Sov. Ferris and Prof. Davis Principal Speakers

The formal dedication of the new school plant will take place next Thursday, and a program that should interest every patron has been arranged. While about one hundred invitations will be issued to out of town guests, every citizen and school patron is invited to come, and no formal invitations will be issued locally. This is a community affair and the public is urged to be present.

There will be no school at the new High building Thursday. The plant will be open to inspection from 10:00 a. m., on, and ushers will be on hand to show people through. From the number of old superintendents, teachers and alumni who are planning to come back it looks as if this occasion would be a real homecoming.

The program begins at 1:30, p. m., in the auditorium with Prof. C. O. Davis as the principal speaker on the subject, "The Six-three-three Plan" After the dedication proper the people will adjourn to the corridor below where the unveiling of the bronze tablet presented by Mr. F. T. King will take place.

Governor Ferris will occupy the whole evening beginning at 8:00, upon the subject, "Education for All."

One unique feature of the afternoon program will be a response to the subject, "Coming Back," by former superintendents.

The auditorium will be seated to accommodate four hundred fifty people.

SYNOPSIS.

Juanita Holland, a Philadelphia young-woman of wealth, on her journey with her guide, Good Anse Talbott, into the heart of the Cumberlands to become a teacher of the mountain children, faints at the door of Fletch McNash's cabin. While resting there she overhears a talk between Bad Anse Havey, chief of his clan, and one of his henchmen that ac-guain's her with the Havey-McBriar feud, Juania has an unprofitable talk with Bad Anse and they become antagonists. Cal Juanita has an unprofitable talk with Bad Anse and they become antagonists Cal Douglas of the Havey clan is on trial in Peril, for the murder of Noah Wyatt, a McBriar. In the night Juanita hears feudists ride past the McNash cabin, Juanita and Dawn McNash become friends Cal Douglas is acquitted. Nash Wyatt attempts to kill him but is himself killed by the Haveys. Juanita goes to live with the Widow Everson, whose boys are outside the feud. Milt McBriar, head of his clan, meets Bad Anse there and disclaims responsibility for Wyatt's attempt to kill Douglas. They declare a truce, under pressure from Good Anse Talbott. Juanita thinks she finds that Bad Anse is opposing her efforts to buy land and build a school. Milt McBriar breaks the truce by maving Fletch McNash murdered. Jeb McNash begs Bad Anse to tell him who killed his father, but is net told, Juanita and Bad Anse further misunderstand each other. Bad Anse is bitter, but tells Juanita he does not fight women and will give her land if necessary. Juanita wets her land and not fight women and will give her land if necessary. Junnita gets her land and cabin. Old Bob McGreegor incites Jeb McNash to murder Young Milt McBriar, but Jeb refrains as he is not sure Young

The easterner thought that these two young folks made a splendid pair, specimens of the best of the mountains, as yet unbroken by heavy harness. Then, as the younger girl passed under a swinging rope of wild grapevine, stooping low. a tendril caught in her hair.

Without a word Young Milt bent forward and was freeing it, tinging through his pulses as his tingers touched the heavy black mass, but as soon as she was loose the girl sprang away and wheeled, her eyes blazing "How dast ye tech me?" she demanded, panting with wrath. "How dast ve?" The boy laughed easily. "I dast do anything I wants," he told her.

For a moment they stood looking at each other, then the girl dropped her eyes, but the anger had died out of them, and Juanita saw that, despite manita of the laurel, but even without that information, when Young Milt met them more often than could be attributed strong forebodings began to trouble valley.

And one morning these forebodings youthful McBriar lounged near the porch of Juanita's cabin talking with sunlight: the shadow of Jeb McNash. He had come silently, and it was only as Young Milt, whose back had been turned, shifted his position, that the two boys recognized each other.

Juanita saw the start with which Jeb's figure stiffened and grew taut. She saw his hands clench themselves and his face turn white as chalk; saw his chest rise and fall under heavy breathing that hissed through clenched teeth, and her own heart pounded with wild anxiety.

But Milt McBriar's face showed nothing. His father's masklike calmness of feature had come down to him, and as he read the meaning of the other boy's attitude he merely nodded and said casually: "Howdy, Jeb." Jeb did not answer. He could not answer. He was training and punishing every fiber cruelly simply in standing where he was and keeping his hands at his sides. For a time he remained stiff and white, breathing spasmodically; then, without a word, he turned and stalked away.

