FROM A FOREIGN LAND

Dr. Meda Hess Home Again. Speaks to a Few Friends.

Dr. Meda Hess, late of Hadjin, Turkey, arrived in Lowell on Saturday. She was unable to speak in public, greatly to the disappointment of many friends, having contracted a severe cold which deprived her of her voice. On Tuesday evening however she was able to speak to a parlor gathering at the home of her hostess, Mrs. M. M. Perry. An appreciative company followed Dr. Hess across the plains and through the mountains of that strange country, going with her through many scenes of peril into the wretched homes of that down-trodden people. The story was told with the delightful charm that characterizes this brilliant woman. The vocal solos by Miss Isabel Fallas and Harley Maynard formed a fitting close to a well spent evening.

Dr. Hess first went to Turkey in 1893, and taught seven years in the Girls' College in Marasch. The physical needs of the women so appealed to her that she returned to America and finished her medical course, begun before first going out. Furnished with her diploma and post graduate diploma from the New York Post Graduate School and Hospital, as well as the state license to practice in Michigan she returned to Turkey in the Summer of 1904 expecting to devote the remainder of her life to medical work among the women and children. She was refused permission to take the examination at Constantinople, necessary to procure her license in Turkey, on the ground that as a woman she was ineligible under Turkish laws.

Leaving her case in the hands of competent counsel she proceeded to Hadjin, a town in the heart of Taurus mountains, six days caravan journey from the railway terminus. The local governor served notice that, as a woman, she must not practice medicine, but added that having done his official duty his eyes were shut and he was very glad personally to have her in his needy city. There was no medical help of any kind for a population within the radius of many days journey and Dr. Hess was beset daily by waiting crowds of sick, until the day of her return last Summer. The Governor, under whose protection she had conducted the work was removed, and the Turk who succeeded him absolutely prohibited her from practicing. The effort of two years at the capitol to compel the government to grant her the necessary examination was unavailing, and she was obliged to return to America. After a few weeks she expects to commence private practice in the West. —[Com.]

VETERAN AND PIONEER

Lewis Warner of Morse Lake Passed Away at the Age of 83.

Lewis Warner departed this life at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Earl Curtiss, at Morse Lake last Wednesday morning, having reached the ripe old age of 83 years, 5 months, 11 days. Funeral services were held from the Alto Baptist church Friday at twelve o'clock, Rev. Wright officiating with the assistance of Rev. Richmere. The text was taken from Psalms 90:12. He was laid at rest in the Merriman cemetery.

Lewis Warner was born in Parma, N. Y., June 2, 1823. On Feb. 20, 1856, he was united in marriage to Miss Rosannah Harris, and to this union twelve children were born, of whom seven still remain.

He was loyal to his country and in 1863 donned the army blue and went into the service to help defend his country. He was with Sherman on the famous march to the sea, and served with Company B., 14th Michigan Infantry, until the close of the war, when he returned to his home near Coldwater. After a few years he bought a farm near the city of Grand Rapids where he spent a little over seven years of a well ordered and useful life. In 1875 he took up his residence on a farm in Keene. He was an honored member of the organization of the Patrons of Husbandry until old age compelled him to remain at home. South Lowell Grange showed their appreciation and esteem by placing on his casket a lovely tribute of sunnax and roses. He was also a member of the Joseph Wilson Post, G. A. R., of Lowell. In 1892 he took up his residence in the village of Alto, where he lived and rested from manual labor and care, until about two years ago, when old age and failing health compelled him and his faithful companion to leave their pleasant home and take up their residence with their oldest daughter, Mrs. Earl Curtiss, at Morse Lake from whose residence he was carried to his last resting place. Although he suffered at intervals with a pain in his chest, it was not until last Tuesday morning that it took an acute form.

In 1895 he united with the Alto Baptist church, which church and society he cherished to the last and of which he was deacon at his death. All who knew him will long cherish his memory for his Christian influence, honor and integrity. He was a staunch defender of temperance, a true, kind neighbor, a loving father. He leaves to mourn his loss a faithful, aged wife, four sons and three daughters, one sister, Mrs. C. W. Slawson of Grand Rapids, 31 grand children and a host of relatives and friends. —[Com.]

