THE CITY BANK LOWELL, MICHIGAN

Holders of our Savings Pass Books are saved both time and trouble. They need not watch their deposits for fear the interest may stop; nor are they obliged to come to the bank to keep their interest alive. We never wait for customers to bring in their pass books, but regularly in December and June we credit on our books all interest then due so that it shall be ready for depositors whenever they call for it. When interest is not called for we add same to principal and together both bear interest at the customary rate of three per cent.

The New Round Oak...

with its smoke and soot consuming device makes it as far superior to all other so-called smoke consumers as the original Round Oak wood stove was superior to all other round oak wood stoves. By having a heavy iron side cast pot inside of the outer pot will last four times as long and the outside pot will not turn red but will retain its original black finish and beauty. See the name on the leg to be sure you get the genuine one that will burn hard coal, soft coal and wood.

BURGLAR IN TOWN EVAPORATOR CLOSED

WOMEN IN FRANK N. WHITE'S HOUSE

Held at Revolver's Point. "All's Well That Ends Well."

The residence of F. N. White was entered by a burglar Sunday morning and several of the inmates threatened with a revolver; but nothing was lost and no one was hurt.

At 3 o'clock a. m., Sunday, Mrs. Colling and Mrs. Sherwood, guests of the Whites and occupying a room on the ground floor, were awakened by a man moving about in the adjoining room. Thinking it was Mrs. White, Frank N's aged mother, and that she might be sick, one of them proposed to get up and go to her aid; but a man appeared in the curtained doorway and leveling a revolver at them commanded silence; as he had already threatened the old lady, who had meekly complied.

The younger women, however, with a revolver pointing at them screamed: "Frank White come down here, there's a man in the house."

They were answered from all parts of the house; and when the alarmed members arrived on the scene, an open window and three frightened women were the total results of the excitement.

Two watches lay on the bureau and several considerable sums of money were in the house; but nothing has been missed.

The burglar is described as tall and slim, his face covered by a handkerchief. He left the tracks of No. 8 shoes in the soft dirt of the recently graded lawn, which had a peculiar indentation in the ball, such as might be made by the grippers worn by ball players and sprinters. Otherwise no clue to the perpetrator is known.

Mr. White tells a good joke on himself in connection with the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. White had given up their bed room to their guests and taken one up stairs. When the alarm was given, our supervisor got to his feet in a dazed condition, and forgetting that he was upstairs, began feeling around in the dark for a way up stairs, where he thought the disturbance was. So, while Mrs. White got down stairs in time to see the burglar scoting out of the window, her partner did not arrive on the scene until the danger was all over.

Thinking of "How Betty and I Killed the Bear," Frank now occasionally remarks to his wife: "My, didn't we kill a big one!"

Congressman Wm. Alden Smith Who will speak at Train's opera house, Lowell, Wednesday evening, Oct. 20.

PROPRIETOR HATCH UNABLE TO GET HARD COAL.

Unfortunate for All Concerned Kellogg Evaporator Not Affected.

Cliff Hatch has closed his evaporator after vain attempts to secure hard coal both in Lowell and Grand Rapids, with which to continue drying operations.

It is now the height of the evaporating season, apples of fine quality being offered in large quantities by growers; and Mr. Hatch expected to continue operations for six weeks or two months.

The evaporator is fitted for the use of hard coal and neither soft coal or wood can be substituted.

Closing up means a big loss to the operator, lack of employment for a number of hands and a loss to the local apple market.

At the Kellogg evaporator soft coal and wood are used and Mr. Kellogg expects to be able to run throughout the season; having a big stock of apples on hand and more coming every day. The cider and jelly mill in connection is also running to its full capacity.

WILSON POST CELEBRATES TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Less Than a Dozen of Its 31 Charter Members Survive.

Joseph Wilson Post No. 87, G. A. R., celebrated the twentieth anniversary of its organization Thursday evening, Oct. 16, in company with the sister organization, the Relief Corps.

The ladies served a banquet, Commander Porter of Custer Post, Grand Rapids, entertained with graphophone selections; and Comrade Hicks gave a very interesting account of the recent National Encampment of the Grand Army at Washington.

Joseph Wilson post was organized in 1882 with 31 charter members, of whom only ten or eleven are believed to be living; and has occupied the same hall all these years. About 200 members have been enrolled since the post was organized; but only from 50 to 60 survive and reside here.

Benj. Morse has been commander for some fourteen years and he thinks he holds the banner for regular attendance on the semi-monthly meetings of the Post, having missed but three meetings in the twenty years.

The Women's Relief Corps of Lowell was organized in August, 19 years ago, with 24 charter members, of whom only three are alive and residing here. Their numbers have been added to by new recruits from time to time; and their good deeds, which have been numberless, shall live after them.

A Frosty Meeting.

Congressman Washington Gardner had rather of a frosty meeting at Train's opera house last Thursday evening. The hall was uncomfortably cold, the attendance very small; and all through the speech there was almost continual interruption by people coming in or going out. Mr. Gardner is an able speaker; but he was unable to do himself justice under such circumstances.

Wm. Alden Smith speaks in Lowell Wednesday evening, Oct. 29th instead of the 28th as announced on page 3.

HE SHOT THE HAT.

A Somewhat Risky Custom in Oklahoma That Saves Time on a Windy Day.