That moon a horseman brought a note across the ridge, and as Juanita Holland read it she felt that all her dreams were crumbling-that the soul of them was paralyzed.

It was a brief note, written in copybook hand, and it ran:

I'll have to ask you to send the McNash would mean the leaving of every Havey boy and girl. So she stood there, and afterward said quietly: "Milt, I guess you'd better go," and Milt had gone gravely and unquestioningly, but with that in his eye which did not argue brightly for restoration of peace between his house and that of his enemy. When the two girls had gone together into the cabin Dawn stood with a face that blanched as she began to realize what it all meant, then slowly she stiffened and her hands, too. clenched and her eyes kindled.

She came across to the chair into which the older girl had dropped listlessly and, falling to her knees, seized both Juanita's hands. She seized them tightly and fiercely, and her eyes were blazing and her voice broke from her grant. Since those days much of it to Bad Anse himself as the young lips in turgid vehemence.

"I hain't a goin' ter leave ye!" cried Dawn. "I hain't a-goin' ter do it." No word had been spoken of her leaving, but in this life they both knew that certain things bring certain results, and they were expecting a note from Bad Anse.

"I hope not, dear," said Juanita, but without conviction.

> For seeding alfalfa broadcast, the seed needed varies from fifteen to twenty pounds per acre. When a drill is used this amount can be reduced one-third. Care should be used to secure good seed, and it is advisable to write to the agricultural college of your state for information as to the seed best adapted to your locality.

It is almost impossible to get too thick a stand of alfalfa in the corn belt. When the stand is thick the more vigorous plants choke out both weeds and the less vigorous plants and make a thick growth of fine hay with slender stalks, while a thin stand makes a rank and woody growth of very coarse hay. The yield per acre from a thin stand may equal that from a thick stand, but the quality of the hay will be inferior. Twenty to forty plants to the square foot is satisfactory, and on very rich land the stand may be even thicker and still make a good growth.

Alfalfa makes good pasture for many farm animals, but owing to the difficulty of getting and keeping a stand it should be grazed sparingly, and not at all during the first year. Close corn belt and it is safe to assume. cropping and tramping of the soil by live stock in muddy weather does serious damage. Cattle and sheep tend to bloat when first turned on alfalfa, the area now occupied by some of the less profitable crops will soon be used hence great care should be taken in pasturing these animals. Hogs do well for alfalfa. MARK April 12 on your calendar or in your diary as one reserved for Prof. Florer's lecture on "The American Revolution by Word and Picture.' Opportunities not used are opportunities lost forever. The mills never grind by water that is past. We know of no better habit for young people to form than that of improving opportunities for moral and intellectual betterment as presented. If one's early advantages have been limited, the incentive for compensating influences all through life is great. Given those early educational advantages, one appreciates his limitations and the vastness of the realm of knowledge, and will add to his store of wisdom and culture on all possible occasions. The lesson in American history and patriotism, as stated above, is one to be improved by all who are not too old to llearn.

As MIGHT have been expected, many conflicting reports come from the Mexican border. Since the matter on page two of this paper was printed, many things have happened. Among them are the granting by the American government of the reciprocal right demanded by Caranza's Mexican government to chase bandits across the border, which seems to us to be a fair and equitable agreement. If Caranza has an average gift of common sense. he will accept President Wilson's statement that no war on the Mexican government or people is intended; and the American army will not be molested by Caranza's men in its pursuit of Villa and his mob of assassins.

CONGRESSMAN MAPES deserves the compliments paid to him as a fair-minded Republican, bent on representing his constituents as citizens rather than as partisans. Devil Brings Better Price Than G. Washington

MEW YORK .- Every man has his price. George Washington's was $9. IN which included his father, too, while a mere policeman cost $17 when these worthies and many more, in wax, were auctioned in the Eden Musee.

Gen. Robert E. Lee and 13 others were bought for $100, the group representing the surrender at Appomattox. It was the high price of the day, and Hyman Kark, auctioneer, thought it very good, indeed, considering the Devil himself only brought $10, Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz $25, and Mutt and Jeff $19.

