Ionia Wins a Thriller, 24 to 22

The loyal followers of the High school basketball team who saw the game at Ionia last Friday night were treated to a real exhibition of the court game. Both teams had suffered losses through eligibility and it appeared that the affair would be a toss-up. The game started with a rush and the local inexperienced crew seemed somewhat stage-struck. The quarter found Lowell trailing 6-2. The second period soon found Lowell in the lead due to three quick goals from the field by Laver. This stanza ended 12-10 for Lowell. It appeared at this stage of the game, that the Ionians were on the run. The game seemed tucked away for Lowell. The third quarter was a nip-and-tuck affair with the lead changing several times. Ionia finally held on to a one point margin as the session ended. The score was 18-17. The last quarter was a hectic eight minutes. Lowell boys could not find the hoop and all the luck seemed to be with the opposition. The game ended just as Laver shot two fouls making the score 22-24. The boys did well. They seemed full of fight and yet they showed that they were deliberate and cool. Laver found the hoop the most. Peckham and Ellis found it impossible to shoot from the corners because of the beams. Friesner and Gulembo played fine defensive games, but their shooting was below their records. In the preliminary the Lowell seconds won 8-7.

SCHEDULE FOR BALANCE OF SEASON.

Friday the team travels to Lake Odessa. Next Tuesday Rockford will be met on the local court. This game will be the big attraction of the year. Lowell won at Rockford by one point earlier in the season. It is expected that the game here will be just as exciting. It is to be hoped that the Lowell crowd will be just as polite and considerate of the visitors as the Rockford fans were of their guests when we played there. Next Friday Grandville will be entertained here. On Saturday, March 23, Lowell will travel to Cedar Springs. The last game of the regular season will be played at Sparta on March 1. The tournament will follow at Grand Rapids. Thus far this season Lowell has won six of ten games.

SCHOOL FUNCTIONS TO CLOSE AT NINE.

Several parents have asked about school functions on school nights. We wish to state that it continues to be our policy to have all school activities confined to the week ends as far as possible. Whenever we find it necessary to permit a party or any other activity on a school night we try to have it over with not later than nine o'clock. It is also to be understood that teachers can in no way be considered as chaperons for any sort of party not sponsored by the school.

PRINCE OMWAH & COMPANY

Strand Theatre, Three Days Only, February 18, 19 and 20.

The World Renowned Crystal Seer, Prince Omwah, will be at the Strand Theatre in addition to the regular show each night for the week, February 18, 19 and 20. Of unusual interest to our community is Prince Omwah, the world renowned crystal seer, who comes to demonstrate his wonderful occult powers at the Strand theatre.

The Prince is of Hindu extraction, is conceded to be among the greatest of seers. He is now making his fifth tour around the world. The Prince is a Mohammedan by faith and speaks Hindu as well as English. His years of study and research in India has made him most befitting for an exponent of Raga-Rogi or Dharma.

It is most astonishing to have him answer your questions even though they are written in some other tongue and many times over his advice has proven that his is a most helpful work to others. adv

Are Urging McPherson to Succeed Green

East Lansing, Feb. 8.—A new name was added Friday to the list of potential gubernatorial candidates in 1930. Melvin B. McPherson, of Lowell, member of the state tax commission and also of the state board of agriculture, was mentioned here this week as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination. His candidacy was being quickly boomed by a group of influential farmers and prominent members of the State Association of Supervisors. Asked whether he had knowledge of the political movement in his behalf, McPherson attempted to laugh away the report. "Don't make me laugh," was the only comment he had to make. Friends of the tax commissioner said they would like to see the Kent county farmer as Gov. Green's successor but they felt the report concerning his candidacy was slightly immature. They intimated the movement in McPherson's behalf would not get well under way until Farmers week at Michigan State college in 1930. McPherson has been active for years in the State Association of Supervisors and various farm organizations, chiefly the Farm Bureau and the Grange.—Grand Rapids Press.

MRS. A. J. LEWIS PASSES.

Mrs. Adeline Lewis, a former Lowell resident, aged 87 years, widow of Andrew and mother of Archie Lewis, died in Detroit yesterday morning. Funeral and burial will be held in Saranac.

AUCTION SALES.

Frank Janasek, having decided to quit farming, will have an auction of farm stock and general farm personal property on the premises 4 1/2 miles west of Lowell on town line near Snow church on Wednesday, Feb. 27, at 1 p. m. Watch this paper for large advertisement with full details. N. C. Thomas, auctioneer; R. L. Connell, clerk. The personal property of the Bowen-Sturges farm will be sold at auction Feb. 28, on the premises just west of the Keene church. See large advertisement in this paper's issue of Feb. 21. A. W. Hilzey, auctioneer, Harry Day, clerk.

