LOWELL POST HAS 53 MEMBERS

Aims and Objects Stated at Smoker. Red Cross Applauded.

Last Monday night the smoker held in the City hall was a big success. Twenty former service men from this vicinity joined. The campaign for members will continue until everyone has had an opportunity to join.

The Lowell Post now has fifty-three members.

The entertainment was furnished by C. W. French, of Grand Rapids with his Hawaiian Quartette. It was full of pep from start to finish.

Mr. E. B. Strom, of Grand Rapids, chairman of Grand A. Johnson Post No. 2, explained the reasons for the American Legion, stating that it originated from the time the United States entered the war. The first idea of the Legion is "We served in the United States in war why not in peace?"

The greatest aim is to make "America for Americans." In connection with that the American Legion is urging legislation to the effect that every one in the United States be educated in the English language and then make them citizens, if not send them back from whence they came.

The present week is given over to the American Red Cross. The American Legion urges everyone to become a member of this organization which did so much during the World War. They made good and deserve your support.

All service men in this vicinity who have not joined are urged to do so at once. Application cards may be obtained of J. Scott at the Dodge garage or of O. J. Brezina at the Waverly hotel.

Another shipment of Legion buttons is expected soon.

Invitation has been received from Grand Rapids to attend the celebration of Armistice day. It is a celebration of Western Michigan. A cordial invitation has been extended by Mayor Gallmeyer to the soldiers, sailors and citizens of Lowell to attend. The parade is scheduled for 2 p. m. All ex-service men are expected to join in the parade. Attend if possible.

Tuesday, Nov. 11, is the date.

HARVESTERS' COMING TO ALTO NOVEMBER 22.

"When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock." This is the time of the year portrayed by the initial sketch of the Harvesters' Convention appearing here on the Lyceum Course at Alto Saturday evening, November 22.

Beginning with a rural costume sketch, the Harvesters' program is delightfully American. An interesting story of both country and city life runs through and binds together the entire production. The Harvesters' entertainment is unique, novel and most delightful.

Three exceptional artists comprise this company which was organized and coached by Sandor Radanovits, noted Chicago producer, who has prepared some of the strongest companies on the list of the well-known Redpath Lyceum bureau.

Lively, up-to-date music, readings and songs, selections from standard operas, old-time songs, are some of the features of this program.

Wilbur Beattie, bass baritone and reader, is director of the company. He has a background of experience in both Lyceum and Opera.

YEITER CIRCLE SPENT PLEASANT EVENING.

The Yeiter Circle spent a very enjoyable evening Friday, Oct. 31 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Andrews.

After a short business session an animal game was played which caused lots of merriment.

Only those present could appreciate the talent for drawing the Yeiter Circle exhibited, especially among the men. Springett winning first prize on his pig and Mr. Harris winning the whistle.

Mrs. Geo. Taylor gave a reading all enjoyed, after which followed a guessing game in which Mrs. Kuhn and Mrs. Springett carried off the honors of being best impersonators.

Then quite suddenly in walked three ghosts and in a grave yard voice sang their weird ghost song after which they turned and fled as suddenly as they came.

Mr. Winetar gave a very pleasing vocal selection, accompanied by Mr. Andrews on the guitar.

Refreshments were served and all departed at an early hour.

FARMERS CALL LABOR TO BOOK

7,000 Delegates From Soil, in Resolutions, Demand That Strike Habit Cease.

Kansas City, Nov. 2—Organized labor cannot count on the farmers to join in any effort to further shorten the hours of labor or increase wages. Furthermore, organized labor must very shortly heed a concerted demand from the farmers that it not only cease agitation along these lines, but that it use its best efforts toward "exerting a steady influence" in these turbulent times, particularly by refraining from striking.

This stand of the farmers of the United States is outlined in resolutions adopted by the international farm congress at its annual three-day sessions here.

Farmers Cite War Record.

The resolutions begin by "pointing with pride" to the splendid war-production record made by the farmers, and a pledge to continue to produce in such measure as may be required to meet any future emergency. Then, after "renewing to the hosts of labor our expressions of friendship and goodwill," the resolutions proceed to "view with apprehension and disfavor the turbulent conditions existing, particularly in the ranks of organized labor."

Next comes a protest against the policy of organized labor in urging greater production on the farms while deliberately restricting the output of the factories and encouraging lessened individual effort. "We contend," the resolutions recite, "that production in the factories is second in importance only to production on the farms, and that the obligation of labor to society is not less than that of the farmer."

Strike Habit Deplored.

The resolutions deplore the calling of strikes in times like these for any reason other than a grave emergency. They oppose the unionization of police officers or any other officials or employees in public service; view with disfavor and alarm the growing tendency toward idleness among all classes of people; voice a vigorous protest against the wide margin between prices paid the producer and those charged the consumer; condemn profiteering, particularly in the necessities of life, and oppose further government operation of railroads.

A statement from the headquarters of the farm congress points out that these resolutions were adopted unanimously by more than 1,000 delegates representing the farmers, dozers or more slaves, and that they are the result of months of careful study and investigation. "These farmers are now thoroughly awake to the fact that the labor situation constitutes a menace to them greater than all others combined," the statement declares. "Farms cannot be operated on a six-hour basis, or even eight. Neither can dollars-an-hour wages be paid. To put the farms on any such basis, even if it could be done, would at once force the price of foodstuffs so high that all but the well-to-do would go hungry. Farm labor now demands wages approximately those paid in the factories. And if farm laborers do not get such wages they go to the factories."

Consumer Pays the Wages.

"Every time wages are increased, or the hours shortened, the cost of things the farmers and everybody else have to buy is increased. Every strike is paid for by the consumers in increased costs. Every loaf and slacker in the factories adds to such costs. No one knows this better than the farmers who met at Kansas City. The farmer does not strike or shirk. He is coming before the country with clean hands, to demand of the workman that he shall work or go hungry, and of the manufacturer or merchant that they shall not take more than is fair."

LEON HAMMER DIED LAST NIGHT

Margaret Jane Graham was born in Worton, England, April 28, 1848 and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Myers, of Lowell, Mich., Nov. 2, 1919.

She came with her parents to Canada in 1855 and lived there for about four years when the family moved to South Lowell, Mich.

On June 5, 1859 she was married to Jeremiah Dillenbeck. Soon after their marriage they moved on a farm in South Boston and this was her home until 17 years ago when she moved to Lowell.

About 50 years ago she united with the Methodist Episcopal church in South Boston and was a faithful member. She was one of those folks that believed that Christianity and good cheer went hand in hand, and her life demonstrated it. She found real joy in the service of Christ. During these last few weeks she has been anxious to go to her eternal home.

She leaves to mourn her loss besides a son and daughter, four grandchildren, six great grandchildren and a host of friends. A loving mother, a faithful friend and true Christian has gone from among us.

The funeral services were held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Myers, Rev. H. H. Harris had charge of these services. The remains were laid to rest in the South Boston cemetery.

After the Moulting Eggs

Remember going through the moulting is like going through a long spell of sickness. To force out the quills and grow new feathers saps a hen's vitality.

If you expect your hens to be fall producers and winter layers, then feed them Poultry Panacea during and after the moulting.

Dr. Hess Poultry Panacea

will start your pullets and moulted hens to laying.

It contains tonics that put your moulted hens in fine condition—tonics that tone up the dormant egg organs—iron that gives a moulted, run-down hen rich, red blood and a red comb. Money refunded if it does not do as claimed.
