AT THE ENGLISH HOME OF THE WASHINGTON FAMILY

Culgrave Manor, in Northamptonshire, is preserved as a peace memorial between Great Britain and the United States. Here is an interesting story of the historical place 슈 $ 1 > quiet, rural neighborhood. where the farmhouses are quaint. and antiquated, stands Sulgrave Manor, the one-time English home of the Washington family. The major never really saw George Washington or his father, or even his grandfather, but the Washington family possessed and ecupied it during most of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. It is still possible to distinguish over the main entrance to the old building the heraldic device of stars and stripes which Washington accepted as his own coat of arms, and which is commonly regarded as the origin of the American flag.

In the summer of 1911 the suggestion was made by a prominent member of the British Peace committee that the historical property should be purchased and dedicated as a memorial to the peaceful relations existing between the two countries

At Wessyngton, this was their family coat. And at Mount Vernon I myself have noted An old cast-iron, scutcheoned chimney-back Charged with that heraldry.

Home of Washington's Ancestors

The old building is in an excellent state of preservation. The main hall has a fine fireplace and an oak beam celling. The ancient oak staircase has very beguiling twisted banisters and a fascinating secret cupboard at the intermediate landing. The drawing room is on the second floor, as was the custom in the days when it was built, and in one of the bedrooms it is said that Queen Elizabeth once slept.

The estate surrounding Sulgrave manor consists of about two hundred acres of gently rolling land, substantially all of it in full view of the manor. The ownership carries with it the lordship of the manor, "with the Rights, Royalities, Privileges and Appurtenances thereto belonging." and is subject to "a fee farm rent of 11s 5d ($2.84) per annum." Sulgrave Manor is the place in England most closely associated with the name of Washington. and yet it is true that George Washington himself attached little importance to this fact. In the early days of the American republic, ancestry was despised much more than is now the case. In 1788 George Washington refused to accept the dedication of a book on heraldry because a portion of the community were:

Design That It Would Be Hard to Improve On is This Suggestion-Trimming May Be as Elaborate as Desired.

For traveling or motoring one needs good, serviceable coat, possessed of listinctive style and good cut. Among all the splendid fabrics offered for such garments it should not be difficult to select just the particular one suited to your needs. There are fine white and colored corded and sponge surfaced materials, corduroys, polo cloths and novelty checks and stripes, each suited to certain designs.

The design offered herewith is appropriate for a linen motoring duster or for a cloth traveling coat. Its hem clears the ground by at least a foot, and measures some three yards in width. While it can be made in one length from neck to hem, it will doubtless set more neatly about the waist if the odd belt is used to join the blouse and skirt portions.

The belt is in three sections-the straight piece that covers the back from underarm seam to underarm seam, and each half of the front, fastened together with buttons at the center front. Cut in one with the latter pieces is a shaped band that runs down over either hip, trimmed with buttons where the pocket opening oc-during the past century, the dedication to be one of the features of the international celebrations in 1914. This idea immediately met with popular favor. The British committee acquired the property, and dedicated it to peace between England and the United States.

The manor has been made into a Hall of Records, where matter pertaining to Anglo-American unity is kept. It is understood that a lecture chair soon will be supplied by the purchasers and that James Bryce, ex-ambassador to the United States, will be its first occupant.

Charming Old Place.

The manor is a charming piece of old architecture, gray with the rains, frost and sunshine of 300 years. The house stands at the eastern extremity of the village of Sulgrave, in Northamptonshire, and it is approached from the west by a pretty green croft, separated from the almost encircling road by a hedge.

To the right of the gable end of the manor is a low stone wall with a larch gate, facing a small court, partly paved and partly in grass. From the courtyard the house is entered by a handsome old stone doorway, above which a little attic projects from a tiled roof. The fine old Tudor doorway is surmounted by a shield containing the Washington coat of arms, which three centuries have somewhat robbed of its original sharpness, but which is still unmistakable.

What a fortune had that shield of a private English gentleman-to become the most notable blazon of all the world! Strange to think that this little obscure stone coat of arms in a secluded Northamptonshire village should be the original of so much-should still be extant. As strange to think of the contrast between the torpid and monotonous rustic life surrounding it for so many generations with the rush and roar of existence in our great republic.

There is very little doubt that the three stars and the three stripes furnished the idea for the American flag. In the flag, as in the original, the stars signify divine influence guiding the bearer in the right way, while the bars denote one who sets the bar of conscience and religion against wicked temptations and evil desires. The colors, red and white, seem to follow also; the red meaning military bravery and fortitude; the white peace and sincerity.

Tradition attributes the suggestion to Benjamin Franklin. Tupper is probably right when, in his "Contennial Drama," he makes Franklin say:

. . . I proposed it to the congress. It was the leaders old crusading blazon. Washington's coat, his own heraldic shield. And on the spur, when we must choose a flag Symboling independent unity, We and not he-all was unknown to him-Took up his coat of arms and multiplied And magnified it, in every way to this Our giorious national banner.

He adds, also, some allusions to the old mansion:

. . . The Washingtons, of Wassyngton, In County Durham, and on Sulgrave Manor, County Northampton, bore upon their shield Three stars atop . . .

WASHINGTON'S APPEAL TO GOD

he heard a voice, and, following the cure their independence!"

and for the crest An eagle's head upspringing to the light, The architraves of Sulgrave testify, As sundry printed windows in the hall

"Clamorously endeavoring to propogate an idea that those whom they wished invidiously to designate by the name 'well-born' were meditating in the first instance to distinguish themselves from their compatriots and to wrest the dearest privileges from the bulk of the people."

