HATS OFF TO PRESIDENT HOOVER

High Spots in the Inaugural Address

The most malign of all our dangers today is disregard and disobedience of law. Crime is increasing.

Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support.

There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it.

The duty of citizens to support the laws is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist.

Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress.

Ill-considered remedies for our faults bring only penalties after them.

Those who have a true understanding of America know that we have no desire for territorial expansion for economic or other domination of other peoples.

We not only desire peace with the world, but to see peace maintained throughout the world.

Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense.

We are steadily building a new race—a new civilization great in its own attainments.

Ours is a land rich in resources; stimulating in its glorious beauty; filled with millions of happy homes; blessed with comfort and opportunity.

No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose.

Lone Bandit Gets $92 at Point of Gun

Two business places, a grocery store and gasoline station, were held up by gunmen yesterday. A small bandit, apparently working alone, performed each of the jobs, police were informed. Loot in both holdups totaled $92.

At the White Star gasoline station, Commerce ave. and Wealthy st., SW., last night a short gunman wearing a cap and dark overcoat obtained $17 and some change from the attendant, Theodore Norris, 19, of 110 Prospect ave., SE., after he had covered him with a small blue steel revolver. Norris told Detectives McDonald and Stegenga.

The man, who appeared about 30 or 35, stepped into the station shortly before 8:30 during a quiet moment, and ordered Norris to "stick 'em up." The bandit took about $17 which Norris drew from his coat pocket, commanded him to give him the change and open the safe. Norris said he gave the bandit the quarters from his changer and told him he couldn't open the safe because he did not know the combination.

Norris said the bandit was irascible, yet nervous and did not wait to argue about the safe combination, but ran west out of the station.

A lone gunman entered a grocery at 766 Seventh st., NW., stalled until Carl M. Olsen, 33, 1016 Hanscock st., S. E., served two customers, robbed him of $75, then waited on two customers who had entered before he could make his exit.

After Olsen had served the first customers, the bandit ordered five pounds of sugar. Olsen put the sugar on the counter, and the man added, as an afterthought.

"And now all the cash you have." He flourished a revolver.

"Help yourself, it's all in cash register," Olsen said. Annoyed, but not particularly angered, the bandit replied:

"I know this business, and I know you've got more."

Shoving the weapon into Olsen's side, the bandit marched him into a rear room, where he commanded him to lie on the floor. The man bound Olsen's wrists with shoe string which he found on the floor, and then took a purse from Olsen's pocket.

"I don't want that, I am after the company's dough," he said, but later he did take $15 of Olsen's money.

Becoming theatrical, the man put his revolver against Olsen's head, and solemnly said:

"It's your last chance to tell me where that money is."

The barrel of the gun wasn't pleasant against Olsen's head, so he disclosed the hiding place.

By that time there were two customers in the store, so when the manager and the volunteer clerk walked to the front of the store and then to the basement, Olson told them:

"You'll have to excuse me."

The secreted money was found, and the volunteer clerk locked Olsen behind a door by bolting it. Barney Lindeboom, 811 Seventh st., NW., ordered a bottle of milk, and the man gave him the milk and change for 25 cents. Ruth Plachecki, 13, also of 811 Seventh st., wanted a loaf of bread, which the extra clerk gave her. Mumbling apologies for the "boss," who was downstairs, the man walked out, and the girl left the money for the bread on the counter.

The volunteer clerk went into the street and disappeared, probably in a car. He was about 30 years old.—(Grand Rapids Herald, March 7.

New Things Are "News"

Every member of every family in this community is interested in the news of the day. And no items are read with keener relish than announcements of new things to eat, to wear or to enjoy in the home.

Merchants of Lowell have the goods and the desire to sell them. The readers of The Ledger have the money and the desire to buy. The connecting link is ADVERTISING.

Give the people the good news of new things at advantageous prices. They look to you, Mr. Merchant, for this "store news" and will respond to your messages. Let us show you that
