AN ANNOUNCEMENT

In keeping with our policy of using the most improved and satisfactory methods known in the banking business, we have installed a new Burroughs Multiple Register Bank Bookkeeping Machine. This new machine might almost be called a mechanical bookkeeper, except that it does things that the pen and ink bookkeeper could not do. It not only adds and subtracts automatically but it posts ledgers and writes customers' statements, computes balances, accumulates three separate totals at one time and proves its own work. This new machine will be on display in our bank lobby. We cordially invite you to come in and see how it handles your account.

VANDALISM
Centuries ago a tribe of people roamed about southern Europe. These people wrought destruction wherever they went, and because of this they were called Vandals. These people did not recognize the rights of others. They were cruel and inconsiderate. On the thirty-first day of October each year certain youngsters are permitted to roam the streets at will. They are seldom molested. A boy or girl who is permitted to be on the streets on Halloween usually becomes a member of a gang or mob. The gang or mob spirit dominates the group, and the youngsters are sometimes guided by the spirit of destruction. They become invulnerable of others. They frequently destroy property. They perhaps take delight in tantalizing some helpless old lady. We recognize full well that there are those who say that children are children and that we should wink at questionable actions on Halloween. This is a dangerous doctrine. The spirit of the occasion can be observed without sneering peoples' porches with garbage; without breaking into schools and churches; or without keeping citizens awake until the dawn of day. Some will say that youngsters will only molest those who are apparently bothered by their actions. But this is not the point. Each and every citizen has a right to protection. Parents who permit their children to roam at large promiscuously on Halloween should realize that howe'en probably permitting their children to make it uncomfortable for others. Youngsters who go too far should be summarily dealt with, and parents should not complain at the punishment. W. W. G.

Board of Trade Met in Vergennes Monday at Noon

Accompanied by their wives and daughters, sixty in all, the members of the Lowell Board of Trade journeyed to Vergennes Monday last and were served with a most excellent chicken dinner prepared by the Vergennes Grange Ladies. The Grange committee consisting of ladies and gentlemen looked after the wants of the diners in a most commendable manner. The day was perfect and all the event was a success from beginning to end. President Day very fittingly voiced the sentiment of those in attendance when he complimented and thanked the Grange committee for their invitation and the service rendered. The business of the meeting was made brief. A letter from the American Legion requesting the merchants of Lowell to close their places of business during the hours from 1:30 to 5:00 o'clock p. m., on Friday, November 11, the occasion being Armistice day, was acted upon favorably. D. G. Look spoke interestingly on the highway matters and county parks, also referring to the interest added to the occasion by the presence of the ladies, suggested the advisability of the organization of a ladies' auxiliary. Mr. Hoyt, of the Hoyt Lumber company was introduced as a newcomer to Lowell and welcomed to a place in the membership of the Board. G. H. Runciman, at the request of the president, addressed the meeting on agricultural matters and exhibited a sample of potatoes grown from certified seed upon the farm of the Vergennes Grange. Live stock shipping was also a topic of the address and the speaker furnished figures showing the progress of stock raising in this vicinity. It is believed the dinner arose from the tables at the meeting was brought to a close. O. J. O'Dell was asked for a few remarks and in his pleasing manner thanked the Board for accepting the invitation to come to Vergennes. He hoped that their efforts to please might merit another visit in the near future. Meetings of the kind are worth while and—"The merchant who continues to stay at home, who never gets away from business to mingle with other merchants, who is denied the opportunity to exchange ideas with the man who is fighting the same battle, might be likened to a rocking horse—lots of action but no progress."

Next meeting Monday, November 13. E. B. K.

Lowell and Rockford Battle to a Tie, 6 to 6

The county championship in football is in a middle. Rockford and Lowell now have played two tie games, and East Grand Rapids has played the same number. If Lowell can defeat Grandville on Armistice day then the three teams mentioned above will all have an equal claim to the honors. Lowell should have eliminated Rockford from consideration last Saturday afternoon. The game was a real battle from start to finish, but Lowell should have scored a touchdown in the second period when the ball was on the five yard line. Story of Game. The first quarter was Rockford's. The prior quarter with the ball on Lowell's twenty yard line Lowell advanced the ball to the twenty yard line during the first few minutes of play when Bloomenstein tried for about ten yards. Lowell used the wrong type of offensive and the ball was lost without seriously threatening. Rockford worked some off-tackle plays to good advantage.

Second Quarter.
Lowell came to life during this period. Rockford's only score came during this period when Stauffer broke through tackle and ran 70 yards to a touchdown. Lowell retaliated and completed several passes and Haysner ran the ball. Alexander advanced the ball to Rockford's five yard line in three attempts. He failed on the next two attempts and the ball was lost just as the whistle ended the half.

Third Quarter.
Rockford again advanced the ball on off-tackle plays but Lowell stiffened on the twenty yard line. Rockford backward in the quarter ended. Final Period. During this twelve minutes E. Laver "came to" and pulled off three first downs in rapid succession. Two penalties on Rockford helped Lowell. On the twenty yard line reference Gobel detected one of Rockford's boys slugging B. Alexander and Lowell was given half the distance to go and about two minutes to play. B. Alexander did some of the best line plunging ever seen on the Rockford field and on the last try he put the pilskin over the last stripe. Laver failed at the kick and the game ended 6-6.