But the ability to trace one's ancestors has a greater value in this country today than it had in the days of the first president. Washington knew very little about his own forefathers. When he was asked about them by the Garter King-of-Arms, he said the first of his family in Virginia had come from one of the northern counties in England, possibly Yorkshire or Lancashire, or even farther north. Later there was considerable disputation about the root of the family tree from which he was descended, and it was finally agreed by genealogists that the Washingtons of Sulgrave and Brighton did actually spring from the Washingtons in Warton, Lancashire, a place on the Westmoreland border.

Several generations of Washingtons of Warton are recorded, and one of these was the father of Laurence Washington, mayor of Northampton in 1532 and 1545. He seems to have taken up his residence at Sulgrave, though members of his family continued to remain at Warton for several generations. This Laurence Washington had for mother the daughter of Robert Kytson of Hengrave in Suffolk. This proved a matter of very considerable importance in their history, because it brought them into connection with the Spencers of Althrop and Wormleighton, through the marriage of Sir Thomas Kytson's daughter, Catherine, to Sir John Spencer of Wormleighton, whose grandson, Sir Robert Spencer, was created Baron Spencer of Wormleighton in 1603.

In the process of time the Washingtons of Sulgrave appear to have got into financial difficulties. Laurence Washington entered the wool trade, perhaps induced to do so by the fact that Lord Spencer was one of the great flock-masters of his day. This Laurence acquired considerable riches in the wool trade. In 1539 he became possessed of the Manor of Sulgrave for the sum of three hundred and twenty-one pounds, fourteen shillings, and subsequently he purchased additional property.

Sundial With Washington Arms.

He had many sons, of whom the oldest was Robert, the ancestor of George Washington. He succeeded his father in 1585, when he was of the age of forty, but he does not seem to have been so prosperous as his father. Yet it appears that he was able to send both his sons, Christopher and William, to Oriel college, Oxford, where they were in 1588, the year of the great armada. Robert's oldest was named Laurence, probably after the mayor of Northampton, and in 1610 Robert, in agreement with his son, agreed to sell Sulgrave to their cousin, Laurence Makepeace. The second Laurence Washington then removed to Brington, near Northampton, his father perhaps going with him, though the latter was buried in the family vault at Sulgrave. Laurence Washington had seventeen children, two of whom rose

Two other records of the Washingtons are found in the village of Brington. In this little township, not far distant from Northampton, stands the house to which the family moved from Sulgrave. It was in this house that Robert Washington died in 1622, and in the yard, engraved upon a sundial, is found the Washington coat of arms.

In the Church of All Saints, near at hand, where Robert Washington is buried, an inscripton reads as follows:

"Here lies interred ye bodies of Elizab Washington, widowe, who changed this life for immortalitie ye 19th day of March, 1622. As also ye hedy of Robert Washington, Gent., her late husband second sonne of Robert Washington of Solthis life ye 10th of March, 1622, after they lived lovingly together."

Laurence Washington, grandson of the Laurence of Sulgrave, died in 1616, and is also buried here.

Unfortunately little of the village of Sulgrave as it was in the days of the Washingtons now remains. A disastrous fire in 1675 swept the village, and only a relic may be seen here and there in an ancient house. Most of the streets are set with neat brick houses. Coming toward the Church of All Saints, one might fancy oneself in the business center of some minor New England city, but with rather less of glare and noise, and presence of the old church.

In dedicating the manor as a memorial to the morial of permanent interest.

First to Die for Liberty

It would be difficult to say who was the first man killed in the Revolutionary war. The spirit of revolt prevailed and some collisions between the people and British soldiers occurred before the war actually began. The battle of Concord occurred more than a year before the Declaration of Independence, but there was bloodshed before the battle of Concord. One of the earliest of these collisions was the so-called Boston massacre. THE light tractor has come to stay. Mogul 8-16, which we think is the best of them all, has more than a year of splendid success behind it. Many thousands are now in everyday use.

On farms where there used to be six, eight, and ten horses, there are now from two to four, just enough to handle the cultivating and other light work. Mogul 8-16 is doing the work of the rest.

There are but two reasons for this. The Mogul is more dependable than horses for heavy farm work. Mogul 8-16 does the heavy work better and cheaper than horses.

Come in and see us, and we will show you why Mogul 8-16 does heavy farm work better and cheaper. We have a sample right here in the store, so that you can see the actual machine, not simply read about it. We are open every day, and it is no trouble, in fact, it is a pleasure, to show you this kerosene-burning Mogul 8-16 tractor that we can sell for $675 F. O. B. Chicago.

WHEN KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE GLASS OF SALTS

Eat Loss Meat If Kidneys Hurt or You Have Backache or Bladder Misery -Meat Forms Uric Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys. The moment you feel a dull ache in Juanita Holland, a Philadelphia young woman of wealth, on her journey with her guide, Good Anse Talbott, into the heart of the Cumberlands to become a teacher of the mountain children, faints at the door of Fletch McNash's cabin. While resting there she overhears a tulk between Bad Anse Havey, chief of his clan, and one of his henchmen that ac-quaints her with the Havey-McBriar feud. Nay, he had been wrong! It was here beside him, its feet tucked under it in meekness, the savagery hidden in its dim black eyes! The last barrier went down in Walter Sandry, the last last strand of prejudice broke with a snap. He rolled near and caught the hem of her ragged skirt.

"Little S'letz!" he said brokenly, "oh, Little S'letz! What am I that you should have done this thing!"

She looked down at him and the rare smile curled up the corners of the lips above the sign. "You are my man," she said softly,
