MALTA LODGE COMES

Guests of Lowell Masons Tuesday Evening, Apr. 30.

There will be doings at Lowell Masonic hall Tuesday evening, Apr. 30, with Malta Lodge of Grand Rapids as guests.

It being a regular meeting, the lodge will open at 6:30 for business. Malta Lodge one hundred strong and accompanied probably by as many more Masons of the city will arrive by special train at 7:30 and be met by the reception committee and be escorted to Masonic hall where Malta Lodge will confer the third degree.

The work will be followed by a banquet at the City hall where all can be served at one sitting; and a talk-fest will conclude the night's work.

Brothers Bready and Morris, former Lowell pastors, are expected with the visitors; and we know it will be interesting for them to keep silent when facing an audience of Lowell Masons.

Master White says: "Masons, turn out and show your colors."

HIS LAST ROLL CALL

Answered by M. J. Painter, Civil War Veteran

Martin J. Painter died at his home in this village at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, aged 76 years. Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church tomorrow (Friday) at one o'clock, p. m. conducted by his pastor, Rev. L. E. Lennox. Burial at Saranac.

Mr. Painter was born at Bronson, Michigan, Nov. 29, 1836. His father died when Martin was ten years old and the family soon afterward moved to Greenville where he lived until the breaking out of the Civil war in April 1861 when he went to Chicago where he enlisted with Captain Fuller in Company K, 65th Illinois Infantry, with which he served until mustered out in 1865.

November 19, 1866, he was married to Harriet L. Spencer of Saranac, where they spent the first 21 years of their married life, then moving to McBride where they lived 7 years, shortly after which they came to Lowell, in October 1890, and bought the pleasant home on the hill where they have since resided.

Mr. Painter leaves besides his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Geo. Cheatham of Lake Odessa and Mrs. Charles Donaker of Lowell, the youngest daughter, Mrs. Winnie Spencer having passed from this life only last June. He leaves also ten grandchildren, two grandchildren by adoption, and one great-grandchild.

Mr. Painter united with the Methodist church at McBride and with the Lowell church by letter under the pastorate of Rev. A. P. Moors, and has continued in active relationship with the same ever since. He was a member of the Oddfellow lodge at Saranac and of Joseph Wilson Post No. 87, G. A. R. Was also a member of the Lowell Board of Trade and the Methodist Brotherhood.

Mr. Painter had been in ill health for years, having been warned against hard labor while living in McBride; but he remained active until within the last two years since which his health has declined. He has been confined to the house since last Thanksgiving, but remained cheerful to the last, receiving his many callers with a hand-clasp and a good word.

Another old soldier has answered the last roll call and survivors are rapidly nearing the last camping ground. Soon "The little green tents" will cover them all and their deeds will be history and a blessed memory.

R. W. C. ENTERTAINED

Two Corps From Grand Rapids Yesterday.

The ladies of Jos. Wilson Relief Corps No. 49 entertained Champion Corps and Limes Corps, both of Grand Rapids, yesterday, the men of the local post being also invited. The Grand Rapids party numbering about thirty, was met at the train by a committee and escorted to the G. A. R. hall, where at twelve o'clock a sumptuous picnic dinner was served to a company of more than sixty. The table was adorned with three handsome bouquets of red geraniums and green ferns, and the hall was decorated with flags.

After dinner the company joined in singing "Marching Through Georgia," and a short address was given by S. P. Hicks who paid tribute to the patriotism of the women in wartime. A social hour followed, and at two-thirty the corps were called to order and the ritualistic work was exemplified by the Lowell corps, after which a short program was given, including speeches, recitations and readings, both by hosts and visitors, and the guests voted the Lowell ladies royal entertainers.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father.

USEFUL LIFE CLOSED

Pioneer, Civil War Veteran, Educator, a Christian Citizen.

Wilber H. Moon passed away at his home in this village Wednesday of last week. Funeral services were held at the house Saturday afternoon, Rev. L. E. Lennox, officiating, and burial was made in the family lot in Fallsburg cemetery.

Wilber H. Moon was born in Ogden, Monroe county, New York, January 1, 1839, coming with his parents in 1845 to Otis co., Ionia Co., Mich., where he grew to manhood on a farm. He was one of a family of seven children, of whom one brother and two sisters survive him. He was a young man of unusually bright mind and high ambitions, engaging successfully in the work of teaching while a mere boy. Planning for a higher education he entered the high school at Grand Rapids, but courageously resigned personal ambitions at the first call of his country for volunteers, after the fall of Ft. Sumter. He continued in active service for three years, being a member of the Third Michigan Infantry.

He was married to Suttira R. Fallason November 8, 1867, and at the close of the war they moved to a farm in Keene, Ionia county. To them were born four children, Merle A., now Mrs. F. C. Cole of Iron Mountain, Frank A. and Dr. Cora A. both of Grand Rapids, and Ethna, now Mrs. W. P. Harvey of Benton Harbor. Besides these children, he offered a home to the little orphaned sisters of his wife, Ella Fallass, now Mrs. H. A. Mills of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and Ermina Fallass, now Mrs. L. Murlin of Boston, Mass., all of whom with the wife and mother, live to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father and a true and faithful husband.

During his early manhood he engaged in teaching a part of each year, and served as county superintendent during the last term before that office was abandoned. He was always a great reader, both of current and classic literature, and had clear and well formulated convictions on all questions of public interest. He always discharged conscientiously his duty and privilege of suffrage, believing that his civil obligations to his country were as binding as his military obligations had been. He was a man true, honest, calm and patient in trial and loyal to every relation in life, who commanded the highest respect of all, and the love of those who knew him best. Little children were instinctively drawn to him, and beautiful will be the memory retained of him by his little grand-children, in whom he always had the greatest interest.

In 1872 he united with the Methodist church, continuing in the same until his death, and was always as faithful in the discharge of his religious duties as he was in the discharge of his duty to his family and his country.

Last December the farm in Keene was sold and he moved with his wife to Lowell, planning to make here a comfortable home for their declining years.

After an illness of several months, borne with the same patience and fortitude in which he had borne all the trials of life, maintaining his accustomed cheerfulness and bright sense of humor to the end, he entered his eternal home on the night of April 17th, 1912.—[Com.]
