THIRD LIBERTY LOAN

Drive Opened April 6 with Great Enthusiasm.

The opening of the third Liberty Loan drive for Lowell and vicinity was celebrated with great enthusiasm last Saturday, April 6, beginning at 1:30 p. m., just a year from the time "Woodrow Wilson signed the declaration of war that proclaimed to the world that the good old United States had entered the struggle for democracy, that the Hun might not clasp into his mailed fist all that civilization has held so dear."

Following a signal from the fire bell, factory whistles were blown, bells, whistles and bedlam reigned supreme for some time. Posted residents of the village thought the whole town was burning up and some benighted farmers driving into town thought the whole town had gone crazy.

Noelie Joseph Whitty thought Lowell was giving him a big reception. Said he hadn't been so honored since the last time he went to church and every one stood up when he went in and he said "Keep your seats, ladies and gentlemen, don't mind me."

One of the bells rung in the hub-laloo was the old Lowell High school bell, a relic of the Civil War days, which had been mounted on a truck and placed by the Postoffice building under the new flag staff and Old Glory, where it was vigorously pounded by two boys with wooden mallets.

After the din subsided, Chairman Hicks of the Lowell Liberty Loan Committee, mounted the truck beside the bell and gave what some have said to be the best speech he ever made. If so, it was a mighty good one. His address, an appeal for hearty support for the Liberty Loan drive, was prefaced by a tribute to the old bell, of which the following is a mere outline:

The Old Central High School Bell. Bell was rung in spring of 1863. Told first of the death of a teacher.

It rang out the news of the fall of Vicksburg and the victory of Gettysburg.

It rang out for every victory and tolled at every defeat during the War of the Rebellion.

It rang out the summons for the patriotic women of those days to work for the Soldiers' Aid societies.

Its tones pealed forth the glad news of the surrender at Appomattox, and continued ringing nearly all night.

It was tolled at the news of Lincoln's assassination; and it was tolled during the memorial services held in Lowell at the time Lincoln was buried.

PATRIOTIC CHURCH SERVICES

Sunday morning, patriotic services were held at the Congregational church, with an address in aid of the Liberty Loan by Rev. A. H. Lash; and a like service was held at the Methodist church in the evening, when Pastor J. H. B. B. spoke from the topic "Democracy Worth Fighting For."

THE LEDGER MISAPPROPRIATE LOWELL TOWNSHIP FUNDS?

Well, not exactly; but in our report of the township meeting last week, we omitted the highway repair fund of $1500 and made the library fund $500, when it should have been $75. Yes, the Ledger office is "a well regulated family" and mistakes will happen.

THE PATH TO VICTORY

LIBERTY BONDS

Lave the way to VICTORY in war, — an early, complete, triumphant VICTORY. If we are to win the war abroad we must first learn to spend wisely, to abandon luxury, and invest every dollar we possibly can in the bonds which provide the materials and equipment without which the war cannot be won.

OLD RESIDENT GONE

Mrs. Robert Hardy Died at Son's Home in Keene.

Mrs. Euphemia Hardy, widow of Robert Hardy, both well known and respected old residents of Lowell, died March 28 at the home of her son George in Keene, aged 83 years, 10 months and 13 days. She was for many years a devoted member of the Lowell Methodist church and a faithful attendant upon same.

The Saranac Advertiser has the following obituary:

Euphemia Hardy was born in Paris, Brant County, Canada, May 15, 1835. She was married to Robert Hardy at Paris, Canada, April 2, 1862. She came to Michigan making her home in Campbell town. In 1869 she moved to Keene and two years later moved to Lowell. Mr. Hardy died in Lowell July 22, 1898, and Mrs. Hardy continued to live in Lowell until Dec. 1917, when she came to the home of George Hardy in Keene.

There were four children born to this marriage: George of Keene, Jennie Black of Vestaburg; and Lizzie and Dave who passed on before. She leaves to mourn her loss one son, daughter, nine grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the First M. E. church in Saranac and were largely attended. Dr. W. F. Emery read the funeral lessons and gave a brief address. A select choir furnished the music. The interment in Saranac cemetery.

Ever ready to administer to the wants of those in need without regard to self, she was loved and esteemed by all who knew her, and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn her loss.
