Too Old for College

You may be too old to start to college, but you are not too old to start a bank account if you have not already done so. Colleges are good; we recommend them. But bank accounts have made ten successful business men where a college has made one. If you neglected going to college, don't neglect the bank account. One dollar will start the account at the

MUST ARBITRATE

Says Ellis of Copper Strike at Ada Picnic.

If the attendance at the annual picnic of the Ada Pioneer association at Schenk's grove Monday, fell short of that on some former occasion, it was not to be wondered at, with opening Fair and Labor day celebration on the west and Belding's big event on the north-east. And what the crowd lacked in quantity was made up in quality, not a drunkard man appearing to mar the pleasure of the day.

After the noon picnic dinner hour, Vice President James Martin called the assemblage to order and announced a selection by the Metropolitan band of Grand Rapids; and this organization was liberal in its contributions to the pleasures of the day.

After a fitting invocation by Rev. J. H. Bennett, William Farrell read obituaries of members of the association who have passed away during the past year or two: George LaBarge, Hiram Rhodes, Rachel Cobb, James Lawrence, Mrs. James Miller (nee Ada Smith)—for whom the village was named—Charles Kellog, Dan Rensselaer Smith, Mrs. William Holmes, Samuel Beach and Lemman B. Chapel.

Attorney A. A. Ellis of Grand Rapids told his hearers they should be thankful their lot had been cast in the Grand River valley. He had just returned from a trip through Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska, and asserted that there is more green grass in Kent county than in all three of those, and more green corn in one township of Kent County than in the whole of Kansas.

Mr. Ellis discussed at length the labor strike in Northern Michigan and stated that the $200,000 expense already incurred for maintaining the troops there would fall upon the state and the taxpayer would have to pay it. He advocated a special session of the legislature and a compulsory arbitration law, and urged citizens to write to Governor Ferris and their senators and representatives protesting against the expense of the strike and demanding a settlement of the strike. The speaker was warmly applauded.

After more band music Jolly Jim Eardley gave one of his characteristic talks, telling a number of good Irish stories. He compared the styles of dress in the pioneer days with those of the present and the contrast was not in favor of present day extremes. In the old days the women and girls wore calico dresses washed, starched and ironed until they "shined like a dollar" and he liked to look at them. Then came the hoop skirts in which a woman covered as much ground as a stack of hay. To day, it's the split skirt, so the women can show their stockings; and skirts so thin you can read a newspaper through them. Altogether they wouldn't "wad a shot gun."

Several of the speakers expected failed to appear and with the announcement of the winter meeting of the association on the second Monday in January, the exercises closed.

The balance of the day was given over to sports and visiting, many groups of old friends gathering to enjoy pleasant discourse and to indulge in reminiscences.

An Expression of Appreciation

We desire to express our deep appreciation of the kindness shown to our dear wife and mother during her illness, and to us in our bereavement, by our friends and neighbors. Words cannot express our feelings. You must accept the will for the deed. H. F. Lane and Children.

A. J. Shellman,

The Grand Rapids optician, will be at his optical office over the post office, in the city of Lowell, Monday, Sept. 15 to 20.

Consult him concerning your eyes and eyesight. See his Toric and Kryptoc lenses and spectacles. He keeps everything for the eye and ear to see and hear. Do not forget the dates. Eyes examined free. 14

Notice to Press Readers.

Subscriptions to The Press are payable monthly, as the agent must settle with the publishers every thirty days. We cannot do this and allow a few people to get several months behind. THE ATTENDANCE BREAKS RECORD

LOWELL SCHOOLS CROWDED BEYOND CAPACITY.

Total Enrollment will Crowd 500 Mark—New Commercial Course a Factor.

Surpassing the expectations of everyone, the enrollment in the Lowell schools Tuesday exceeded that of any year in the history of the village. Beginning in the High school with 152, as against 130 last year, nearly every grade shows an increase, making the total some 480, as against an initial enrollment last year of 441. No doubt the total will reach the 500 mark during the year.

Nor were the board of education prepared to meet such a test of capacity. In the fifth grade, where crowded conditions in the Central building last year forced that grade to occupy a small room in the East ward that will accommodate only twenty-six, the enrollment was forty-five. The East ward was filled; and the only solution to this problem was to transfer those coming the greatest distances, to the Central building. Here they were placed in Miss Swenson's room, giving that teacher the fifth and sixth.