Lowell scored eight first downs to six for Rockford. Lowell averaged forty-three yards on the kicks while Rockford averaged less than fifteen. Lowell completed about eight passes, and Rockford completed none. The officials were the best that could be secured. Gobel and Schultz were former U. of M. stars. Ackerson was a star at Michigan State college and Metzger acted as time-keeper.

LIQUOR RESORTS IN KENT RAIDED

SHERIFF REPORTS SEIZURES AT "101 RANCH" IN PLAINFIELD

WOMAN IS ARRESTED

Two more alleged liquor resorts, one near Grand Rapids and the other at Ada, were put out of business temporarily at least by sheriff's officers who Saturday night visited and searched both places, and took a man into custody and summoned a woman to appear Monday.

From the Plainfield township farmhouse of Frank Swonski, II, the raiders report 200 bottles of beer, two gallons of wine and ten gallons of wine were taken. The place had become popular, according to Sheriff Patterson, whose investigator discovered that the dining room of headlamps as cars entered the yard was a sign of a "soft" customer.

The place was known as the "101 Ranch."

Mrs. Kelly Abadage, said by Sheriff Patterson to be a regular customer, was ordered to appear Monday morning in court to a charge of having a gallon of liquor in her possession. According to the sheriff, Mrs. Abadage has on $2,000 worth of jewelry and a diamond ring. She was arrested on another charge of having a gallon of wine in her possession. She is awaiting trial in federal court on a liquor charge, the sheriff said.

William J. Foster and daughter, Mrs. Mable Foster, were arrested in possession of a gallon of wine and a gallon of beer. They were taken to the jail and held on a charge of having a gallon of liquor in their possession.

TO THE UNKNOWN SHORE

Sometime in the past when the tide is high I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

With the response to the friendly hall of kindled craft of the twilight glow When the night drops down to enlure the day I shall follow you when the tide is low.

I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

Through the purpline shadows that drift about the shore of the unknown I shall follow you when the tide is low.

I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

With a ripple of water to tell the tale Of a lonely voyage sailing away.

To the Mystic Isle, where at anchor I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

On the unknown shore.

A few who have watched me sail away Will miss my craft from the busy ways.

Some friendly barges that were once my craft Will miss me when I sail away.

Some loving souls that have been my friends Will miss me when I sail away.

I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

With the response to the friendly hall of kindled craft of the twilight glow When the night drops down to enlure the day I shall follow you when the tide is low.

I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

A Heart Like Hers

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

She was an old lady— Compelled to all day Beside her grate, or at her door. And while the time away, Her body had been worn by age; Her eyes were so full and lustrous Her one release from loneliness Was when a caller came.

But, oh, how happy she was then! Her joy burst into bloom. A radiance of gladness dawned. Away the shades of gloom. Her mind became as keen as that Of any eager child; And even when she caught a glimpse Of heaven when she smiled.

She could not see, as others do, The comeliness of things, And yet she drew them to her side! A heart like hers extends The power of its gentle love In ways we do not know; And even death cannot dispel Its kindly afterglow.

Are You Guilty?

A local merchant accosted a farmer on the street the other day—the farmer was on his way home from the express office with a package of goods which he had just received from an eastern mail order concern.

"Why didn't you come to my store and buy these goods instead of sending out to town for them?" said the merchant.

The farmer looked at the merchant for a moment and then said:

"Why don't you patronize your home paper more and advertise what you have to sell? I have taken our home town paper for years and it's seldom that I see your advertisement. I sent out to town for these goods simply because I didn't know that you had them."

Digestible Feed at Lowest Cost

Producing milk at a profit depends first, on the supply and cost of digestible feed, and second on the efficiency with which the cow turns this raw material into milk. A cow today must bring in $100 over her feed cost before she can be considered profitable. On most dairy farms are home grown feeds, grains and roughages.

AMCO 24% DAIRY

Can be used nicely as a supplement with low quality roughage. It contains several ingredients, is very palatable, carries the needed mineral content and is digestible enough to feed a cow completely and well when the roughage she gets is low in protein, high in fiber and of low digestibility.

The price is very reasonable.

Famous Minor Poet

One of the best-known short poems in the English language is "Old Armchair," written by Eliza Cook, who is called the poet of domestic affections. She was born in Southwark, London, England, in 1818. She early achieved success in the comparatively humble literary path she had chosen for herself, and her articles and poems maintained her in comfort. She died in 1880.

Causeless Suicide

Fearing he had consumption, a Cheshire (England) man threw paraffin oil over himself and tried to set his clothing alight. His wife prevented him. He then walked across some fields and jumped into the river. At the inquest a verdict of suicide during temporary insanity was returned. A doctor said the man's fears were groundless.

Beginning of the End

When you have reached the period of existence when you have become unblissed, unprejudiced and open-minded, then you will hear members of your family say that all has been done for you that science knows, and the papers will give an account of your funeral rites within a short time.—Pikens County (Ala.) Herald

Early Use of Spoons

Ordinary spoons were known to the Egyptians, who made them of wood, stone, ivory and bronze, and in Biblical times we may read that Moses made golden spoons for the tabernacle. Silver spoons have been found in the buried cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum.

Old Co-operative Group

The American co-operative community called Icaria was established in Texas in 1848. In 1850 it moved to Nauvoo, Ill., which had been vacated by the Mormons, and in 1857, went on to Adams county, in Iowa.