There seemed to be no rhyme or reason to the bids. Kark is authority for the statement that the "Horrors of the Spanish Inquisition" once could hot be purchased for $25,000. Yet the whole creepy collection, which has thrilled more Keokuk and Kaskaskia spines than any other work of art, went for $50. "Lot 45. General Funston entering Vera Cruz, eight flags and scenery," was bid up to $40. General Funston, it may be remembered, while not as tall as Washington, is much bigger around. Besides, he was riding a particularly fine horse. Lefty Louis and Gyp the Blood, Dago Frank and Whitey Lewis, once a fairly high-priced quartet, were bought for $40, which was enough in itself to mark the passing of the good old days. Siberian exiles are in slack demand. Seventeen of them went for $40.

Five pursuing wolves brought $2 each. Another shrewd bargainer bid in a "Drunken Woman" for $5. He has no intention of reforming her, he said. The spirited "Attack on a Counterfeiters' Den" is all out of date. Probably $27.50 was all it was worth. But it does seem as if the "Lion Attacking a Moving Picture Operator" might have fetched more than $18. A pretty penny could be turned by setting up this gruesome group in a hall and letting theatrical managers and "legitimate" actors gloat over it at, say, $1 per gloat.

Oyster Bay Has "Spook" That Shoots and Smokes

OYSTER BAY, L. I.—A woman "spook," who dresses all in black, smokes cigars and shoots a revolver, has Oyster Bay, L. I., in the grip of a bad scare. She appears only after nightfall and is credited with chasing children to their homes, following unescorted women and men, and disappearing, seemingly into thin air, when pursued by a posse of 100 men and the village police force, Constable John Thompson.

The woman of mystery has been busy and women and children are afraid to venture out of their homes. Children playing in the woods that skirt Northwood, the country home of Mortimer L. Schiff, were first chased by the "spook." Their stories were laughed at until Tearl Corey of Baylis Hill, an abstemious carpenter, absolutely needed. ran in terror when he saw the woman, attired in deep black and with a cigar sticking out of her mouth at a rakish angle, walking toward him. The car itself, with its dusty windows, its fading colors, its obsolete lettering, and its front platform three or four feet lower or higher than the rear, is certainly a novel sight.

"Everybody is kicking about how slow these old cars are," said the driver as he flicked his whip upon the backs of his unfeeling steeds. "'Tain't their fault. His wife's kiss was still on his lips. the happy laughter of his child rang in his ears. He sat at the door of the cottage and looked about him.

Roger Latham was one of the most prosperous settlers in the Western valley. He had gone there a dezen years before, had taken out a claim, had made the wilderness to blossom. Now he was a well-to-do man, and in a few years would be a rich one. He was married to the sweetest woman in the world. His life was idyllic. He could wish for no better

Only he was totally ignorant of anything that had happened during those twelve years, except during the last two weeks. He had had to be told even his name, his wife's and child's. And, though he had picked his way cautiously, so that they only thought his strangeness was the result of the buggy accident two weeks before, he found himself confronted with a past, long since forgotten. In this part his name was Roger Latham, but everything else seemed bly to a screen, and Reger darted bedifferent. A good tenderloin steak may run in price today from 22 to 40 cents a bound; a round steak may be purhased for from 12 to 20 cents a ound. Now, which is the greater economy in handling the home pocketbook-to purchase the round steak or o take the high-priced tenderloin? The wife has it within her power to nake the high-priced tenderloin an conomy.

She serves it first as a broiled steak. With the remnants left, including the one and fat, there are yet eleven dif-'erent ways in which she can make palatable additional meals for her famly and not have them feel that there s a monotony in their food. The Girl and the Game

A Story of Mountain Railroad Life.

It is a story of a young girl's struggle for success in the face of adversity—the revelation of Wall Street's control of America's railroad systems—the explanation of so-called "high society" with its pampered daughters, its financial trickery, its defeats and its victories. Never before has such an interesting subject been presented in a newspaper serial. Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skip pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do. says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire climentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your druggist or at the store. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish tinge which is not unpleasant. Drank phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile polsons and toxins; also to prevent their formation. To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.-Adv.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of Genral Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic rail-road, by George Storm, a newsboy, Grown to young womanhood Helen makes a spec-tacular double rescue of Storm, now a freight fireman, and of her father and his friends, Amos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threat-ened collision between a passenger train and a runaway freight.