In the High school the problem was not so easily solved. Here the assembly room was taxed to the limit, and recitation seats had to be removed to make way for desks. As a result all recitations must be held in recitation-rooms; and these are entirely inadequate. Nearly every subject must be taught in two or more sections.

No doubt the new Commercial department has been a large factor in stimulating enrollment this year. In typewriting and commercial arithmetic some forty are enrolled, or about twenty-five per cent of the High school; and as many of these as are eligible are taking short-hand and book-keeping. The order was increased from five to six new typewriters.

The foreign patronage this year is correspondingly great. Some eighty students are paying tuition, giving us a non-resident percentage of fifty-four, or one of the largest in the state. And this despite the fact that the tuition was raised five dollars last year. A. F. F.

What Is An Editor, Anyway?

False notions obtain, both in and out of the trade, as to the editorial office. Some people seem to think an editor's duty is merely to accept and print everything and anything that is offered by everybody and anybody, without money and without price, regardless of quantity, quality or merit; and the more ignorant, biased or bigoted, the free profferer, the more insistent is he that his "dope" be "printed just as it is written." Luckily for the reputation of the writer this is seldom done; and if done, the request is seldom repeated.

Now, Webster's International says an "Editor is one who edits;" and to edit is, "To superintend the publication of; to revise and prepare for publication; to select, correct, arrange, etc., the matter of, for publication; as to edit a newspaper."

Now, the Webster conception of an editor's duty is our idea of the office; and we have been trying for many years to learn how to live up to it. If this does not coincide with the selfish views of some person utterly ignorant of the publishing business and unable to present intelligent copy, we may regret it; but our duty to the public remains, and we shall perform it to the best of our ability, regardless of the consequences, trusting in the justice and wisdom of a discriminating public.

2,000 ATTEND PICNIC

Thornapple Valley Pioneers at Campau Lake.

HASTINGS, Mich., Aug. 28.—Over 2,000 people from Kent and Barry counties attended the annual picnic of the Thornapple Valley Pioneer Society at Campau lake today, threatening weather keeping hundreds of others from coming. Former State Senator W. W. Potter, of Hastings, the eminent authority on Michigan history, and Mayor Ellis of Grand Rapids, were the speakers.

Potter briefly traced history of the Thornapple Valley from the Jesuit times down through the early wars to westward migrations which brought the first pioneers into the valley.

He explained the development of the settlement and the social life down to the present times. All the benefits enjoyed by present generations were provided by the pioneers who did not believe in eugenics, women's suffrage, initiative and referendum and recall, but who stood for individualism. He made strong pleas for preserving constitutional government and severely rapped socialism and the so-called "rule by the people."

Mayor Ellis spoke in favor of "Rule by People," citing its advantages in keeping control of city officials. He devoted much of his time to explaining to farmers why Grand Rapids had imposed such rigid rules governing the quality of milk brought into the city. He said it was merely because the city intended to protect its children who are to become future citizens. In discussion of the move of farmers who raised milk to eight cents per quart in relation he urged them to help by cooperation in making life less difficult for those in the cities who do not make good wages.

The next meeting of the pioneers will be held in Galedonia in midwinter. President E. J. McNaughton of Middleville presided.

ANNUAL REUNION.

Company M., Sixth Michigan Cavalry, Met in Lowell. The annual reunion of Co. M., Sixth Michigan Cavalry, was held in Lowell last Friday, and the few survivors able to be present were royally entertained by the Lowell G. A. R. Post and Relief Corps, at their hall. This is the company our late good townsman Charles Winks belonged to, and he was always interested in these reunions.

Death is fast thinning their ranks, and the loyal old veterans do right in keeping alive the old associations as long as possible. Company M. honors Lowell by choosing it for a camping ground; and we can say for our good citizens, that they reciprocate the sentiment for the dear old boys in blue. May they come again and again.

The Grand Rapids Press Issues a Morning Edition.

The Grand Rapids Evening Press on Tuesday evening, August 26, inaugurated the publication of a morning edition. This edition is designed to serve particularly rural route readers. It will carry the news of the day forward a number of hours after the closing of the regular editions of The Press, not going to press until time to catch the late night trains that will carry the paper to country subscribers early in the morning.

