SEPTEMBER SEVEN

LOWELL PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL OPEN.

1903-4 to be Banner Year in Schools' History.

The Lowell Public Schools will open this year on Monday, Sept. 7. In the grades there will be five new teachers, Miss Celia Noble, Miss Abigail Davis, Miss Myra Lillie, Miss Winnie White, and Miss Clara Lawrence. The High School faculty will remain as last year.

No change is contemplated in the distribution of the grades. In each of the three outside buildings will be placed the kindergarten and grades 1 to 4. In the Central building will be grades 5 to 8, arranged as a department, and the High School.

The schools showed steady progress last year. The grades promoted were larger, the percentage of failures smaller, the interest shown by the pupils, remarkable. The interest displayed by the parents and patrons, while much improved over the preceding year, is as yet far from what it should be. The village needs a better school sentiment.

Graduates from our High school are admitted without examination to the Ypsilanti, Marquette, and Mt. Pleasant normals, to the Agricultural College and to the university of Michigan. The school is well equipped with laboratory facilities and has the largest school district library in the state. The teachers are all college graduates and experienced instructors. Foreign pupils are welcomed, and parents whose children are to be sent to other than rural schools should ponder the above facts.

It is the desire of the superintendent and teachers to make this the banner year in the history of the Lowell Schools, and they bespeak the co-operation of all in their efforts to realize this ambition.

J. F. Thomas, Superintendent.

Deaths at Rest.

Abbie M. Dawson was born in Lowell, January 15, 1882 and died in Lowell, Mich., Aug. 17, 1903.

His boyhood days were spent in the Lowell schools until he was sixteen years old when he commenced work for the Lowell Cutter Company, where he remained until about three years ago when he decided to learn the drug business and entered the employ of Mr. D. G. Look. Here he remained until his health gave out and he was unable longer to remain indoors.

Hoping to regain his health he went to Colorado Sept. 8th, 1902, where he remained until July 3, 1903. He was a young man of good habits, excellent character, and cheerful disposition. He was a general favorite with all with whom he came in contact.

The funeral services were held in the home Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 19, 1903, and the attendance was so large that many had to remain outside the doors. Rev. Chas. Nease officiated and the body was laid to rest in the Oakwood cemetery.

Specialty Company "at it" Again.

The Lowell Specialty company has made another nice improvement both for itself and the village by purchasing the old feed mill building adjoining its own on the East. The old building has been moved back, set on solid foundation, straightened up and covered with steel. It is accessible from the main building by a platform, and will be used for storage and chemical work. The change is appreciated by near-by property owners, and by all who pass that way.

Returns of Uncle Josh.

You can almost imagine that you are inhaling the fragrance of the apple blossoms during some of the scenes in the charming play of Uncle Josh Spruceby; and, dear reader, we will let you into the secret. You are not imagining it, as it is a reality. During the scene in question the theatre is secretly perfumed by the sprinkling of apple blossom perfume through the house. This may be thought a little costly, but nothing is too good for patrons of the play. So say the managers, and they are the men who carry little hatchets, just the same as the immortal Geo. W. Prices, 50c., 35c and 25c. Sale now open at Sturgis' store.

MARRIAGE LICENCES.

Mrs. A. G. Steketee of Grand Rapids and Mrs. J. E. Tower of Fallasburg visited J. D. Harvey and wife Friday of last week.

Wayne Pardee is able to get out again after his relapse and second long illness. Hope he may make a stay of it this time.

Mrs. S. B. Easterday left Tuesday for an extended visit with relatives at Tiro, Ohio and will also attend the Dixon reunion Aug. 26.

Band concert to-night beginning at 7:30 on the West side. The program will include several new selections, one of them a very pleasing serenade. Tell your neighbors and turn out.

Prospects for the future were never brighter in Lowell than right now. If you have a home here, keep it. If you haven't one, get it. You will never have a better chance. You can buy for half what it would cost to build.

A GOOD MEETING

SECOND RACE MATINEE WELL ATTENDED AND SATISFACTORY.

How the Nags Scored. And the Band Played Annie Lawrie.

A good sized crowd turned out to see the second matinee of the Lowell Driving club last Thursday at Train's Island Park track. The weather was fine and the track fast.

The first race was called at 2:30, and from that time until 5 o'clock there was something doing all the time. The judges hustled things along so there was no tedious waiting. The Lowell band was there and every one enjoyed the music. The crowd was well pleased with the clean sports as all the jockeys and drivers were doing their best to win.