DUKE OF DEVIL-MAY-CARE

By HARRIS DICKSON

CHAPTER VIII—Continued. The girl came running, Monsieur Victor indicated Mrs. Ashton's foot with a delicate and delicate...

Some one had been at breakfast. The two girls looked at each other, then at the table to see what sort of breakfast these people would have.

Antonia squashed in the center of the court checking the child with the fountain-ouch, then spluttering out again. Two love-making pieces straggled along the coping with their heads toward the door.

Just like those queer old days. "What a queer old days," said Antonia, writing about it. "Alice whispered as if she were afraid to talk aloud. 'Arise, you glad we came!'

"Yes, but it doesn't look like the place we came to last night. I'm all turned around."

Antonia glared at her bare hands, and sprang up. "I've left my rings, let me run and get them."

At the head of the stair Antonia stopped and leaned on the rail again, watching the fountain. She had made to think about, and this was a very quiet place.

Without meaning to listen she came conscious of a mumble of voices, somewhere down the stairs. It was such a queer, confused, so full of hoarse, so hot and vaunted, so full of hoarse, so hot and vaunted...

There was a little room at the foot of the stairs. Antonia could see that the door was open. She went in. It was a small room, but it was very quiet.

members' only. Her face lighted. She stepped to the what-not and picked up the missing rings from a small shelf.

"I bid them here last night, and found a note on the table. It was a note from a newspaper, that seemed to be all. But whoever it was had cut and gone.

"They were very pretty," said her sister. "They don't look as if they hurt."

"They nearly kill me there," said Evelyn, indicating the best. "And they're simply torture there," pointing to the rest.

"It was not a cheerful prospect. Her sister Eileen murmured something to that effect.

"I declare Antonia, I can hardly recall that time. It is the last place where I was ever so happy." Antonia nodded, she was looking at the half-open door of that little room, and wondering.

They walked on through the entry, and stood for a moment looking out upon the street.

"I've bought a pair of shoes," said Evelyn, continuing. "I was down in a shop window just as I had made up my mind not to pay over four dollars for a pair of shoes."

"So you purchased them immediately." "Gracious, no. I withstood the temptation for days. First I went in and tried on several cheaper pairs that naturally wouldn't do at all."

EVELYN'S NEW SHOES

It was in the street car that Evelyn told her troubles. She had on her $7 pair of shoes and naturally was full of the subject.

"I never had a twinge or an ache or a pain before," said she, thrusting out a small shoe as which she gazed with bitterness. "It was a soft kid shoe with attractive heels and broad silk laces."

"They're very pretty," said her sister. "They don't look as if they hurt."

AWFUL SUFFERING.

From Dreadful Pains From Wound on Foot—Suffer All Run Down—Miraculous Cure by Cuticura.

"Words cannot speak highly enough for the Cuticura Remedies. I am now seventy-two years of age. My system had all run down. My blood was so bad that blood poisoning had set in. I had several doctors attending me, so finally I went to the hospital where I was laid up for two months. My foot and ankle were almost beyond recovery."

"I never had a twinge or an ache or a pain before," said she, thrusting out a small shoe as which she gazed with bitterness. "It was a soft kid shoe with attractive heels and broad silk laces."

"They're very pretty," said her sister. "They don't look as if they hurt."

HIS MONUMENT.

There has been set in a cemetery in Orwell, Oswego county, N. Y., as the memorial of a lumberman, framed of granite and marble, the exact reproduction in miniature of a sawmill in the town of Berlin, which was owned by the deceased.

On the scale of an inch to the foot, the mill is complete in every detail, being provided with saws, cranes, rollers to carry off the sawed lumber, skids with three logs placed thereon ready to roll on the carriage car, which is loaded with lumber.

"I never had a twinge or an ache or a pain before," said she, thrusting out a small shoe as which she gazed with bitterness. "It was a soft kid shoe with attractive heels and broad silk laces."

"They're very pretty," said her sister. "They don't look as if they hurt."

TRICKS OF MEMORY

Accounted for by Some on the Basis of Transmigration of Souls—Second Explanation is a Physical One.

"Have we ever lived before?" is a question which is interesting many correspondents of British newspapers. Dr. Andrew Wilson analyzes the strange phenomena of memory given by the contributors in part as follows:

"I never had a twinge or an ache or a pain before," said she, thrusting out a small shoe as which she gazed with bitterness. "It was a soft kid shoe with attractive heels and broad silk laces."

