HERE IT IS, OUR NEW LINOTYPE

INSTALLED IN THE LEDGER OFFICE LAST WEEK

Large and Growing Business Required Up-to-Date Equipment. We Have It.

A model 15 Linotype, electrically equipped, was installed in The Ledger office last week, and when in successful operation, a cordial invitation will be extended to all our readers of The Lowell Ledger and Alto Solo to visit the Ledger office and inspect it.

With a large and growing army of readers, we have felt compelled to adopt a machine composition, although having learned the printer's trade before type setting machines were thought of, we have been slow to change from time-honored methods with which we have been familiar from boyhood.

The illustration shown here with gives but a faint idea of this wonderful machine. While the Linotype is called a type-setting machine, it is really a composing machine, and today is standard everywhere. It is a machine operated by finger keys like a typewriter, which operation assembles a line of matrices from which matter is composed. Instead of producing single type characters, it casts bars, or slugs, from hot metal, each complete in one piece and having on the upper edge the characters properly justified to print a line.

Prior to the advent of the Linotype a number of mechanical contrivances were brought out for setting type by machinery, most of which turned out to be utter failures while a few were perfected up to a point where type could be set but the cost was found to be entirely too expensive.

The Linotype is controlled and operated by one operator who produces the finished slugs ready for the press. It does away with worn out type and assures our readers of clear, new type each issue.

Printing The Ledger and The Solo "The Linotype Way" means better papers and assures our readers of our genuine appreciation of the past and our endeavor to merit continued approval by publishing newspapers that will give further and wider publicity to Lowell and Alto and the splendid surrounding communities and their prosperous people.

The amount of work which can be done on the Linotype is practically unlimited, and when our machine is in successful operation we will be much better prepared to handle book work, law briefs, pamphlets, price lists, sale bills and all sorts and kinds of job printing.

Also, on our new Linotype we will be in a position to handle all classes of composition, including newspaper, pamphlet, folder and leaflet work with facility. In fact, we will have a range on our machine similar to that of the city plants.

Send in your printing and let us prove we are now in a position to consider ourselves equipped to meet your every requirement.

Then too, the speed with which work can be handled on the Linotype assures you we will deliver promptly "on time" and, if you have any doubts as to our assertion, give us an opportunity to show the ease with which a job can be turned out.

ALTO BANK ROBBED

Loss and Damage to Bank Total $10,586.00.

(By W. J. Watson.)

The Alto bank was blown up at 1:44 Saturday morning by burglars, as that is the time the bank clock stopped. The loss amounted to $10,586.00, including the total loss of money and damage to the building, which is fully covered by burglar insurance. The burglars gained entrance through the window next to the side door on the south part of the bank which was smashed out completely with a shovel. Two charges of nitro glycerine were used, the first charge blew the vault door off the hinges onto the floor in the middle of the bank. The next charge blew the doors off the safe which is kept on the inside of the vault containing the money. The cracks around the vault and safe doors were filled with soap, the nitro glycerine being poured in from the top and long fuses used, so the burglars could vacate the building between each explosion which occurred very close together.

Several people around town heard the reports but thought it might be duck hunters. Some of the books in the vault were quite badly damaged, but the figures are legible. None of the notes, deposit boxes, government bonds which were held in trust by the bank, or certificates of deposit were taken.

The telephone cables at the Citizens telephone office were all cut and also all the telegraph and telephone wires at the depot, with the exception of the two Bell wires, which they did not discover. The safe blowers got through their job and out of town without being detected until about 5:30 Saturday morning. It is reported that John Ellis was the first person in town to notice the job and he promptly reported it to Edward Campau, the assistant cashier at the bank, and Deputy Sheriff Edgar Dyert.

Also was a sight on the morning of the burglary with telephone wires and cables hanging in the street. It made the town appear as if it had been struck by an earthquake which likely happened in about as short a time.

It looks as if the robbers went from here directly to Middleville as the bank in that town was blown up at about 3 a. m. the same morning, which would allow plenty of time for them to cover the distance if they travelled by auto.

This article is written Wednesday afternoon and no clue has been found of the burglars yet, which was a very clever piece of work.

SOLDIERS' BENEFIT

Proceeds of Idle Hour Entertainment, $55.25. W. R. C. Adds $5.00.

