INDIAN MAID NEGONCE

Honored by Builders of New Business Block in Lowell.

Our pioneer townsman, John S. Hooker, who suggested the name "Negonce," which the builders of the new block have adopted, kindly furnishes the following particulars concerning the Indian maiden thus honored.

As the name of the beautiful block has caused many remarks and inquiries it is, perhaps, but fitting that a brief history of the one who bore this name and its significance be given to the public. On the 29th day of August, 1835, in an Indian tent not far from where this block stands, an Indian girl first saw the light. She was a born beauty, and at the age of two years she had the step and carriage of a queen. Being the first granddaughter of the chief she carried the title of princess, and richly did she merit it, as she developed into the most beautiful maiden of the tribe and a prodigy in learning and in the arts of her people. When but a small girl she excelled all others with her exquisite needlework. Her clothing and moccasins were always embroidered with silk ribbon, hedgehog quills and brooches in beautiful designs, purely her own. As she grew into womanhood she increased in beauty and was the reigning belle of the tribe. At their feasts and dance she always had the seat of honor at the right hand of the chief, who ever showed the pride he felt in his little queen.

She was the recipient of many tokens of love and respect by the whites, as well as her own people and was always dressed with neatness and taste. Very many interesting incidents of her life might be written, but we deem this sufficient to satisfy the curious as to why it was thought fitting to name the bright new block for the Indian princess—Negonce.

MONEY IN APPLE TREES

Ionia Orchard Furnished by Husted Brings $5,500 in Two Years.

It is reported on good authority that N. B. Hazes has sold his apples this year for $3,000 on the trees. The purchasers pick and pack the fruit and furnish barrels. Mr. Hazes boards the men while doing this work and delivers at the railroad station. This is on his 40 acres orchard, which is an average of $75 per acre.—[Ionia Express.]

The trees in the Hazes orchard were purchased of the N. P. Husted nursery in the early eighties. Mr. Husted made the selections and helped to set the first row of trees. Mr. Hazes follows up-to-date methods in the treatment of his orchard and merits his success. The fruit on this orchard was sold for $2500 in the same manner last year. The results show the possibilities in scientific apple culture; and our veteran nurseryman is well pleased with the showing made.

SCOTT & WINEGAR.

From Our Point of View

That he has a grave misconception of the race problem was shown by Cyrus Field Adams, a colored man, in an address at Detroit, when he declared: "Colored people are despised because they are poor—give a Negro a million dollars and he would be a favorite everywhere. If any man of any race is despised anywhere, it is because he is poor, not because he is poor; and no amount of wealth would make him respectable. Field said further: "Our worst enemies are the alleged Christian churches." As he was addressing African Methodists, and "present company is almost entirely excepted," the A. M. E. church was evidently not included among the merely "alleged" Christian churches. This assumption of sectarian superiority, other than among the white and the change is false. "There could not be an army raised as forty years ago to fight for freedom of the slaves," was another statement of the speaker which shows him a poor student of history. The Northern armies in the Civil war were raised by the Union, not to free the slaves. The emancipation proclamation was a war measure, not contemplated by Lincoln himself when the call for volunteers was issued. The assumption that there is less friendship in the North for the Negro is also untrue. The colored race has the opportunity to work out its own salvation, and the industries, having aided Negro who improves it, has as many friends as he had forty years ago. The lawless, lazy, criminal classes of all races are rightly despised, and it is no exception. Respect is merited and won by respectability, not by falsehood and vituperation.

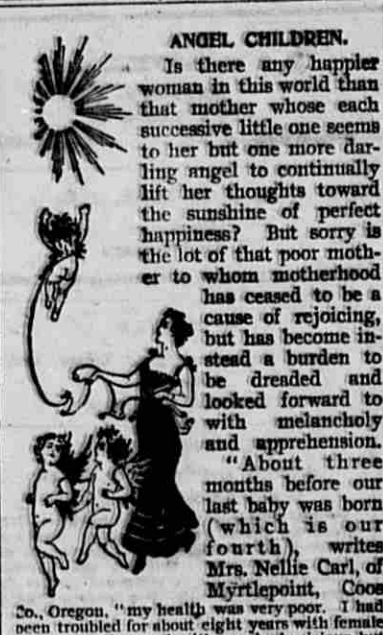

Over more the remnant of the Grand Army of the Republic has had its annual encampment. Forty years have passed since the strong man composing it laid down the arms and resumed the pursuits of peace; and feeble forms and withered hands are the rule. The annual parade grows shorter and more carriages are required for the aged and infirm.

Now that the Meyer murders have been disposed of, the Detroit papers may devote less space to crimes and criminals.

It is time to stop non-sensical violence in wedding celebrations. A Muskegon bridegroom has been nearly killed by his "playful" fellows.

Will we ever get our streets clear and our sidewalks passable again? Well, sometimes, maybe. Remember Job, and have patience.

Now that the Meyer murders have been disposed of, the Detroit papers may devote less space to crimes and criminals.

ANGEL CHILDREN.

There are many happier women in this world than the mother whose each successive little one seems to lift her thoughts toward the sunshine of perfect happiness. But every lot of that poor mother who has become impatient and despondent, and looked forward to the birth of another child with a sigh of relief, and a prayer for the child's health, is a sad one.

CATARRH FROM CHILDHOOD

Cured by Hyomel, the Only Medicine for Catarrh that M. N. Henry is willing to Guarantee.

The popularity and growth of Hyomel are unique in the annals of medicine. The demand for the Hyomel outfit and the extra bottles in Lowell has been something phenomenal, and M. N. Henry says he has never sold any other remedy which gave such universal satisfaction and made so many remarkable cures.

The fact that Hyomel cures catarrh in the only natural and sensible way, that is through breathing medicated air, not by taking drugs into the stomach, no doubt has helped in the introduction of the treatment. There is certainly no other remedy for catarrhal diseases that is so effectual as Hyomel, and its discovery has realized in part Pasteur's prophecy, "We shall one day rid the world of all diseases that are caused by germs."

The worst and most chronic cases of catarrh readily yield to the use of Hyomel. People who have suffered from childhood have been cured by this remedy. J. S. Nugent, treasurer of the American Union Insurance Co., New York City, writes, "Hyomel has completely cured my daughter of catarrh, from which she had been suffering for years."

So many remarkable results have attended the use of Hyomel amongst the customers of M. N. Henry, that he feels justified in using the strongest possible language in speaking of its virtues, and when you read he sells it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure, you will see that he fully believes in its curative powers. A complete outfit costs only one dollar, extra bottles 50 cents.
