Cold Cures

There are cold cures and cold cures. There is plenty of difference in their quality. We sell the best. The much advertised kinds are all in our stock. Our best cold cure is Hobson's Laxative Cold Tablets, and we warrant it to knock out the cold in less time and more effectually than any other remedy. The price is 25 cents. It does not act in the harsh and severe manner of many kinds, but it is less unpleasant and more certain.

To this union were born four children, Lizzie Wieland of South Lowell, W. F. Murphy of Traverse City, Martha Murphy who passed away nineteen years ago, and Annie Acheson of Brinton. She leaves to mourn their loss her husband, three children, eight grandchildren and two brothers.

In her girlhood she was a member of the Baptist church. After coming to Michigan she united with the United Brethren church and was always a consistent and faithful member.

She was a loving wife and mother and a kind neighbor and will be missed by a large circle of friends.

All present types of fliers-that is. all the new ones both in this country and abroad-use a gyroscope control. This is a sort of governor, like the governor on a stationary steam or gas engine, that automatically warps the aeroplane wings to meet constantly varying air surfaces when the machine is in flight. These devices are just emerging from the experimental stage. With the gyroscopic stabilizer doing the work. what is the advantage of the Russell machine?

"The stabilizing devices are all artificial controllers. If the stabilizer gets out of fix when the machine is 3,000 feet above ground it means danger and possible death for the passengers. The safe machine is one that needs no such controller. It is a machine whose very shape is an automatic controller-a real automatic controller that cannot be tinkered with if the machine is to leave the ground at all."

This new aeroplane can be made in any size. It is understood that the fliers being constructed in Boston will have a wing spread of a hundred feet or more and will carry two independent engines, each developing 150 horse power. Machines of this size and power are capable of carrying half a dozen passengers, one or two rapid-fire guns. fifty to a hundred large explosive bombs, fuel for a 500-mile flight and scientific instruments for navigation. They can travel rapidly, too-fifty to

It is easy to imagine the value of such machines in peace as well as in war. Already the government is experimenting with aeroplane mail routes, and Postmaster General Burleson has recommended the establishment of regular aeromail service. The possibilities are without limit, it seems. And for war-well, we know a little of what they are doing with aeroplanes in Europe. All the chief belligerents are building huge planes. triple-winged and engined, that in a pinch can fly close to a thousand miles and carry half a dozen men with small cannon, ammunition and deadly bombs of large size. In a report which he has submitted to President Wilson, and which will be made public soon, Secretary of the Navy Daniels tells of some remarkable developments in aeroplane construction by American designers and inventors. He mentions specifically "an aeroplane that practically sails itself. About all the aviator has to do is to crank up and sit at the steering wheel." Mr. Russell's explanation of the principle invo'ved in his aeroplane is Greek to the layman. "The problem is to maintain the center of upward pressure to coincide with the center of area at all times, no matter whether the machine is in direct forward flight or is falling. This problem I have solved, if the success of all my experiments proves anything."

There's a young inventor either at work or dreaming over work to be done wherever you go in this broad land of ours. In the towns and cities you see amateur wireless receiving stations strung from barn gables to attic windows. In the country the youngsters are tinkering over the tool benches-working away at some idea that may revolutionize an industry.

The history of young Mr. Russell should be an inspiration to every youth born without a silver some of his childhood at Evanston, another small town. This is his point of view:

"I expect to get royalties later. My invention has to prove its worth first. If wealth comes, it will be the reward for toll and discouragement. I certaintly don't expect to sit around and wait for money to be dropped into my hat.

What promises to be another important invention, however, is an electro-magnetic rapid-fire gun. Mr. Russell has been working at odd times courths to one hour only. Someone else may produce a successful gun of this type before I do. I have a gun that will shoot all right, but it isn't ready for the war market by a long shot."

And just to show you that a rising young inventor is an ordinary human being like the rest of us, here's one on Mr. Russell: He didn't want the photographer to take his picture as he stood with his sleeves rolled up before a work bench because he thought that the dense growth of black hair on his arms would show when the picture appeared in the paper. Furthermore, he was very careful to fix the knot of his four-in-hand tie "just so" before he said. "All ready!"

After he had received his bachelor of arts de-his aeroplane for all he was worth. Because it wasn't a part of the regular course, Russell had trouble getting shop space in which to do this work. The school authorities, he says, had mapped out a prescribed course and they considered that a deviation from it would mean confusion in the

Just before Russell went East the Chicago news-

was said about the inventor. When he was approached for the "inside story" of his labors Mr.

