FINE ANNUAL MEET

Board of Trade Banquet was One of the Very Best.

The fourteenth annual banquet of the Lowell Board of Trade held at the City hall Tuesday evening was one of the most profitable and enjoyable occasions in the history of the organization.

At the business meeting preceding it, H. L. Weekes was elected president, W. C. Doyle vice president and R. T. Ford director.

One hundred and eleven men were served by the Methodist ladies to the splendidly prepared banquet indicated by the following

- Oyster Cocktail
- Salted Nuts
- Mixed Pickles
- Chicken Pie
- Mashed Potatoes
- Hubbard Squash
- Fruit Salad
- Coffee
- Ice Cream and Cake
- Cigars

After an invocation of the Divine blessing by Rev. H. H. Harris, the president's address was given by Retiring President J. J. Lalley.

He praised the loyalty of the business men of Lowell, who during the past year have contributed $2,500 to the various activities of the Board of Trade, and thanked committees and members for the aid given the officers of the organization including the decorating committee who had so splendidly prepared the hall for this meeting.

He mentioned finding a considerable sentiment among business men and farmers that announced that they would not consume valuable time by flowery introductions or attempted witticisms, but would proceed with the introductions of the able speakers, whom we were so fortunate to have with us at this time.

Fred P. Geib, of Grand Rapids, who was to have spoken, was detained by illness in his family, and the committee had secured in his stead Asst. Prosecuting Attorney Jonkman of the same city.

Mr. Jonkman spoke very interestingly from the topic "Individual and National Character," tracing the influence of the Puritans upon our national life and character through the Declaration of Independence with its "All men are created equal" down to the Civil war, the emancipation of the slave and the freeing of the soil, still later in the great World war just closed. It was not his purpose to eulogize our national character, the greatest fault of which was due to non-conciliation by individuals of their responsibility to the government. He reproved the citizen who failed to exercise the right of franchise and closed with an eloquent declaration that it should be the aim of every American to spread the sentiment of individual responsibility in government so that individual character shall find expression in national character.

R. L. Dyke Stocking at the piano, rendered a vocal solo which was much appreciated.

Toastmaster VanDyke introducing Rev. Edgar B. Cochran, said that when he looked over the assemblage and saw so many present who seldom heard a preacher except at a funeral, he was glad to be able to introduce one as the next speaker, remembering that it was a former Lowell pastor, Rev. B. B. Bready, who was an organizer of the Lowell Board of Trade.

Rev. Cochran took for his topic "A Man and His Business," and we'll guarantee that no one went to sleep while he had the floor. He stated as an essential that the business man "Find himself," that he choose the business he liked best and is best fitted for and devote himself to it to the best of his ability. The business men were the base of supply for the army that won the victory in France, their generosity and self-sacrificing loyalty were warmly praised. The good business man puts his life into his business. It is more than a money-making machine, it is an expression of his life and character, which will be his monument when he is gone. A man is of more importance than his business and a man cannot be a good business man without being a good man.

Mr. Dyke sang again "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and responded to an appreciative encore with another selection.

The toastmaster in introducing the next speaker said that on a former occasion, the Lowell Board of Trade had as a speaker one who afterward became governor of Michigan—Chase Osborn; and said that he hoped that might happen again, and he presented Mayor Fred Greene of Ionia as furnishing that possibility.

Mr. Greene prefaced a good address with some jovial remarks, saying among other things that he had done well to get enough to eat seated between a lawyer and two preachers. Then, noticing the Methodist ladies in the gallery, he wondered why they were in the back seats. He wished he had brought his wife with him. She never took a back seat anywhere.

Then he talked of Co-operation among business men, farmers and laborers. He might say something about good roads. He had just driven over from Ionia and would like to say something about the Ionia-Lowell road; but he noticed the ladies were still present and he wouldn't.

He spoke of the increasing burden of taxation and attributed it largely to rapidly multiplying boards and offices, most of which could be dispensed with.

Reference was made to his recent tour in Europe and the far east and showed how greatly superior was our government to those of England and France, the best in Europe.

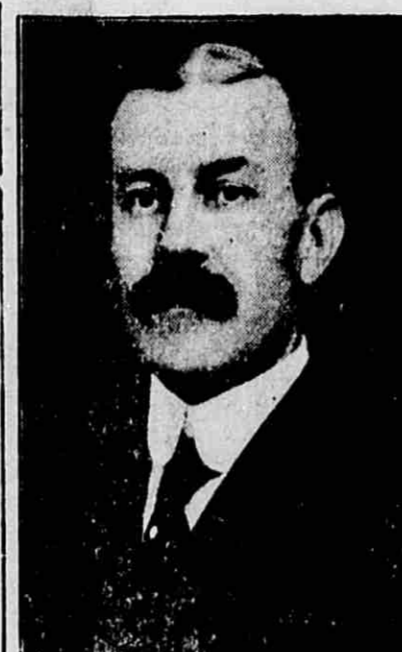

He attributed American character very largely to the American constitution, the greatest human document and advised his hearers to study it and the works of Hamilton, Marshall, Madison and Lincoln.