The $55.25 derived from the Idle Hour Benefit given by Mr. Warner has been placed in the hands of a committee and they are ready to purchase yarn and sweaters knit for the honored and enlisted boys of Lowell and vicinity. The W. R. C. of Lowell has added $5.00 to this fund making a total of $60.25. If you desire to help in this work contributions will be gladly received at any time and the things purchased will go directly to the boys.

This committee consisting of Mesdames R. VanDyke and Willard Hunter wish you to let them know the names of boys needing sweaters. Also, if you are willing to knit a sweater, will you volunteer?
Below is the list as they have it, so if anyone has been omitted, please see them. Or, if any of these boys have a sweater let them know at once:
Merritt Miller, Clinton Johnson, Elmer Johnson, Orlow Tillyer, William C. Doyle, Cyrus E. Hand, Harley Balcom, Harvey Balcom, Vernon Chubb, Melvin Kingdom, Oscar Brezina, Howard Sherman, Charles Stocking, Bruce Stocking, Perrin McQueen, Bruce McQueen, Walter Kropp, Theo Bank, Carl Bank, Ben Hardy, Geo. Hatch, Carl Johnson, Mortimer Balcom, Herbert Peckham, Leslie Rickner, William Stinton, Ernest Ayers.

A Young Life Taken.

Chad Fopma died October 17 at Blodgett hospital, following an operation the night before, at the tender age of 13 years and 9 months. Funeral services were held Saturday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fopma, two miles west of Lowell village.
Chad was born in Lowell township Jan. 16, 1904, and spent all of his short life here, attending school in District No. 2. He is survived by his parents, one brother, five sisters and other relatives.

Death of Mrs. J. D. Olin.

Mrs. J. D. Olin of this village died October 19, aged 67 years, 4 months and 25 days. Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon, Rev. A. H. Lush officiating; burial at Oakwood cemetery.

Mrs. Olin was born in LaCoe, Canada, May 24, 1850. She was married to Edwin Tasker Aug. 1, 1887; and again in 1905 was united in marriage with John D. Olin, who with a sister, brother and other relatives survive her.

Mrs. Olin was a woman known for her many kindnesses, and was loved by all who knew her. She was confirmed in the Episcopal church in her childhood and was faithful to her vows.

RUSS FLEET OF 20 SHIPS BOTTLED UP

Published every Thursday afternoon at Lowell, Michigan. F. M. JOHNSON, Editor and Proprietor. Twenty-five cents per copy. Single copies, 10 cents. Entered as second-class matter, October 1, 1916, under post office number 1166, with special authority of post office at Lowell, Michigan, under act of October 3, 1917.

The Ledger has an excellent staff of printers and newspaper workers. We do not print the machine to supplant any of them but prefer to expand our business to utilize the human help to the advantage of the entire community. We shall do our best to merit the necessary increase in subscription rates, advertising and job printing; the rest will be up to the public, and we await results in confidence.

Nearly 2500 years ago, Aesop the famous Greek fabulist, showed how greed overreaches itself, in a fable now familiar to every reader: A dog with a piece of meat in its mouth was crossing a stream and seeing its reflection in the water, snatched at the shadow of the meat and thereby lost the substance. Old as the lesson is, there are people living today, who might well ponder and profit thereon.

We always thought Mrs. Handley Russell was just about right and now we know she is. She has notified the editor of the "Suffragist", Washington, to stop sending his paper to her and to "call off" the White House pickets, declaring that he is torturing the President at this time is "Next door to treason." It's our treat, Mrs. Russell. What'll you have?

Facing the largest tax in the history of Michigan and that county, the board of supervisors did right in refusing numerous requests for increase of county salaries. It is time to put the screws on these contemptible public expensives. An officer doesn't like to pay, let him get out and make way for plenty of men who will.

"Freedom of speech" has been denied again. A LaPorte, Indiana, man tried it out by saying "to hell with the Liberty Loan and time the United States" and expressing a regret that he could not serve in the German army. He is to be arraigned in the United States court. "O, thus be it ever."

Excuse us while we we-p. While opening our mail Monday morning, we look a check for $110 from a letter, and then discovered that it belonged to the Lowell Specialty company. We're not in the habit of doing it again, Mr. Postmaster. We couldn't survive another check.

