.

Lost.—Between Lowell and Belding, Oct. 6, a large pasteboard box containing things valuable only to the owner. Information concerning above will be most thankfully received by Mrs. Eugene Lee, Belding.

The Democrats of Kent county, through the city and county committees, have ignored the primary election law in Grand Rapids, and the Barnaby caucus and convention law in the townships by filing their legislative ticket by appointment of candidates for senators and representatives, with the expectation of having them placed on the official ballot. These are the candidates selected: State senators—Sixteenth district, Wesley W. Hide, Grand Rapids; seventeenth district, Henry D. Plumb, Mill Creek. Representatives—First district, Charles E. Hogadone, Daniel Viergever and Fred C. Temple all of Grand Rapids; second district, William J. Watterson, Cascade; third district, Daniel W. Atkinson, Sparta.

CHURCHES & SOCIETIES.

Methodist.

"Self Mastery," is the topic for the Epworth League meeting Sunday evening. A. A. Husted will have charge of the meeting.

The Juniors expect to have an outing next Saturday, Oct. 18. An interesting and helpful object lesson will be given to the Juniors on Sunday afternoon at their meeting.

"The two conditions that must be met by every one who succeeds" is the theme that will be discussed at the Thursday evening meeting. Next Sunday will be Rally day in the Sunday school and all the members are urgently requested to be present and all others who are not attending elsewhere are invited to come also.

The pastor will use the following themes Sunday. In the morning, "Walking with God." In the evening, "Quit you like Men."

The Keene L. A. S. will hold their November meeting at the Grange hall on election day. It will be an all day meeting. Ladies come prepared to work. The gentlemen are cordially invited to take dinner and supper that day with the ladies at the usual Aid society fee.

Societies.

All ladies of the L. O. T. M. are requested to meet at their hall Friday Oct. 17 at 2:30 p. m. Lillian E. Adams, D. G. C., of Grand Rapids, will be present. Business of importance.

She's a radiant, witching wondrous gem that beautiful, blushing wife of mine. She is an angel on earth, so you can be, only take Rocky Mountain Tea. D. G. Look.

I. O. O. F. EXCURSION TO PORT HURON VIA GRAND TRUNK RY. OCT. 20.

Special train will leave Lowell 12:49 noon. Fare for the round trip $3.80, good for return on all regular trains up to and including Oct. 25th.

Friends of this paper, when doing business in the Probate court, will confer a favor upon the publisher by requesting the Judge to send the advertisement to THE LOWELL LEDGER.

4 x 5 folding camera, plateholders, case, tripod, trays, etc., for sale. Outfit cost $30, will sell for $20. Good as new. Apply at this office.

THE LEDGER can now be reached by Citizens' telephone No. 200 and by Bell telephone No. 53.

West Lowell.

Mrs. F. J. Priest visited her parents at Portland last Sunday.

Mrs. Ed. Robison of Dighton, Osceola county, formerly of Lowell, visited her brother, B. Bull, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gulliford spent Sunday in Detroit with their son Frank.

Mrs. Daisy Rolf is spending a few days with her sister in Grand Rapids.

This paper until January 1, 1903 only 20 cents, to new subscribers.

Out of Death's Jaws

"When death seemed very near from a severe stomach and liver trouble, that I had suffered with for years," writes P. Muse, Durham, N. C., "Dr. King's New Life Pills saved my life and gave perfect health." Best pills on earth and only 25c at D. G. Look's drug store.

Don't miss the bargains at Red Ticket Sale of furniture at Yeiter & Wadsworth.

It stands alone, it towers above. There is no other, its nature's wonder warning a pulchre to the heart of mankind. Such is Rocky Mountain Tea. 35c. D. G. Look.

MORE GOOD NEWS FOR THE CONSUMER

What is one person's loss is another's gain. On account of the delay of material to complete my new quarters it will be impossible for me to move Oct. 15th as heretofore stated. Therefore I will continue the cut price sale on until I move, which will be but a short time. Anybody wanting furniture cannot help buying after getting my prices. They are so surprisingly low. Hoping to see you all, I am

FURNITURE, PICTURES AND PICTURE FRAMES

Courteously yours,

H. W. Hakes

Dr. M. Clayton Greene

Graduate of University of Michigan and Post Graduate course at New York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital, N. Y. city.
Office—LOWELL, MICH.

Why is this Man Like a Postage Stamp?

Because he Sticks Until he gets there.

Largest Store
Largest Stock
Lowest Goods
Regular Prices

On Clothing, Furnishings, Shoes, Trunks and Telescopes.

Trade at...

Godfrey's Store...

Because Best.

He never disappoints.