In all this section there is no more effective or cheaper auction advertising service than that of The Lowell Ledger—delivered free to you in more than a thousand homes tributary to your farm. Nothing like it for money or marbles.

Dan'l Marsac Came Here 100 Yrs. Ago

February 8, 1929. Mr. F. M. Johnson, Editor, The Lowell Ledger, Dear Mr. Johnson: I just read something in your paper about a proposed homecoming celebration in Portland, and you make a suggestion that a similar event be staged in Lowell. This idea brought another thought to my mind that I have not heard mentioned by any one yet. Is Lowell not aware that one hundred years ago the first settlement of Lowell was made? According to the history of Kent county which I have in my library I read that Daniel Marsac came to Lowell in 1829 and settled here, moving about among the Indians and trading with them. Two years later he set up a formal trading post. Further, the village of Lowell was first incorporated 70 years ago, in 1859. This would make a double celebration for the village.

This year also happens to be the fiftieth anniversary of the erection of the present Catholic church here, and we hope to commemorate the event in a fitting way, probably in June, the month the church was opened. This was not the beginning of Catholic activity in Lowell, however, for in the diocesan offices at Grand Rapids, there is evidence that Catholic services were held in private homes at irregular times seventy or more years ago. It is also my opinion, gathered from certain historical readings, that the famous Bishop Baraga, whose name is irrevocably linked with the ecclesiastical history of Michigan, paid an official visit to this locality.

If my source of information about the settlement of Lowell is accurate I hope you will make the most of it and bring it to the notice of the community. It would be unfortunate if the year passed without paying any attention to it.

Sincerely Yours, (Rev.) Robert W. Bogg.

Old Lowell Resident Goes To Her Reward

Mrs. Emma Littlefield, a former resident of Lowell for many years, died at the home of a niece, Mrs. Oscar Pierce, in Ionia, Friday morning, February 8, at the age of 87 years. Funeral services were held on Monday at 2 p. m., at Saranac, at the home of another niece, Mrs. Henry Harris, and burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery in Grand Rapids, beside her husband.

Emma Amelia Weber was born in Somerset county, Penn., Sept. 7, 1841, the youngest of ten children. The family moved to Ohio in 1842, and also later came to Michigan. She married Samuel O. Littlefield May 9, 1888. Mr. Littlefield died May 11, 1915. The following Fall Mrs. Littlefield went with friends to California to visit relatives. She remained until March 1916, then went to Utah and Dakota to visit other relatives, coming back to Michigan in the Fall, part of the trip being made alone. The next trip was to Pennsylvania to care for a sick sister until her death. It seemed to be Mrs. Littlefield's lot in her later years to care for sick friends. In September, 1921, at the age of 80 years she went alone to California to care for a niece until death released her. She visited in other states for nearly a year. During the illness of Mr. Herman Zeigler, of Grand Rapids, she stayed with the family a year and a half. Several years ago getting too feeble to care for herself she sold her little home on Monroe street and went to live with relatives in Saranac. One year, Mrs. Henry Harris, at whose home she was living, fell and broke her shoulder, and for several months our friend took care of the home and waited on the patient. A year and a half ago she had a slight stroke and later another and from that time on had been a great care, sometimes herself and sometimes not knowing her dearest friends. Since then she has been at the homes of her three nieces, Mrs. Henry Harris, Mrs. Mary Middleton and Mrs. Zoa Pierce, at whose home she passed peacefully away.

Mrs. Littlefield leaves many nieces and nephews and other relatives and a host of friends. To know her was to love her. Though she had no children of her own she loved them dearly and never was so happy as when she had them near her. While she was a devout adherent of the Baptist church her religion was best and most amply exemplified by a life time of loving service for others. Her last visit to Lowell was a year and a half ago, and she was very happy greeting all her old neighbors. She owed the world not a penny but the world is richer and better because she has lived in it. The writer has spent many happy hours with her at her little home and always was made better by her cheery stories and happy ways.

One of the Secrets of Lincoln's Greatness

The test of a big man is his ability to employ the talents of other men.

Lincoln measured high by this test. He chose for his cabinet advisers the leaders of the North—powerful personalities. Without their efficient help, he probably would have failed to save the Union.

A man who inherits money has two choices. He can invest it all by himself without asking advice, or he can summon to his aid a powerful friend and ally—his banker. The big man, like Lincoln, eagerly seeks advice from those in whom he has confidence.

Let us help you, today.