At the conclusion of Mr. Green's splendid address, Mr. Van Dyke said that he still sincerely hoped that we were entertaining the future governor of Michigan.

Mr. Lalley in opening the meeting had referred to and mentioned the death of Sylvester P. Hicks; and in accordance with the suggestion of Mr. VanDyke, as a further tribute to our loyal old citizen, the meeting closed with the singing of

OUR CITY OFFICERS

Caucus Selects Former Lowell Officials to Succeed Themselves.

There was an attendance of about twenty-five voters at the close of the Village caucus Friday evening, and seventeen were recorded as voting on the several nominations.

The caucus organized with Earl Thomas, chairman; Harry Day, secretary and H. L. Shuter and O. Brezna, tellers.

Only one ballot was taken, an informal one for president. All the others were made by acclamation, and all the nominees were chosen to succeed themselves and without opposition.

This is the ticket:
President—M. N. Henry.
Clerk—H. L. Shuter.
Trustees—P. C. Peckham, J. C. Smith, O. J. Yeiter.Treasurer—U. B. Williams.
Assessor—F. N. White.

As village committee the chairman appointed D. G. Look, Will C. Doyle and F. A. Gould.

Some discussion of the annual clean-up followed, mostly favorable to the continuation of the arrangement, with reference to possible adoption by Lowell at a future time. As a committee to make such investigation, the chairman appointed D. G. Look, D. G. Munge and W. G. Doyle.

PIONEER HAS GONE

Death of John Hatch Removes One of South Boston's Earliest.

John F. Hatch was born in Monroe, Astabula county, Ohio, Feb. 18, 1837 and departed this life at his home in Lowell Feb. 10, 1920, in his 83rd year. Funeral services were held at the home Friday afternoon.

Rev. A. H. Lash officiating clergyman. Members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. attended in a body. Burial in South Boston cemetery.

Mr. Hatch came with his parents to Michigan in the pioneer days, locating in South Boston in 1844. He was of a family of ten children, of whom a sister, Mrs. A. C. Sherman, is the only survivor.

He was actively engaged in community affairs in the pioneer days of South Boston. He was united in marriage to Delia A. Towl Nov. 6, 1864. To this union were born four children: Cliff, Della, Hattie and Carry, the last of whom died in infancy.

Mrs. Lottie Elkins was taken into the home when a young child and was always regarded as a member of the family.

Mrs. Hatch departed this life in 1909.

Mr. Hatch was a veteran of the Civil war, having enlisted in Company I, 20th Michigan Infantry, in 1862. After six months he had an illness which disabled him for further service.

He has ever remained a staunch defender of the flag and was an enthusiastic member of the G. A. R.

The Great Messenger called our veteran friend and father to his Great Beyond and he is at rest.

METHODIST CHURCH
We were glad to meet so many as we did at the different services last Sunday. We appreciate the efforts of those, who, in spite of the cutting wind, zero weather and snow-bound streets, were present. Also for the faithfulness of the members who had the church so warm and comfortable.

Many have responded for one of our hospitals in China. The package will not be sent for about two weeks to give all who wish an opportunity to have a part in this work for humanity.

Class No. 14 is planning for its regular business and social meeting with Mrs. M. N. Henry's Friday, Feb. 20. The members will hold their business meeting in the afternoon at three o'clock. At 6 o'clock, they, with their husbands and friends, will enjoy a pot luck supper together, an evening of program and entertainment will follow.

The thoughts developed during the showing of the Lincoln slides Sunday evening emphasized the religious side of Lincoln's life. He said, "I am conscious at every moment that all I am, all that I have is subject to the control of a Higher Power."

The leaders of the Interchurch World movement urge that all Christians seek to especially strengthen their Christian lives during this pre-Easter period.

Our church was open all Wednesday afternoon for a prayer service. Many churches all over the U. S. plan to begin special meetings at that time. We hope to begin soon and continue until Easter. Plan to make all social engagements secondary an evening of program and the church during these sacred days.

is as unchangeable as the famous laws of the Medes and the Persians.

The individual who spends more than he earns—or, as is far too often the case spends all before he earns—travels in a hopeless circle. He cannot advance, and "he who does not advance, recedes."

The person who saves BEFORE he spends inevitably registers progress. Why not put the principle to the test

Let's see, how old is William now?

Is he at the age where a hair cut is a calamity or are his teens weighing so heavily on his hands that a shave is nearly a necessity?

Is he spending more time at ride chasing than at his music lesson or does his dignity of late long for a crooked stem pipe and a pair like Father's?

This store is interested in your son's growth so much that we watch every step and keep in tune with the proper clothes.

A big part of our business is dressing boys from 6 up--and even at 21 we don't let up but go right on up to 30 and then we stop, for our customers never look any older--no matter how old they get.

Everything for dressing a boy and his dad--and grandfather.

And everything in the house is of the best we know how to buy.

John J. Lalley