No one is fooled by the office seeker's pro-tection racket, unless it is the slunk-ster. So with the city publishers, who are so friendly with their county cousins about clubbing or axe-grinding in the country office is no such fool that he can not see through the hole in a straw-stone.

"There can be no neutrals in this war, only patriots and traitors." Last and best words of Stephen A. Douglas at the outbreak of the Civil war. No truce words could then have been spoken and they are as timely today, when uttered by the Little Giant, Lincoln's great rival.

The Portland Review can't understand how the Falls Canning factory sells so many cars of mince meat from only two sets of raisins. If Brother Mauren would stop trying to make a living out of the Review, he might learn more about mince pies and other edibles.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine McWhinney of California were dinner guests at Frank Panich's home. Mrs. Agnes Hutzinger has purchased a home at H. E. Colby's of McGord's and is going to move soon. Mrs. and Edward Pattison visited their cousin, Verna and Beatrice Pattison, also Gladys and Edward Kiel of Lowell a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Taylor of Lowell visited Mrs. L. P. Burr and Mrs. Hilda Young and called on Mrs. Ora Horton last week. Mrs. Ruth Thorsen of L'Anse-au-Loup, Quebec, visited her sister, Mrs. George Tucker. Mrs. Alice Lee and her sister of Blanchard have been visiting for several weeks at the home of the former's daughter, Mrs. Floyd Yeller, and Mrs. Bernice McDermid, Lewis, Mich. Mrs. Alfred Bell of this town returned to Lansing on business last week.

When one blames you for doing your duty, many will give you credit, but blame or praise do you dirty anyway. If, as the old saying has it, "He who is in the line, let the other fall where they will." So, glare away, you disgruntled peevers! Who's running this paper, anyway?

There are some people in Grand Rapids and Kent counties who should see "The Men Will out at Country" at Powers' this week—some people in particular who are of course many local people will see it; and the other sort should be forced to do so.

The Press funny man tried to crack a smile over some of The Ledger's perfectly good English. Oh, well, small items in The Ledger make large articles for The Press.

People who glare at the editor because he has done his duty, are welcome to all the joy it gives them. We shall continue our own work just the same.

The silence of the editors of the Grand Rapids and Kent counties is more eloquent than words.

After all the "Cash and carry plan" is superfluous. You get so little for your money, it's no trouble to carry it.

Free speech is all right in America, but it is in the American language.

Excuse us while we we-p. While opening our mail Monday morning, we look a check for $110 from a letter, and then discovered that it belonged to the Lowell Specialty company.

No one is fooled by the office seeker's pro-tection racket, unless it is the slunk-ster. So with the city publishers, who are so friendly with their county cousins about clubbing or axe-grinding in the country office is no such fool that he can not see through the hole in a straw-stone.

"There can be no neutrals in this war, only patriots and traitors." Last and best words of Stephen A. Douglas at the outbreak of the Civil war. No truce words could then have been spoken and they are as timely today, when uttered by the Little Giant, Lincoln's great rival.

What! My Car?

Yes! skidded—and it's up to you. You failed to provide the chauffeur with TWC Chains.

How strange it is that dis-aster must come to some men before they realize that all makes and types of tires will skid on wet pavements and muddy roads when not equipped with Chains.

AN EXPENSIVE BERRY Board of Supervisors Put Damp-er on Sheriff's Bills.

The action came on recom-mendation of the finance committee as a result of the heavy expense in operating the sheriff's automobiles and on complaint of the work farm commission that it had no co-operation with the sheriff's department either in conveying prisoners to the farm or in the capture of escaped prisoners.

The board determined to make the special committee, composed of Supervisors Perry, Tisch and Johnson, ap-pointed to investigate the sheriff's expense accounts.

Lowell Boy Writes From Fort Sam Houston. The following letter from Ben Hardy, a Lowell school boy, to his parents Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Hardy, will be of in-terest to our readers in general and his friends in particular.

Dear Parents and those who ask of me: It has been over a month since I left my troop at Del into, but since then have been sent to Houston, Texas, to train a cavalry horse, and I am miss-ing some of the joys they will surely get.

In this post alone are station-ed 3 different army divisions, Infantry, Artillery (Field) and Cavalry, with a regiment of each all quartered in permanent structures. That's why it is a fort instead of a camp.
