WANTS LOWELL HOME-COMING

FORMER LOWELL BOY ASKS FOR REPETITION OF FORMER SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Editor Ledger:—
How large a city would Lowell be today if his sons and daughters had not sought conquest away from home; five thousand or more?
I presume that in almost every state and in the far corners of the earth are found folks who have gone out from Lowell to play their part in this game of life.
Has Lowell ever made an effort to play host to these people who once lived on the shores of the Flat and Grand?
The difficulty of going back to one's home town for a visit is that one is apt to find some of the folks away from home and usually there is a little disappointment in not seeing those whom one would like to see most.

How about an old-fashioned homecoming, sponsored, perhaps, by the Board of Trade, with committees appointed that would work out the different details of a two or three day celebration? Sub-committees perhaps could be appointed to arouse interest in cities like Detroit and Grand Rapids.

A list of former residents could be compiled, obtaining names from every available source. The committee in charge of such an affair could maintain an acceptance list, which could be published from time to time, showing just who had accepted invitations to return. Perhaps the last two days in August, winding up with a Labor day program would be a logical time.

The automobile would be a great help in making an event like this a success and undoubtedly license plates from a dozen states would be represented. I recall a very distinct memory of a barbecue celebration which the business men put on, for which Frank King furnished the ox. Perhaps this could be repeated as one of the attractions.

There are hundreds of people that would like an opportunity to visit old scenes, such as Island Park, Devil's Peak, and to see again the splendid rows of maple trees with its chorus of katydids. Lowell is rich in natural beauty, which is probably lost sight of sometimes by those who see it every day.

An event of this kind should bring back the different superintendents of schools and the teachers who have had a part in educating Lowell. I know of a small city which worked out a very successful plan of holding a home-coming every ten years. Personally, I think if this suggestion has any value, and if adopted, should prove a success, that a reunion could be repeated every fifth year to advantage.

One of the big things which towns have to offer, which the city does not, is the opportunity of making real friendships and building associations. Aren't these associations and friendships worth reviving and continuing?

Is there anything in this idea that might be useful in promoting and enlightening better acquaintance between present and past residents who are proud to call Lowell their home town?
Former Lowell Boy.

MRS. C. E. WOOD BURIAL HERE THURSDAY.
Mrs. C. E. Wood, a former resident of Lowell, died Monday at a hospital at Plymouth, where she had been ill for some time. The burial will take place this afternoon on arrival of the funeral party at Oakwood cemetery, probably some time between 2:30 and 3:30. The Wood family moved from Lowell to Lansing about ten years ago.

LOWELL LITERARY CLUB
The Lowell Literary club met at the home of Mrs. L. W. Rutherford Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 17. Mrs. D. G. Look presiding. Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson gave a brief talk relating to the literary board meeting she recently attended at Albion.

Violin solo, Miss Frances Rosewarne, with Miss Millicent Rosewarne as accompanist; responded to a hearty encore.

G. F. Vandusen, chairman of the day, gave a very interesting paper on Drama, the subject for the day. The Drama—School of Scandal by R. B. Sheridan was especially well given by Mrs. S. S. Lee and Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson.

Club adjourned to meet Tuesday, March 3 with Mrs. Walter Yardley.

SMYRNA DANCE IS RAIDED RECENTLY
Deputy Sheriff Noble Peterson of Smyrna and Mark Brown of Belding raided a dance at Smyrna last Friday night and as a result six were arrested for being intoxicated and disorderly. They were taken to the Belding jail at once and lodged there until sobered up.

Two of the men, Russell Howell, 22, Belding, and Lewis Corbett, 22, Belding, were taken before Justice E. B. Lapham and were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and ordered to pay fine of $10 and costs of court of $6.75. If fine and costs are not paid, the sentence is to be 30 days.

The other four, Walter Ludeke of Ionia, Edwin Woten of Belding, Paul Bowen, Erwin Woten and Herbert Ludeke of Ionia, were taken before Justice M. A. Reed, who was more lenient than Judge Lapham. He sentenced them to a fine of $25 and costs,—Ionia County News.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET SUCCESS

Ninety sat at tables spread by the Ladies Aid society for the annual Father and Son banquet at the Methodist church house last Friday evening.

