A CHRISTMAS WEDDING

Frost-Converse Marriage Christmas Night. One Hundred Guests Were Present.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. David Condon at Moseley was the scene of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lena Converse, to Mr. Byron Frost, in the presence of one hundred guests on Christmas night, Dec. 25, 1906, at eight o'clock. A beautiful altar was erected in the parlor, over which was a wedding bell suspended between two pillars decorated with smilax and carnations, and the candelabra in the rear illuminated the chancel.

Preceding the ceremony a program of wedding music was rendered by Miss Maggie Hickey and Mrs. J. R. Bignell at the organ, and Mr. Bignell, violinist. Mrs. Bignell sang "O, Promise Me." The bridal party then proceeded to the altar, where the ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Russell H. Bready. The groomsmen were Ray Cave and Lee Converse, and the bride was attended by Mrs. Edith Cave, matron of honor, and Jessie Condon, bridesmaid. The bride was attired in nun's veiling, over silk, and carried a bouquet of roses; the matron of honor and bridesmaid were attired in cream brillantines.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served, the following acting as waiters: Norma Church, Ara Weeks, Tony Condon, Etna Carr, Frank Condon, Carrie Ford. The display of presents was large, and beautiful. Guests were present from Port Huron, Ionia, Grand Rapids, New York, Saranac, Sparta, Symrna, and Lowell. Mr. and Mrs. Frost will take a short wedding trip, and will be at home until further announcement to their friends after January 1st, at the residence of the groom's parents.—[Com.]

SMITH-FORD.

Miss Ella M. Ford and Don M. Smith, both of Lowell, were united in marriage at nine o'clock on Christmas morning by Rev. Charles Nease, at his home on Spencer avenue, Grand Rapids. They were attended by the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pottruff, also of this village.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a trip to Hastings, after which they will return to Lowell where they will make their home.

ARMSTRONG-SAYLES.

Wilson Armstrong, formerly of Lowell, and Blanche Sayles of this village were married Christmas morning at eight-thirty in Grand Rapids, Rev. Charles Nease performing the ceremony at the Plainfield Methodist parsonage. The couple will reside in Grand Rapids.

LEWIS-WOODS.

Joseph Lewis of Lowell and Mrs. Maryon A. Woods of Clarksville were quietly married at the parsonage of the Plainfield Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. Charles Nease officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will make their home in Lowell.—[Grand Rapids Herald.]

EAST LOWELL.

Rev. and Mrs. H. Coles spent Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. M. C. Gilbert.

Mrs. Glenn Dence and children of Grand Rapids are visiting her parents, Geo. Godfrey and wife.

C. Hendershott and wife spent Christmas with their son, Orrel, and family at Lowell.

Ralph Story and family and Mrs. P. C. Story ate Christmas dinner with M. T. and wife.

John Cary and family entertained G. G. Jones and wife Christmas day.

Fred Conklin and family of Lyons visited his parents here last week.

Miss Florence Gilbert has a new piano.

James Lovely lost a horse last week.

There is a week of vacation for the school between Christmas and New Year's.

A large company of friends and neighbors assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Hendershott Friday evening to assist in celebrating their 35th. wedding anniversary. A picnic supper was served, the company being waited on by the Misses Charles of Grand Rapids and Lowell and Misses Besale Story and Jessie Ware. While the wedding march was played by Mrs. Dottie Hendershott, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hendershott took their places attended by Mr. and Mrs. Will Morgan, and renewed their marriage vows, the ceremony being performed by Seymour Coles, the new justice, then J. N. Hubbell in a few well chosen words presented them in behalf of the company with a lovely rocker, as a token of the esteem in which they are held. The company dispersed to their homes at a late hour, wishing them many returns of the day.

Axel Fletcher, who has been in the West, returned Saturday and in company with his brother Guy and family spent Christmas with their sister, Mrs. Bertha Coles.

H. Vanderwall and family spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Having rented the mill at Fallsburg, we wish to solicit a portion of the patronage of this vicinity. We grind rye, graham, buckwheat and all kinds of feed. Special attention given to custom work.

J. J. Parker & Son.

MRS. GIBSON WINS

The Ledger's Christmas Sewing Machine by Large Plurality.