This edition will contain the scores of all the base ball games, the complete market reports and reports of important happenings throughout the world. It will also contain the regular features of The Evening Press.

The publication of the morning edition of The Press was decided upon because of the rapid development of newspaper interest along the rural routes. The morning edition will give rural route readers newspaper advantages they have hitherto not had an opportunity to enjoy.

The clubbing arrangements enjoyed by our readers has been secured by us also for the morning issue of The Press, and a special price of $2.50 secures a year's subscription to this paper and the new morning edition of the Grand Rapids Press.

Warning to Parents.

Parents whose children play about the lumber piles of the Lowell Lumber company are warned of the danger of the practice. Children may be crushed by the overturning of those piles. Keep them away from danger. Over caution is better than perpetual sorrow.

There is no Royal Road to Wealth.

The average man must win his way. Some have inherited riches but the foundation of every fortune, big or small, is based on hard work and thrift.

A savings account is the first step to wealth. It enables a man to save his money and at the same time it is earning money for him.

This bank will not only help you save money but it will pay you interest—Remember this—compound interest has made more millions than speculation.

From Our Point of View

Crede

BY DOUGLAS MALLORY

All the world's troubles...
All the prayers and hopes and tears...
All the martyr's faithful sublime...
Better cool some time before...
Than the Fatherhood of God...
And the Brotherhood of Man...
Ye who argue at the shrine...
As the money changes fought...
Baying truth is wholly thin...
And the other creeds are taught...
Know ye not one creed there is...
Larger enough for every clan—
Just the Fatherhood of God...
And the Brotherhood of Man?

Stone by stone ye build your creeds...
Let one lead shall go forth worth...
Did ye build for human need...
For the humble souls of earth...
Did ye follow, as ye built...
Fellow's diverse path...
Just the Fatherhood of God...
And the Brotherhood of Man...
By the measure must ye gauge...
Fy's carrier, arch and stone...
Each foundation must prepare...
By one measurement alone...
And your dogmas shall survive...
Only if ye right begin...
With the Fatherhood of God...
And the Brotherhood of Man.

Most situations in life have their compensations and disadvantages...
The death of Frank Woodworth marks the close of a sad career and points out a warning to the lure of office. Formerly a prosperous farmer, he was elected county treasurer and a member of the republican state central committee. The enticements and expenses of life in the city and the constant demands upon officeholders proved too much for him. Since leaving office, he has worked on the streets of the city, doubtless recalling with regret his useful, happy life back on the farm and the poet's words: Of all sad words of tongue or pen, The saddest are these: "It might have been."

The Grand Rapids man who, on his return from a town of Southern Michigan, declares that "The Kent county road" are the worst in the state, either lacks woefully in judgment or has little regard for his reputation for truth-telling. The campaign for good roads is not to be advanced by glaring falsehoods, and it might be added that "It's a vile bird that fouls its own nest."

There is at least one official in the state that is "making good," and his name is James W. Helme, dairy and food inspector, who is exposing the rotten condition of cold storage plants, and food supplies in the cities. It will be a case of "Come up higher," for Helme, or the people of Michigan will show a great lack of appreciation.

The newspapers are playing an important part in the exposure of corruption in food supplies and cold storage conditions. "Keep it out of the papers," is the plea of those concerned in crooked work; but to the honor of the press be it said, the petition is not often heeded.

A fine forty-family apartment house is to be built in Detroit, says the Times. Well, thank God for life in the country, where people are not herded together like sheep. Better live in Western Michigan, where the motto is, "A family for every forty" acres.

DRASTIC measures should be taken for the detection and punishment of cowardly motor drivers who run people down and then run away, leaving their victims to die of neglect. Let the punishment fit the crime.

THE portrait of Thomas Jefferson is to be on the new postal cards, four billions of which are to be printed. Perhaps the present authorities do not agree with Mr. Roosevelt that "Jefferson was a mediocre president."

COMPLAINT is made of sand burrs and other foul weeds going to seed in the cemetery. It is not yet too late to abate the evil to some extent. Many of the burrs can still be pulled and burned.

EMERSON says: "What you are speaks so loud that I can not hear what you say." Likewise, some men's practice nullifies their preaching.