"A whole lot of ideas with which we grow up change when we get into another country," said a New York man who has just come back from a three months' trip in the southwest, according to the Sun. "Now, one of the things we have heard of all our lives is that if a man's hat blows off he is a fool to run after it, for there is always somebody around polite enough to pick it up and hand it to the owner, if he has to walk a block to do it.

"I have seen it done. I have read about it more times than I have had hats.

"But it is not the custom at Reno, Okla. I was sitting on the veranda of the hotel in that town, watching the various articles which one of those sandstorms whirled through the air.

"The hat of a citizen was raised and carried against a place on the other side of the street. A strapping fellow, who had been picking his teeth with a match as he sat near me on the veranda, got up, whipped out a navy revolver and fired a shot at the hat, nailing it to the fence.

"The owner came up, pulled the hat from its impalement, waved his hand at the man on the veranda and proceeded on his way.

"It saves time runnin' after it," said the man on the veranda, "and it don't hurt the hat."

AMERICAN SURGERY PRAISED.

High Tribute Paid Our Doctors and Medical Men by the Late Professor Virchow.

The late Prof. Virchow, the eminent German physician and scientist, had a high notion of American doctors and American medical scientists generally, reports the Chicago Inter Ocean. When interviewed some time ago the professor said, in the course of the conversation, that several young medical students from the United States had passed through his hands whose attainments were certainly on a very high level and whose brightness and alertness could not be excelled.

"I have a great admiration of American surgery," he added. "The men in America are as good as any we have here in Europe and in some departments they are better. I do not think, though, that the American specialists are as good as the best men in London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna, but they are making big strides. No penurious spirit rules the United States. Everything is on a large, liberal scale, and the splendid university endowments there are bound to tell in the near future. The American laboratories are excellently equipped and the students have enormous advantages over those who study at some of the inadequately equipped schools in Europe."

MODERN CAVE DWELLERS.

Comfortable Villas Carved Out of Rock by Civilians at Kinver Edge, England.

Although there is nothing inherently improbable in the circumstance, it is not generally known that the race of troglodytes is not yet extinct, and that there are at least quite a number of cave dwellers in modern Britain. The inhabitants are by no means half savages.

At Kinver Edge, near Birmingham, are two rows of modern villas, formed mainly out of the "immortal caves hollowed out of the hill," with stone-front projections. These dwellings are said to be "far more comfortable and luxurious than the less-original houses to be found in more pretentious neighborhoods." The rooms are "spacious and rain-proof" and the people of Enville, "as the village formed by these houses is called, are justly proud of their quaint homes, and speak with patriotic affection of Holy Austin rock, the stone from which their dwellings are hewn."

There are several remarkable cave dwellings in Knarborough, in Yorkshire, says the Detroit News-Tribune, the "proprietor" of one of which has adorned the various levels of his hillside cave home with battlements and calls it Fort Montague.

SENATOR CLARK'S WIT.

How the Western Millionaire Got Back at a Tonsorial Artist Who Had "Nerve."

A story is going the rounds in Butte which quite aptly represents the business methods adhered to by United States Senator W. A. Clark, the multi-millionaire miner, banker and manufacturer.

Upon his return from the east the senator visited a barber shop for the purpose of having his hair trimmed. He inquired for a certain barber whose ability had been recommended to the senator by his son, Charles W.

Upon the completion of the job the senator inquired the amount of the bill, whereupon the tonsorial artist calmly replied:

"Charley usually gives me five dollars."

The senator was taken by surprise, but, regaining his wits, asked: "But what is the usual charge for such a service?"

"Fifty cents," responded the barber. "Well," said Senator Clark, with a smile, according to the New York Times, "Charley has a rich father and I have not," whereupon he handed the barber 50 cents and departed.

Glaciers in Montana.

But few people are aware that there are in Montana some of the finest glaciers in the world.

GOOD TIMES COMING.

Never Before Have Things Looked as Bright for the American Farmer as Just Now.

Cheering reports of excellent crops come from all over the east. In place of the distressing wails of drought and famine of grain and fodder that came from all parts of the corn belt last year, come reports of crops so plentiful that they will be almost burdensome to handle. This should cheer not only the farmers who are more immediately benefited by the bountiful crops, but the whole industrial lines of business and the labor. Railroads already see the necessity of enlarging their equipment to handle the increased business, producing more labor for the skilled workmen who produce locomotives and cars, and more men will be needed in actual service on the roads and in handling the grain. Returns from the sale of these enlarged crops and the live stock produced will put much currency in the hands of the farmers to buy whatever they need—and there are no better buyers than prosperous farmers. New buildings will be erected on thousands of farms. New wagons and carriages, harness and equipment for the farms will appear that would not have left the dealers' stock had there been a poor or medium crop. Business will be given a remarkable stimulus, the effect of which will be evident the country over. Best of all will be a reduction in the cost of living to the whole populace of the country, without damage to the farmers and producers of live stock. The reduced cost of grain and fodder will enable them to produce all classes of food animals at less expense, and obtain fair profits at considerably lower market prices than were paid last year. There is little probability that the spring and early summer months next year will be marred by such discordant wrangling over the high cost of meat and all other classes of food. This year's bountiful crops afford insurance against a repetition of the unfortunate conditions of last year, when meats of every class were more expensive than they had been in 20 years. —Chicago Daily Sun.