Mrs. James Gibson had a "Merry Christmas" as the owner of The Ledger's prize sewing machine, thanks to the enthusiastic support of a host of friends, who rallied to her support in the closing days of the contest in a most surprising manner. At the counting of December 19, Mrs. Chase lead by 598, while the close of the contest found Mrs. Gibson ahead by 1696.

The total number of votes cast for the four leading contestants was as follows: Mrs. James Gibson 9560, Mrs. E. E. Chase 7864, Mrs. Jay Bovee 2937, Mrs. Ethel Willey 1665. The Ledger desires to thank all who have assisted in making this contest a success and to congratulate them upon having made so wise a disposition of our machine.

Mrs. Gibson's success and Mrs. Chase's splendid vote were largely due to the strenuous efforts of the former's little daughter Ruth and the latter's manly little son Ralph. We are proud of them both, and sorry for the loser.

Mrs. Chase by the way, has cheerfully accepted a handsome "Consolation" prize with thanks and Mrs. Gibson offers the following:

CARD OF THANKS.

To my kind friends and neighbors who have worked so hard in my behalf in the sewing machine contest, I wish to express my heartfelt thanks.

Mrs. JAMES GIBSON.

HAY FOR SALE—4 OR 5 TONS.

Mrs. W. R. Blaisdell.

A farmer near Greenville recently hired a lad to help him do chores. One morning he told him to take some salt and salt a calf out in the pasture. The boy took a quart of salt with him and thoroughly rubbed it all over the calf, working it into the hair. A gang of colts in the pasture scented the salt and got after the calf. They licked all the hair off the calf and nearly took the hide off too.—[Belding News.]

Mr. E. G. Case, a mail carrier in Canton Center, Conn., who has been in the U. S. Service for about sixteen years, says: "I have tried many cough medicines for croup, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is king of all and one to be relied upon every time. It also did the best remedy for coughs and colds, giving certain results and leaving no bad after effects. For sale by M. N. Henry."

GOT THE GLAD HAND.

L. B. Wickersham's Lecture "Day Dreams" Well Received.

L. B. Wickersham, lecturer of Iowa, was enthusiastically received on the occasion of his second visit to Lowell, at Train's opera house Thursday evening, December 20. His topic, "Day Dreams," was brilliantly handled, and followed attentively by the large audience, young and old. He showed how the "Day Dreams" of youth, have been, are and may be realized in achievements of later life of those who work while they play. His description of the great railroad bridge, with its massive piers belted in solid rock 96 feet above the river's bed, aptly showed the prime importance of a right and secure foundation.

Perhaps one of his best points was made when he alluded to the "chummy" with their boys. His expose of the greenness of city folk in the country captured the Lowell audience, as did his meretricious ridicule of "pugwumps," as he styled women who lavish upon pug dogs love and care that should be given their children, who are very often neglected.

The Clover Leaf club made no mistake in bringing Mr. Wickersham to Lowell for a second time, nor will they for a third.

Mr. Wickersham stated that he had heard Ralph Bingham, humorist, mime and entertainer, who comes on January 23, and could promise patrons of the Lecture course an evening of pure fun and entertainment.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

There is no other medicine manufactured that has received so much praise and so many expressions of gratitude as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is effective, and promptly relieves its use. Grateful parents everywhere do not hesitate to testify to its merits for the benefit of others. It is a certain cure for croup and will prevent the attack if given at the first appearance of the disease. It is especially adapted to children as it is pleasant to take and contains nothing hurtful. Mr. E. A. Humphreys, a well known resident and clerk in the store of Mr. E. Locke, of Alice, Cape Colony, South Africa, writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to ward off croup and colds in my family. I found it to be very satisfactory and it gives me pleasure to recommend it." For sale by M. N. Henry.

No Opium in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

There is not the least danger in giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to small children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug. It has an established reputation of more than thirty years as the most successful medicine in use for colds, croup and whooping cough. It all ways cures and is pleasant to take. Children like it. ## CHRISTMAS SERMON

Delivered by Rev. Russell H. Bready Sunday Morning.

The following are extracts from the sermon delivered by Rev. Russell H. Bready at the Methodist church in Lowell Sunday morning.