C. H. Runciman officiated as toastmaster and gave the boys some good counsel.
R. E. Springett responded to the toast "The Boy" comparing advantages enjoyed by the boy of today over those of thirty or forty years ago. (Don't know as we should mention it here; but Mr. Springett had the advantage of six years at the U. of M. Not many boys of today can beat that.) He advised the boys to work hard and play the game square to make a success in life.

Harold Kieth's topic was "Why Have I?" and he was generously applauded.
The principal address of the evening was given by Charles Mayne, general secretary of Grand Rapids Y. M. C. A. He spoke much of the relation of father and son and his remarks were highly commended.

The musical numbers of the program were furnished by the High School orchestra and Glee club. The work of the latter was especially good with excellent vocal solo work, displaying some fine voices.

SEEK TO VACATE ORDERS IN AUTO DEATH SUITS

Petitions to set aside the order by Circuit Judge M. L. Dunham requiring Oris S. Smith, administrator of the estate of Thelma Smith, and David L. McCaul, administrator of the estate of Winnifred McCaul, both of Lowell, plaintiffs in damage suits against the county to file security for costs with County Clerk Edward L. Wagner by Wally Colwell, counsel for Smith and McCaul. The actions are the result of the deaths of Miss Smith, 16, and Miss McCaul, 17, when an automobile in which they were riding went through a Flat River bridge north of Lowell and plunged into the water. Hearing on the petitions will be held Feb. 28. Counsel as to the suits have not properly and that it will be impossible for them to file a general undertaking, and that unless the orders are vacated the plaintiffs will be denied an opportunity to prosecute the cases.—Grand Rapids Herald, Feb. 9.

SCHOOL NOTES
For the four-half day meetings of the poultry school the attendance was nearly 100 or an average close to one hundred people. The first meeting was held in the agriculture room at the high school and it was evident that a larger room would quite likely be needed. The second day the gymnasium was used in order to accommodate the big group attending.

Mr. Hannah and Dr. Stafseth made a great team. They know "their stuff" and put it over in a pleasing yet convincing manner.
Members of the A. G. I. E. who cooperated in putting on the school feel well pleased with the splendid work done and for the quite unusual way in which people responded by their attendance. We shall be glad to learn what you would like for another meeting.

The A. G. I. E. association held a regular meeting last Tuesday evening. Eight new members were initiated and instructed as to the purposes of the organization. About 30 members were present and it was the initiation, the cats and a social time.

Supr. B. J. MacVean is attending the National Education Association meetings at Cincinnati this week.
Ten students are entering the local and state oratorical contests. Many more will appear in the local declamation contest which will be held the middle of March.

When—High School Gym.
When—March 6.
What?
The local high school basketball team won another victory last Thursday night by taking the St. Johns team into camp with a 32-9 score.

The Lowell boys played a very fine game during the first half, being slow to start an offense and fumbling the ball a great many times after getting within scoring distance. Finesis drew first blood for Lowell when he dribbled through the entire St. Johns defense for a short shot. A few minutes later Finesis again went through the defense for another short shot. At the very beginning of the final period, the locals began to find themselves and soon had the game sewed up. On a well-executed play from the tip-off, Maxon dropped the ball through the leather for a two-point counter. Henry repeated the play on the opposite side of the floor and dropped another two point counter. From this time on, it was simply see who could get under the basket first so as to get a chance to shoot, and in eight minutes ran up eighteen points. Finesis was the outstanding player on the floor, being a big factor in Lowell's offense and also playing a good defensive game. St. Johns visits Lowell Thursday, March 5, and should prove worthy opponents on our small floor.

The big county tilt, however, is next Friday, Feb. 27, when Grandville, which has been making a big noise-championship caliber, appears on the Lowell floor to give battle to our boys and girls.

Saturday night the local teachers played the Greenville coach and a few other Greenville teachers on the latter's floor. It was simply a case of too much Vroeg and the Lowellites lost by a 25-14 count. The high school second team, however, had a rather easy time with the Greenville seconds, winning by a 17-5 score. Stan Moore was the scoring ace for Lowell, making six field goals; while Charles Schwab was the star defensive player.