"They're very pretty," said her sister. "They don't look as if they hurt."

FEARFUL PAINS

WHILE no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. This is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. When pain exists something is wrong which should be set right, or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

"I never had a twinge or an ache or a pain before," said she, thrusting out a small shoe as which she gazed with bitterness. "It was a soft kid shoe with attractive heels and broad silk laces."

The time for subscribing to only one periodical is past. Every refined home, where good reading is appreciated, is not without its family group of periodicals—something for the man, something for the young people, something for the woman. These three magazines fill the bill completely as a year's supply for the library table. You will want them anyhow, so why not get them with the Lowell Ledger, saving 40 per cent as well as the trouble of corresponding with four publishers?

Six million of the best people in America have found these three great magazines—the Review of Reviews, Woman's Home Companion and Success—a joy and help and inspiration. We are proud to be able to offer them in one combination with the Lowell Ledger.

If for any reason you do not want all your magazines for yourself, send them to your friends. No present is more acceptable.

Review of Reviews. Woman's Home Companion. Success Magazine. The more magazines there are the more necessary is the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important magazines in the world. Such is the flood of periodical literature that nowadays people say the only way to keep up with it is to read the REVIEW OF REVIEWS. Entirely over and above this reviewing section, it has more original matter and illustrations than most magazines, and the most timely and important articles printed in any monthly. The REVIEW OF REVIEWS covers five continents, and yet is American first and foremost.

REMEMBER—the three great magazines above cost $5.00 if bought separately and the Ledger costs $1.00, too. We offer all four to you for a limited time only for $3.75. Send in your order to-day. Do it now. This offer will be withdrawn.

THANKSGIVING GREETING

To our customers of Lowell and surrounding country we extend this our last Thanksgiving greeting of good will. The old store that has been a family watchword for almost a quarter of a century will soon be only a remembrance. Its stocks will be scattered among the families of its customers. The heavily loaded freight vans that carried goods to the store from every part of the world have ceased their daily rounds to the depot and the end now is in sight. This business has been old enough to vote for several years. The owner M. Ruben entered business in Lowell the 11th day of Nov. 1876. The present business was started on the 17th of April 1884 severing one family after another as the young folks grew up and wearing wonderfully well. In the beginning the stock was small and so was the capital but back of it was something that was worth a fortune, THE DETERMINATION TO DO THINGS RIGHT. It was started right selling exactly what the people want at low prices, with good manners, promptness and absolute fairness. The poor man's dime was worth exactly one tenth of the rich man's dollar. Believing that every body has a right to his money's worth the best service and perfect courtesy. ON THIS BASIS WE BUILT OUR BUSINESS. We are proud of the result, we are proud of the growth of this business, because for the past years its growth has been continuous and because the business has come entirely through the people's confidence in the store. Now the world has gone forth that this stock must be sold in ninety days, the shorter the time in which it can be sold the better. Goods sold at cost or below it pays no profit and the goods must be sold in that way to sell them quickly. Tearing Down a Business is a Much Easier Matter Than building it up but the stock is a tremendous one for a town the size of Lowell and while the deep cut prices have started, an even increasing stream of trade flowing in the direction of this store. Day by day the sales have doubled and trebled yet with the immense stock yet in hand THERE IS NO GOOD REASON WHY EVERY MAN, WOMAN OR CHILD WITHIN REACH OF THIS STORE SHOULD NOT BE WELL CLOTHED ON THIS THANKSGIVING DAY. Next week should be a record breaker in our

About forty of the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer met at their home on Tuesday evening, Nov. 13th, to bid them goodbye previous to their departure for Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer were thoroughly surprised. After an abundance of good things had been served they were presented with a handsome silver, gold-lined nut basket, as a slight token of the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Palmer and family are held. The church and society realize they are losing one of the best families from their midst and the best wishes of many warm friends will follow them to their new home.

More Glasses Are Worn

nowadays than ever before. No doubt of it. People used to think that the wearing of glasses should be put off as long as possible.

We know better now. We apply every known agency for the relief and cure of eye weakness and there are methods in common use which weren't heard of even ten years ago.

Now we commence to right the eyesight just as soon as it begins to go wrong. Now school children by the hundred wear glasses. And it's wise and proper too.

Let us tell you what shape your eyes are in.