General Holmes, seated in the library of his country home with his associate, Amos Rhinelander, took from his morning mail a letter from John B. Rhodes, chairman of his executive committee, which revealed the extent of the feeling over the situation. Holmes handed the letter to Rhinelander. With furiously red cheeks but sweeping aside the cost. Helen put out her hand, "it was nothing," she said quickly. "Do not think of it." Then she repaid Storm's impulsive stupidity, as she thought it deserved, by catching at something Seagrue was saying and failing to see Storm again. The engineer had come up prepared really to say how grateful he was; he found himself, in a fleeting second, already well launched on the social oboggan and shooting toward the botom of a long hill. Seagrue, almost before Storm's back was turned, was laughing at Helen and pointing to her glove. The white, soft kid now bore beyond repair the heavy, black fingerprints of the engineman's hand.

Questions and banterings from her companions contributed nothing toward restoring Helen's composure. But as the group moved to the waiting motor cars, she unostentatiously drew the offending giove over her wrist and hrew it away. One pair of eyes watched the action closely; Storm, offecting his wits after his social disster, noted what she had done. He was too philosophical to resent it. The resisted longer; then surrendering to a sudden impulse, she ran downstairs, while her guests were disposing themselves, stepped into her racing car, drove to the station and alighting just as Storm came out of the telegraph office, she herself began to search at the edge of the platform for something. A cry from Storm made her look across toward him. She saw his eyes regarding her, but he was pointing silently ahead, and looking again through her own window, Helen's straining vision caught far ahead the faint gleam of the red tail-lights. From the top of the distant sleeping cars Spike and Hyde had seen the threatening chase. Without a qualm, and crawling along the swaying cars, they made their way toward the engine. They held up the engineer and fireman. Spike understood enough of an engine to take the throttle and he tried to run away from Storm; but this proved a game in which he had no advantage. Striving desperately to increase his speed he found himself, as he glanced back from the cab window, steadily losing ground. The race was now more like the effort of a plow horse to run away from a thoroughbred. A last resort remained for the criminals. Hyde, at Spike's direction, climbed back over the tender and cut off the coaches. The engine pulled away from the train. The air went on and the string of sleepers stopped abruptly. Colds Make Backs Ache

MORE aching backs, more kidney troubles come in March, than in any other month. Slushy sidewalks, dampness, raw winds and sudden changes cause chills and colds. And chills or colds tend to hurt the kidneys. It is good sense to use a kidney remedy when recovering from a cold and at any time when suffering from a lame back, sharp pains when stooping or lifting, dizzy spells, irregular or annoying kidney action, and a run-down, nervous state.

Don't delay and take a chance of getting dropsy, gravel, Bright's disease or some other serious kidney disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the best-recommended, special kidney remedy. All over the world grateful people frankly praise Doan's.

Here's What Michigan People Say:

Frank Mingus, W. St. Joe St., Union City, Mich., says: "Some years ago I was injured and my back and kidneys were affected. Every time I caught cold, it set-tled on my kidneys causing much misery from a lame back and pains through my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills have done me more good than any other kidney medicine I have ever used. They have removed backache and lameness and strengthened my kldneys."

Mrs. Mary McLellan, 924 Stark St., Saginaw, Mich., says: "When I overworked or caught cold my kidneys got badly disordered. My back used to ache intensely and I frequently had dizzy spells and felt tired and worn out. My doctor told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did. They regulated the action of my kidneys, strengthened my back and put me in good shape."

Look Here! F. O. B. Detroit Mr. Auto Buyer

Maxwell Touring Car for 1916.

ON'T you think you owe it to yourself, when buying an auto, to demand the very best for your money, when we tell you that this car has the world's non-stop record---

-Making over 22,000 miles, averaging over 500 miles per day, and 44 days without a single motor stop. Better by nearly 10,000 miles than the best previous American record, and the motor still running when they chose to stop.

-The economy test on high gear at the engineering department, Yale University, making as high as 33 8-10 miles per gallon gasoline, early winning from 40 competitors. -And first on low gear economy test at Spokane, Wash., making 4 miles, 75 yards per

-And the famous trip from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, a distance of 294 miles and a favorite testing ground for auto manufacturers on account of mountainous nature of the country. This trip was made through ice and snow in February and cut down the time by a full hour from all previous records.

These were all common stock Maxwells and the same company are the manufacturers of the Maxwell racer that has made a world's record several times. This information is perfectly authentic as we can prove. Then, instead of asking $2,000 for the world's champion in practically all tests known to auto manufacturers, we offer you this marvelous car at the unheard of price of $655, F. O. B. Detroit. Don't you think you should at least look this car over and give it a trial before purchasing