For the Son of Man is come to seek, and save that which was lost. Luke 19, 10.

What a supreme joy there is in finding lost things. Christ sets the truth forth as he tells us of the man, who rejoiced over the one sheep that was lost, of the joy in the finding the lost piece of silver. There is a higher joy in the recovery of a lost treasure, than in its first receipt.

The joy of finding that which was lost is the story of the first Christmas morning. For the Son of Man is come to seek, and to save that which was lost. This was the supreme source of joy in the Christ, as Paul says, "Who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and accounted the joy of finding the lost."

There is joy in the presence of the angels of God, over one sinner redeemed from sin. Men are looking for joy, but the masses are looking in the wrong place, so they go to the theater, to the dance, to the card party, to all the pleasures of society, and they find joy for an hour, and when the event is over, the question is, where can we find more joy? This kind of joy passes away with it a mere hour, and leaves the pain and ache of too much society. But a source of joy, that does not pass away with the hour, but that thrills all life, is following the schedule of Jesus, seeking and saving the lost.

Christ came to seek, and to save. He is seeking Saviour, and a sinner Christ. To teach was only a part of his mission. He came into the world to save, and to teach, and to do for man and for God. Many men have tried to do the theological doctrine of the incarnation, that great mystery, of divinity being clothed with flesh in the person of Jesus Christ, but they away fly on pleasure, but do not do it, unless you must, all definitions of the incarnation and the whole mystery is explained that in the incarnation God did more than tell us how to live, he showed us how to live, and he must preach, and teach, but if it is the true incarnation of God, it must do more than tell the world, how to live, it must show the world how to live. It must do more than worship before its own altars, it must go out, and seek, and save.

A Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable stimulant, purgative, antiseptic and demulcent. It aids greatly to the efficacy of the other ingredients of the Golden Seal Root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in relieving chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, and all acute and chronic ailments recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of the body, and a general weakness of stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, loss of appetite, and general debility, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal Root, Stone root, and Queen's root, in promoting digestion and building up the body and strength, controlling the cough and relieving the chest, and in restoring the whole system. Of course, it must be accompanied by work, and it will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate chronic coughs, bronchitis, and general troubles, and chronic sore throat and all ailments of the throat and lungs, that it has performed its most valuable work. It is a powerful and safe remedy for colds, and for all the coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by phlegm, and all lung troubles that it has performed its most valuable work. ## BROKE SHOULDER BLADE

Adam Karcher of Bowne the Victim of the Accident.

Adam Karcher of Bowne was seriously injured Tuesday while attempting to stop a runaway team. He saw the team carrier's team coming down the road on a lively run and went out into the road to try and stop them but his efforts were fruitless and in some unaccountable manner he sustained injuries which lay him up for many days. Dr. A. O. Miller was summoned and found that his shoulder blade was fractured and head lacerated, besides several bruises on his body. The doctor reduced the fracture and dressed his wounds and he was able to sit up before the doctor left, but was unable to tell just how it happened. It is hoped he may have a speedy recovery.—[Freeport Herald, Dec. 20.]

A Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable stimulant, purgative, antiseptic and demulcent. It aids greatly to the efficacy of the other ingredients of the Golden Seal Root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in relieving chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, and all acute and chronic ailments recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of the body, and a general weakness of stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, loss of appetite, and general debility, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal Root, Stone root, and Queen's root, in promoting digestion and building up the body and strength, controlling the cough and relieving the chest, and in restoring the whole system. Of course, it must be accompanied by work, and it will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate chronic coughs, bronchitis, and general troubles, and chronic sore throat and all ailments of the throat and lungs, that it has performed its most valuable work. It is a powerful and safe remedy for colds, and for all the coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by phlegm, and all lung troubles that it has performed its most valuable work.

CALLS CLAIM FRAUDULENT.

Ernest Walsh of Grattan, in his answer to the declaration of Jacob Breanahan and George E. Bliss, filed in district court Friday, accuses them of fraudulently attempting to collect $308.50 from the estate of the late John R. Walsh. Breanahan is president of the Walsh estate, and it is claimed that Bliss has put in a claim for the amount mentioned.

DUPED.