The horses in the 3 minute race had a lot of speed for that class, but were a little unsteady. R. Heffron's Princess Dora in free-for-all surprised the crowd by her speed and nice way of going. The running race was good, but the three-year-old filly, Marion D., owned by C. M. Watters had the speed of the party and won handily.

Florence Bean of Chilcotha is visiting Miss Ada Smith.

Geo. M. Tate of Chicago is spending his vacation with his mother.

Marsh Morse has much improved his house with a neat coat of paint.

Nina Wisner and Bessie Tate were guests of Miss E. Carl of Parnell over Sunday.

Celia Noble has returned home from Ypsilanti, where she has been attending Summer school.

Mrs. S. Brower was the guest last week of her nieces, Mrs. E. Thompson and Mrs. E. Winchel of Ionia.

A. P. Ayers has completed extensive improvements on his house, and it is now one of the neatest in town.

Mrs. L. L. Taylor has gone to visit her brothers, Wm. H., and O. D. Burbank of Gaines, Orleans county, New York.

Mrs. Wm. Benson and son of Star Island, is visiting her sister, Mrs. George Smith, and family at the new electric plant.

Jack Crawford and family have moved into the rooms over Nicholson's store after a residence in the Clark block of eighteen years.

Mrs. Geo. A. Windeknecht and Mrs. Vern King, of Holland and Mr. and Mrs. Edson Grant and Ernest Richardson, of Elmdale, called on W. W. Wilson and family Saturday evening.

The Lowell Cutter factory is working overtime and employing all the help it can get; but is unable to keep up with its orders, and is turning away good orders every day. A good opening for wood-workers needing employment.

A Holland Sunday school from Grand Rapids, numbering about 300, enjoyed a pleasant day on the Islands last Thursday. They played games, ran races and had a good time generally. The business men employed the Military Band to serenade the company, and the attention was evidently appreciated.

The fifth annual re-union of the Mason family was held at the home of Ellie Mason in Grattan, Aug. 13. The day was fine and about fifty of the eighty members were present. After a bountiful dinner, a fine program was rendered. Oliver Watkins, Frank Chase and J. N. Hubbel spoke. Light refreshments were served before the meeting broke up.

The dance given by the Gleaners at their new hall at Moseley last Friday night was a very successful event. Nearly one hundred numbers were sold. Stocking's orchestra furnished music, and the company was jolly and orderly. The Ladies of Moseley Arbor certainly know how to provide a good supper for a hungry multitude; and they did it that night to perfection. After everybody had been filled there was enough left to feed the whole of Kent county's poor.

We wish to call your attention once more to the

Arras Cream Separator

The best cooling process, the handiest, cheapest and best deep setting on earth, for the following reasons:

- 1—Milk and water not mixed.
- 1—Water can is round, milk can is flat, allowing water all around it, and under it, and space enough to use ice.
- 3—Milk can being flat allows greater body of milk against surface of can than a round can.
- 4—Invented by J. D. Arras, a practical farmer, who keeps cows for profit. He made it a specialty to invent a separator so that the farmer's wife could handle the milk with less labor than with any other separator on the market.

Call and see it. Would also be pleased to show you the Iowa Hand Separator. The simplest and easiest running hand separator made. Yours,