Russell wasn't easy to "get at." He was found in a little chicken-coop office which occupies a corner in the machine shop which he calls his own. His sleeves were rolled high and his hands were grimy. The clatter and whang of machinery made conversation difficult, but not so difficult as the young inventor himself made it-for he is a shy and reticent person, who would make a poor self-

THE public lost much of its enthusiasm for "preparedness" on learning that it was to be paid for by direct taxation. Congressmen have heard from home; and President Wilson's plans have hit a snag. Loading a burden onto posterity by the bonding method might have worked; and indirect taxation through a higher tariff-get ting the money when the taxpayer is looking the other way would be easier. But asking the dear people to go down into their jeans for untold millions to prepare for a foreign invasion that may never come and probably never will, is quite another matter. Taxes are too high now, having nearly doubled in our own locality during the past three years; and those who have to do with public finance from President and congress, governor and and legislature down to county and local officers, might as well understand right now that the taxpayer has about reached the breaking point.

THAT neither Mr. Roosevelt nor himself should be nominated again for the presidency by the Republican party, is given as the opinion of former president Taft in the Cincinnati Times-Star, of which the latter's to the nomination of any progressive party man and asserts nominee, it ought not to win. It will be seen by this that Mr. Taft has not forgotten the treatment he has received from his former chief since the latter's return from the African jungles in the second year of the Taft administration.

GOVERNOR FERRIS is quoted as repeating his statement that Chase Osborn's candidacy for the presidency is a joke and that the Soo man is really plotting another campaign for the governorship. ### For the Family Medicine Chest

Green Bay, Wis., Mrs. Wm. F. Bubolz says: I always use Foley's Honey and Tarfor our idea as it quickly breaks up their colds with so bad after effects, and they like to take it." In this senson of coughs, colds and croup, every family medicine chest should be supplied with a good cough medicine that can be relied upon when needed.

Such a family cough syrup is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. This standard medicine has been on the market for years and in many sections was found in every home in the days when doctors were not so handy and when money was scarcer.

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is an excellent medicine for coughs, colds, raw or inflamed throat, hoarseness, tightness and soreness of the chest, croup and whooping cough, It is an absolutely safe remedy, containing only healing ingredients, and free from any harmful drugs.

The public took more than 50,000 of the $750 Overlands in six months.

In six months we've absorbed all the development expense; realized on all the experimental cost that is usually spread over a year.

We covered our material requirements at before-thewar-prices saved three and a half million dollars on aluminum and another million on steel.

We have increased our production capacity of 300 cars per day last June to 1000 cars per day.

So again we have broken all records.

Again we have planned and bought material for a bigger production program.

And again we are setting a new and supreme standard of valuemay be turned over to its original use when baby is ready for a crib. It pays to get a good quality wicker, for if handles give away the contents will come to grief. Select a good size, too, large enough to accommodate an ordinary bed pillow snugly fitted in for a mattress. The sides should rise high enough above the pillow on the sides to keep Master Baby safely ensconced. Line the basket with double layers of cotton wadding and after basting this in place cover it with pink, blue or white satin or cambric lining. The bottom of the basket should be put in last to cover the rough edges of the sides. Now the basket is ready for the third and last covering, which may be sheer muslin or point d'esprit or plain net shirred with a heading along the top to hide the top edge of the basket. It is a little troublesome to stitch this into place, but you soor learn to find the spaces in the woven wicker, and heavy thread and a carpet needle will do the rest.

The pillow should have its ordinary white linen or cotton slip, which car removed every day when the pillow s lifted out to air. A rubber and quilted mat will protect the pillow and all can be frequently lifted and removed. The advantage of such bas ket is that the baby is protected from draft, and yet the basket is easily car the porch if necessary. bearing down pains and inflammation. I tried several doctors and they all told me the same story, that I never could get well without an operation and I just dreaded the thought of that. I also tried a good many other medicines that were recommended to me and none of them helped me until a friend advised me to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The first bottle helped, I kept taking it and now I don't know what it is to be sick any more and I am picking up in weight. I am 20 years old and weigh 145 pounds. > ............ Talk Number One

FOR some time I have had it in mind to tell you frankly a few important facts about Michigan's greatest transportation agency, the Pere Marquette Railroad-facts gleaned from personal experience, not so much from the standpoint of a railroad man but as the Court's Officer in charge of the property.

"My idea is that a great many of the troubles of railroad companies are due to misunderstandings and lack of information about the problems of railroading, which might be very properly given fully and freely to their patrons.

You will be interested, I am sure, in knowing about the origin and growth of the system; why it is indispensable to the further development of the state; how it became involved in financial trouble; the problems of the Receivers in straightening out its affairs, the progress they have made and what they hope to accomplish.

"I am going to give you the benefit of my study of the situation and tell you what, it seems to me, ought to be done about it, both by the railroad and by the people of the state, so that both the state and the Pere Marquette can properly perform their full duties to each other.

"These are matters of importance, I think. If you think so, watch for the next talk. In the meantime we will be trying to give you service, and we hope we may have your support and

As soon as an attack of rheumatism begins apply Sloan's Liniment sary agony. A few drops of Sloan's Liniment on the affected parts is all you need. The pain goes at once. A grateful sufferer writes:-"I was suffering for three years with chronic rheumatism and stiff neck, although I tried many medicines, they failed. Fortunately I heard of Sloan's Liniment and after using it three or four am up and well. I am employed in the biggest department store in S.