By J. Brooke Alder.

I had to read all August for some stupid "exam." and, as somebody said that one could enjoy oneself notwithstanding if one went to a little French bathing place at the other end of a diligence drive from Dieppe, I took the steamer for that favorable spot.

Certainly the fellow who sent me there knew what he was talking about, for anything more fascinating than my existence in that happy valley beside the sea it would be difficult to imagine.

The end came with the arrival, some days later by the afternoon diligence, of a young lady, arrayed in all that is loveliest in Parisian travelling costumes. I happened to be at the hotel door as the old four-horse vehicle came to a standstill and my charmer alighted, followed by a stout old lady carrying a fat dog. From that moment I knew that my fate was sealed.

When the old lady came down to the table d-hote dinner, I was disgusted to find that her seat was quite out of my range. It was no use to pass the pears—the inevitable dessert in Normandy—with one's sweetest smile, if both were to be intercepted half way by a fat banker from Rouen.

But after dinner I saw my chance, and took it. It came in the form of the fat dog, which, having slept peacefully under its mistress' chair all through the meal, had the inspiration, on passing the open door as we left the table, to chase a cat in the hotel garden, where the dusk was fast deepening into night. There were immediate cries of woe from the stout lady, who felt sure that Fido would "run into the sea by mistake," despite the assurances of her chere Ciecle that he was quite capable of taking care of himself.

Thereupon I darted out, seized the unwary Fido, and had the felicity of being thanked in the most charming broken English by the lovely unknown when I restored him to his mistress.

Well, the ice once broken, we soon made ourselves better acquainted, and I had an ideal time for nearly a week.

Matters had come to such a pass that I felt that existence without Ciecle would be a blank; so I went for a solitary walk to review the situation, with the result that I decided to put my fate to the touch and ask her to marry me.

But what was my horror when, on returning to the hotel, I beheld the diligence at the door, loading up with passengers for the station, and Ciecle among them, being helped up to one of the two seats behind the driver, while "ma tante," with the dog, stood in breathless anxiety on the hotel steps.

It was but the work of a moment to rush up to the old lady and ask what it all meant—why this sudden departure without a word of farewell? It appeared that during my walk Ciecle had been telegraphed for from Paris, and had to go without delay.

"But you go with her, madame?"

"No, monsieur, she will be in good hands on the journey, I assure you, for at the station she will meet—"

I did not wait for another word. But dashed out, and, clambering up to the top of the diligence, took the vacant seat beside Ciecle just as the driver cracked his whip as a sign to the stablemen to pull the stones from under the wheels and let the shabby old coach roll down the hill to the village, on its way to the station.

Ciecle was looking radiant with joy, and even lovelier than usual.

I thought as we settled ourselves for the five-mile drive. How she chattered—how excited she was about this journey to Paris! Should I ever have a chance to begin, or time to finish telling her how much I loved her, before the station came within sight? It made me quite nervous, and I dreaded to turn the next corner, so fast were the precious moments passing. I began to fidget, to turn hot and cold, in fact to go through all the degrees of torture possible to a man in the most awkward predicament, with his love on his lips, but kept dumb by the force of the loved one's endless prattle.

The history of Fido's latest perfidy surely could not last until we reached the station!

We were getting alarmingly near now—five minutes more, or eight at the longest! Ah—an inspiration!

"I'll do it on the platform, while we wait for the train!"

What a relief to have settled the matter! I became quite light-hearted, and felt already assured of the success of my suit, as we turned into the station yard and pulled up beside the platform. But the puffing of an engine greeted us. The train was already within sight. I had but time to seize Ciecle's many packages, and to deposit them beside her where she stood waiting in the midst of the railway lines—in the promiscuous Normandy fashion—and to rush off again to get tickets for her and myself—for I had madly determined to go with her at all risks.

I had hardly picked up my change when I heard the train come in. I gashed back to join my loved one, and to—

"Could I believe my eyes? A man jumped from one of the carriages, and Ciecle was enfolding in his arms! She turned, evidently looking for me with her ticket, and, as I handed it to her, half dazed and quite speechless, she said to me with her most angelic smile,—

"Come, monsieur—I want to introduce you to my husband!"