THE QUARREL

BY S. E. KISER.
"Alice, you can't deny that you deliberately flirted with him to annoy me."
"Oh, if you are sure of it, why should I take the trouble to deny it?"
"Everybody on the boat noticed it."
"That was kind. I have often wished I could attract everybody's attention in some way."
"Do you think it was fair to me for you to act that way?"
"I don't see how you were concerned in the matter."
"Alice, you forget our relations."
"I don't care for my relations. They never did anything for me. I don't expect they ever will. As for your relations, you must deal with them yourself."
"Do you know that everybody on the boat was pitying me?"
"How could they be pitying you when they were all busy watching me?"
"You forget that you have given me the right to say whom you shall or shall not favor with your attention."
"Indeed! Then please let me notify you that I withdraw the right."
"Alice, where are you going?"
"Why should you care where I am going? It is nothing to you."
"I shall not let you leave me in this way. I—"
"Stop holding my arm! You are hurting me! I never want to see you again."
"Will you be ready to go to the Fergusons at seven o'clock?"
"No. I am not going. You needn't call for me."
"Alice, wait a minute. I want to speak to you."
"You have spoken to me. You have no right to say anything more to me—no more right than you would have to stop some girl you never saw before and tell her what you thought of her."
"Come, dear, don't go on talking like that. You know I scolded you because I love you so much, because it makes me jealous to see you even look at anybody else."
"But I shouldn't think you would—would—care for a girl that everybody on the boat had talked about."
"Perhaps not quite everybody on the boat talked about you, Alice. I may have been mistaken about that."
"Then, to try to humiliate me, you said what was not so."
"No, no—I mean I may have been so put out that I imagined things. Come, dear, won't you forgive me?"
"If you thought I was acting so scandalously, it seems to me you would not have—cared for me any more. I shouldn't—care for anyone who was disgraceful."
"I didn't say I was disgraceful, dear. Of course, you wouldn't do anything that was disgraceful, or that even looked disgraceful. I was simply exasperated because you let him pay you so much attention, while I stood there at the side all alone."
"But there were plenty of other girls there. Why didn't you make yourself agreeable to them?"
"Yes, there were plenty of other girls—but, Alice, there was only one you there."
"Oh, Stevey, you don't really mean that!"
"Yes, dear, I mean it—all of it."
"But you had no right to speak to me the way you did, and I think we had better—just be—friends after this. You know I am released from my promise. Good-by. I think I shall not care to go to the Fergusons this evening. But we shall see each other—quite often—probably."
"Alice, you are not going away from me that way, are you?"
"How would you have me go? Shall I walk backward?"
"I'll not give you up. If all the world tried to take you from me, I would have you still!"
"Stevy, you are hurting me."
"Will you promise not to run away from me?"
"But I thought you wanted to be rid of me for the way I acted this morning."
"You know it wasn't that. I was only mad with love for you."
"Please don't hold me this way. Somebody might come."
"Will you give me back the promise you took away a moment ago?"
"Do you think I ought to promise to be the—to give my promise to one that I didn't—care for?"
"Alice, don't you love me?"
"I don't think I could, if I had treated you as badly as you say I did this morning."

"Let's forget this morning, dear. I tell you I was mad with jealousy."
"But it was very rude of you to talk to me the way you did."
"Forgive me. Poor little girl! I ought to be kicked for treating you so."
"No, Stevey, I'm glad you felt as you did about it. It shows that you—care for me a little."
"Oh, Alice! That I care for you a little? And now do you give me back your promise?"
"I suppose I must."
"And may I have—?"
"Oh, Stevey," she said, as they went across to the library, "what if somebody had looked in—just then?"—Chicago Record-Herald.
One Effect of Alcohol and Tobacco. Excessive drinkers and smokers make very difficult subjects for the administration of anaesthetics, says Dr. Hewitt, of England, anaesthetist to the king. The worst alcoholic subjects may require enormous quantities of the anaesthetic, and in extreme cases nitrous oxide (laughing gas) may be practically useless. In the case of a man who smoked 30 cigars a day, Dr. Hewitt had to push the anaesthetic to an almost dangerous degree before a satisfactory result was obtained.—Ram's Horn.

WANTS BETTER ROADS.

Secretary of National Dairy Union Has Become Earrest Advocate of Brownlow Bill.
The dairy farmers of the United States are wide awake and progressive, especially where their interests are concerned. Recently they have been catching the enthusiasm of the good roads movement. The National Dairy union is one of the greatest farmers' organizations in the country. Its power was shown last year when it secured the passage through congress of the oleomargarine bill. It looks now as if the union will take up the fight for national aid in road improvement. Secretary Charles Y. Knight recently expressed himself as follows concerning the Brownlow bill:
"In company with hundreds of thousands of other people throughout the United States, I am very much interested in this bill. I have just returned from a tour of Italy, France and England, where I had an opportunity to observe the character of the roads in those countries. Coming home and looking over our miserable facilities for getting around in the rural districts, I made up my mind that it will be necessary for this country to do as European countries have done in order to get good roads, i. e., have government aid.
"The National Dairy union is organized throughout the north in every congressional district which has any amount of agricultural constituency, and I am firmly of the opinion that the progressive farmers who are dairy-men will be in favor of the bill for national aid. I am so much interested in its success that I am willing to use my influence to have our dairy farmers petition for the passage of this bill. I would be willing to give several hundred dollars out of my own pocket to see the roads of this country improved like those of France."
