HOME-COMERS CLUB URGED

HEAR FROM OLD FRIENDS ONCE A YEAR. GOOD IDEA. PUSH IT ALONG. JUST LISTEN TO MART.

Akron, Ohio, June 25, 1926. Dear Harvey:
Aug. 11, 1887 we were in attendance at a surprise party on Harry Hunter, and the enclosed list of names shows the balance of the party. Some have crossed the "Great Divide," many have moved away, a few are left in the old town, and no doubt, anxious to shake hands with as many of the "Home-Comers" as possible. Would it be possible to form a "Lowell Ledger" club, each member agreeing to contribute at least one letter a year, explaining their whereabouts, etc?

M. E. SIMPSON.

It would be fine to read a letter each week from some man or woman that was one of the boys or girls at that time, that was helping to make Lowell a splendid town to live in. Show this list to Ed. Kaufin may be he would like to have it printed and name as many as possible can be at the Home-Coming. Zoia has this list written on a paper napkin, the night of the party and it is hard to make out some of the names, as it is so badly worn. Hope you folks are all well and happy. We will of course see you many times during Home-Coming if it is possible to get there.
Our best to all.
M. E. Simpson.

DOINGS AT IONIA FAIR GROUNDS

July 17.
If you have never seen the game of auto push ball, you should, and you have, you surely will be on hand when Hink's Original Motor Derby appears at Ionia on Saturday, July 17, for this game provokes more thrills and laughs than any game yet devised.

Auto push ball is played by four specially built automobiles and an inflated ball six feet in diameter, and weighing 100 pounds. The ball is held in the cars by the driver, two on a side, run against it in their efforts to drive it between the goal posts, there arise situations which produce thrills, anxiety or laughter, as the case may be. The autos are manipulated by their expert drivers in an almost unbelievable manner, and the big ball bounces around like a small rubber ball, sometimes going up as high as the top of the grandstand. It is a great game, but it is easy to see why everyone cannot play it.

Hink's Motor Derby will also bring to Ionia a flying circus with a fleet of aeroplanes, stunt fliers and an aerial acrobat. There will also be motor cycle races in which six of the most daring professional racers of the country will take part, some of them being state champions, and also, there will be auto polo, played with specially built automobiles, and furnishing thrills and laughs at every stage of the game.

DEAD FROM BLOW ON HEAD

EMPLOYEE OF CONSTRUCTION CAMP AT ADA FELL BY NECK YOKE. DRINK STARTED IT.

Herbert Boschoven, 51, teamster, is near death in Blodgett hospital as a result of a blow over the head with a wagon neckyoke inflicted by Charles Bowser, 54, Negro, who is held at the county jail.
Both were employed as teamsters in a construction camp a half mile south of Ada, where a power dam is being built on the Thornapple river.

According to Bowser's story, he had been drinking. When Bowser drove his team out of the paddock, he said, he stopped for a moment and in so doing blocked the path of Boschoven's team, which was following, whereupon the latter swore at him, according to Bowser, and commanded him to move.
Bowser lost his temper, he told officers, and dismounting, unhooked the heavy yoke from the front of his wagon and struck Boschoven over the head.

Skull fractured. Boschoven's skull was fractured, according to hospital attendants, and he has little chance of recovery. Victor Jones and C. J. Eldred, also employed at the construction camp, hurried the injured man to the hospital and notified authorities of the event.
Deputy Sheriff Jack West and Ashley Ward, the latter living near Ada, went to the scene and placed Bowser under arrest, also arresting another member of the construction gang on a drunk charge.

Bowser's story of the fight is disputed by other witnesses, who stated that Bowser, apparently intoxicated, seized the team, unhooked it and walked over to where Boschoven was sitting quietly, and struck him without warning. Officers said there is no evidence to show that Boschoven had been drinking.

According to other laborers at the camp, Bowser is employed by the contractor doing the job, while Boschoven is in the employ of a sub-contractor. They say there has been considerable rivalry between the two teams.

Bowser was released upon the completion of a 30-day jail sentence for drunkenness on April 13. Grand Rapids Herald, July 6, 1926.
The injured man has since died.

FRATERNAL DAY AT HOME-COMING

PUBLICITY MAN KNIFIN ISSUES SPEEL ON LODGE AND SOCIETY HOME-COMING FEATURE.

The committee in charge of affairs at the earnest solicitation of the lodges and societies, have designated the second day of the Home-Coming celebration, Monday, August 2nd, as Fraternal day.

What this day means to those who are or ever were members of a fraternal organization, needs no further comment. "Sufficient unto the day is the fullness thereof."

Invitations have been forwarded, programs of interest arranged, refreshments will be furnished, and open house will be instituted throughout the day and possibly the night, by every lodge and society in the village.

"Let us forget"—not as visitors are you welcomed, but as brothers and sisters, who after years of separation are once more united in the fraternal home.

The lodge or society of which you are, or were a member, to all intents and purposes, remain the same; you who have been away so long, other names and other faces may predominate, though the spirit of fraternal love still exists and naught but harmony prevails.

You are welcome to a seat with your brothers or sisters, as the case may be, and should your enthusiasm lead you to violate the rules of propriety and decorum you will be pardoned without the asking.

While there are a few who have severed their connection with the societies of the old home town, there are many, now residing in other places who have retained their membership.

Fraternal friendship, however, remains the same under all conditions, the test of which may be proved by the acceptance of our invitation, and your presence at our meetings during this Fraternal day.

Here amid familiar surroundings your memory will revert back to the time when you dragged yourself up the old stairs, with every nerve tingling and your heart aching, anticipating almost with horror the ordeal you had been elected to undergo. Listening to the murmur of voices behind closed doors, expecting every minute that "the goat" would appear and buck, and hunt you down the stairs.

"Good old goats" they are still the same with a bit more hair where it shouldn't be, and a little less where it should.

During July and August the "goats" are turned out to pasture, though they will be "at home" on the day of the celebration.

A liberal both and formaldehyde, carbolic acid and perfume will be used for the occasion, and with bottles, manicured and whiskers, boded they will be ready to meet all comers.

No undertaking in the life of a person contributes more to the building of character than that of becoming affiliated with a lodge or society of good women and good men; and strange is the fact that nothing in our worldly life is more successful.

May this reunion bring us closer together with those who have drifted away from the fraternal home, and as brothers and sisters may we once again work in the shrine of brotherly love and friendship.

How comforting the feeling when abroad we roam, how comforting the feeling when returning home, to find a welcome awaits us all, where the light shines out from our fraternal hall.
