LOWELL FREE AUUTAUQUA

SPLENDID FOUR DAYS PROGRAM CLOSED TURBDAY EVENING A GREAT SUCCESS.

The Lowell Free Chautauqua came to a brilliant close Tuesday evening when Bess Gearhart Morrison presented in a most perfect manner a great patriotic reading, "The Copperhead," a vivid recital of Civil war days in Southern Illinois. The big tent full of people was highly appreciative and will welcome a return of this talented entertainer at some future time. turn of this talented entertainer at some future time.

The four days Mutual-Morgan Chautauqua program, as a whole, was highly creditable to the men who promoted it and to the people of Lowell, for whose benefit they were striving.

high-priced theaters say the work of the Chautauqua actors was superior.

Work of the Junior Chautauqua director with the children deserves especial mention. She held the attntion of the little folks throughout and on the evening of the last day put on a pleasing lawn fete with their happy participation.

A noticeable feature of this Chautauqua was the attendance of hundreds of people, who probably had never been so privileged before.

The Ledger editor feels that it is only fair that the people who enjoythese entertainments should know to whom they are endebted for the promoting and financing of the same. Recognition was not sought by them but is our move entirely. Following is the list:

The platoon of Company "I.", 126th Infantry, M. N. G., which has been formed in Lowell is coming along in fine shape, 26 men having enlisted to date, and prospects of several more before the regiment goes to Camp Grayling on August 8 for the summer training. The City hall has been rented for Tuesday night of each week for a drill hall and wall lockers and gun racks will be provided there for the rifles and equipment of the men. Drill consists of one and one half hour's instruction each week for which the men receive one day's pay, pay being received every three months. This detachment is a part of the Grand Rapids Battalion, and all men have privileges of the Armory, which is an exceptionally fine club with billiard hall, bowling alleys, showers and swimming pool, lounging rooms, etc. The men are making an exceptionally fine showing, and anyone interested in joining the Lowell detachment should get in at once and receive preliminary training with men already enlisted. WILL PAY TRANSPORTATION AND TUITION OF PUPILS TO LOWELL SCHOOLS.

District No. 9, Lowell reconsidered at their annual meeting, and decided to pay the tuition and transportation for their pupils to the Lowell schools with but two dissenting votes. We congratulate those who placed the welfare, educationally, of the children above all else. People in general can be counted upon to deal quite rationally with a proposition after they have secured the information fully and given it sufficient thought and consideration.

This is a step in the right direct-

This is a step in the right direction. This is a step in the right direction. And now that District No. 9 has the honor of breaking the ice of custom and tradition and has gotten in line to make better conditions for their children it seems that other adjacent districts may in time see the light and do likewise.

Many teachers of the Lowell Public schools are using their vacation in bettering themselves in their chosen protession. This looks as chosen profession. This looks as though they were in the work be-cause of their interest in continuing and not using teaching as a "place in waiting," as a filler, or a stepping

Thirty boys of the Lowell High school are doing project work in agriculture this summer. The projects are of great variety, meeting the interest and adaptability of the boy. Some are animal projects, some garden, fruit, crop, poultry and employment. The boys keep an accurate account of everything they do in the project, then when it is completed or the year is up, make two detailed reports together with a story of their project, one of which is filled at the high school agricultural department, the other is sent to the state supervisor of agricultural education at visor of agricultural education at

The boys are supervised in this practical work during the summer. They are visited a number of times and given such advice and assistance as seems best. Credit is given with satisfactory completion based upon the quality of work and the scope of the project,

PROHIBITION.

All those in Lowell interested in the enforcement of prohibition should have heard the very clear exposition of how to enforce it, by an anti-saloon agent from Lansing. He gave some illuminating points on the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, which I don't think is known to the general public.

The eighteenth amendment occupied a short space in the Constitution and is helpless to enforce itself. It is absolutely dependent upon the Volstead act for enforcement.

The Volstead act occupies some sixty pages of printed matter covering the entire question of law enforcement of prohibition. But for the activities of the anti-saloon league we should soon be back amid open saloons and the degradation following. The anti-saloon league might be called the "watch dog" of prohibition. Its agents are constantly on the alert to keep dry men, not only in the federal offices, but in the state offices also. All the dry forces only in the federal offices, but in the state offices also. All the dry forces of the country should work with the anti-saloon league for there is constant danger that if the wets are allowed to get into power the Volstead act may be repealed and then the eighteenth amendment becomes use-eighteenth and less.

All citizens who want this horror of intemperance driven from the country should stand loyally by the anti-saloon league.

Lumber Buying and Selling

In every line of business, whether it is clothing, dry goods, hardware or what not, the seller recognizes two distinct types of buyers. First, those who purchase with the idea of obtaining the best article possible, based on its wearing qualities, at the most reasonable cost, second, those who purchase at the lowest price regardless of the quality. Invaribly those of the first class come out ahead, because although they pay a trifle more at the start, the service rendered by the merchandise bought is so much greater than that of inferior goods the trifle additional cost is offset many times.

Just as the above is true of the ultimate customer, so it is with the merchant buying from the wholesalers or manufacturers. Particularly is this the case with lumber merchants, for in the purchase of lumber from the mills the buyer has a vast choice of qualities, at a wide range of prices. To add to the difficulties of the situation there are numerous kinds of lumber which to the layman or typical consumer present the same appearance, yet have unequal strength and wearing qualities. For an example, take Long Leaf and Short Leaf Yellow Pine. While they are practically identical in appearance, yet the Long Leaf is far superior for the majority of uses.

With such a condition existing, there are certain lumber merchants who buy their stock, not with the idea of obtaining true values, but rather with the idea of obtaining lumber at the lowest price irrelevant of the quality. In selling to the consumer their motto is, "Let the buyer Beware!" True, they sell at a few cents below those who furnish honest materials, but they are taking dollars worth of quality and service from the buyer for which in return they give but a small sum.

robbing you of quality and service in the lumber you buy, or men can operate at a less for a very long time you can dépend the former is the reason for lower prices in the major

Federal Tax on Telephone Toll Messages Removed

UNDER the provisions of the Federal Revenue Act of 1924, all telephone messages became free from tax at midnight; July 2, 1924. The taxes imposed under the previous law were as follows:

On a message for which the charge was more than afty cents . 10 cents These taxes were highest, in proportion to the charge for service, for toll messages over moderate distances, the tax in some cases amounting to one-third of the toll charge.

We have anticipated the increased use of toll facilities that will follow the removal of these taxes and are prepared to care for it.
